Home / Romance / Bye, My Ex-husband

Chapter 420 The Truth Behind Larry's Revenge

"I understood that your grandfather would object to Elizabeth and me being together, but she was very important to me. I wouldn't be who I am now if it weren't for her." Donald stated unequivocally.

Rayan, as a man, understood what his father was thinking.

Every Lu family member was educated to appreciate kindness and express thanks when people were generous with them. In such a scenario, Elizabeth was unconcerned about Donald's identity and continued to assist him.

Their relationship should be free of any conflicts of interest.

Rayan wished for such a partnership. Regrettably, his marriage was entwined with interests from the start.

Rayan lit a cigarette and took a few puffs without saying anything. The spicy flavor jolted him into sobriety.

"After I returned home, your grandfather had me moved abroad before I could contact Elizabeth. My phone was taken away, and I had no method of contacting her. I wanted to return, but your grandfather wouldn't let me. I contacted a friend to assist me in locating her address, but the outcome was very disappointing. I felt remorseful."

Donald gritted his teeth. The overwhelming aura that surrounded him revealed how enraged he was.

The surrounding air also became chilly.

There was some faint smoke in the room. The tone of the conversation was solemn.

Rayan frowned as though he had guessed the finale based on Donald's sad expression. It was a gloomy story.

Back in the day...

Elizabeth had no idea what had happened after Donald was sent home. She was only aware that Donald was taken away.

Elizabeth, a girl from an average household, had no idea where he was. She had no choice except to question people one by one, which was the most rudimentary way she could think of. This task was akin to finding a needle in a haystack.

Not to mention that finding him would take her eight to ten years, whether it was possible or not.

There was, nevertheless, a sense of universal synchrony about it all. Donald was sent abroad less than a month after returning to the Lu family. He didn't have Elizabeth's contact information at the moment. Coincidentally, he met a girl at the airport in M Country.

That girl was merely a passer-by. Her tense demeanor indicated that she was making an urgent phone call. He became alert when he heard a name the girl mentioned.

The girl was in a hurry. She collided with him and passed him without apologizing.

"Elizabeth, relax. Is the man really worth it? I'll come to you. Please wait for me," the girl said to the phone.

Was there ever such a coincidence on the planet? Elizabeth was the name of the person he was thinking of. He assumed his abrupt departure without saying a word had hurt Elizabeth.

He sent the staff and turned around to catch up with the girl who had just made a phone call.

"Why are you yanking on me? I'll scream if you don't let me go." Donald's hand was shaken off fiercely by Lisa Sun.

"Please excuse me, lady. Don't misunderstand me. I just have a question for you. It will not take you long," Donald explained. However, to the girl, the more he explained, the more he sounded he was covering up his true intentions.

Lisa gave Donald a disapproving look before he could say anything more.

Yes, she did not attempt to conceal her distaste for him.

When Lisa observed Donald's countenance, she snorted mockingly.

"Hey, man, don't try to flirt with girls with that expression on your face, okay? I don't have time to waste on you." Lisa had been through something similar before. But it was the first time she'd witnessed a middle-aged man flirt with a girl so straightforwardly.

Lisa turned around and walked away, and Donald followed her.

"I just heard you say 'Elizabeth'. Is that young lady's surname 'Chen'? Is she a resident of A City?" In truth, the name 'Elizabeth' was nothing out of the ordinary. In A City, there were also persons with the same name.

Donald was also concerned that he might be mistaken, but based on Lisa's astonished reaction, he was confident that she knew Elizabeth.

"Who are you? Are you familiar with Elizabeth?" Lisa began to piece things together and something dawned on her.

He seemed a little familiar to her right now. It was that man Elizabeth had been talking about, as it turned out!

What a small world!

"I am... Elizabeth's friend. I traveled abroad on a whim. How is she doing now?" Donald was about to announce that he was Elizabeth's boyfriend when he realized they were no longer in a relationship.

"Are you Donald? You know what? You are the worst individual I have ever encountered." Lisa felt remorseful about Elizabeth and what she went through.

Elizabeth nearly lost her life because of this man. A man who didn't even recognize her as his lover.

Lisa resolved to stand up for her friend.

"It doesn't matter that I don't know what transpired between the two of you at that time, but I can tell you that Elizabeth is in a vulnerable state right now. And I promise that I'll avenge her if anything happens to her." Before Lisa could finish speaking what she had in mind, the phone rang.

The phone rang with the unique ringtone she had set exclusively for Elizabeth's calls.

Lisa didn't have to go very far from Donald to answer the phone. She softly covered the microphone so that he wouldn't eavesdrop on their conversation.

"What's the matter?"

"Lisa, I'm afraid that I won't be able to wait for your return."

"Relax Elizabeth. Please wait for me. I'm on my way, I'll be there soon. I'm boarding the plane." Lisa ran away in a hurry heading towards the gate.

Donald had an uneasy feeling after hearing Lisa's words. Did Elizabeth have the intention of putting her own life at risk?

The butler had to intervene and stop Donald from pursuing Lisa again. Consequently, his one and only chance to locate Elizabeth was lost.

Donald shed a few tears and was overcome with emotion as he remembered the past.

"After that, how did things turn out?" Donald finally spoke after Rayan had been waiting for quite some time.

"And her neighbors started gossiping when she couldn't find me. The fact that she couldn't accept it made her... Commit suicide."

Boom! Rayan was still surprised, even though he had predicted the outcome.

Was it possible that a good girl could commit suicide because of gossip? This, indeed, was impossible to comprehend.

"Dad..." Rayan was concerned about Donald. He understood that his father had a weak heart.

It was certain that if they kept dwelling on the past, it would be detrimental to his father's well-being.

"Nothing is wrong with me. I'm okay. Later on, I was shocked when I found out that Larry was Elizabeth's father. He vowed then and there that he would see to it that I paid the price for my actions. Let me just say that Larry has been scheming the whole thing for a very long time. He will definitely do something disastrous this time."

"So, is Larry's revenge all about this?" For some reason, Rayan suspected that the whole thing had something to do with his father. However, he was unaware of the truth.

Now, he was aware of Larry's motivations for ruining the structure of the Lu Group.

Larry's ambition to exact revenge on the Lu family had driven him crazy. He was ready to do whatever it took to reach his goal.

This time around, the Lu family might be in serious jeopardy.