

Blessed 311

Chapter 311 Ask For Payment Of Deb

After some time, Luisa seemed to realize the reason why they were freaking out.

With a blush on her face, she waved her hand and said, "No, mother, Trevor didn't do anything to me."

Looking at the two young children in disbelief, Keyla questioned, "If he did nothing to you like you said, why is he looking like that? Do you think I was born yesterday?"

Listening to their conversation, Trevor was at a loss as he didn't know whether to cry or laugh. Both Rodney and Keyla really misunderstood him.

In a hurry, Trevor explained, "Mrs. Burke, actually, I was practicing boxing in a nearby budokan and Luisa just invited me here because I was too tired to go back to the dormitory."

Keyla was relieved to hear his explanation. Nonetheless, she looked Trevor up and down as if she was trying to detect whether he was lying or not. In the end, she said, "You'd better do nothing to Luisa, or else, I'll break your legs!"

Even though Luisa's parents didn't kick Trevor out of the house, they weren't hospitable to him.

Soon, Trevor felt a little better and stood up to stretch his legs out.

At that time, they couldn't help but utter, "Trevor, I think you have rest enough. You should go back now."

"Yes, we are having a family dinner tonight. So, hurry up and leave."

However, Luisa couldn't let Trevor go. Curling her lips, she complained, "It's already late. Trevor won't have anything to eat if he goes back to the dormitory now. Just let him have dinner here before leaving. How can you treat a guest like this?"

Because of her words, Rodney and Keyla reluctantly agreed to let Trevor stay for dinner.

After a while, Balfour came back home and everyone sat around the table for dinner.

Seeing Trevor, Balfour glared at him and said in dissatisfaction, "Humph. I can't believe a person can be so shameless to go other people's house for dinner."

Just as he finished speaking, he was kicked on the leg by his sister.

As Luisa was so protective of Trevor, none of the Burke family member could do anything about him.

Therefore, they simply ignored Trevor and started talking about their own topic.

Turning to look at Rodney, Keyla asked, "Rodney, I heard that the Bain Group doesn't want our orders anymore. Is that true?"

Sighing deeply, Rodney said, "The previous orders were cancelled, but we still can't find a new buyer. So, the goods we have in the warehouse can't be sold out for now."

In fact, the bankruptcy of the Salazar family affected the Burke family's business. Since their investor was gone, there was a shortage of funds.

Their current condition made all the members of the Burke family depressed for a while, even Luisa went silent.

To cheer up his family members, Rodney smiled and said, "Fortunately, our Balfour is doing his best to raise some money to run the company but, if we can't find a partner, we will have to close down the company."

Hearing his words, Keyla looked at Balfour with satisfaction and said with a smile, "He always has his own idea since he was young. I think you can hand over some business of the company to him when this matter is over."

Because of the praises from his parents, Balfour became smug.

However, Trevor noticed the change in Balfour.

After all, he was sitting right next to Balfour.

Therefore, Trevor noticed the strange look on Balfour's face when they mentioned that he raised a sum of money. He even pinched his thigh with his right hand as if he was nervous.

Was there something wrong here?

However, Trevor didn't want to ask more since he was only close to Luisa in the Burke family.

After talking about the crisis that their company was facing, they changed the topic to Luisa.

With a frown on her face, Keyla asked curiously, "Luisa, last time when our family was threatened by the Harper family, it is said that the Sanderson family helped us solve the problem. You don't really know Mr. Sanderson? I heard that he is the same age as you."

Originally, Luisa's focus was on the food. However, when she heard her mother's question, she shook her head and said, "No, how would I know him, mother?"

At that time, Luisa thought that Trevor's surname was also Sanderson and she glanced at him subconsciously. However, she didn't dwell on that thought too much.

Balfour, who was sitting beside, smiled smugly and said, "Maybe it isn't Luisa who knows him. I probably met him somewhere and he must have noticed my skills. So, he helped us solve the problem secretly."

When Trevor heard his words, he almost burst out laughing.

The thick-skinned attitude of Balfour disgusted Trevor.

Hearing the shameless words of Balfour, Trevor was speechless.

If he wasn't having dinner with the Burke family right now, he would have burst into laughter.

However, no one from the Burke family noticed Trevor's unusual expression.

Looking at his son with approval, Rodney praised, "You're right. Our family's business would be a mess if it weren't for you."

His father's praise only made Balfour more arrogant.

With a proud look on his face, Balfour glanced at Trevor and snorted.

Obviously, he seemed to disdain Trevor.

However, Balfour couldn't act complacent for a long time because there was a violent knock on the door of their house.

It was followed by a shout from the outside.

"Balfour, you bastard! I know that you are at home! Don't you dare try to hide!

Pay me back the money you took!"

Not knowing what was happening, everyone around the dining table looked at the door in surprise.

On the other hand, Balfour's expression changed dramatically.

In an instant, he stood up from his seat and ran towards the balcony. Then, he tried to jump out of the window.

However, before he could jump out of the window, the door of the house was smashed open!

Then, several gangsters who were wearing suits and sunglasses rushed in.

Once they saw Balfour, the man in the lead kicked him hard in the shin.
