

My Mysterious Doctor and Blessed Little Wife Is Such a Tease

Chapter 16: Qi Observation Technique

“Is it not?”

Qin Xi shook her head calmly. “This is a symptom of spleen deficiency. If you treat it the way you would treat spleen deficiency, you can eat whatever you want in less than three days.”

Liu Dequan was enlightened. “I see. Qin Xi, do you really know medicine? But I don’t think you’ve ever taken my pulse.”

...

“Grandpa Liu, medicine is all about looking, hearing, asking, and feeling. Looking at your face, I can see that your eyes are dark red, which means that your illness is not serious. Moreover, I know a little bit of the Qi Observation Technique.”

The Qi Observation Technique was considered a mystic technique. With it, one could determine the patient’s health and fortune through the “Qi” around them.

On the first day of her rebirth, through Qi Observation Technique, she observed a black fog on Han Shi.

Qin Xi said a lot, making Liu Dequan dumbfounded. He stood up excitedly. “Qin Xi, you’re really something. Wow, you even know about the Qi Observation Technique?”

He had once heard from his shifu that Qi Observation Technique was a very advanced medical skill that only existed in legends. Even the ancient imperial physicians might not have this ability.

Now that Chinese medicine had declined, let alone the Qi Observation Technique, it was difficult for ordinary Chinese medicine doctors to even do the most basic things like taking pulses. In addition, with the introduction of Western medicine, Chinese medicine was forgotten.

Just as he was about to ask questions, someone suddenly cried outside the door, “Doctor Liu, is Doctor Liu at home? Come and save my son, Doctor Liu...”

Liu Dequan quickly ran out and saw a large group of people in the courtyard, among whom, a woman was hugging a five to six-year-old boy and crying for help.

The child’s eyes were wide open, his face was purple, and his expression indicated that he was in pain. He was continuously letting out strange sounds. His body was drenched in sweat and was stiff. The situation looked extremely terrifying.

“Doctor Liu, save my son. I don’t know what happened to him. He was fine this morning... Boohoo...”

This was Li Fugui’s family. The woman holding the child was Li Fugui’s wife. The child was called Li Gang.

Liu Dequan’s expression was solemn as he quickly instructed, “Quick, put the child on the bed.”

Actually, when Liu Dequan saw the child’s symptoms, he was nervous. He didn’t know what illness it was and wasn’t confident in saving the child.

However, as a doctor and a fellow villager, he had to give it his best shot no matter what.

Just as he walked past Qin Xi, Qin Xi said to him in a low voice, “Grandpa Liu, this child is suffering from severe food poisoning. We can only treat him with acupuncture.”

Food poisoning?

Liu Dequan shivered and immediately asked Li Fugui, “What did the child eat this morning?”

Li Fugui panicked and cried, “He only ate a big bowl of noodles and a boiled egg. Doctor Liu, please save him!”

Liu Dequan subconsciously looked at Qin Xi. She nodded at him with confidence written all across her face, which gave him a trace of hope.

“Grandpa Liu, get everyone out. I’ll perform the acupuncture...”

Liu Dequan gritted his teeth and said to Li Fugui’s family, “All of you, go out. I need to treat the child. There are too many of you here.”

Qin Xi whispered to Han Shi, “Stone, go to the door and wait. Don’t let anyone in.”

Han Shi nodded obediently and walked out.

“Grandpa Liu, do you have silver needles?”

“Yes!”

Liu Dequan immediately took out the needle bag and spread it out on the bed.

Qin Xi took a deep breath. She, who had never touched a silver needle before, was as if possessed by a divine doctor. The silver needles in her hand quickly pierced into a few major acupoints on the child.

Qin Xi’s movements were smooth and skillful. She did it so fast that before Liu Dequan could realize it, the child’s body was already covered in silver needles.

...

Liu Dequan was dazzled and extremely shocked. It was at this moment that he really knew that Qin Xi was a genius.

After Qin Xi was done, she said to Liu Dequan, “Grandpa Liu, bring me a basin.”

Liu Dequan quickly brought the basin over. With a wave of her hand, all the silver needles returned to Qin Xi’s hand.

At the same time, she patted the child on the back. The child let out a cry and spat out the food that wasn’t yet digested. Then, the child began to cry.

The room was immediately filled with a sour smell. Liu Dequan looked at Qin Xi excitedly. "It's done!"

After the door was opened, Li Fugui and his family ran in hurriedly. The child's mother quickly held the child in her arms and knelt on the ground to kowtow.

"Thank you, Doctor Liu. Thank you, Doctor Liu..."

Liu Dequan helped her up. Just as he was about to say that he was not the one who saved her, he saw Qin Xi shake her head at him.

After Li Fugui and his family thanked him and left, Liu Dequan asked, "I admire your medical skills. May I know who your shifu is?"

"Grandpa Liu, you're exaggerating. In terms of experience, I'm far inferior to you. In terms of aptitude, I'm just a beginner. This time... I was just lucky."

Qin Xi said humbly, "As for my shifu, he's long gone. I don't know his name. He just passed by and pitied me, so he taught me some things. I've been working hard all these years to polish what he taught me."

Liu Dequan laughed heartily. No one knew his limits better than him. Qin Xi said so only out of respect. He asked, "Qin Xi, you flatter me. Tell me, what else do you need my help with?"

Qin Xi smiled shyly. "I really can't hide anything from you, Grandpa Liu. It's like this. I want to be your disciple..."

Before she could finish, Liu Dequan immediately waved his hand and rejected, "No, your medical skills are better than mine. I have nothing to teach you!"

Qin Xi said, "Grandpa Liu, I want to go out with you to treat patients and learn. We can also discuss medical skills with each other."

Liu Dequan immediately understood what she meant. He stood up excitedly and said in disbelief, "Qin Xi, you mean..."

"Learning is a life-long journey. Grandpa Liu, we can learn from each other. The acupuncture technique just now is called the Five Elements Acupuncture Technique. If you want to learn, I can teach you!"

Liu Dequan was overjoyed. "Sure, sure, I'm more than happy to do that!"

**

At noon, using the excuse of picking mushrooms, Qin Xi entered the mountains. Han Dazhu was worried and asked Han Shi to go with her.

Shangwan Village was located on a plain at the foot of the Shangwan Mountain Range. A small river ran through the entire village. It was a tributary of the large river behind the Shangwan Mountain Range. This river was also an important water source for the surrounding villages.

This place was lush with water and vegetation. There were many wild flowers growing around it, blooming very beautifully under the sun.

Most of the villagers here made a living through paddy fields, orchards, and tea plantations. For the Han family, it was a tea plantation.

In order not to attract attention, Qin Xi and Han Shi took a shortcut up the mountain.