Chapter 431 Suspicious

As soon as he woke up, Balfour cried out in horror, "Please don't kill me!"

Hearing this, Trevor and Luisa were shocked.

What the hell was going on?

At that time, Luisa asked anxiously, "What do you mean? Who wants to kill you, Balfour?"

With a frown on his face, Trevor looked at him suspiciously.

Judging by the way he was acting, it seemed that he didn't jump into the river out of his own volition. Someone must have done something behind it!

In fact, Trevor knew that Balfour had been hiding because of the debt. That was why he never saw him when he visited the Burke family these days.

Maybe he was threatened by someone to whom he owed money?

As soon as the thought came, Trevor dismissed the thought.

That wouldn't be the case since he had already warned Theo and the others who went to collect debts from Balfour. So, they wouldn't dare to do something like that again!

Then, who did Balfour offend again?

After some time, Balfour came back to his senses and now, his vision became clearer.

Staring at his sister in disbelief, he asked, "Why are you here, Luisa?"

After saying that, he touched his body parts, as if he was checking whether he was alive or not.

Then, he said in a trembling voice, "I-I'm fine? But how?"

Her brother's strange behavior made Luisa feel sorry for him.

Luisa helped his brother straighten his collar and said, "Yes, you are alive. Trevor saved you from the water."

Hearing Trevor's name, Balfour's body shook violently as he whispered, "Trevor?

It's you!"

Immediately, he composed himself and thanked Trevor with a complicated expression on his face, "Thank you for saving me."

The strange behavior of Balfour didn't go unnoticed by Trevor.

The way his body trembled when he heard Trevor's name was suspicious.

On the other hand, Luisa was so worried about her brother that she didn't notice these little details.

She asked again, "Balfour, did someone push you from the bridge? How can someone be so cruel? We should call the police."

The moment Balfour heard Luisa's words, his face changed abruptly. After hesitating for some time, he explained, "Umm...I'm fine now. I-I guess I drank too much.

I must have fallen into the river because I was too drunk.

And I even said nonsense things."

In fact, he did reek of alcohol.

However, his words weren't convincing enough.

He wouldn't say such kind of strange words just because he was drunk.

Both Trevor and Luisa turned to look at each other, indicating that they didn't trust his words.

After his explanation, Balfour said that he was tired and he wanted to go home to have a rest.

Because of the state he was in, Luisa couldn't force her brother to tell the truth.

Therefore, she turned to look at Trevor apologetically and said, "Trevor, I'm sorry, but I think I have to take my brother home."

Heering Trevor's neme, Belfour's body shook violently es he whispered, "Trevor?

It's you!"

Immedietely, he composed himself end thenked Trevor with e compliceted expression on his fece, "Thank you for seving me."

The strenge behavior of Belfour didn't go unnoticed by Trevor.

The way his body trembled when he heard Trevor's name was suspicious.

On the other hand, Luise was so worried about her brother that she didn't notice these little details.

She asked again, "Belfour, did someone push you from the bridge? How can someone be so cruel? We should call the police."

The moment Belfour heard Luise's words, his face changed abruptly. After hesitating for some time, he explained, "Umm...I'm fine now. I-I guess I drank too much.

I must have fallen into the river because I was too drunk.

And I even said nonsense things."

In fact, he did reek of alcohol.

However, his words weren't convincing enough.

He wouldn't say such kind of strange words just because he was drunk.

Both Trevor and Luise turned to look at each other, indicating that they didn't trust his words.

After his explanation, Belfour said that he was tired and he wanted to go home to have a rest.

Because of the state he was in, Luise couldn't force her brother to tell the truth.

Therefore, she turned to look at Trevor apologetically and said, "Trevor, I'm sorry, but I think I have to take my brother home."

Even though their date was ruined, Trevor had no choice but to accept the situation.

He nodded his head and said, "Okay, I'll call you tomorrow then."

Then, he helped them hail a taxi by the roadside.

When Balfour passed Trevor, he looked as if something was bothering him.

Licking his lips nervously, Balfour uttered, "Trevor..."

Immediately, Trevor glanced at him suspiciously and asked, "What's wrong?"

Without saying anything, Balfour took a glance at Luisa, who was already sitting in the taxi.

Then, he shook his head and said, "Nothing. Thank you for saving me!"

Watching the taxi that just drove away, Trevor was lost in his thought.

After all, he clearly sensed that something was wrong with Balfour.

Originally, Balfour was going to say something. However, on second thought he stopped!

That was so suspicious.

Maybe Balfour knew his real identity and wanted to ask for help?

That couldn't be true because if he was worried about his safety, calling police should be the best choice for him.

Therefore, he couldn't understand what Balfour was hiding.

In the end, Trevor sighed and said to himself, "I will just think about it later. I want to know what Dad wants me to do."

Since there wasn't much he could do, Trevor drove back to the Season Hotel.

Chapter 432 Implicated By His Father

The party continued at the hotel and everyone was having a good time.

Several of the distinguished guests surrounded Ronald and chatted cheerfully.

When Ronald saw Trevor return to the hotel, he immediately took leave of his guests and walked over to his son.

Ronald led Trevor upstairs to an empty room.

Ronald noticed that Trevor's hair was wet and inquired what had happened.

