

Blessed 354

Chapter 354 Being Laughed A

Trevor ignored the abuse these people were throwing at him. He just gave them a cold look and then looked away.

He soon saw his father heading towards him, accompanied by several men in suits. Ronald had a big smile on his face.

Trevor stood still, watching the group come closer.

Elmore and his family saw Trevor's behavior as a silent provocation.

They therefore began to curse him even more harshly.

"Fuck you, loser. Get out of here or I will teach you a lesson."

"Poor boy, get out of here! Are you deaf? If because of you, these bigwigs feel offended, you will be in serious trouble!"

At this point, the people of the inspection delegation were already very close. Elmore and his parents didn't dare to touch Trevor now. They couldn't beat him in front of everyone.

Anakin, his wife and son did their best to contain their anger. They showed a broad smile when the delegation arrived in front of them and greeted them warmly.

The three of them were particularly pleased to see that the leader of the delegation seemed to be very happy. Indeed, Ronald had a broad smile on his face.

Because of this, Anakin and the others were sure to sell the house for a good price.

The Davis family was already cherishing this dream of counting wads of money in a few days. When suddenly they saw Trevor approaching the inspection delegation, they got scared. They were actually worried that Trevor would make them lose the money they already saw themselves having.

Anakin quickly stepped in front of Trevor and gave him a ferocious look.

Trevor was stunned. He wanted to join his father, but Anakin reacted as though he was a thief.

At this point, the smile on Ronald's face had faded away. Before Trevor could say anything, Ronald asked in a somewhat cold tone, "What are you doing?"

For his part, Anakin thought that Ronald was unhappy because Trevor had approached him. So Anakin apologized with a smile, "We have no relationship of any kind with this bum. He just happens to have been my son's classmate in high school. I wonder what kind of upbringing his parents gave him. He's so rude!"

"Absolutely. I can tell from this boy's attitude that his dad must be a goofball. He's so annoying!"

Anakin's wife echoed.

Trevor didn't feel angry at all despite the repeated insults. In fact, he felt like laughing. He watched his father helplessly, while doing his best to suppress his laughter.

He thought Elmore and his family were really stupid and reckless. If only they knew who they were talking about!

Ronald's expression didn't change much. However, his smile had completely faded away.

This family had managed to put him in a bad mood. To think they called him, Ronald, a goofball, and moreover in front of his son!

Ronald cleared his throat casually and glanced at the building. Then, he asked in a low voice, "Is this land yours?"

Anakin replied excitedly, "Yes. This land belongs to my family. Let me show you around!"

He stepped forward and enthusiastically beckoned everyone to follow him.

However, Ronald didn't move an inch.

He turned to the secretary next to him and said firmly, "This small piece of land is of no use to me. Remember to ask the designer to provide a large public toilet on this side."

Anakin and his family were stunned when they heard what Ronald said.

What on earth was going on? They wondered if they heard him right.

Not only wouldn't they be able to earn money from building the amusement park and become wealthy, but they would also have to endure the sight of large public restrooms every day in the future?

This prospect of the future made Anakin so anxious that large drops of sweat ran down his forehead. He asked nervously, "Sir, w-what's going on? Is there any misunderstanding between us?"

Ronald snorted and replied coldly, "Well, apparently I'm a goofball who's unable to bring up his son properly." Ronald then turned to Trevor and said, "Trevor, come here. We are not welcome here. Let's go somewhere else!"

