

Blessed 378

Chapter 378 Are You Really Mr. Sanderson

"Yes, since it has the most luxurious design in this project, only one villa was specially built to show its dignity and elegance. So, there aren't two... Wait, what did you just say?"

At first, Carleigh didn't know what Trevor had said until halfway through his words. Immediately, he stared at Trevor with wide eyes.

Even Camille, who had already left her brother alone, turned to look at Trevor as if she had seen a ghost.

Was this handsome man really going to buy this villa?

Of course, she never thought that Trevor would buy the villa when she first served him. Because of the ordinary clothes he was wearing, she simply thought that he was just a student who had the courage to come in on a hot day to enjoy the free air conditioner.

In fact, she took the initiative to serve him because of his good looks. She wanted to find some fun when she was bored at work.

Seeing the unbelievable expressions of the siblings, Trevor smiled and said, "What I mean is, I'd like to buy this villa. I'll pay the full amount now."

After saying that, he directly took out his bank card and handed it to Camille.

With her eyes filled with uncertainty, Camille took the card and asked Trevor to follow her to go through the formalities.

All the while, Carleigh followed them with his heart filled with astonishment and disbelief.

However, what happened next shocked the two siblings.

Trevor paid the whole amount of the villa which was about thirty million dollars in full.

With a blank look on their faces, the siblings looked at each other.

After some time, Camille reached her hand out and pinched her brother's arm.

Immediately, Carleigh cried out in pain, "Ouch!"

Since it hurt him, it meant that she wasn't dreaming.

Only then did she realize that this was real.

Gradually, Camille's expression returned back to normal. There was a hint of joy on her face.

No matter what, she just sold the top villa! Obviously, she was going to get bonus for it.

For the Dury family who had unique rules, the income was quite generous.

Camille didn't think that a rich man like him would live so low-key. He was even more special than them!

She had thought that the Dury family was strict and unique.

After all, she had to start from the lowest position in the company of the Dury family and her brother had to give money to buy the villa that was owned by his family. Therefore, she thought that her family was already strange enough.

However, she didn't expect that someone would stay low-key despite having the greatest background!

The man in front of him was more unique than her family.

Thinking about it, she looked at Trevor up and down carefully. At that time, a thought flashed in her mind.

Wait a moment!

Since he was keeping a low-profile...

All of a sudden, Camille realized something.

In a low voice, she asked, "Are you the famous Mr. Sanderson?"

Without denying, Trevor just smiled and said, "You don't have to call me Mr. Sanderson. Just call me Trevor. I'm quite satisfied with your service."

Since she served him really good, Trevor didn't show any sort of arrogance towards her.

Only then did Carleigh come back to his senses.

He still couldn't accept the fact that the villa was indeed sold out.

However, when he found out that the buyer was none other than the famous Mr. Sanderson in Jork, his face changed immediately.

Suddenly, he approached Trevor excitedly and shouted, "Oh my heavens! Mr. Sanderson, you are my idol! I've heard the news about you taming the disgusting rich guys when you came back to Jork. Unfortunately, I wasn't here at that time. I just got back..."

Hearing his words, Trevor was a little embarrassed because of his first impression of Carleigh.

At that time, Trevor said in his heart, 'I'm so sorry. I thought you are a member of disgusting rich guys as soon as I met you.'

Obviously, Carleigh had no idea about what Trevor was thinking. Since he was acting like an enthusiastic fan, Trevor couldn't stand it!