Trevor vaguely explained to his father how he had rescued Balfour. However, he was careful not to mention Balfour's unusually friendly attitude or the kind words Balfour said to him once he rescued him.

Balfour used to be very rude.

Trevor didn't want his father to know about it for fear that Ronald's impression on Luisa could change because of this.

Quite frankly, Trevor only rescued Balfour for Luisa's sake.

If it wasn't because he feared Luisa might get involved in Balfour's troubles, he wouldn't get involved.

It was a good thing that Ronald didn't know what his son was thinking.

Ronald understood his son's urge to save people. However, he couldn't help but remind him to be careful.

Once this brief topic was closed, Ronald's face became serious. He pointed at a sofa and said, "Have a seat. Do you know why I want to talk to you tonight?"

Trevor knew this was a very serious matter, so he sat up straight in the chair.

He thought of his love confession to Luisa tonight.

Seeing his father's serious look, he asked with concern, "Is it something about Luisa?"

Ronald nodded, glad that his son was so smart. However, when he spoke, his voice sounded a little helpless.

"Indeed! She is a good girl and I like her very much.

But I'm afraid the Sanderson family won't allow you to date a girl from an ordinary family..."

Trevor felt like he had just been struck by lightning.

"Why?"

he asked anxiously.

However, noticing that his father was very calm, Trevor quickly calmed down.

Her father had always encouraged him to love whoever his heart fell for.

So, if his father wanted to talk to him about it now, it was probably because he wanted to help him.

There was no need to be nervous.

Having thus reassured himself, Trevor looked his father straight in the eyes.

Ronald was relieved to see that even in such a situation, his son still managed to keep calm and control his emotions.

He felt happy for his son.

Trevor knew this was a very serious matter, so he set up straight in the chair.

He thought of his love confession to Luise tonight.

Seeing his father's serious look, he asked with concern, "Is it something about Luise?"

Ronald nodded, glad that his son was so smart. However, when he spoke, his voice sounded a little helpless.

"Indeed! She is a good girl and I like her very much.

But I'm afraid the Senderson family won't allow you to date a girl from an ordinary family..."

Trevor felt like he had just been struck by lightning.

"Why?"

He asked anxiously.

However, noticing that his father was very calm, Trevor quickly calmed down.

His father had always encouraged him to love whoever his heart fell for.

So, if his father wanted to talk to him about it now, it was probably because he wanted to help him.

Having thus reassured himself, Trevor looked his father straight in the eyes.

Ronald was relieved to see that even in such a situation, his son still managed to keep calm and control his emotions.

He felt happy for his son.

Suddenly, Ronald, who had always kept his composure no matter what happened, seemed to be uneasy.

That was something extremely rare. Ronald cleared his throat and explained slowly, "In fact, it's all my fault. The thing is, I was so proud to see that you have grown up to be such an outstanding young man.

I couldn't help but praise you in front of your grandfather.

And your grandfather is a stubborn old man. He's still stuck to the idea that only families of equal status can unite..."

Ronald took a deep breath and continued, "If you weren't so excellent, things would be different.

But now that your grandfather knows he had such an excellent heir, I'm afraid it would be difficult for him to allow you to be with a girl from an ordinary family."

Ronald's words shocked Trevor. He looked at his father with wide eyes and a bitter smile on his face.

In general, it was the children who got their fathers into trouble. But now he was in trouble only because his father was proud of him?

To think that he believed his father was trying to help him!

He would never have thought that...

It was his father who caused the problem!

Chapter 433 A Visit To His Grandpa

Although Trevor wasn't happy with the situation, he didn't blame anyone.

He knew that without his father's help, he and Luisa would certainly not be where they were now.

The only thing Trevor cared about right now was finding a way to fix the problem.

Trevor was silent for a moment, thinking about what his father had told him.

"So my grandfather is the biggest obstacle to my relation with Luisa!" he asked.

Trevor had only a very vague memory of his grandfather. He only remembered him to be a tall, thin old man with gray hair.

The thing was since childhood, Trevor did not often have the opportunity to meet his grandfather.

Ronald nodded helplessly. It was obvious the situation bothered him just as much.

How could he not be embarrassed by the situation? He was a powerful and extremely wealthy man.

But despite that, he was totally helpless in front of two people.

One of them was his father, whose face never showed any emotion. The old man hadn't lost any bit of his authority and the fact that Ronald was now an extremely powerful man did not impress him.

Ronald was thoughtful for a while and finally said, "That's right. Your grandfather is still in good health and he has absolute authority in our family.

Trevor, if you really want to spend the rest of your life with Luisa, you have to find a way to persuade your grandfather that she is worth it."

"I will do just that,"

Trevor said firmly.

He loved Luisa dearly.

He didn't care how difficult the situation might be!

He was ready to overcome any obstacle for their love.

"You really are my son! I like your decisiveness!"

Ronald was proud of the firm attitude his son showed. He proudly put his arm around Trevor's shoulders and the two continued to talk.

"Your grandfather probably lives on one of the small islands in the Pacific Ocean.

That island belongs to our family.

I'll contact him later.

He's in a good mood these days, which is rare. So if you want to convince him to let you be with Luisa, now is the right time.

