

Chapter 95 Covering Up For Her

Janessa looked at Rayan in anticipation. Would he choose to trust her?

Rayan was standing against the light so it was difficult to figure out his expression.

"Just say the name!"

He nudged lazily and she could smell the tobacco in his breath.

Janessa covered her nose as a reflex and quickly gave the documents to him.

"This is what I have found from my investigation in the last three days. I did not leak any information. Someone hacked my computer. It is clear from the investigation. The identity of the person is not clear yet. We may try to track their movements but pinpointing the exact location seems impossible."

The investigators and detectives that Janessa hired for the work, failed miserably at it.

Even though they could not get hold of the hacker, her innocence was proven and no one could question her anymore.

The least situation for her was the crime of lack of supervision.

After saying all that she remained silent because everything else was pointing at Gracie.

Whatever evidence they could gather indicated that Gracie had managed to get her hands on the document and leaked it through various media channels.

If the scope of investigation did not come up, she would never know that Gracie was capable of spending such a huge amount of money, just to destroy the friendly co-operation between the Lu and Gu Groups.

There was just one thing that bothered her very much. She wondered how Gracie managed to get the password of her computer!

"What you are saying is that Gracie is plotting against you?" Rayan seemed calm as he casually tapped on the documents with his long fingers. The coldness in his eyes was uncomfortable and scary.

"Yes, but do you believe me?"

Janessa was half expecting that Rayan would even look at her with questioning or confused eyes.

The truth was out in the open. Nothing could change that and naturally this made her immune from false accusations.

He was skeptical of the evidence that he was presented with.

"I do believe that you won't do such a nasty thing. But I can't believe that Gracie did it because she was with me for the entire time. As for what you have as evidence in hand right now, it is to be blamed on the investigator. I feel he is not well-trained or professional enough."

After taking one last look at the document he simply tossed it over to the shredder where it was turned into millions of pieces within seconds.

The day when the documents were stolen, that was Sunday, Gracie and Rayan were together all the while. Even the CCTV footage had nothing to show the evidence of theft.

As for Gracie released the documents through various ways, Rayan refused to believe any of it.

Janessa's expression changed quickly. She knew that Rayan would not believe her but his adamant behavior annoyed her.

She let out a sneer and leaned against the desk to look down at him. "You simply destroyed the evidence just to protect your girlfriend from any criminal offence. But funnily enough I have more copies, just so you know."

She stared him down. She sounded determined and confident.

"What? Are you trying to blackmail or threaten me?"

He had a stone cold expression. He clenched the fists on his legs and could feel the piercing hurt that her words caused.

He was indeed surprised to find that Janessa was innocent. But it was all the more difficult to accept Gracie's involvement in the whole thing. How could she even come to do such a thing?

He believed Janessa just did whatever she wanted because his mother was on her side. Even if he were to believe that Janessa had no role to play, he thought it would not be so unlikely for her to frame Gracie in the whole thing.

"Threatening you? Not at all. I am just asking how you plan to deal with this whole thing. If this news spreads that I was the one who leaked the confidential information of the company. I won't even have the slightest chance to take over the Qiu Group, even if I longer work in the Lu Group anymore. Why do you want to put my future at stake just to secure girlfriend's?"

'Rayan is trying to do the best for Gracie. But why is he trying to put the whole thing on me? I pity him for all the daydreaming!'

"Nobody is going to blame you for anything. I will make sure to launch a proper investigation. You may take your leave now," he politely asked her to go.

Saying so he simply closed his eyes and refused to talk on this matter anymore.

"If I am made to suffer in any way, just mark my words. I won't let Gracie get away. All her actions will be exposed to the public. If I lose in any way, she will go down with me."

She was sure that Rayan would never harm her, but she did not trust Gracie at all. She could even plot to kill Janessa. Therefore if she got hurt because of Gracie, she would make sure to expose every truth.

She had to make a back-up plan for her own sake.

Rayan did not object or stop Janessa and let her say whatever she felt like.

After all the banter, Janessa left the office without wasting a moment.

Speak of the devil and the devil was here!

Just as the door of the elevator opened, Janessa was faced with Gracie.

They were just separated by the elevator door. It was evident that they hated each other.

Gracie strutted out of the elevator with arrogance. Even though she felt uneasy seeing Janessa come from Rayan's office's direction, she did not show it.

"So you think you can come here whenever you want? Miss Qiu you literally have no shame! News is that you skipped work for three whole days. It is sad that the Lu Group had an employee like you."

Janessa did not have the taste to speak to this woman. But she found it really difficult to maintain her calm when provoked like that!

"You should really stop bothering about my activities. Doesn't really matter even if you hate me as an employee. All these are Rayan's headache.

You tell me, as an outsider what prerogative do you have to discuss the internal affairs about the Lu Group?"

It was clear that Gracie was red with anger. It was not unknown to each person within the Lu Group that she was Rayan's girlfriend and the future Mrs. Lu. Even though Rayan and Janessa were divorced she kept in good touch with him. She should have been sacked from the company long ago

"Everything related to Rayan is related to me now. I have every right to rebuke his employees. You can talk to him all you want, but that won't be fruitful. He will always support me."

Gracie proudly crossed Janessa as she looked her up and down constantly.

However, Janessa remained unfazed by all the harsh words.

'Did she really find any solid evidence? Well, that is not possible at all. Because with any kind of evidence in hand she would not be so calm.' Gracie was confused.

'Why did Rayan still choose to tolerate her? I have to see to this and ask him right away.'

"It seems like you are aware of a lot of things, Miss Mo. Do they teach you about business and management as well in the medical universities abroad? I really know nothing compared to you. I didn't even know that such a university existed."

"You... don't you think you are getting into the matters way more than required? You are acting like you are Mrs. Lu and not me. Oh! My bad. You are not anymore."

Right from the beginning Gracie hated Janessa's self-righteousness.
