Chapter 391 Don't Go, Rayan

When Rayan arrived at Janessa's apartment, he found that she had already gone.

Upon looking at the empty house, he found that the blanket was still casually placed on the sofa.

This meant she left in a hurry, obviously.

After hearing what Rylan said, he drove back in a hurry. It was an hour's drive, but Rayan only spent half an hour reaching Janessa's apartment.

Even then, Janessa was gone. Obviously, she went away in a hurry.

Rayan ran his fingers on his hair in frustration. "The last time you were pregnant with my child, you had an abortion and didn't tell me. This time, you really went too far. You didn't even tell me that you are pregnant." Rayan mumbled as if Janessa was in front of him.

Rayan sat on the sofa on which Janessa had sat before. Then, he called Corbin.

As soon as Corbin picked up, Rayan yelled at him, "Check where Janessa is right now! Find her out wherever she is! Find her now!"

Corbin, who was in the middle of his date at that moment, was stunned by Rayan's tone and his sudden order to find Janessa. Corbin knew that it was his responsibility to follow his boss's orders even during the holiday. However, it was not the right time now.

Corbin looked at the woman beside him awkwardly.

Seeing Corbin's weird expression, the woman asked, "What's wrong?"

The moment the woman knew Corbin might leave her at that moment due to his boss's orders, her complaints came out one after the other. Her voice was loud enough for Rayan to hear her on the other side of the phone. No one knew how much Rayan heard. Panicked, Corbin quickly covered the woman's mouth and said to Rayan, "Okay, I'll check it now."

After hanging up the phone, Corbin looked at the woman sharply.

"What the hell? Are you leaving me just like that? In the middle of our date after answering that phone call?" the woman asked in a dumbfounded tone. She couldn't understand why Corbin would leave her, especially in the middle of their date.

"I'm sorry. You go back first. I have something to deal with today," Corbin said as he shrugged his shoulders. It was only one step away before he could score the third base, but the sudden phone call from Rayan ruined everything.

Although he was also very angry with Rayan's timing, he knew he had no choice for the sake of work.

Although he was a special assistant, he was the man who had the deepest feeling for the company apart from Rayan.

Ever since Rayan took over the company, Corbin had always stayed with him. The two of them had been fighting side by side for so many years. Although Rayan often threatened that he would cut Corbin's salary, he didn't follow through with those threats.

At this point, Corbin had to give up his private affairs and decided to help Rayan around the clock.

When he talked to Rayan, he sounded very anxious. Meanwhile, Corbin was still flirting with a woman.

Rayan heard complaints from Corbin's girlfriend on the phone. But he didn't even care.

At that moment, no one was more important to Rayan than Janessa.

After Corbin left his date, he immediately went to the office. He led people to search both the Lu Group's villa and the villa by the sea. However, they didn't find any trace of Janessa.

She was gone. It was as if she had vanished into thin air. She didn't even leave a trace.

At that moment, Gracie heard the noise from outside. She had thought that it was Rayan who went home. However, after waiting for a long time, she did not see him coming back.

When Gracie opened the door, she saw Rayan coming out of the house opposite theirs.

"Rayan, why did you come back so late?" Gracie carefully asked. Rayan looked at Gracie. It was rare for her to be smart. She didn't ask about Janessa's situation. She also hid the fact that she was sick.

Without answering Gracie, Rayan locked the door and walked outside.

Gracie stopped him. "Rayan, it's already late. Where are you going at this hour?" Gracie knew that it was Janessa who lived in the apartment opposite. Now, Rayan walked out of Janessa's house with a disappointed look on his face.

Gracie smirked and thought Janessa found out her conscience and moved out voluntarily. However, she didn't expect that Rayan would go with that woman! Why did he come to her house so late at night?

Gracie was frustrated. It took her a whole night to meet Rayan. She wouldn't let him go so easily!

Gracie held Rayan's arm tightly. She tried her best not to let him go even though he looked visibly uncomfortable with her touch.

Recently, Rayan seldom came back home. She could not draw his attention anymore if he kept staying outside.

"Shut up, Gracie. You already know why I asked you to stay. Don't expect anything more from me," Rayan said as he looked at her coldly. His expression turned into disgust as he continued looking at Gracie's face.

After saying these words, Rayan shook off Gracie's hand indifferently. Then, he walked away from her.

At that moment, Gracie felt her heart ache. Rayan's words broke her heart wide open.

Every time Rayan hurt Gracie's feelings, her heart ached so much. She knew it was her fault for cheating on her before and letting him go.

Now, the man she loved with all her heart treated her so coldly. Rayan would only look at her tenderly when Janessa was around.

Gracie hated Janessa very much. That was a fact. However, sometimes, she still hoped to meet that woman more. That way, Rayan would treat her tenderly more often.

"Rayan, I'm just worried about you!" Gracie clung on Rayan's arm again. However, Rayan pushed her away. Gracie didn't expect that he would use too much force. Hence, she was thrown to the ground.

At that moment, her face was very pale. She also spoke weakly.

"Stop pretending, Gracie." Rayan smirked. He totally didn't buy her trick.

"Rayan... I just... I'm really..." Gracie's voice sounded very weak. Teas also fell from her eyes. "I'm just worried about you, Rayan..." Gracie said in a whisper. Then, when she saw Rayan was walking out, she fainted before she could finish her words.

Noticing the strange sound behind him, Rayan turned around.

With a pale face, Gracie lay on the ground, reaching out her hand in Rayan's direction.

There was no one at home. So, Rayan walked back and picked Gracie up.

However, when he held Gracie, he frowned at her how light she was.

Was she always this thin? When did she become so thin? She hadn't lost so much weight in the past. Now, although her face was still round, she was much lighter.

There was still baby fat on Gracie's face. So, no matter how thin she was, her face was as round as before. That was why every time Rayan looked at Gracie, he didn't feel that she was so thin.

However, now, Rayan could lift her up with just one hand.

With an unhappy look, Rayan took Gracie to the bedroom. Then, he stood by the window as he called the family doctor in person.

"What's wrong with Gracie? I told you to take good care of her. How could she be so weak now?" Rayan interrogated the doctor. Although Rayan didn't like Gracie, he still had plans to use her. She couldn't fall ill for the sake of his future plan.

The doctor sighed and said, "I'll be right there." The family doctor had come to see Gracie in the afternoon. However, there was nothing serious with her. So, the doctor only prescribed some medicine for her. She had no idea why Gracie's situation turned so serious now.

The doctor thought to herself, 'Is there something wrong with my medical skills?'

The family doctor didn't dare to let Rayan wait for her. So, she put on his clothes and rushed to Rayan's house quickly.

Rayan touched Gracie's forehead. Then, he put a cold, soaked handkerchief on it.

Gracie mumbled. "Rayan, don't go. Don't go..."

At that moment, Rayan's hand was covered by Gracie's hot hand. However, Gracie just kept on murmuring.

Now, Gracie's mind was not clear. She just spoke out what was in her mind.

"Rayan, Janessa is a liar. Please trust me. I just don't want you to be cheated by her a second time. Please..."

At that moment, Rayan took his hand away. Without a thing to support her, Gracie suddenly became restless.

Seeing Gracie's reaction, Rayan put a pillow into her arms. After doing that, Gracie stopped crying.

Then, the family doctor came and examined her.

"Everything was okay in the afternoon. How could she suddenly become so weak?" the doctor said, looking skeptical.
