

Blessed 359

Chapter 359 A Real Big Star

No matter how closely Trevor looked at the woman in front of him, he still had no idea who she was.

He was quite embarrassed at the moment.

Actually, this girl wasn't Luisa nor Selma, nor any of the rich girls he knew.

Trevor stood there, looking rather embarrassed and having no idea who these two beautiful young women were in front of him.

After a while of wondering, he scratched his head and asked in embarrassment, "Uhhh... Sorry, who are you?"

The two lovely young women did not respond, however. They just stood there staring at Trevor. It was Damon who spoke. He walked forth and said with a sneer, "Well, you've most likely mistaken him for someone else. He's just a poor guy who wants to fit into the bourgeois milieu. How can a guy like him be Mr. Sanderson? It's obvious that his suit is counterfeit."

He then approached the beauties with a very confident air.

"Just ignore this loser. How about we get to know each other? I'm Damon, a singer of the Galaxy Media. I am under contract to star in several very popular TV series in the near future."

Damon winked at the beauties as he spoke. It was clear that he already saw himself as a well-known star.

However, the two beauties were completely unimpressed by all what Damon said. The kindness on their faces a moment ago was replaced by an expression of disgust. They stared at Damon coldly and said in a mocking tone, "Do you think we give a damn? Just get lost!"

Those harsh words hurt Damon's ego and pissed him off. In shame and anger he gritted his teeth and cursed, "You bitches! You don't know the chance you just missed! And to think that I thought you were beautiful and I intended to recommend you to my agent. You could have become very popular thanks to me. You are going to regret it!"

Damon then turned to Angie and patted her on the shoulder, indicating that he would recommend her to his agent instead.

For a girl as young and naive as Angie, it was really a big deal to be able to enter the world of show business.

Angie was so excited she couldn't help but scream with excitement. The other female fans around

Damon had envious looks on their faces.

The reaction of his female fans pleased Damon who felt he had regained his honor.

He raised his head proudly and looked at Trevor and the two beauties with disdain.

He wanted to make sure that these two beauties who had turned him down just now knew that they had passed up the opportunity of a lifetime.

Trevor couldn't help but find Damon very ridiculous for being so arrogant.

Damon wasn't even popular yet and he was already so arrogant! It was really ridiculous.

Before Trevor could say anything, the two beauties spoke first.

"You really think I will regret? Seriously?"

One of the beauties sneered and immediately took off her sunglasses.

She then stared at Damon and asked mockingly, "Tell me how could I regret that I missed the chance to know you?"

When she took off her glasses, Damon was paralyzed with shock.

For a long time, he couldn't move or even speak. It took him a while to come to his senses. Swallowing hard, he stammered, "M-Miss... Miss Barnes, why are you here?"

It turned out that this beautiful woman was Celine Barnes, an A-list star!

Damon was still very little known even among members of the entertainment circle and on the other hand, Celine was famous throughout the world.

They were just not on the same level.

Celine stared disdainfully at Damon and mocked, "Do I have to report to you what I'm doing, 'big star'? Well, I'm here for a concert. Is that a problem for you?"

At that moment, the other lady who had been silent beside Celine chuckled.

"Ha-ha, Celine, this guy is really funny. He should take on the role of the clown in a circus!"

The woman had such a soft and pleasant voice that people around them were attracted. Soon there was a small crowd all around.

She then took off her sunglasses in turn. To Damon's shock, she was another famous star.

In fact, she was Alicia Calderon, the lead singer of the Purple Band.

At this point, Damon was shaking all over. If these two stars said a word about what happened to anyone in the entertainment circle, the entertainment company Damon worked for would immediately terminate his contract.

The arrogant look on his face was quickly replaced by fear. With cold sweat dripping down his forehead, he timidly begged the two ladies.

"M-Miss, this is a misunderstanding. I shouldn't have said that. In fact, you're right. I'm indeed a clown!"

In order to make his apology more interesting, Damon even bent over while twisting his body. He acted in a way that mimicked the performance of a clown in a circus.

Trevor, who had been standing on the sidelines the whole time, couldn't help but laugh at this guy's shameless behavior!