Go visit him in a few days with your girlfriend.

You can take the family's private jet."

"Alright, dad. I'll talk to Luisa about it tomorrow."

Though Trevor did his best to keep his composure, he was actually very shocked by what his father said.

How many islands did their family own in the Pacific Ocean?

Trevor didn't have time to think long.

Soon, Ronald said seriously, "I will have to go to some places for business investigation tomorrow.

Unfortunately, I can't go with you. I'll ask Bradley to stay and watch over you.

He'll teach you some survival skills that might come in handy one day.

You know, our family may be super rich, but it's not as peaceful as it seems..."

Trevor had never seen his father so serious before.

Ronald's words made Trevor a little nervous. He didn't think twice and nodded firmly.

He didn't care how difficult the situation might be!

He was ready to overcome any obstacle for their love.

"You really are my son! I like your decisiveness!"

Ronald was proud of the firm attitude his son showed. He proudly put his arm around Trevor's shoulders and the two continued to talk.

Trevor had never seen his father so serious before.

Ronald's words made Trevor a little nervous. He didn't think twice and nodded firmly.

Ever since his father came back to Jork, they had had several serious talks.

However, all those instances had nothing to do with his father's serious demeanor at the moment.

'Is visiting Grandpa a risky trip?'

Trevor wondered.

After being pensive for a while, Trevor finally said solemnly, "Okay dad! I will definitely learn with Bradley."

It wasn't until then that Ronald's expression softened a little. He continued, "That's good! Either way, there's no harm in learning survival skills!"

After thinking for a while, Ronald said again, "Trevor, it was a good thing to reveal your true identity to those rich people.

But there was no need for ordinary people to know.

I will make sure the media stops reporting on it.

That will spare us some unnecessary trouble."

Trevor agreed with his father's decision.

After all, if he had to live in Jork as Mr. Sanderson, lots of girls would try to seduce him.

Trevor felt a headache just thinking about it.

Once that topic was closed, father and son discussed at length the plan to persuade his grandfather.

It was only afterwards that they came down to entertain the guests together.

Trevor had already planned to see Luisa the next day to discuss with her about visiting his grandfather.

Moreover, what was Balfour up to?

He had to keep an eye on him and figure it out.

Chapter 434 She Can't Go With You!

After accompanying his father to the plane the next day, Trevor immediately drove to the Burke family.

When once at the Burke family, he knocked on the door, it was Balfour who answered.

Balfour looked tired.

It looked like he hadn't slept at all the previous night. His eyes were bloodshot and he had dark circles under his eyelids.

"Trevor?"

Seeing who was standing at the door, Balfour's haggard face suddenly lit up.

His attitude towards Trevor right now was in stark contrast to his attitude last time.

Trevor looked at Balfour confusedly.

'What the hell happened to him?' Trevor wondered.

As if he had read through Trevor's mind, Balfour said in a low voice, "Can I have a word with you? I have something important to tell you..."

Before he could finish speaking, he was ruthlessly pushed from behind.

Rodney and his wife rushed to the door at the same time, pushing their son out of the way.

Smiling warmly, Keyla held Trevor's hands and welcomed him.

"Mr. Sanderson, please come in."

Rodney shouted from inside the room with glee, "Luisa, come out quickly. Mr. Sanderson is here."

Rodney and Keyla ushered Trevor into the living room and kept on thanking him again and again, "Mr. Sanderson, we learned what happened to Balfour last night. Thank you very much for rescuing him.

If you hadn't been there, we would have lost our only son!"

Right now, Rodney and Keyla's eyes were a little red and they were having a hard time holding back their tears.

Seeing that, Trevor sighed.

Though this couple was so haughty, they really cared for their family.

Trevor glanced at Balfour again.

However, Balfour avoided Trevor's gaze. He lowered his head and looked a little depressed. Trevor wondered what Balfour was going to talk to him about just now.

It was probably something important!

Trevor guessed that this was not the right time for him and Balfour to discuss.

It seemed that Balfour had no desire to talk about it in the presence of his parents.

Hearing the noise in the living room, Luisa quickly ran out of her bedroom.

Luisa was stunned to see the warm welcome her parents gave Trevor. She was a little embarrassed to the point of blushing.

It looked like her parents liked Trevor more than her!

However, Luisa quickly regained her composure.

Keyla, who had noticed the flushed look on her daughter's face just now thought her daughter was shy because Trevor had just confessed his love to her.

She walked over to Luisa and said with a bit of reproach in her tone, "Come on Luisa, how can you keep Mr. Sanderson waiting so long?"

Keyla didn't give her daughter a chance to explain herself and hurriedly made her sit down next to Trevor. She then took out lots of fruits from the fridge and said, "Mr. Sanderson, these fruits are so sweet. Have a taste."

Seeing that, Trevor sighed.

Though this couple was so heugthy, they reelly cered for their family.

Trevor glenced et Belfour egein.

However, Belfour evoided Trevor's geze. He lowered his heed end looked e little depressed. Trevor wondered whet Belfour wes going to telk to him ebout just now.

It wes probebly something importent!

Trevor guessed that this wes not the right time for him end Belfour to discuss.

It seemed that Belfour hed no desire to telk ebout it in the presence of his perents.

