Home / Romance / Bye, My Ex-husband

Chapter 436 Perfect Timing

In the office, Rayan couldn't get his mind to focus. He had used every single means in his power to find out where Janessa was.

However, even up to now, there were still no clues. This only made him even more frustrated.

Suddenly, his phone rang, cutting short the muddle of thoughts in his head. A look at the caller ID told him that it was Donald. He pulled himself together and answered the phone, making sure to sound as normal as possible.

"Hey, Dad."

"Rayan, is Janessa with you? I have something I want to ask her. She wasn't answering her phone though," Donald said anxiously.

Rayan knew that Donald didn't speak to Janessa when he could avoid it. But now he was even calling Rayan's private number to look for her. It was clear that the situation wasn't simple in any way.

He decided not to tell his parents about the news on second thought, considering that their grandchild was also on the line.

"Something happened to Janessa's friend. She has been accompanying her friend for a while. So she got burned out and just fell asleep. I'll take her home when she wakes up." Rayan's eyebrows crinkled as he came up with the story. A wave of pain pulsed in his head.

"Well if that's the case, we'll talk about it later when you come back. Did Larry cause you any trouble?" Donald was worried because he knew Larry's intention. But he wasn't in charge of the company, so he rarely meddled in its affairs.

However, Larry's appearance still put him on edge.

Larry had once sworn that he would make Donald pay for what he had done to his daughter.

And now, the man had finally launched his revenge plan. But instead of Donald, he targeted Rayan.

"Dad, don't worry. It wasn't a big deal. I'll tell you how it went in detail when I get back tonight." After reassuring Donald, Rayan hung up the phone.

He had a terrible headache. He pressed his fingers against his temples to reduce the pain, but it didn't work.

The door of the office was opened, and a man walked in confidently.

Rayan turned around and found Zeke there. His face was a deceiving mask, from his kind eyes to the smile he had on.

Had they been in the past, Rayan would have been convinced that the man was on his side. But he had witnessed everything Zeke had done this morning.

"Are you here to laugh at me? How do you feel after betraying the Lu Group?"

Zeke paused and looked at Rayan in feigned confusion as if wondering how Rayan had found out about his scheme.

Zeke stepped closer until he stood in front of Rayan and looked down at him with his smile still intact.

"Excuse me? What are you talking about? How can I betray the Lu Group? Everyone knows that I've devoted all my life to this company." Zeke then leaned against the sofa, clasped his hands behind his head, and looked around the office leisurely.

"Mr. Cui, you don't have to lie to me. You know what I mean, don't you? Just admit it. No one else is here, as you can see."

The more Zeke faked indifference, the more greed he had for the Lu Group.

In the past, Rayan had always been respectful towards Zeke. After all, he and his father had been good friends for many years. But now all that had gone to waste.

Since Zeke hadn't cherished their friendship, it was better to cut him off cleanly.

Zeke stood up from the sofa and looked around once more with an arrogant smile.

In his mind, that big office should have been his. He deserved it.

He had made great contributions to the Lu Group, but how did Donald and Rayan treat him?

the general shareholder's meeting.

They only made him an unimportant shareholder without real power. He craved power, because without it, he only had a say in

"It seems that you do know a lot." Zeke didn't hide his ambition anymore. There was no use.

"I know so much more than you think." Disappointment filled Rayan's mind.

He knew that Rayan must have found out the truth. So it was better to make everything clear.

In the past, Zeke had been the one who helped him the most and also the one he could turn to.

But now they had become enemies.

Zeke was impressed by Rayan's calmness and composure. How could he still look at him so calmly even after such a critical discovery?

"Oh? Then, by all means, tell me what you know." Zeke provoked.

The members of the Lu family were indeed an extraordinary bunch.

"Oh? Then, by all means, tell me what you know." Zeke provoked.

"I don't have time to talk nonsense with you. You can't get what you want just by helping others. That just shows how naive you cannon fodder.

"Rayan, you are still too young. Although you negotiated with Larry and saved your position this morning, don't forget that it is

According to his investigation, Larry had only chosen Zeke to be part of his plan as a scapegoat. He was nothing other than only temporary. How long do you think you can hold on?" Zeke taunted.

"Even if I hand over the position of CEO of the Lu Group, do you seriously think Larry will give it to you?" Rayan felt pity for Poor man. He had schemed for so many years in order to get that position, but in the end, all his efforts would be in vain.

"Rayan, don't think too highly of yourself. Let's wait and see who will own this company."

However, Zeke didn't believe Rayan's words at all. He had totally been brainwashed by Larry's ideologies.

Zeke had planned to mock Rayan for his predicament, but he hadn't expected that Rayan had already found out the whole truth.

Zeke's indifferent attitude changed so quickly. His gentle gaze had melted away and had become vicious.

Then he left quickly in anger.

out a cigarette and lit it.

are," Rayan retorted.

Zeke.

For now, he needed to stay sober.

Rayan waited for the door to close and for the sound of footsteps to quiet down. When he was sure that Zeke was gone, he took Rayan opened his eyes at once and looked at Corbin with expectation.

He drew on it and closed his eyes to let his mind rest.

"Mr. Lu, I have been monitoring Larry's phone for a while. Just now, I sensed something wrong in his last call."

After Zeke left, Corbin rushed in and reported, "Mr. Lu, I have good news. I found something."

"I'm sorry. I haven't found that out yet."
Rayan was disappointed.

figure out Janessa's whereabouts.

to himself.

"Do you know who he called?"

But he also knew that Corbin was trying his best. "Have you found out where Janessa is?"

"Not yet, but I am now sure of her general location. She is in the east to that vacant land." It had taken Corbin a lot of effort to

The plan at hand was an elaborate one, but no plan was one hundred percent perfect. The timing was the problem. There weren't many cars on the roads that day, and surveillance cameras did not see any cars entering or leaving the city at that time. So it could only mean one thing.

They had taken Janessa to the east to that empty land.

As soon as Corbin finished saying his great discovery, Rayan ran out of the office. At the same time, he was telling Corbin what to do next.

"Find the specific location and send it to me!"

'Janessa, please be safe. Don't worry, I'll be there soon. I'll make sure those who hurt you and our baby pay for it,' Rayan thought

He prayed for Janessa and their baby, hoping he could get there in time