

Chapter 310 Is Gordon Going To Confess His Love

Janessa and Alana shopped for a long time. After some time, Alana felt bored and stopped walking.

"Are you tired? Is there a place you want to visit?" Janessa asked Alana. Janessa knew that Alana would never go shopping for more than three hours. After less than two hours, Alana looked evidently bored today.

"I heard that there is a new karaoke bar on J Street. I want to go there. Can you go with me?" Alana looked at Janessa with puppy eyes full of expectation.

"Aren't you tired? Why do you want to go to the karaoke bar now? We can go home if you want to." Alana shrugged her shoulders and smiled awkwardly without making eye contact. Seeing Alana's reaction, Janessa realized that Alana was not tired. She just didn't want to go shopping anymore.

Every time they would go shopping, Alana would always make up excuses to end it early. Although Janessa was used to this side of Alana, she was always surprised every time she did it.

Alana grabbed Janessa's arm and shook it like a spoiled child. "Are you really not going? This might be the only chance for us to hang out these days. Let's go..." Indeed, this may be the only chance they could have fun together. Although Alana didn't need to visit her relatives every day during the Spring Festival, she still had to stay at home when her relatives came to the Shen family's house. Therefore, Alana wouldn't be able to go out during the Spring Festival.

In the previous years, they only held a gathering almost at the end of the holidays.

Janessa studied Alana's face up and down with a reluctant look.

"You really don't want to go, huh? Then, I guess that's it..." Alana released Janessa's arm. Then, she gripped her phone, looking disappointed.

Truthfully, it was not that Janessa didn't want to go there. She just didn't want to go there today.

Janessa knew she had to comfort Alana to stop her from sulking. Unfortunately, her words were stopped when her phone rang loudly. Janessa looked at the caller ID suspiciously. Then, she turned to Alana, who was concentrating on her phone.

Whether Alana heard the ringtone or not, Janessa didn't know because she just continued playing the game. Alana kept shouting, "Tanky! Help!"

Apparently, Alana was playing a popular game recently. Janessa looked at the caller ID again and then back to Alana. "Does this call have something to do with her? Should I tell her?"

However, Alana continued to play. Hence, Janessa temporarily dispelled her doubts and answered the call.

"Gordon, what's up?" Janessa answered the phone casually. She hadn't seen Gordon for a while. He also seldom called her. Whether this call was because of a coincidence or an arrangement, she had no idea. Janessa just found it weird that as soon as she refused Alana's invitation, Gordon called her.

"Hi, Janessa. Do you have any plans for today?" Gordon's gentle voice came from the other end. It was nice to hear his voice again. Since the first day they had known each other, his voice had been so pleasant for Janessa. Knowing that it hadn't changed even after so many years comforted her.

"Plans? Why do you ask? What kind of plans should I have today?" Gordon's words made Janessa confused. She played with the ribbon of her clothes and wondered to herself, "What did Gordon mean?"

"Does that mean you're free?" Janessa could almost hear the grin on Gordon's lips at that moment. "If that's the case, come to the shopping mall on Ash Road. I have something special to do here. I hope you can be there to be an eyewitness." Gordon couldn't hide the joy in his voice, as if he would announce something good. However, it was not the right time yet. Hence, he stopped himself from saying anything.

Janessa sensed that Gordon was acting strange. She asked him curiously. "Is something up? Don't tell me you're going to confess your love to some girl tonight?"

The person on the other end of the phone hesitated and paused for a while. After seconds of silence between them, Gordon answered, "How could you know me so well? That's right. As my good friend, don't you want to witness this moment?"

"Alright. I'll be right there. Just send me the address." Janessa agreed without hesitation. She was truly happy for Gordon. As his friend, it would be her joy to be a part of her friend's happiness.

Janessa was overjoyed that Gordon could find a girlfriend. It was the best news for her. After all, it was her birthday wish this year for Gordon to find someone who could make him happy.

Did God hear her wish?

After hanging up the phone, Janessa excitedly picked up the shopping bags next to her. She looked at Alana who was still busy playing games. Thus, Janessa just patted her on the shoulder to get her attention.