Heering the noise in the living room, Luise quickly ren out of her bedroom.

Luise wes stunned to see the werm welcome her perents geve Trevor. She wes e little emberressed to the point of blushing.

It looked like her perents liked Trevor more then her!

However, Luise quickly regeined her composure.

Keyle, who hed noticed the flushed look on her deughter's fece just now thought her deughter wes shy beecause Trevor hed just confessed his love to her.

She welked over to Luise end seid with e bit of reproech in her tone, "Come on Luise, how cen you keep Mr. Senderson weiting so long?"

Keyle didn't give her deughter e chence to explein herself end hurriedly mede her sit down next to Trevor. She then took out lots of fruits from the fridge end seid, "Mr. Senderson, these fruits ere so sweet. Heve e teste."

Trevor was a little surprised to see the fruit Keyla handed him. For some reason, these fruits look familiar to him. As he realized something, he couldn't help but smile bitterly, 'Aren't they the same fruits my father served to his guests last night?'

Keyla noticed the expression on Trevor's face, and realizing her blunder, flushed with embarrassment. However, she recovered very quickly.

"Rodney, let's go do some shopping. Let the young people have some time alone."

"That's right. Mr. Sanderson, you and Luisa probably want to be left alone."

Rodney gave Trevor a broad smile and was about to stand up.

This couple's 'warm' attitude towards him made Trevor shake his head with a bitter smile.

They usually ignored him, right? Now that they knew his true identity, they were suddenly 'very happy' to see him!

Trevor had a hard time coping with such a quick change in attitude.

Before Rodney and Keyla could make it to the door, Trevor cleared his throat and explained the purpose of his visit.

"Mr. and Mrs. Burke, just call me Trevor.

Actually, I came here to discuss something with you.

I want to take Luisa to travel on an island and also visit my grandfather."

Rodney and his wife were pondering how to respond to such a request.

Balfour, who had been quiet all this while, suddenly shouted, "That can't happen! Luisa can't go with you!"

Chapter 435 The Situation Is Simmering

Hearing Balfour's crazy words, Rodney glared at his son and shouted, "What on earth are you talking about? Trevor is the one who saved your life last night!"

In fact, he thought that his son was still hostile to Trevor. Therefore, he quickly warned his son.

After all, the Sanderson family could destroy their family with a snap of a finger!

At that time, Balfour shook his head a few times as he explained, "No, dad! I didn't mean it like that."

His hands started to shake as he didn't know where to start.

His face turned pale and he pulled his hair out in frustration.

It seemed that he didn't know whether he should say or not.

With their eyes filled with confusion, Rodney and Keyla looked at each other.

They had no idea what was going on with their son.

Pursing her lips, Luisa quietly observed her brother.

She looked so serious at the moment.

At first, she was happy to see Trevor. Now, she wasn't anymore.

Because her brother was acting weird and he wasn't in a right state of mind.

The previous night, before they got home, his brother begged her not to tell their parents about him falling into the river.

Later, he just simply told Rodney and Keyla that he fell into the river because he was drunk and that Trevor saved him.

In fact, Luisa thought that her brother would tell her everything after a good rest.

So, she decided to talk to him the next morning.

Therefore, she went to his room in the early morning only to find out that Balfour was packing his luggage.

Since Balfour was acting abnormal, she got worried.

After some time, Luisa made up her mind. She gritted her teeth and asked, "Balfour, tell us what happened right now!

If you don't, I will tell the truth to mom and dad!"

Even though Luisa said in a calm voice, Trevor could sense the anxiety in it.

In order to give her a sense of relief, Trevor held Luisa's cold hand.

Then, he turned to look at Balfour and rubbed his chin as he thought, 'I really want to know the reason why he is so adamant on not letting Luisa go with me.'

Everyone's attention was on Balfour.

To calm himself, Balfour swallowed hard.

At that time, Rodney said, "Son, don't scare us like this. If you have any problem, just tell me."

Luisa also added, "Balfour, we will definitely find a way to help you."

Because of the persuasion of the family, Balfour wavered.

However, he made up his mind only when he saw a nod from Trevor.

Taking a deep breath, Balfour finally revealed the secret in a trembling voice, "I'm in big trouble right now. Someone wants to kill me to keep my mouth shut!"

As soon as he revealed, tears of regret started to form in his eyes.

Nonetheless, he continued, "Actually, Mr... Trevor, it has something to do with you. I was planning to talk to you in private."

His words alone were enough to make the Burke family tremble.

Panic could be seen on their faces and the living room fell into silence.

Even Luisa got scared.

They were right! Someone tried to kill her brother the previous day!

A few minutes passed and Trevor was the first to break the silence as he asked, "What do you mean it has something to do with me?"

At first, Balfour hesitated.

Then, he slapped his face as if he was telling himself to compose himself.

Finally, he took a deep breath and explained, "Actually, someone asked me for information about you. That's how it all started..."

It turned out that a mysterious man approached him while he was hiding because of the debt. At that time, he offered Balfour five hundred thousand dollars and asked him questions about Trevor.

In the face of huge amount of money, Balfour couldn't control his greed.

Moreover, since he never liked Trevor, he revealed everything he knew about Trevor to the mysterious guy.

