

Chapter 384 I Don't Want To See You Again

"You're such a child!"

Janessa voiced her complaint towards Rayan's constant showboating.

Every time Gracie and Rayan were out in public, they acted like a lovey-dovey couple. However, Janessa still had doubts about whether their love for each other was genuine.

But after she heard what Rayan had just said, the possibility that Gracie was telling the truth the other day was becoming very likely. 'Crap, is she really pregnant already?' Janessa wondered.

After rolling her eyes at Rayan's door, Janessa headed back to her house.

She slammed the front door behind her to vent out some anger before leaning on a nearby wall.

"My dear, I'm sorry to say this, but your father's really starting to piss me off. Would you be mad at me if I decided to give up on him? Because right now, it's looking like he'd rather be with that bitch than with me."

A minute later, Janessa felt utterly disappointed in herself for considering giving up. 'What am I saying? I've worked too hard to give up now! I won't lose Rayan to that horrible woman!'

"I'm just kidding, dear. It's just hard to see your father acting head over heels for that tramp. I swear I'll do anything to get him back," Janessa said as she looked at her belly.

After she hardened her resolve, Janessa's eyes glowed with determination.

The next day, Janessa woke up at the crack of dawn. After freshening up and getting dressed, she cracked open the front door and waited for Rayan to come out of his house.

'Since he already came knocking on my door yesterday, it shouldn't be a big deal if he sees me again today, right?'

Thirty-minutes had passed and Janessa's legs started feeling sore, making her realize that she definitely got ready way too early. Nevertheless, she pushed through the pain and focused on the task at hand.

'The company's only a fifteen-minute walk from here. And since he's usually never late to work, he should be coming out any second now. Here goes! I really hope he's in the mood to walk today.'

Three, two, one!'

Janessa stepped out and slammed the door behind her. It was one swift motion with no indication that she was up to something.

Two seconds later, while she was double-checking her lock, she heard the sound of her neighbor's front door opening. Janessa didn't check who it was. But judging from the sound of the person's footsteps, it was the tall, handsome man she was hoping to bump into.

"Oh, what a coincidence!" she gleefully remarked. After giving him an unassuming nod, she headed for the elevator at a brisk pace, making it look like she was just going about her usual day.

Because of Rayan's long strides, he arrived at the same elevator just a few seconds after she got in. His face was as cold as ice, and even the air around him became cold.

"Well, hello there, Mr. Lu. Are you headed for the office?" Janessa started with some small talk to break the ice. She had the bugged face powder kit in her purse in case Gracie was eavesdropping.

"Tsk, what do you think?" Rayan snarkily replied before thinking to himself, 'I never knew she could be this presumptuous.'

Who knows what she did while we were still together? She might've been throwing herself at other guys all the time, just like what she did to me the other day. It's still hard to believe that I fell head over heels for a whore.

Am I just stupid? Or was she really that good at hiding her true self? Ugh, I shouldn't be wasting my time like this. I still have to think of a way to keep the company safe from this bitch.'

Although the Lu Group was in tip-top shape, Janessa's knowledge of trade secrets made her quite the liability. If she really wanted to, she could cause irreparable damage to the company with a snap of a finger.

He didn't want to do anything to hurt her, but he had to keep on his guard.

After all, no one knew how many business secrets this woman had leaked to others.

"Come on, Rayan, you can do a little better than that. You've seen me naked countless times already. Even if we're not together anymore, there's no need to be so cold." Janessa spoke coquettishly, accompanied by a playful smile on her face.

Deep down, she felt utterly ashamed for acting like such a tramp. But if she really wanted to get on Gracie's nerves, she had no choice but to endure it.

"What's wrong with you? You make me sick! Get away from me!" Rayan exclaimed in utter disgust. They had been together for more than four years. But it was his first time seeing her act so brazenly.

"Oh, please, Rayan, don't be so mean. Just because of your pretty little girlfriend's pregnancy doesn't mean you can't talk to other women anymore, you know? It's just the two of us right now. You don't have to hide it. I know you still have feelings for me." Janessa took a step forward, causing Rayan to think she was about to pounce on him again. However, she was just moving her bag closer so that Gracie could hear the ensuing commotion a lot more clearly.

"Wait! What do you think you're doing? Hm!"

All of a sudden, she placed one hand firmly on his mouth while the other was on the back of his neck and clinging on for dear life. Of course, Rayan didn't hesitate to break free. But while doing so, he let out a few muffled groans, just as Janessa had planned.

'Wow! That turned out better than I expected. I'm sure Gracie's fuming right now after hearing her boyfriend "moaning in pleasure."'

Satisfied with what she got, Janessa took off her hand, placed the powder kit in a stuffed plastic bag, and buried it deep in her purse. So no matter what they would say from now on, Gracie wouldn't be able to eavesdrop anymore.

Still in a state of shock, Rayan took a step back before voicing out his complaints, "You! Why did you do that? It hasn't been long since the last time I saw you. When did you become so horny?"

Since there wasn't much room in the elevator, Rayan had no trouble catching her and pinning her against the wall.

"What are you talking about? I didn't do anything," Janessa replied with an innocent gaze. She was playing hard to get.

Rayan was absolutely furious.

Sometimes he felt that Janessa still cared about him. From her eyes and actions, he could tell that she still had him in her heart. At first, Rayan found it hard to believe that Janessa could ever betray him.

But now, because of her increasingly wilder behavior, accepting the fact that the girl he fell in love with was all an act had gotten a lot easier. Not just that, he'd also accepted that he'd be better off forgetting all their happy memories together.

Not a single one of them was real anyway. All of it was just a part of her scheme to get important data from him.

Being met with silence, Rayan started feeling helpless. If it was any other person, he would've had some sort of grasp as to what they were thinking. But when it came to Janessa, he had absolutely no clue what was on her mind.

"Why aren't you talking? Where's that loudmouth Janessa just a while ago? One minute, you're a saint. The next, you're the devil's top succubus. I don't know who you are anymore, and I hate it! Answer me! Which one is the real you? Why did you approach me way back then?" After firing a barrage of questions, Rayan placed his hand on Janessa's chin and forced her to meet his gaze.

He thought it was finally his chance to find out the truth. He expected to see a hint of fear or guilt in Janessa's eyes.

However, to his surprise, her eyes were as blank as a piece of paper.

"We aren't together anymore. Does it even matter which one I am? Don't tell me you miss me or something. If that's the case, just leave Gracie if you really want to be with me." Janessa gave her response with the utmost confidence. She didn't even bother to take off his hand from her chin.

'My, my, if Gracie saw this scene right now, she would probably get so angry that she would have a miscarriage.'

I wish nothing but the best for her baby. But I can't help but feel sorry for the child for having Gracie as its mother.'

When the elevator finally arrived on the first floor, Rayan took out a bit of his anger on Janessa by tightening his grip on her chin. It wasn't too painful, but it still made her flinch.

"You're right, Janessa. I don't care about why you're here, or what you want from me. All I want is for you to disappear. Make sure I never see you again." After threatening her through gritted teeth, Rayan loosened his grip and then strode out of the elevator.

As soon as he turned around, Janessa started rubbing her aching chin.

And while watching him walk away, Janessa peevishly murmured, "I'll make sure you pay for this!"

'How could this man be so heartless? That was not a proper way to treat a lady! He's acting like we didn't have a single good day when we were together,' she thought furiously.