Chapter 43 Being Stained

Someone pushed Trevor, almost causing him to fall.

He turned around and shouted, "Marlon, what are you doing?"

It was obvious that Marlon Archer was doing it on purpose, because the playground was huge, and yet he was deliberately making trouble for Trevor.

Trevor also knew Marlon, who was the captain of the baseball team and a member of the student union.

"Who would have thought that you would fall down so easily from just a simple touch?"

Seeing Marlon's devilish grin, the others burst into laughter.

Trevor was not short. In fact, he was 6 feet tall, but compared to Marlon, he appeared shorter.

"Marlon, you have to be careful. I am worried that Trevor might smack you with a stack of cash."

"Humph! This loser? Does he really think that winning the lottery once can make him powerful?"

Marlon's family was engaged in the sale of goods, so they had more than ten shops and assets worth more than a hundred million dollars.

So to him, the three hundred thousand dollars that Trevor owned was not that big of a deal.

Aggy was about to check the stage layout when she turned to Marlon and asked, "Why are you so late?"

She liked men like him, who were good at sports and wealthy. She believed that only a man like him deserved her.

She wrapped her arm around him warmly, which was completely different from the way she treated Trevor just a moment ago.

"Let me show you a treasure!"

With a smug smile, Marlon rolled up sleeves, revealing his brand new watch.

"My father just got me a watch. It took the shop some time to send it."

Instantly, the quiet playground became noisy.

"Wow, this is such an exquisite watch!"

"Let me take a look. Even the strap is so well designed. I am sure that it must be really expensive."

"Only people like you can be considered as real wealthy men."

Soon, a large group of students gathered around them. The boys seemed to be envious while the girls ogled Marlon.

"Marlon, how much does your watch cost?"

Aggy asked, pretending to be curious as she cast a glance at Marlon, who was being clearly complacent.

"Not much. It's just an advance birthday gift from my dad. It is from Omega Seamaster, so I am sure it must be worth about a hundred thousand dollars!"

Marlon answered with a laugh.

Everyone began to flatter him and forgot about preparing for the school anniversary.

Trevor was the only one who was working quietly.

Upon hearing his words, Trevor sighed in his heart. He believed that the watch was not that valuable to be shown off like that. The Patek Philippe customized watch that his sister had given him was worth more than five hundred thousand dollars, but he was still not interested to wear it.

"Ah!"

All of a sudden, soft voice put him back to reality. He bumped into someone and almost tripped.

The broom in his hand was tossed into the air and fell on a girl's white dress.

'What was going... On?' Trevor was stunned.

He immediately turned back and found that he had stained Luisa's dress.

Her voice attracted everyone and they immediately turned around.

She was wearing a long white dress and her long hair was swept back in a ponytail.

Luisa looked beautiful and elegant in that dress.

However, the stain was too visible and striking.

With hands on her hips, Aggy walked over. Seeing Luisa's dress dirty, she immediately understood what was going on.

"Trevor! You are such a loser. You can't even complete a small task. You stained Luisa's dress!" she said coldly.

"Sorry... I didn't mean to do that. Let me help you clean your dress."

Trevor hurriedly took out a tissue to wipe the stain off Luisa's dress.

Seeing that, Luisa quickly said, "It's alright. It's just a small stain. I can wipe it by myself."

However, Trevor did not listen to her at all and continued to wipe her dress.

Marlon was not standing too far away when he saw Trevor touching Luisa's dress, so he thought that he was trying to molest her.

Rolling up his sleeves, he rushed over, grabbed Trevor by the collar, and roared, "You did it on purpose, didn't you? Don't think I don't know what you are trying to do."

Hearing that, the other students also pointed at Trevor with a disgusted look in their eyes.