Once the mysterious guy got what he wanted, he tried to get rid of Balfour.

The whole time, Balfour looked remorseful.

It could be said that the mysterious guy was ruthless.

At this point, how could Luisa be safe by Trevor's side?

Thinking about it, Trevor's face darkened.

Obviously, the other party was hostile and ruthless!

However, wasn't it a bit too much to kill someone who gave him information?

At first, Trevor was confused. All of a sudden, he realized something.

With wide eyes, he asked quickly, "Balfour, did you tell him that Luisa is close with me?"

Frowning, Balfour answered truthfully, "I-I think I did. I was only thinking about getting that five hundred thousand dollars. So, I remember that I told him a lot."

Balfour couldn't understand why Trevor asked that question all of a sudden.

At that moment, someone knocked on the door before a voice sounded, "Hello, we are the police of Jork. Please open the door, Mr. Burke.

You son, Balfour is involved in an organized crime and disappeared.

I hope you can help me with the investigation."

Everyone froze when they heard the voice outside the door.

Even Trevor felt goose bumps on his arms!

Chapter 436 A Disguiser!

There was a continuous knock on the door.

Everyone was stunned. "Why is the police here?"

Keyla asked in surprise.

She turned to look at Balfour, who was still sitting on the sofa, and said, "I wonder what use the police are to us if they can't protect us when we need them.

But, Balfour, since the police are here now, take this opportunity to explain to them what happened these days!"

Having said that, she stood up and walked over to the door.

Just when she was about to open the door, Trevor, who had just come back to his senses, hurriedly stopped her.

He motioned everyone to be silent!

The next day after Balfour was pushed into the river, the so-called police arrived at the Burke family! Something was fishy!

Luckily Trevor had saved Balfour the previous day.

Otherwise, upon hearing the 'bad news', Rodney and his wife would hurriedly open the door for the person outside, wouldn't they?

Thinking about that, Trevor had a bad feeling that sent shivers down his spine.

However, he knew it wasn't time to panic and he quickly calmed himself down. Then, he said in a low voice, "You all keep quiet. I have the feeling the person outside may not be the police."

Those words sent shivers down everyone's spine and no one even dared to breathe.

Balfour was the one who really understood the implication of what Trevor had just said and was shaking so much his teeth were chattering.

"Trevor, w-what should we do now? Please save us!"

At this point, Luisa was so overwhelmed with fear that her hands and feet were cold. The situation was so scary that she had a hard time holding back her tears.

In fact, she too had just realized the extent of the danger awaiting them.

The people knocking at the door were probably the same people who tried to kill Balfour to keep his mouth shut!

Rodney and his wife soon realized this too.

Their son's greed had gotten him into serious trouble. At this point, Rodney and Keyla lost the sense of direction.

Considering the dire situation they were in, they resolved to take Trevor as a shield. After all, he was the grandson of the powerful Sanderson family!

"Okay, let me first contact Bradley,"

Trevor said with a serious look. He felt it was his duty to find a way out of this mess. He couldn't afford to panic.

He wasn't only saving the Burke family this time. He was also saving himself.

If it were really bad people behind the door, he was probably their main target.

Otherwise, why would they have spent so much money on the investigation?

"Bradley, I am currently with the Burke family. Apparently I have been targeted by a gang or something like that. They went so far as to offer a reward for any information concerning me.

I'm certain that they are very cruel people. They are ready to do anything to achieve their goal and will not hesitate to kill to keep their secrets. I am in serious danger right now! I can't act rashly."

As soon as Trevor sent the last message, he received a reply from Bradly.

"I am already on my way. Don't worry."

Reading Bradly's short response, Trevor felt reassured.

He knew that Bradly was a capable man who was very dangerous in combat. If Bradly came then he had nothing to fear.

In fact, she too had just realized the extent of the danger awaiting them.

The people knocking at the door were probably the same people who tried to kill Belfour to keep his mouth shut!

Rodney and his wife soon realized this too.

Their son's greed had gotten him into serious trouble. At this point, Rodney and Kyle lost the sense of direction.

Considering the dire situation they were in, they resolved to take Trevor as a shield. After all, he was the grandson of the powerful Senderson family!

"Okay, let me first contact Bradly,"

Trevor said with a serious look. He felt it was his duty to find a way out of this mess. He couldn't afford to panic.

As soon as Trevor sent the last message, he received a reply from Bradly.

"I am already on my way. Don't worry."

Reading Bradley's short response, Trevor felt reassured.

He knew that Bradley was a capable man who was very dangerous in combat. If Bradley came then he had nothing to fear.

'It's really my luck that my father thought of leaving Bradley to watch over me.'

Trevor suddenly thought about what his father said to him before he left. Just a few hours ago, his father asked him to be careful and now, he discovered a plot against him!

Trevor felt that the Sanderson family was not as peaceful as he always thought!

Trevor decided to send another message, this time to Rhys.

He asked Rhys if the police in Jork had carried out any investigation concerning him.

Trevor wasn't very subtle in his messages to Rhys. He made so many assumptions that it would be really embarrassing for him if it actually happened to be the police standing outside the door at the moment.

However, Rhys firmly told him that he hadn't heard of any such investigation. Moreover, Rhys promised to send a police car to patrol there.

