Chapter 392 Back Him Up

They all entered the living room, and the villa became very lively. As they felt warm inside the living room, they removed their coats and took their seats.

Josie had already prepared snacks for them. Once everyone was seated, she asked the servants to bring all the snacks.

"Precious, have some snacks. They are all your favorite," Josie said to the little girl sitting next to her.

"But Grandma, I'm so full. I can't eat anything more..."

Josie ran her hand through the girl's messy hair and asked with a smile, "What did you eat this morning?"

Precious' face lit up immediately. With a smile, she said, "Mommy made sweet desserts. They were so delicious that I ate a lot."

The smile on Josie's face faded away. She obviously didn't like the fact that Precious called Wendy her mom.

However, today was the New Year's Day. If she decided to make a fuss about it, it would ruin the happy spirit here. Josie chose to ignore it and tried to smile again. Her only concern right now was to keep the atmosphere convivial. She gently asked, "Precious, do you live with your brother now?"

The little girl nodded. "Yes!"

"Well...how is Ray?"

"He's fine!"

"Alright! Have you ever heard him talk about me and his grandpa?"

The little girl tilted her head and thought for a while. Josie was a little nervous.

After having thought for a long time, Precious didn't think she ever heard Raymond mention their grandparents. As a result, she shook her head honestly and said, "No."

There was undisguised disappointment in Josie's eyes. That gave her another reason to dislike Wendy.

"What a shameless woman! We are Ray's grandparents. Wendy should have asked Ray to be close to them. Even though I had him kidnapped, I didn't know his identity back then!"

Josie was very unhappy right now. But she couldn't let it show. She took out a gift box and gave it to Precious.

The little girl's eyes shone with excitement when Josie handed her the box. "Grandma, is this my gift?"

Josie was pleased by her granddaughter's reaction and nodded. "Yes."

Precious opened it and saw a lovely doll. "It's so cute, I love it!"

Seeing that Precious was happy with her gift, Josie felt better. She took out another gift box and handed it to Precious. "Sweetheart, this is for your brother. As he didn't come today, can you bring it to him?"

Precious agreed without hesitation. "Okay!"

Anson used to be a soldier when he was young. Later in his life, he did business and made friends with many people. Therefore, many people came to visit him on New Year's Day. The house was very lively.

Luke had to pay his respects to the neighbors as well. In the past, he would only bring Precious with him. But this year was different! Anson specially asked Luke to bring Jeffrey with him. That stunned all the guests in the living room, including Jeffrey himself.

They all knew what happened fifteen years ago. Back then, Anson drove his eldest son and his family out of the house and he cut them off from the rest of the family. They hadn't contacted each other for the past fifteen years! But now, he asked Jeffrey to go along with Luke to visit the neighbors on New Year's Day.

They were confused. They couldn't help but wonder if Anson accepted Jeffrey and his family now. If this was the case, they decided to show some respect to Jaylen and his family.

Jeffrey was dumbfounded. "Grandpa..."

Anson waved his hand casually and said, "Just go with Luke. You haven't visited them for many years. You are a good boy! What your parents did has nothing to do with you."

Only then did everyone understand what was going on. Anson did not make up with Jaylen at all. He was only trying to be supportive of his grandson.

Jeffrey was not stupid and quickly understood. Anson was actually worried about him. He feared that Jaylen and Nellie's bad reputation would affect him. He didn't want his grandson to face that.

Jeffrey couldn't describe how he felt at this moment. "Grandpa!" He wanted to thank him for his consideration, but he couldn't find his words.

The old man didn't give him the time to think further. "Hurry up. I'll be expecting you to have lunch with you today."

"Okay!"

When Jeffrey passed by Ryan, Ryan patted him on the shoulder with a smile.

The expression on everyone's face changed. If there was only Anson backing Jeffrey up, they just needed to be nicer to him when they met him. But now it was clear that Ryan was also helping Jeffrey. That fact changed everything in the way they treated Jeffrey.

After all, Ryan was the CEO of Oliver Group now. With his support, Jeffrey became untouchable. They all knew that they had to take Jeffrey seriously henceforth.

Their whole morning was spent visiting the neighbors. When they came back, they were covered in snow.

Precious was delighted. She had received a lot of gifts.

As soon as she entered the house, she ran over to Ryan. "Daddy! Daddy! Look! I have so many gifts! I am so happy!"

Ryan rubbed her hair with a smile. "We will open them later together, okay?"

"Okay!"

Then they had lunch together. After the meal, Anson asked Ryan to play chess with him. Luke went to the yard to make a snowman with Precious. As for Jeffrey, he was called into the study by Josie.

Sitting in the leather chair, Josie patted the wooden armchair beside her. "Bruce, come and sit here with me."

Jeffery closed the door behind him and walked over to Josie. "Grandma, do you have anything to tell me?"

After staring at him without saying anything for a while, Josie finally replied, "I have something to ask you."

Jeffery immediately straightened his back.

Seeing he had suddenly tensed up, Josie laughed and patted him on the shoulder. "Don't be nervous. It's just a casual talk."

"Okay. What do you want to ask me?"

"Well, here is the thing. A few days ago, I read some news about you and Wendy. Did you two use to date?"

Jeffery shivered upon hearing this. Countless thoughts flashed through his mind at this moment. He knew his grandmother didn't like Wendy at all. He had heard that from Luke. Everyone knew that Wendy and Brian had been together before. If Josie got to know that Jeffery and Wendy had also been together, she would dislike Wendy even more.

Thinking of this, he hurriedly replied, "Grandma, it was all made up by the media. There's nothing true about it." Jeffery was so proud of himself at this moment. Although he and Wendy had broken up, he didn't resent her at all. He still stood up for her in front of her future mother-in-law. He was definitely the definition of the best ex!

Josie nodded slightly. After all, she didn't believe the news at all. She just needed to be sure. She continued to question him though. "You've been working with Wendy in the same crew for a long time, right? Do you think there is anything wrong with her?"

"Wrong?" Jeffrey looked at the old woman in puzzlement.

"Yes, like her character and personality... Or anything else."

Jeffrey fell silent. For some reason, he had the strange feeling that Josie was trying to get him to speak ill of Wendy. "Grandma..."

"Bruce, you can tell me!" Josie encouraged him.

'What's going on? Why do I feel Grandma wishes to find flaws in Wendy?' Jeffery thought.
