

Blessed 62

Chapter 62 Order Five More Bottles Of Wine

Looking at Dennis, Trevor raised his eyebrows and asked, "You are going to pay on behalf of him?"

Nodding his head, Dennis said, "Yes, I'll pay half of the one hundred and thirty thousand dollars which is sixty-five thousand dollars, right?"

Without further ado, Dennis took out his phone and transferred sixty-five thousand dollars to Trevor. Although he was acting as if he was calm, he was a little reluctant.

Several girls in the classroom started to exclaim with admiration.

"Wow, Dennis is really kind and generous. He transferred sixty-five thousand dollars all at once!"

"He really is rich and generous like everyone says."

Even though Trevor paid the same amount of money like Dennis, they didn't act this enthusiastic to him. All of them thought that he would become poor again once he used up all the money.

Honestly, most of the students were jealous of Trevor as they all wanted to be lucky enough to encounter such kind of substantial fortune.

However, Dennis was another story. He was different from Trevor. Unlike Trevor, his family owned a company which was worth fifty million dollars. Therefore, he would still be rich even after using a lot of money.

In their eyes, Trevor was nothing compared to Dennis who came from a wealthy family.

Days passed rather quickly and the day that everyone was expecting finally came.

Today was the day of the party. This was the first time that Trevor took everyone to the villa where the party was going to be held.

The moment they entered the gate, they were stunned by the beauty of the place. When they entered, they were greeted by a small garden which led them to the villa.

When everyone arrived at the villa, they found that it was at least a thousand square meters. No wonder the rent was so high.

When the waiter, who was standing at the door of the villa, saw the group, he said respectfully, "Mr. Sanderson, everything is set. The wine and food are ready too. You can enjoy them at any time you want."

With a smile on his face, Trevor gave him a nod. Then, he led his classmates into the villa and told them to have fun.

"Oh my god! I was right. There is a swimming pool here. It's awesome!"

Some of the girls guessed that there would be a swimming pool and so they had prepared swimsuit beforehand.

Seeing it, they changed into their swimsuits and jumped into the pool to play.

When the boys saw them playing and laughing in the swimming pool, they felt much better and happier.

Just like that, the music started to play and the party began.

As all the drinks and wines were stored in the fridge of the lobby, anyone who wanted them could take them any time they wanted.

The party went on for more than an hour when Trevor found out that the wine in his hand was about to finish.

Therefore, he decided to take another bottle.

Much to his dismay, when he opened the fridge, Trevor realized that the wine was about to run out.

At that time, Dennis, who was standing behind Trevor, noticed the situation and took the opportunity to say, "Trevor, the wine and the food are running out. We still have a lot of time. I think you should order more."

Emilio also took Dennis' side as he said, "Dennis is right. Seems like what we ordered is not enough for everyone."

It was needless to say that Dennis and Emilio were trying to make Trevor use all his money. They even discussed about how to persuade Trevor to spend more money.

Without hesitation, Trevor agreed as he signaled to the waiter to come and said, "Okay then. Waiter, please bring me the menu."

Immediately, the waiter placed the menu on the table and waited for them to order.

Looking at the menu, Dennis said, "Waiter, I want pizza, hamburger and salad for each one of us. Oh and I want to have this bottle of red wine."

While talking, Dennis pointed at the red wine which was displayed on the third last page of the menu.

The truth was, all the foods and drinks on the latter pages of the menu were the most expensive ones.

Seeing this, the waiter's face changed slightly and asked, "Sir, are you sure you want this bottle of wine? This bottle of Romanée-Conti red wine costs fifty thousand dollars."

Fifty thousand dollars!!!

Obviously, everyone was shocked to hear the price of the wine.

In their lives, they had never dreamt of drinking such kind of expensive wine. In fact, only the rich man like, Dennis could afford it.

Afraid that Trevor would refuse to order the wine because of the price, Dennis suggested, "Trevor, if this is too expensive for you, I don't mind splitting the bill with you."

All this time, Dennis had looked down upon Trevor.

Therefore, it was natural that he didn't like to see Trevor becoming rich suddenly. He felt as if there was a big stone pressed on his heart.

The only thing in his mind right now was to make Trevor use all his money so that he would become poor again.

At that time, Bessie shouted, "Dennis, you're going too far." Bessie wanted Dennis to stop as she noticed his plan.

With a smile on his face, Trevor said, "It is okay, Miss Taylor. I can split the money with him."

In fact, Trevor didn't mind at all. Taking the menu from Dennis, Trevor added, "Well, since I'm treating everyone, I don't think one bottle is enough. Waiter, can you please bring us five bottles of red wine that is worth fifty thousand dollars?"