

Blessed 350

Chapter 350 The Interview Exposed

Just like that, the game ended in advance. In order to avoid the awkward pause, Leo went straight towards the court and started the next activities.

Then, he had an interesting basketball interaction with other students and citizens who came to watch the game.

As soon as he finished the activity, Leo came to see Trevor directly.

At that time, Bessie was taking care of Trevor in the university clinic.

His shoulder injury had already treated. It was nothing serious after applying the plaster.

Both of them were talking and laughing when Leo came in. They didn't expect that they would get the chance to interview Leo so easily today.

When Leo came in, Bessie praised Trevor for his support today before taking the leave.

After that, Trevor interviewed Leo according to the questions he planned.

Once they finished the interview, Trevor said sincerely, "Thank you for letting me interview, Leo. I have learnt a lot from you today."

During the interview, Leo answered his questions perfectly. He even led the topic sometimes. Trevor didn't expect that Leo would be so easy-going.

His activeness made today's interview perfect.

Hearing Trevor's words, Leo chuckled and said, "Ha-ha, it's not a big deal actually. I have to thank you for protecting my daughter."

Then, he said, "Why don't we take a photo together?"

Of course, Trevor didn't refuse and took a selfie with Leo with their hands on each other's shoulders.

After that, Trevor went back to his dormitory and edited the interview. When he finished it, he opened the group chat and asked, "I have finished the interview. Who should I submit my homework to?"

Not long after, a message popped up in the group.

"This soon? Trevor, who did you interview? I bet you interviewed a nobody."

"I think you are right. I mean it's not easy to interview a celebrity."

At that time, even the monitor, Emilio sent a mocking message that read, "Trevor, I'm not surprised that you dealt with your homework causally. You aren't going to succeed all your life anyway."

Seeing their mocking messages, Trevor just smiled faintly and uploaded the photo of him and Leo.

When the photo was sent, the people who had mocked him just now didn't dare to speak anymore.

They just called a famous basketball player nobody! If Leo was considered as nobody, which big shot were they going to interview?

Were they going to interview the President and ask about his health? Or were they going to interview the previous president and ask why he wasn't good at ruling the country?

Everyone stopped sending messages in the group as they felt embarrassed.

Later, Trevor found out that the interview would be published on the news section of the school's intranet.

Trevor proofread the interview again before uploading it.

However, Trevor didn't know that his interview would cause a great uproar.

That night, when many Leo's followers opened Twitter, they saw his new tweet.

"Today, I was invited to a game at a university. Even though the game was disgraceful, I met a righteous boy who interpreted the sports spirit of us."

Under his tweet, there was a selfie of him and Trevor.

It was needless to say that his tweet aroused curiosity among his fans.

Not long after he posted, someone commented, "Actually, Leo was the special guest at the basketball exchange game of Jork today. One team played really dirty."

"Yes, I felt like the players from the Eastern University weren't playing basketball at all. They just tried to hit people!"

"I know right. They almost hit a little girl. If it weren't for a young man who stopped the ball in time, the little girl would have been hurt."

The fans who went to the game told the others about what had happened.

Soon, someone posted more shocking news.

"I'm a student studying at the Jork University. This is the interview posted on our school website."

Under his comment, there was a link attached. When many people clicked the link, they found that it was an interview about Leo.

After watching the interview, all the fans of Leo became angry.

It turned out that Leo's daughter was almost hit by someone from the Eastern University.

Also, they found out that the one who protected his daughter was Trevor!

Before the interview ended, Leo expressed his thoughts about the sports spirit.

Although climbing the peak was important, they should also know how to protect the weak.

Leo said that the most important valuable quality of an athlete was not to act on impulse or fight fiercely.

This interview got viral and many fans of Leo couldn't sit still anymore.

All of them came to the Eastern University's Twitter and reprimanded the Eastern University's basketball team.

Many media published the issue and criticized the way they played dirty.

"This is unbelievable! Leo's daughter was almost hit by a college student who played disgracefully in the basketball game."

"Leo attended the exchange game today. But the incident that happened made him really angry."

"Eastern University played dirty in the game. Leo scolded the team for lacking sports spirit."