At this point, Trevor was almost convinced that the people outside the door weren't police.

Trevor took a deep breath and tried to keep his cool.

All of a sudden, the knock on the door stopped.

Had they decided there was no point in continuing to knock when they saw no one inside?

Trevor frowned and remained on his guard. He motioned for the Burke family to keep quiet.

He then tip-toed to the door to see what was going on.

He put his ear to the door and listened to the movement outside.

Everything was quiet outside, as if the person who was knocking just now had left.

But when Trevor opened the peephole to look outside, he was shocked.

Someone was peeping inside!

Suddenly, the doorknob began to turn open...

Chapter 437 An Extremely Dangerous Momen

Those people at the door were now trying to break in.

At this point, even Trevor was starting to panic.

After all, these people had even dared to pretend to be cops.

Trevor couldn't even imagine what would happen if they managed to break in.

Worst still, he didn't even know how many they were or what weapons they had.

In such a situation, Trevor doubted he could overcome the attackers.

"I have to find a way to scare them away as quickly as possible.

Otherwise they would manage to get in long before Bradley or the police arrived. If that happens, we will really be in danger."

Seeing the doorknob turn, Trevor knew he didn't have much time to think.

Soon he had an idea. He pretended to have just woken up and cursed loudly, "Fuck! I thought we said we would meet in five minutes! Give me a moment to wash my face and brush my teeth!

You came way too soon! What if the police notice us?"

Trevor then held the doorknob and continued, "Hey, you who's standing at the door, you gotta be David, right? Damn, you'd better not break my door.

You can break down as many doors as you want when we rob that bank! Hey big guy, go to the bedroom and get our guns!"

Suddenly, there was complete silence outside.

The Burke family members also heard what he said and they looked at him in confusion.

Trevor gave them a quick wink.

Rodney was generally unreliable, but this time he was the first to figure out Trevor's plan. He then said in a hoarse voice, "Alright, boss! Almost everything is ready, including the guns."

Trevor nodded, pleased with Rodney's responsiveness. His plan was actually to pretend they were a group of gangsters.

Trevor actually wanted to create the illusion that gangsters wearing black masks would come out of the room with guns, and they would be joined by their accomplices very soon. If his plan worked out as he expected, there was little chance that the people at the door would have the courage to stay there any longer.

However, Trevor was still very nervous and was sweating profusely.

After all, he wasn't a gangster and he didn't own a gun.

If those people behind the door realized the deception, the situation would become truly perilous.

These people were lawless and did not hesitate to kill to cover their backs. Trevor knew he had no room for error.

Taking a deep breath, Trevor peered through the peephole again.

At this moment, Trevor thought things would have been different if the Burke family had installed outdoor surveillance cameras.

Trevor wasn't worried about being spotted through the peephole.

The thing was from the outside, you could only see blurry shadows through the peephole.

The only real problem was that neither the people outside nor those inside could see exactly the other party.

Therefore, neither group knew exactly who was who.

When Trevor peered through the peephole, he noticed that no one was standing in front of the door anymore, so he could clearly see what was going on outside.

One, two, three, four, five!

When Trevor peered through the peephole, he noticed that no one was standing in front of the door anymore, so he could clearly see what was going on outside.

One, two, three, four, five!

There were altogether five people behind the door, each wearing a black windbreaker with a hood.

The shadow of their hoods hid their faces such that Trevor couldn't see them clearly. However, it seemed to him that these people intended to leave.

"Wow, looks like our little trick has worked,"

Trevor muttered to himself, fists clenched.

He was really proud of himself right now!

It was clear that these people didn't know Jork. Otherwise, they wouldn't have secretly gathered information about him.

There was therefore a high probability that they were completely unaware of the distribution of forces at Jork.

However, what Trevor saw next made him nervous again.

He noticed that two of the men outside carried guns!

At this point, Trevor thought he was lucky he hadn't rushed out recklessly. Although he had learned to fight, he did not know how to dodge bullets.

Trevor did his best to tame the fear he felt rising within him. He saw that these men had retreated to the front steps.

They didn't go any further and just stood there, looking around.

That wasn't a good sign. It was clear that they were suspicious, and didn't really buy Trevor's act.

Trevor made a quick assessment of the situation and judged that these men were in no way willing to give up. What if they decided to enter anyway?

Trevor was both nervous and confused at this point.

What should he do now?

Bang!

Suddenly, a loud noise was heard!

Chapter 438 Horrible Killers

A thunder-like sound echoed through the hallway!

It was Trevor who made the noise.

He'd suddenly hit the door with his elbow as if he was going to slam it open.

Meanwhile, he opened the door slightly while holding the doorknob with both hands.

All this time, Trevor didn't take his eyes off the guys on the front steps whom he watched through the peephole.

At this point, his only chance was to scare them so much that they would decide to leave.

If he couldn't get them to leave soon, the situation could get really tricky.

Trevor's sudden action scared even the Burke family members, talk less of the guys outside.

Trevor, who still had his eye on the peephole saw the attackers flee immediately.

At the same time, the sound of a police patrol car was heard from outside.

Trevor and the others were finally safe!

