

Chapter 344 Pregnancy

Eris was alone in her apartment. She wasn't feeling too well.

"Ewww..." She was still in her fluffy thick pajamas when she rushed to the bathroom. Leaning on the toilet, she vomited wildly. After she puked all the contents of her stomach, she started puking bile. ⑧

"Ewww..." After her ordeal, Eris bent down and burst into tears. She felt like she was dying. She hasn't felt this unwell her whole life. After another round of vomiting, she collapsed on the bathroom floor.

Taking a deep breath, she flushed the toilet and staggered back to the bedroom. Her legs were so weak that all she could do was lie down on the bed.

"I feel so bad..." Eris tried to remember how the previous days went. She remembered that she hadn't eaten anything yesterday. She wondered if this was the cause of her discomfort. ②

She checked the time and saw that it was already half past noon. However, she still hadn't eaten lunch yet.

Eris leaned against the headboard of the bed. Her stomach was empty and she felt very hungry, but she didn't want to move at all.

She had been living in the apartment for more than a month now.

Every day was like a daze to her. She often fiddled with her phone until very late at night, and she wouldn't wake up until the afternoon of the next day. Sometimes, she only managed to eat one meal a day. Her life was in a mess.

As much as she could, she avoided going out. Whenever she felt hungry, she just ordered food delivery.

She was used to living a luxurious life, so she really couldn't accept being poor. Therefore, in order to support her own life, she had sold her last car. Now she was living on her savings.

At this moment, the doorbell rang. Eris hurriedly grabbed her hat and mask on the bedside table and put them on. She then went to the door to get the food.

She had lived here ever since she announced her retirement from the entertainment industry. Since she was afraid that she might get recognized, she avoided going out as much as possible.

When she had to go out, she would wear a mask, a hat, and a scarf so she wouldn't get recognized in public. She did this even if she was just opening the door for the delivery man.

Everything seemed fine so far. She got the food without much trouble. She closed the door and settled down to eat.

The weather had been too cold lately. She ordered beef soup, pickled fish, braised shrimps, and rice.

As she was about to dig in, she felt her tummy rumbling. She couldn't wait to open the lids of the food boxes. Warm steam came out of the containers when she took off the lids. A pleasant aroma wafted in the air.

However, when Eris smelled the fish and shrimps, her face suddenly turned pale. She turned her head away at once.

"Ewww..." She hurriedly covered her mouth as she vomited once again. She had already vomited, so there was nothing more for her to throw up.

After quickly covering the food boxes, Eris opened the windows to let the air in. Her stomach finally stopped churning when the air dissipated the smell in the room. She felt a bit better after she drank a glass of warm water.

Eris kept gasping for breath while she was sitting at the dining table. She wondered if she was going to die for real this time. It all didn't make sense to her. She was still so young. The person who had harmed her hadn't been served justice yet. She couldn't die. ?

Eris gritted her teeth and got dressed. She decided that it was best to go to the hospital. ①

An hour later, Eris walked out of the hospital. She was wearing a hat, and she also wrapped a scarf around her face tightly. Only her eyes showed. The cold wind blew strongly as she walked. ②

She stood in front of the hospital gate, shivering in the cold. Her eyes were fixed on the document she held in her hand. It was an ultrasound report. Written clearly on the paper were the results of the test. She was in the early stages of pregnancy. ③

'Pregnancy? I am actually pregnant! And it has been seven weeks already!' ⑩

She had been living a disorderly life lately. Her sleep cycle was completely messed up. By now, she had forgotten the last time she had her period. She didn't expect that she was pregnant. She tried to recall what she had done during that time and remembered that Brian was the last person she had sex with. ⑧

Another gust of cold wind blew. The report in Eris' hand flapped in the wind, and she finally came to her senses. After being in a daze, she felt a burst of ecstasy in her heart. "Oh my God. This is great! I will be back soon!" ⑤

With a sparkle in her eyes, Eris touched her stomach. The baby came at the right time. There couldn't have been better timing. It was certainly good news to her.

Using the child as her trump card, she believed that she could finally pull herself out of this slump. ②

"Brian, didn't you try your best to get rid of me? Now, I'd like to see how you can do that!" Eris mumbled, chuckling like a madwoman. Her behavior was quite peculiar, and the passers-by looked at her with strange gazes. ③

Afraid of being recognized, Eris quickly pulled the scarf to cover her face more tightly. Now in a good mood, she tucked the report into her bag and then hailed a taxi by the side of the road. She told the driver the location of Brian's company.

"Okay."

Twenty minutes later, Eris arrived at the building. With a sly grin, she walked into the lobby.

The receptionist stopped her and asked, "Miss, who are you looking for?"

"Brian Oliver."

"I see. Do you have an appointment?"

"No."

"I'm sorry. You can't go in without an appointment. It's work hour now. Only our staff are allowed to enter the offices."

Narrowing her eyes, Eris gave the receptionist a cold look.

It worked in intimidating the poor lady. However, the receptionist stayed firm and said again, "I'm really sorry, miss. If you have something important to tell Mr. Oliver, I can call him for you."

"No need. I can call him myself."

The receptionist breathed a sigh of relief.

Eris took out her phone and dialed Brian's number. She heard a beeping tone and waited patiently.

As soon as the phone rang, a mechanical female voice came from the other end of the line. "Sorry, the number you dialed is busy..."

Brian hung up on her!

Erin laughed. She kept calling him a couple more times, but Brian hung up each time. After a few more calls from her, he simply turned off his phone.

Eris looked at the screen of her phone and sneered. "When does Brian usually leave work?" she asked the receptionist.

"At five o'clock."

"Okay."

Eris walked away from the reception desk and sat down on the sofa in the lobby. She decided to wait there. She knew that Brian couldn't hide in his office forever. It was still early, but she had time to spare.

Since she still hadn't eaten yet, she felt a bit of a chill. She ordered noodles and ate in the lobby.

"Miss, I'm sorry. Food is not..."

The receptionist wanted to stop her. However, she was too shocked to finish her words when she saw Eris' face.

'Huh? Isn't this the famous star, Eris?'

Thinking of her scandal, the receptionist gave Eris a look of disdain. But at the same time, she remembered Eris' relationship with Brian, so she didn't dare to kick her out.

At five in the afternoon, the employees started streaming out of the elevators. There were a lot of them, all eager to get home. After waiting for a long while, Eris finally saw the person she was waiting for.

Wearing a sharp suit, Brian lowered his head. He held his car keys in one hand and his briefcase in the other. He was about to leave the building.

Seeing this, Eris stood up and walked over to him. Stretching out her arms, she stood in front of him. ➤

