

Chapter 346 Cheated On

'Grace Cook! How dared she?' Brian thought.

Brian gave Grace whatever she wanted and always did his best to please her. Grace acted like she was obsessed with Brian. But it turned out she was just pretending. As his fiancée, she cheated on him! She slept with another man on their engagement day. ②

Brian gripped the phone tightly in his hand, almost crushing it.

Noticing this, Eris quickly took the phone back. "It took me a lot of effort to take these photos. I'm not going to let you break my phone." ③

Brian gasped for breath, and his eyes turned red with anger.

Upon seeing his expression, Eris chuckled lightly.

Hearing this, Brian turned around and glared at her.

"What are you looking at? I showed these to you out of kindness. If it weren't for me, you wouldn't have known that Grace cheated on you. Well, not until you read it in the news, at least."

Naturally, Brian was so angry that his body trembled all over. He pointed at the door of the car and said, "Get out!"

"No!"

"You just came here to laugh at me, didn't you? Now that you got what you wanted, go!"

Eris had no intention to leave. Instead, she fastened her seat belt.

Brian was at the end of his patience. "What else do you want?"

"I have something more important to tell you."

"Say it."

But Eris didn't say a word. Leaning back against the seat, she gently touched her belly.

Frowning, Brian had no idea what she was doing.

Eris rolled her eyes. "I'm pregnant, Brian."

"That has nothing to do with me!"

Chuckling, Eris said, "If it had nothing to do with you, then why would I come here?"

Brian was stunned. He glanced at Eris' flat belly and looked at her with a shocked expression. "What do you mean?"

Eris opened her bag and took out the ultrasound report. She tossed it to Brian and said, "See for yourself."

With his eyes wide open, Brian read the report. His eyes were fixed on the words "seven weeks pregnant." He couldn't believe it. It meant a month and a half ago.

Repeating the words over and over in his head, he tried to make sense of it. He frowned as he recalled the past events.

Suddenly, he remembered it. After the incident with Wendy, he went to Eris' apartment to confront her. They ended up having sex.

Because it was spontaneous, Brian didn't use any condoms.

At the time, he asked Eris what they would do if she got pregnant. She answered that she would keep the baby and give up her acting career for him. He was deeply moved at that moment.

It had only been less than two months. As he recalled it now, it felt like it was a lifetime ago.

With the ultrasound report in his hand, Brian felt like he had been struck by a bolt of lightning. He was at a loss for words. After a long while, he asked her, "Are you telling me that this child is mine?"

"It is yours, Brian!"

Her words knocked Brian back to his senses. He quickly tossed the report back to Eris as if it was a hot potato that burned his hand. Shaking his head desperately, he said, "No! No! That child isn't mine."

"Think about what you're saying," Eris said to him.

Brian sneered, "Even if the pregnancy date coincides with the date we had sex, so what? It doesn't conclude anything. You can't guarantee that you didn't have sex with another man at that time. Maybe that's another man's child and you just want me to take responsibility for it!" ③

Eris couldn't stand it anymore. She lifted her hand and slapped him across the face. She shouted angrily, "Brian, how can you call yourself a man? You are saying this because you don't want to take responsibility for what you did! Another man? Oh, please. Can you hear yourself? Since I fell in love with you, I have been devoted to you. I have never expected that you would doubt my loyalty to you! Do you think all the women in the world are like Grace?" ④

Brian's face was burning with pain. Agonizing over what to do, he gritted his teeth. No matter what Eris said, he couldn't accept that the child was his.

His parents had always been strongly against his relationship with Eris. And now, he had Grace. His parents were right. Even though Grace wasn't a perfect woman, she came from a rich family. That was enough to make up for all her shortcomings. ⑤

Even though Grace was unfaithful to him, he could accept it. He would have to endure. Just as his father said to him, once the company's situation stabilized, he could get rid of her. ③

If news about Eris' pregnancy got out, his engagement to Grace would definitely be broken off. He couldn't let that happen. ③

His parents were counting on Grace's dowry of five hundred million dollars. In order to get the money, they even began to extensively prepare for the wedding. ②

If they found about Eris' pregnancy, Brian would be in big trouble.

Brian shivered with fear at the thought of it happening. Not only would he lose the five hundred million, but his company might also go bankrupt. His parents would never forgive him if that happened. To put it simply, he would lose everything.

Gritting his teeth, Brian sneered, "For old times' sake, I won't blame you for slapping me, Eris. Now, get out of my car! If you don't, I guess I'll have to drag you out!"

"You wouldn't dare! What do you want to do? Do you have the nerve to drag me out?" Eris laughed grimly. "Go ahead and try. If you hurt me, I assure you that you'll see your name in the headline tomorrow. When that happens, I'm quite certain that your engagement with Grace will be called off!"

"Eris!"

Eris straightened herself as she sat. "Brian, you're nothing but a goddamn coward. I don't know how I could have been so blind to fall in love with such an irresponsible man like you before! You don't even want to admit the child is yours. You're worse than an animal!"

"Eris, you're getting far too cocky! You just showed me an ultrasound report, then you asserted that the child was mine. Who knows if you forged that report?! I know you too well. I know that things haven't been going great with you lately. You're probably just envious of how other people are having an easy time. Maybe you just forged this paper to drag me into your troubles!"

"You don't believe me? We can go to the hospital anytime and find out!"

Brian avoided eye contact with her. "I don't want to waste any of my time with you. Even if you are pregnant, the baby in your belly may not be mine. You have told a lot of lies. You told me that you loved me very much. Who knows whether it is true or not? Anyway, I will never accept that the baby in your belly is mine!"

"Fine! Suit yourself!"

On the way there, Eris had already foreseen all of Brian's possible reactions. Although she was mad at him, she was already expecting it to happen. Quickly removing her seat belt, she opened the door and stepped out.

Brian was stunned. He wondered why Eris gave up easily. He knew that it wasn't her style. He wondered if she still had an ace up her sleeve.

Brian started to panic. Seeing that she was about to close the door and leave, he grabbed her hand and said, "Eris, what do you want me to do?"

"You don't want to admit you are the child's father, do you? I'm going home! Anyway, I've been pregnant for over a month already. I've already done my research. When the child is a little older, I can do a paternity test."

Brian clenched his fists.

"Didn't you just say that the child wasn't yours? Why are you so nervous then?"

Brian's eyes darkened. "Eris, what do you want?"

