

Chapter 362 Keep An Eye On Rayan For Me

It wasn't until Janessa got a call from Corbin that she understood the reason why Alana didn't want her to watch today's news.

"You just hung up on me. Now you're calling me back?" Janessa shouted to the phone. She hardly ever called Corbin, but when she tried calling him just now, he didn't pick up his phone.

Janessa couldn't help feeling a bit frustrated.

"I was in Mr. Lu's office just now. That's why I couldn't answer your call,"

Corbin explained. To be fair, what he said was quite reasonable. Janessa wanted to say something, but she decided to just keep it to herself in the end.

"By the way, do you consider me as a good friend?" Corbin was discreetly making a phone call in the tea room. There was no telling what Rayan could do if he found out.

"Of course. Why do you ask that?" Janessa thought it was weird for him to ask something like that from out of the blue. Did Corbin know something?

No, there was no way. Other than Alana and the doctor, no one else should know that Janessa was pregnant.

It couldn't possibly have anything to do with her pregnancy. Then, what was it?

"Since we're friends, I have a question for you. You have to be honest with me." Although Corbin was keeping a low voice, his tone was very firm.

"Go ahead!"

"What happened between you and Mr. Lu? Why did he become so close to that woman called Gracie now? And why did you stop coming to work all of a sudden? Do you have any idea how taxing it is for me to take on two people's work?" Corbin asked a series of questions in one breath, and he didn't hear any response from the other side of the line for a while.

'Corbin, are you kidding me? I thought you were gonna ask me a question. You just asked four questions!'

Janessa sneered at Corbin in her heart. The questions he asked were quite difficult to answer, so she was hesitant to say anything.

"Just answer my questions. You already agreed to tell me."

Judging from the tone of Corbin's voice, Janessa somewhat felt like he must be on her side, so she might be able to make use of him.

"Before I answer your questions, you have to promise me one thing," Janessa asked Corbin to give her his word first.

Corbin couldn't wait to hear Janessa's answer. So, even though he didn't think she had any reason to be wary of him, he still agreed.

"Okay, you have my word. What is it?"

"I want you to keep an eye on Rayan for me. I want you to tell me his whereabouts."

Janessa had her back against the wall. As Rayan's assistant, Corbin shouldn't be telling anyone about Rayan's whereabouts, but he really wanted to help the two of them patch things up. So, he agreed without thinking twice.

"Okay, just promise me that you won't do anything to hurt Mr. Lu." At the end of the day, Corbin was still Rayan's subordinate. Even if he wanted to help Janessa and Rayan make up, he didn't want Rayan to get hurt.

"Don't worry. I'm not gonna hurt him." Janessa thought that Corbin was thinking too much. Rayan was the father of her child. And even if he wasn't, Janessa still wouldn't do anything to hurt him now.

Right now, her only wish was to make up with Rayan as soon as possible.

"Well, will you please answer it already? I still have work to do later, you know?"

"The truth is, Rayan and I got into a fight, and then Gracie took advantage of it and stepped in. Because of that, we're giving each other the silent treatment at the moment." Janessa just gave him the gist of it and decided not to mention the part about her cooperation with Larry.

Firstly, if Corbin knew about this, he definitely wouldn't want to help her anymore. Secondly, her cooperation with Larry was only temporary, so there was no need for her to tell Corbin about it at all.

"I knew it would come to this. Those photos had brought Mr. Lu a great deal of anguish, and I tried my best to convince him that it was just a misunderstanding. I thought that it would help you two reconcile, but it seems that I failed. Well, I honestly don't know what to say. If you get into a fight with him, it would be best to just give in. You probably know this already, but he is such a proud man. Why'd you have to go and fight him head on?"

"I know. That's why I'm asking you to lend me a hand. If Gracie comes to see Rayan, please let me know."

Gracie was the one person Janessa had to get rid of no matter what. This woman had ulterior motives for trying to get close to Rayan. Needless to be said, Janessa didn't want Rayan to be deceived.

Now that she knew Corbin was on her side, Janessa felt somewhat relieved.

She would never give up on Rayan. The child in her womb must have a complete family.

"By the way, aren't you upset about the news involving Mr. Lu and Gracie?" Corbin thought that this might be the reason why Janessa wanted him to keep an eye on Rayan.

"What news? What's going on between Rayan and Gracie?" With confusion written all over her face, Janessa listened intently for Corbin's response.

After hearing Janessa's reaction, Corbin couldn't help covering his big mouth. He couldn't believe it. Janessa hadn't even heard about such big news.

"Corbin, tell me. What is it about?"

"It was all over the news today. It said that Mr. Lu and Gracie stayed in the hotel for a whole night. It was all over the news this morning. You seriously haven't heard about it?"

Before Corbin was even done talking, Janessa had turned on the TV. She quickly found the entertainment news channel, which happened to be broadcasting today's news.

"No wonder Alana didn't want me to see it. It seems that it's all because of this. So, Alana already saw the news this morning. Yet, she didn't tell me about it!" Janessa whispered under her breath. Now it made sense why Alana was acting strange earlier.

"Is it too late for me to check the news now?" Janessa heaved a heavy sigh. There was nothing she could do. She didn't get the chance to watch too much TV in the morning. Moreover, Alana did everything she could to prevent her from watching TV and checking the news on her phone.

"What do you think?"

"It had already been broadcast in the morning, but they're still showing it on the news right now. Is it because I haven't watched TV for so long that I didn't know they changed the time slots?" Janessa asked out loud without realizing it.

On the other side of the line, Corbin felt so uneasy.

'Of course not. Someone deliberately paid the news station to broadcast it continuously for you.'

This idea crossed his mind, but Corbin didn't say it out loud.

If Janessa's memory served her right, they should be broadcasting showbiz news at this time. Why were they reporting news about a CEO?

The reporters were talking about it on purpose. Someone must have paid them to do this.

Was it Rayan? If that was the case, it only meant that he had a lot of free time.

"By the way, have you already ordered lunch for Rayan?" Janessa suddenly remembered how much of a workaholic Rayan was, so he probably hadn't eaten lunch yet.

"He hasn't eaten yet."

"I see. Let's just talk about it some other time." As soon as Janessa hung up the phone, she saw the footage of the two of them entering the hotel one after another. Although it was hardly noticeable, she could still see that they were walking hand in hand.

"Gracie, do you think you're gonna be Rayan's wife after kicking me out? In your dreams! I'm the only one who can be Rayan's wife!" Janessa said in a firm tone. In the past, she seriously hated competing with other women over a man. However, for the sake of her and her child, she wouldn't give up so easily.

Without delay, Janessa put on an apron and went to the kitchen to cook a meal for Rayan. It was said that the best way to a man's heart was through his stomach. Perhaps this could help her get Rayan to calm down.
