

Chapter 337 What’s Wrong With The Shares

"Are you really okay? You look a little pale." Rayan looked at her with concern, seeing her reluctance.

"I'm okay, I promise. Maybe it's because I didn't have much at breakfast today. I should be fine after getting something to eat." Janessa touched her face.

She tried her best to calm down. Once she solved this matter as soon as possible, all her worries would disappear.

In fact, Janessa had been wanting to confess to Rayan as well, but their relationship just got good again. She wasn't sure how he would take it yet.

It would be great if Rayan could forgive her. But if he didn't, Janessa thought it would be better for her to savor the warm moments she had to the best.

She couldn't help being afraid. She didn't want to ruin her relationship with Rayan.

"If the work is tiring you out, just go to the lounge and get some rest. Corbin can deal with these." Rayan really was concerned about Janessa. When he confessed his love to her, he actually decided he wouldn't have her work a day in her life anymore if he had it his way. But because Janessa insisted she liked what she was doing and didn't want to just stay home, he had to respect that.

Now when he saw how tired Janessa looked, he just wanted to send her home and rest.

"I know, I know." She took her cup and stood up to get some water. Before getting herself a drink, she turned to Rayan.

"I'll get you a drink too and bring it to your office. What would you like? Coffee?"

"Coffee please. Thank you." Rayan gave Janessa one last glance before nodding and leaving her office.

Janessa was relieved that he finally left.

It was a close call. If Rayan saw or heard what was on her computer, she would have had to say goodbye to her peaceful life forever.

"I just hope this matter will be solved as soon as possible. As for this document Larry needs..." Janessa had already figured out how to investigate on this. She took both the document and Rayan's coffee and sent them over to his office before starting with her own work.

Janessa came out of Rayan's office an hour later and she saw a delivery man at the door.

"Excuse me, Miss Qiu? Is that you?" The delivery man excitedly looked at Janessa and asked.

Usually, food deliveries were only left at the front desk downstairs. They normally weren't allowed to come up.

"Yes, that's me. Is this for me?" Janessa cocked her head to the side. She didn't remember ordering anything. Was it a wrong order, perhaps?

"Yes, this is for you. Please do not forget to give me a five-star rating!" The delivery man handed Janessa the food and spoke cheerfully. Ratings were very important to him so he had to be nice to his customers.

"Wait, wait. Are you sure you're not making a mistake? Because I don't remember ordering anything. Besides, how did you get up all the way to the top floor? The security guards and receptionists allowed you inside?"

Janessa felt strange and could not help asking. Delivery men were normally not allowed to come up. How was he allowed here?

"Yes, it was specifically instructed. Here, take a look at the receipt." The man showed Janessa the receipt.

Janessa glanced at the information on the receipt. The address was correct and so was her name as the recipient. But after reading through it again, she found something.

"Miss Qiu? Is there something wrong?" The delivery man began to get nervous. He was very sure he was at the right address and followed all his instructions, but Janessa's doubt shook him. Was this a prank?

The delivery man was happy to do this job, but he didn't expect to be a victim to these kinds of pranks. If no one was going to accept his delivery, he might be penalized and forced to pay the bill himself. In that case, not only did he waste time and energy coming here, but he also would suffer a loss.

The delivery man was getting very scared. All of the sudden, Janessa smiled and took the food.

"No, everything is correct. Thank you, sir." Janessa nodded at him politely and the delivery man was finally free to go. She walked back to her desk.

Looking at the receipt in her hand, she saw the phone number of the person who ordered the food and looked in Rayan's direction.

"Wow, I didn't even know you knew how to order food online." Janessa finally figured it out.

She initially thought that the delivery man was at the wrong address, but the phone number on the receipt was very familiar.

Immediately after, she realized it was Rayan's number. Rayan had ordered breakfast for her.

Janessa took out her phone, took a picture with her breakfast, and sent it to Ryan. She also sent him a kiss emoji.

Not long after, Rayan replied.

"Have a good meal."

"You are such a man of a few words! You know it doesn't cost much to type some more, right? Besides, we message over Wi-Fi anyway. You are so mean!" Janessa complained. Still, she obediently ate her food.

Imagining Rayan use an app he never used before just to order food for her because she looked pale made Janessa nervous. She was even more reluctant to confess to him now.

Once she solved everything, she promised herself she would confess to Rayan. Hopefully, he could forgive her cheating then.

After eating, Janessa didn't feel too hungry during lunch hour at noon.

Instead, she thought of the package she got this morning and decided to come to the surveillance room during break time.

"Can you check something on the CCTV cameras for me please? This morning at the gate."

The staff in the surveillance room knew that Janessa was likely going to be the boss' future wife, so he didn't ask for any more formalities and accepted her request.

They found the video she wanted and saw a man walked up to the front desk with the package for her. He just dropped it off, said a few words, and left instantly.

"Show me the gate. I need to see when this man walked out." Janessa found that something was wrong from what she saw on the video.

This person seemed to be very knowledgeable about the surveillance cameras around the Lu Group building. He would always turn his back to the camera. Whenever he would walk underneath one, he would still make sure that his head was lowered so that his face would not be seen. There was no way Janessa could figure out who this person was just from these videos.

"How strange." This confused Janessa even more, but she couldn't help feeling like all signs still pointed to Larry. With his capabilities, Larry could have easily asked someone to hack into the Lu Group's surveillance system.

"Has there been any signs of people hacking into our system lately?" Janessa asked casually.

"No suspicious activity as of late, Miss Qiu."

Disappointed, Janessa thanked the staff and walked out in dejection. Rayan was not in the office at noon, so she thought it would be a good time to rest in the lounge.

Soon, she fell asleep.

She had intended to rest only for a little while, but she did not expect to wake up three hours later.

The work day ended at five o'clock. Janessa had spent most of her working hours in the afternoon sleeping!

Coming out of the lounge, she bumped into Rayan and Corbin discussing something. She had just cracked the door open when she heard Corbin talking about shares.

"It's good that the mysterious man has stopped buying our shares. But still, he seems very confident. Could there be any changes in those who promised us?"

"What are you talking about? What shares? What's wrong with the shares?"