

Blessed 367

Chapter 367 Orion's Nightmare

The smile that shone a moment ago on Jacob's face suddenly faded.

He felt like he was falling from the highest skyscraper and crashing on the hardest of rocks.

What annoyed him even more was that after asking him to step aside, Alicia pointed to Trevor who was standing nearby.

Alicia smiled and said to Trevor in a sweet voice, "Hey, young man, follow me into the lounge for an interview."

For a moment, Jacob felt lost. He didn't understand what was going on at all. It just didn't make sense.

'Why?' he wondered.

He had had a hard time making his way through this dense crowd to get closer to the star. Only God knew how many people stepped on his feet and how many nudges he received in the process.

And despite all his efforts, it was a freshman who was granted the opportunity to interview the super star!

Jacob felt terribly wronged. He subconsciously shouted angrily, "This is unfair! How could you give that brat the opportunity to interview you? He has barely entered college. It's such a shame to waste such a golden opportunity on him!"

Hearing what Jacob said, Alicia pouted and pretended to be angry. "Well, you think I'm unfair? You've seen nothing yet. The Red Wine Newspaper isn't invited to the press conference after the show!"

Alicia was a rising star in the music industry. As such, she had enough self-confidence to allow herself certain star whims.

Jacob was utterly stunned. He didn't think much when he said that just now. However, it seemed that the star didn't appreciate it and now he had even lost the chance to attend the press conference!

This concert was the biggest event in Jork recently. If Jacob couldn't interview any key figures from that concert, there was no doubt that his boss would give him a hard time when he got back. Jacob might even lose his job.

The prospect of losing his job frightened Jacob so much that he resolved to beg Alicia.

"Miss Calderon, I'm sorry. I..."

Unfortunately for him, Alicia was quite adamant.

Before Jacob could say more, she waved her hand impatiently, signaling for the bodyguards to throw Jacob out the back door. She didn't want to be bothered any further.

The reporters present were completely shocked by the scene.

Seeing what had happened to their colleague, the other reporters didn't dare to talk nonsense anymore. They watched with envy as Trevor and Alicia walked to the lounge.

As for Orion, he was so jealous that he clenched his fists tightly. However, he was smart enough not to do anything stupid.

No matter how he racked his brains, he couldn't figure out why Trevor was so lucky.

Just moments earlier, Orion had mocked Trevor saying Trevor would never have the chance to see the members of the Purple Band.

However, those cruel words towards Trevor were backfiring now. Because, not only Trevor was invited to an interview, but he was especially personally invited by the lead singer of the Purple Band, Alicia Calderon!

As he walked past Orion to join Alicia, Trevor didn't fail to notice Orion's irritated expression. Trevor couldn't help laughing and teasing Orion.

"Hey, if I were you I would pinch myself to be sure it's just a nightmare!"

Hearing Trevor's comment, Alicia couldn't help but burst into laughter.

Though she had no idea what the issue between Trevor and Orion was, Trevor's joke was too funny for her not to laugh.

Orion's expression was also very funny. He looked like he had swallowed a whole swamp of flies. Alicia found it all so funny that she burst out laughing.

Alicia's laughter was contagious. Soon, all the other reporters, who knew the whole story, were laughing more cheerfully. For a moment, the entire hallway was filled with peals of laughter.

To say that just a moment ago, Orion had been quite arrogant! Now he was humiliated by Trevor!

It was really a funny twist of fate.

Though the reporters envied Trevor's luck, that didn't prevent them from laughing at Orion's misfortune.

Orion's face went pale when he saw how much of a laughing stock he had become to everyone here. He wished he could find a hole to hide in.

Orion was just an intern. Jacob was the one in charge of guiding him, and yet he had been thrown out of here.

Orion felt so ashamed that he didn't dare to stay here any longer.

He gritted his teeth and muttered angrily, "Trevor, just wait and see!"

Then he lowered his head and sped away from the theater.