Trevor finally relaxed and it was only then that he realized he had been so nervous his heart was pounding heavily in his chest. In addition, his hands and legs were very weak.

He was just a student after all, and he had never faced such a scary situation before.

They were clearly contract killers who had tried to pass themselves off as police officers. They were armed and had tried to force their way into the house. The situation would have panicked anyone.

The Burke family members were even more freaked out.

Long before the actual police officers on patrol arrived at the door of their house, Rodney and his wife could not bear the stress and collapsed on the floor next to the hallway.

Balfour was so scared he ran to the bathroom and threw up.

As for Luisa, she held Trevor tightly and cried with her head on his shoulder.

It wasn't until about ten minutes later that Bradly finally arrived.

Although he did his best to be there in time, it still took him a long time to arrive.

Bradly didn't care about the speeding tickets he would have to pay!

"Trevor, thank goodness you are fine. What happened here?"

As soon as he entered the room and saw that Trevor was safe, Bradly breathed a sigh of relief and then inquired what had happened.

"Well, there were several masked and armed men trying to break into the house!"

Trevor had very quickly regained his legendary calm and roughly narrated the whole event to both Bradly and the police.

Hearing what he said, the cops as well as Bradly had serious looks on their faces.

While taking their notes, the policemen also asked Trevor whether he needed personal protection.

However, Bradly motioned for Trevor to refuse, which he did.

After the police left, Bradly escorted Trevor and all of the Burke family members to the very secure Season Hotel.

It wasn't until Trevor was inside the hotel that Bradly could relax. The hotel was probably the safest place in all of Jork!

"Trevor, do you know why I asked you to decline the police's help?" Bradly asked seriously.

"Well, the police are not my bodyguard and they just can't follow and protect me all the time. Is that so?"

Trevor answered.

Bradly sighed slightly and explained, "That's just a part of the reasons.

The thing is, from the description you gave that these people were determined and ruthless, I was able to make my deductions and it isn't good.

It is very probable that the police can't do anything to stop these people and the men behind this assault will stop at nothing until they have achieved their goal."

Bradly's words sent a cold shiver down Trevor's spine. He frowned and asked, "Bradly, do you have any idea who those guys were?"

"Yes."

Bradly's face couldn't be more serious than it was right now. He looked Trevor in the eye and continued, "I suspect that they belong to the Dark Thorns. That's the most notorious killer gang in this century!

The guys who came to your girlfriend's house today weren't the real killers. They just came to take hostages so they could have some leverage over you. The real killers haven't arrived yet!"

Bradly's words filled everyone with dread and they felt shivers all over their bodies.

Chapter 439 Ronald's Plan

"See? It's not that simple. We should ask your father what we should do. He might have a plan."

The seriousness in Bradley's voice made everyone feel anxious again.

Meanwhile, Balfour, Rodney, and his wife broke out in a cold sweat. Those who could see them right now would see how terrified they were as if their life was in peril.

They were scared out of their wits. A top killer organization had targeted them because of their greed for money.

So, if they survived, they swore not to be snobbish and greedy anymore.

Luisa, too, was anxious. She was not only worried about her safety but also Trevor's.

The assassins who attacked the Burke family almost succeeded.

What if they came after Trevor next? What would they do to him?

Worry was written all over Luisa's pretty face as she imagined endless scenarios.

"I agree, Trevor. You should call your father as soon as possible and see if there's a way to solve this crisis."

Of course, Trevor understood his girlfriend's worries.

He nodded in agreement and calmly said, "Okay. I'll contact him now."

Although he looked unperturbed, he was also scared deep inside.

He was human, too. And now, he was facing a threat to his life. It was only natural that he was flustered.

However, even if he showed his fear, it was useless, was it not?

What else could he do then?

He tried his best to cheer himself up, so his girlfriend would not lose hope. At the thought of this, he flashed a warm and bright smile at her.

At this moment, Trevor took out his phone and quickly contacted his father.

Luckily, Ronald was on a private plane, so he had cell service and was able to answer the call right away.

Trevor described in detail what had happened from last night until this morning.

On the other end of the line, Ronald paused for a moment and sneered.

"Humph! How dare that person plot against my son?!"

Don't worry, son. I'll find out right away who these bastards are.

And when I do, I'll be sure to make their lives a living hell."

Trevor was relieved when he heard his father's warning.

Even though his father was on the plane flying out of Jork, his words were still reassuring.

"Dad, who do you think is behind all this?" Trevor curiously asked.

Unlike the stupid ploy that Jacob, the reporter of Red Wine Newspaper, had done before, the conspiracy against Trevor this time seemed to be planned not long ago.

However, it seemed that the culprit had put a lot of effort into this.

That person had even hired the top killer organization to do his bidding.

Obviously, Maison and his men were not a match for these people. Although Trevor hated to admit it, he could not handle this matter all by himself.

He had to ask his father for help.

"Do you still remember what I've said about the three greatest clans? It's most likely that one of them planned this or even two of them colluded to do this. But then again, it doesn't rule out the possibility of the involvement of other major forces."

Trevor thought for a moment and asked, "Do I have to stay in the Season Hotel? Also, can't I visit Grandpa for the time being?"

Ronald fell into silence, lost in thought.

Well, Trevor was not in a hurry at the moment.