"Hey, girl. It's time for us to go." Alana didn't look at Janessa immediately. Recently, Alana was obsessed with playing this game whenever she had time. The kind of game she played could easily take half an hour to wrap a battle. Janessa didn't know why this MOBA game could attract so many people. She sighed and tapped Alana's shoulder again.

Alana said without looking away from her phone, "What do you mean 'go'? Are we going somewhere?" Before Janessa could answer, Alana focused on her game again. "Attack! Go! We are about to win! Yes! Awesome!" Alana felt relieved both physically and mentally after winning the game. It felt like her shoulders were lighter. After exchanging praises with her teammates, Alana exited the game. Then, she put her phone inside her pocket. She looked at Janessa who was waiting for her.

"Can you repeat what you just said? I didn't hear you."

Janessa rolled her eyes at Alana and sighed. Janessa already answered the phone next to her and talked to her. But Alana didn't hear anything. Instead of getting annoyed, Janessa composed herself and answered, "I said let's go." Janessa turned around and left with the bags.

Alana stood up and caught up with Janessa. She just followed Janessa without a word thinking how long her friend must have waited for her to finish her game. But she found it strange because it seemed that Janessa was not heading for J Street.

Curious, Alana finally broke the silence and asked, "Where are we going? J Street is not in that direction, though."

"We are not going to J Street. By the way, Gordon has a new girlfriend. Did you know about it?" Janessa was still surprised because it happened so suddenly. She didn't know that there was a girl beside Gordon. But since he wanted to confess his love to someone, he had definitely found a girl he loved.

Alana looked at Janessa with her brows furrowed. Then, she gasped as she seemed to have remembered something. "I haven't heard from him for a long time. However, I heard from my mother that he went out to see the movie with a girl. Maybe it's her."

The information Alana had heard from her mother should be accurate. Hence, Janessa believed it for the time being.

If Gordon truly found a nice girl, then she would be the first one to congratulate him.

After walking for a while, Janessa and Alana soon arrived at the place mentioned by Gordon. Their jaws dropped at how beautiful the place was. The smell of flowers welcomed them as soon as they entered. It was really well-decorated, with lights placed strategically around the place. He must have prepared for this event very meticulously.

With her mouth agape, Alana sighed. "Did Gordon finally meet his true love? Any woman would be moved by this. He really did this with all his heart."

"Well, isn't it a good thing that he finally met his true love? If Gordon gets married, your mother won't worry about you anymore. That's great news, isn't it?" Janessa told Alana with a smile. It was a win-win situation for both Gordon and Alana.

Recently, Janessa had heard that Alana's mother was arranging blind dates for her. However, Alana also hadn't gone to any of those dates.

Janessa looked around. Although everything seemed perfect, she felt that something was amiss.

She spotted Gordon who was wearing a white suit. He was so handsome that he attracted the attention of all the people present.

Janessa and Alana walked toward Gordon. Then, Janessa greeted him. "Wow, you're looking quite handsome, huh? Where is the heroine? When will she arrive? Is she already here?" Janessa moved her eyes around. So, she didn't notice the change in expression on Gordon's face.

A trace of reluctance flashed through Gordon's eyes. If Janessa knew the truth, would she hate him? He hoped she wouldn't.

He believed that what he was doing was the best for Janessa.

"Gordon? Did you hear me? Where is she? I want to meet her." Janessa looked around everywhere. However, she didn't find anyone who might be Gordon's girl. Her eyes finally fell on Gordon.

Then, the host who was holding the microphone walked over to them and whispered to Gordon, "The lighting operator said that a light is out of order. He said that it needs to be adjusted again. Can you find someone to act as the heroine when we adjust the light?"

Janessa, who was standing beside Gordon, heard the host's words and looked at her watch.

"When will your girlfriend arrive?"

"...At 6 PM."

"Then, you still have time. You better hurry up and adjust the light now. Maybe you still have a chance."

"Okay. Then, help me out and just stand here later." After saying that, Gordon walked away.