Chapter 428 Wait For Me To Come Back

Meanwhile in the bedroom, Janessa sat on the bed with her legs crossed over at her knees while Rayan stood beside her, not daring to touch her in any way.

"Janessa, I know you are angry. I'm sorry. You can beat me or even scold me as much as you like, but don't bottle it up. It's not good for the baby."

Looking at the woman on the bed, Rayan felt as if a jagged hot blade was ripping through his heart.

It hurt a lot.

"Who is more important, the child or me?" Janessa turned around and faced him. Her eyes were full of cold hatred.

"Please don't say that, Janessa. You will always come first to me. You are more important than anything else. But when I made that decision, I..."

"You didn't love me when you made that decision, so you had no issue using me without even considering my safety or my feelings. You knew what kind of person Edison was, but you still asked me to go to him! If Gracie was in my position, you wouldn't have let her take the risk, would you?" Janessa said calmly as if she was just stating a fact.

"I..."

Rayan didn't know the answer to her question. He couldn't even think straight. At that time, Gracie hadn't been in his company and his relationship with Janessa was not like it was before. They were neither enemies nor friends. As a boss, it was not wrong to use employees to clean up the company's mess.

However, Rayan now realized how wrong it was because his relationship with Janessa had changed afterward. That was why he was now in an awkward situation.

"You don't have to tell me. I already know the answer."

She was wasting her time by asking him that. She had seen how Rayan had protected Gracie before. If she thought about something she couldn't change, wouldn't it just make her unhappy?

And now, Rayan didn't even want to tell a white lie just to save her some face. Janessa sneered, and her heartache worsened as if thousands of needles were making holes in her heart.

Rayan didn't dare to look into her eyes.

He wouldn't recognize her if he did. Her cold detachment scared him worse than her anger ever did.

It seemed as if he would lose her again in the next second.

"Don't be like this, Janessa."

In Janessa's eyes, Rayan was nothing more than a stranger, but everything he said was just painful.

"Get out now. I want to calm down first." Tears welled up in Janessa's eyes. She hid under the quilt and didn't want to see Rayan's face again.

Maybe she shouldn't have told Rylan about her pregnancy, then she could have left when the time was right.

However, that had also been impossible.

"Janessa, listen to me, please?"

"I won't. Get out!" Janessa said in a broken voice, and she was on the brink of losing control.

She wasn't supposed to cry or be stressed during her pregnancy. It was not good for the baby, but she couldn't control her feelings.

"Janessa, I'm sorry."

Rayan then turned around and left.

He would do anything as long as Janessa didn't cry. It was not good for her baby and herself.

Even if it was not for the baby, he had to do it for Janessa.

In the room, Janessa didn't get out of the quilt until she couldn't hear any sound from the other side of the door.

Looking at the empty room, Janessa felt the flood that she had been holding back break out as tears streamed down her cheeks.

After walking out of the Lu family's house, Edison casually sat in his car and dialed Larry's number.

Larry's voice came through after a few rings.

"Mr. Chen, how are you going to thank me?"

Edison asked. He was in a good mood and even hummed a tune.

"It seems that everything has gone well. What do you want?" Larry coughed. He didn't sound too well.

At the sarcasm in Larry's words, Edison realized that he had only done such a small thing that was not worth asking for credit in the other man's eyes. Larry warned him that he could get benefits, but he wasn't to push his luck.

Edison complained silently. Larry was stingy. They had worked together for such a long time, but he still didn't want to pay more.

"I won't ask for any benefit. Isn't this what I should be doing? Mr. Chen, I wish for your plan's success tomorrow." After saying a few flattering words, Edison hung up.

Looking at the screen, he cursed under his breath.

"What a scrooge! I just want some benefits. Why does he have to be so stingy about it?"

Throwing the mobile onto the back seat angrily, he looked back at the Lu family's house and snorted coldly.

"Rayan, you threw me out of the Lu Group before, now I will let you experience the same thing. We are all members of the Lu family. Why do you have to be favored by everyone, and inherit the Lu Group, while I get to only be a vice president?

Let's wait and see how you will fail tomorrow. It's going to be a nice show. Haha!"

In the dark night, Edison's voice was gloomy and cold, but everyone in the house had their thoughts, and no one heard the voice outside.

Rayan, who was worried about Janessa, didn't dare to go too far. Instead, he just sat at the bedroom door.

In the morning, when Janessa got up, she opened the door and found Rayan sitting there.

Janessa had failed to shut down her mind, and she hadn't slept well, so she had gotten up a bit earlier that morning. Seeing Rayan at the door was surprising.

They were not in their villa by the sea. They were at Donald and Sarah's home now. If they got to know that Rayan had been sitting at the door for a whole night, what would happen then?

But Janessa hadn't forgiven him just yet.

She kicked him slightly and made way for him.

It was obvious that she wanted to let him sleep inside.

Rayan opened his eyes and saw Janessa standing there. When he opened his mouth to say something, Janessa passed him and went downstairs. Rayan had sat on the hard floor all night and his body was a little stiff. When he stood up, his muscles were sore.

For someone who exercised every day, sleeping on the floor all night would affect him too much.

That day was a very important one and the general shareholder's meeting was going to be held on that very same day. Everything would come to an end.

After relaxing his body and taking a shower, he felt better. He put on a custom designer suit before styling his hair.

When he went downstairs, Donald and Sarah were already at the dining table. The four of them sat in the dining room for breakfast.

Rayan wanted to serve Janessa, but she refused.

"Hurry up and eat. You have to go to the company."

Indifferent, strange, detached...

All these words suddenly appeared in his mind when he heard Janessa's voice. He wanted to say something, but she didn't feel like talking to him at all.

They had breakfast peacefully. Rayan was about to go to the company but then he turned back and said, "Janessa, you must stay at home today. Don't go out no matter what happens. Wait for me to come back to deal with everything!"