He looked at Luisa, who had been staring at him the whole time, and made an OK sign to assure her.

The group of assassins was said to be powerful.

His father, however, was only furious and was not worried when he answered the call.

That could only mean one thing—the enemy could be dealt with.

Suddenly, Trevor heard a chuckle on the other end of the line.

Ronald stopped laughing a few seconds later and calmly said, "No, Trevor. This time, you not only have to visit your Grandpa, but you also have to broadcast it."

Trevor frowned. "Dad, are you planning on luring those guys?"

He was in disbelief, but he believed that his father would never put him in harm's way.

"You're so smart!"

Ronald remarked with a smile.

"But first, I'll ask Bradly to send the other members of the Burke family to a safe place.

They're not the main target, anyway. If the enemies fail to find the Burke family, they will stop and move on.

You can go on holiday with Luisa without worry. There's no safer place in the world than your grandfather's place."

However, Trevor still had some doubts.

"What if they ambush us on the way?"

Ronald burst into laughter. And when he spoke again, there was a hint of malice in his voice.

"I'll arrange a private plane to pick you up. Little does everyone know, Bradly will take you to your grandfather's place by cruise.

Based on what you've said earlier, those assassins probably aren't aware that they've been exposed."

Trevor was in utter shock when he heard his father's plan.

It was brilliant!

While the enemies were eyeing the private plane, Trevor and Luisa would set off to the island where his grandfather was by water.

And because of the strict management and tight security on the plane, it would be extremely difficult, if not impossible, for the enemy to send their assassins there.

Once these assassins made their next move, their identities would surely be exposed. But most importantly, they would be caught in the act because Ronald's men would be waiting for them.

Chapter 440 A Man's Promise

In a short time, his father gave him a perfect plan.

This made Trevor admire his father even more. Only then could he calm himself down.

Once they got the main idea for the plan, they started to discuss the details.

After discussing about ensuring everyone's safety, they thought about taking the initiative to attack.

In the end, they decided to fake some news to attract the killers of Dark Thorns who were hiding in Jork. In that way, they could catch them all at once!

"You don't have to worry about it too much, Trevor.

You just have to visit your grandfather like usual. I'll deal with the rest.

How dare they try to hurt my son! They will be regretting for even thinking about it!"

Ronald's promising words made Trevor smile as he now felt relieved.

Once he hung up the phone, he told the members of the Burke family about the good news.

Of course, he didn't tell them much about the details. He only told them about how he had arranged for them to go to another city to hide for some time.

After hearing everything from Trevor, Rodney and Keyla were so excited!

In fact, they felt rest assured that Ronald was going to handle the matter personally.

Yesterday at the grand banquet, they witnessed the transcendent demeanor of Ronald.

Therefore, when such kind of person said that there was a solution, they immediately felt safe.

With tears streaming down their cheeks, they hugged each other.

On the other hand, Balfour slapped himself several times.

Actually, he blamed himself for causing a big trouble to his family.

After sincerely apologizing to Trevor, Balfour even asked for a punishment for selling the news!

Seeing the regretful look on his face, Trevor smiled and thought to himself, 'Honestly, if you didn't cause this trouble, I wouldn't have known the plan of these killers. So, I guess I have to thank you for that.'

The Burke family members were scared out of their wits now.

Trevor hoped that they learnt their lesson this time.

It would be great if they stopped being greedy after this.

When Trevor turned to look at Luisa, he found that she was a little tearful.

He hesitated for a while before asking, "Do you still want to visit Grandpa with me, Luisa?"

Truth be told, Trevor had some selfish ideas.

As they had just started their relationship, he naturally hoped that the two of them could have some more time with each other.

However, now, he was targeted by some unknown killers.

It was true that his father had promised to solve this problem.

Nonetheless, Luisa might not be safe if she stayed with him. He didn't want to risk it either.

For that reason, Trevor hesitated for a while.

When Luisa heard his question, she wiped her tears away from the corner of her eyes.

Then, she tilted her head as if she was thinking carefully.

Immediately, a beautiful smile appeared on her face as she said, "Actually, I still want to go and visit your grandfather. You can protect me, right, Trevor?"

In an instant, the heaviness in her heart dispelled and her energetic personality came back.

The truth was, she also wanted to create some more wonderful memories with Trevor.

As soon as she finished saying that, Luisa winked at Trevor.

Hearing her words, Trevor was moved. Her answer made him feel happy.

Despite knowing the risks, Luisa agreed to go as she wanted to spend time with Trevor.

At her question, Trevor closed his eyes for a moment before opening them again. Then, he stared at her with his eyes filled with determination and said, "Of course, I will protect you with everything I have."

This was the promise made by a man to the girl he loved.

While talking, Trevor couldn't control his excitement as he stretched his hand out and held Luisa in his arms.

At that time, Luisa didn't resist. Instead, she leaned her head on his shoulder. Then, suddenly, a blush appeared on her face when she realized that her parents were looking at them.

Only then did she realize how decisive her words sounded. It was as if she couldn't wait to see Trevor's family member.

Thinking about it, she blushed even more and buried her head in Trevor's chest.

The whole time, the Burke family was looking at the sweet couple with a smile on their faces.
