Chapter 387 Are You Going To Buy Me A Drink

Rayan massaged his temple and put his pen down. Quite satisfied after a day's work, Rayan was preparing to get off work when his phone rang.

Upon looking at the name on the screen, Rayan didn't want to answer the phone.

Rayan sighed, but not before hanging up the phone and putting it into his pocket.

However, the phone rang again after less than half a minute.

Rayan believed that it was pointless talking to the person on the other end of the line. He didn't understand why that person was so stubborn.

This time, he also hung up. But his phone rang again soon.

Annoyed, Rayan answered the phone impatiently. Before he could speak, a delicate voice came from the other end of the phone.

"Hey Rayan, when will you come back? I'm not feeling well." Gracie's frail voice was intermittent. This made Rayan feel that she would stop speaking in the next second.

But when Rayan heard this, he remained unmoved. He felt indifferent toward Gracie.

Even when he first heard her voice on the other side of the phone, he frowned. His dashing eyebrows were slightly twisted together.

After thinking for a long time, he opened his thin lips and said coldly, "Go to see a doctor yourself. Don't wait for me."

Although Rayan was indifferent to her, Gracie was still unwilling to give him up. After a moment of silence, she spoke in a softer voice.

"Okay. Well..." Gracie's voice trailed off, hesitant. When she spoke again, her voice was more confident this time. "Are you still working overtime? Don't tire yourself too much, okay? Too much stress is bad for you." Gracie knew that Rayan hated her very much. Hence, she tried to stir Rayan's sympathy and hoped he would favor her slightly.

However, men were always like this. When they still loved a woman, they would give the woman everything she wanted. But once they stopped loving her, they were unwilling to talk to her anymore.

To end the call fast, Rayan simply said, "Okay." Soon enough, the call ended pretty fast. After hanging up the phone, Rayan strode out of his office.

The driver had been waiting at the gate of the company. After getting in the car, Rayan didn't tell the driver where he would go. He just looked out of the window in a daze.

Without any reason, Rayan thought of Janessa. When Janessa was still working in the company, she wouldn't show any sadness or pain even if she caught a cold. She just gritted her teeth and worked hard as if she was well.

In that aspect, Gracie just couldn't compare with Janessa.

However, although Janessa worked hard when she was sick, he knew that her reason for doing it was not noble. Rayan knew that Janessa was just trying to get information and send it to others! Thinking about it just made him furious all over again. Rayan gritted his teeth. There was no need to have sympathy towards such a woman.

However, if Gracie was really sick, Rayan wouldn't be able to use her to make Janessa angry.

Rayan broke the silence and said, "Call the family doctor later and ask him to go to the apartment near the company."

The driver was about to ask where Rayan was going. Hence, he was startled by Rayan's sudden words.

"Yes, Sir."

The nervous driver wiped the sweat on his forehead. He had thought that Rayan was thinking about where he would go. Truthfully, he didn't expect that Rayan would come up with such an answer after thinking for a long time.

The driver was left speechless. He couldn't help but wonder what kind of person was living in that apartment that Rayan would ask that person to be treated by the family doctor.

However, it didn't matter to the driver. The driver just thought about it curiously. Then, he carefully looked at the rearview mirror. After making sure that Rayan was in a better mood, he said, "Sir, where are we heading to now?"

Given that Rayan had a lot of houses in A City, the driver didn't know where he would go tonight. And he didn't dare to guess where on earth Rayan wanted to go.

After pondering for a while, Rayan answered. "The seaside... Forget it. Just go to Sunny Bar." Rayan thought he wanted to go to the villa by the sea for a second. However, when she remembered Janessa, he decided not to go to the villa by sea anymore. After all, that house was full of beautiful memories with Janessa. Every time he went there, he couldn't help but be reminded of Janessa.

It just made him feel awful every time.

"Yes, Sir." The driver sighed slightly. Rayan had been going to Sunny Bar more and more frequently these days.

Every time he went there, Rayan would drink until he couldn't walk anymore. Although he could go to work on time on the second day, doing that was still not good for his health.

The driver glanced at Rayan who was sitting in the back seat of the car through the rearview mirror while he was driving.

When the driver looked at him for the fifth time, Rayan couldn't ignore it anymore and said coldly, "If you have anything to say, just say it. Don't just look at me like that."

Rayan closed his eyes to rest for a while. His sudden words scared the driver a little.

When the driver stayed silent, Rayan opened his eyes and glared at the man. The driver shrugged his shoulders helplessly. When he was waiting for the green light, he said, "Sir, I know this is your private affair. But you have been to Sunny Bar for a week straight. I'm worried about you. I know you are not drunk every time I pick you up, I'm still worried. It is not good for you to drink on an empty stomach every time. How about eating something first?" The driver was like walking on eggshells, trying to use the best wording possible to not offend his boss.

After saying that, the driver glanced at Rayan carefully. When the green light was on, the driver started the car again. However, he was still scared that he had crossed the line.

What if Rayan got angry at him and fired him for being nosy? The driver suddenly regretted that he said those words. After all, who was he to speak over his boss's drinking habits?

If Rayan would fire him for giving a bit of advice, it would be better not to meddle at all!

In a few seconds, the driver thought about everything that would happen to him. With Rayan's continued silence, he knew that he was doomed this time.

After Rayan remained silent for a long time, the driver immediately tried to retract his words in fear of losing his job.

"Sir, I apologize!"

When they reached the next traffic light, the driver turned his head and apologized for his words.

The driver believed that Rayan was angry because he didn't say anything.

However, to the driver's surprise, instead of being angry, Rayan was in a better mood when he looked at his face.

Rayan chucked. "It's okay. You can go back when I arrive at the Sunny Bar. I won't go home tonight." Except for the house near the company, all of Rayan's houses in A City were filled with memories with Janessa. Worst, Janessa was living opposite him in the house near the company.

After Rayan said those words, it didn't take long for them to reach their destination. The car stopped at the gate of Sunny Bar.

To be honest, Rayan just found this bar by accident. Although it was a bar, Rayan could forget all his sadness here even for a while.

When Rayan walked into the Sunny Bar, the waiter who was already familiar with him greeted him. So, the waiter took Rayan directly to the private room since he had the membership in this bar.

Upon reaching upstairs, Rayan turned around and saw Rylan staggering down the stairs.

Rayan was glad to see Rylan. The two of them were business partners and good friends. Although they liked the same woman, he still considered Rylan as a good friend.

Rayan really wanted to find someone to have a drink. Good thing he met Rylan, So, he stopped Rylan in his tracks.

"Hey Rylan, care to join me for a drink?"

Rayan could see that Rylan was a little drunk and was about to go home. However, it was not fun to drink alone. Rylan opened his eyes and smiled at Rayan who was in front of him.

"Oh, it's you, Rayan. Are you going to buy me a drink now?"

"Sort of!" Rayan said. As soon as Rayan blurted those words, he regretted having invited his love rival to drink with him.

After all, Rayan came to drink in the Sunny Bar to forget about Janessa. But now, Janessa's face became clearer in his heart when he looked at Rylan.

"Alright, let's go." Since Rylan was already quite drunk, he put his hand on Rayan's shoulder before walking upstairs.

Looking at the drunkard beside him, Rayan wondered if this man could continue to drink with him. It looked like Rylan would fall if he would take his arm off him.

Many years later, Rayan felt lucky that he had stopped Rylan to drink with him in the bar. If they hadn't drank together at that time, he might have missed a lot of stories.