

Chapter 410 Wendy's Means

'Sisters?' Rosie was surprised to hear that question.

She didn't have any sister but a brother. She had two female cousins; one was Eris and the other was Wendy. What happened in the past had tainted Eris' image. It was definitely not appropriate to mention her now. As for Wendy, Rosie hated her to the core. She even hoped that the latter would die soon. How could she give Wendy such a good opportunity to marry a rich man? ☹

Rosie shook her head and said, "I'm the only daughter in my family."

An unreadable expression flashed through Josie's eyes. "Any female cousins?"

Since Josie had already asked a specific question, Rosie had no choice but to tell the truth. Holding the cup of coffee in her hand, she said ambiguously, "Well, I have a few cousins. One of them has divorced, and the other two... If you pay attention to the entertainment industry, you may know them. One of them is Eris, and the other is Wendy. I'm afraid they are not suitable for your sons."

"Is that so?" Josie pretended to be interested.

There was a hint of hesitation on Rosie's face. No matter how stupid she was, she knew that one should not wash their dirty linen in public. If she spoke ill of her cousins, what would Josie think of her? Wasn't it possible that Josie would think that she was the same kind of woman as Eris and Wendy? That would definitely give her a bad impression. But she couldn't say anything good about Wendy either. That was against her conscience.

Noticing this, Josie smiled as she fiddled with the flowers in front of her. "It is okay if you don't want to talk about it. I just asked it out of curiosity."

Since Rosie was desperate to please Josie, she quickly made up her mind.

"It's not a big deal. Many people in the Ywood know about my two cousins."

"Oh?"

"Speaking of Wendy, she has something to do with your youngest son."

"Luke?" Josie's hand froze in midair.

With a nod, Rosie explained, "My family was poor and we didn't have much contact with Wendy's family. Wendy and Eris are not very close to me. Wendy was brought up by our grandmother and lived a hard life. At first, we thought she was dead. But suddenly, she came back from abroad with a child. She is a beautiful woman. You know how difficult it must be for a woman to raise a child alone, so..."

Although Rosie tried to be as subtle as possible, Josie easily understood what she was trying to imply. Her face changed slightly. It was not at all surprising. She knew why Wendy wanted to be with Ryan. All she wanted was his money! Josie even suspected that even her first night with Ryan was not forced, a leverage she could use to have Ryan be wrapped around her fingers. ○

"What a woman! She is a deceitful, manipulative monster!"

"You just said that she and Luke..."

"I saw Wendy shopping with him in a mall in summer. But don't worry. I don't think he has fallen into her trap."

Even Josie didn't believe that Wendy was hooking up with Luke. But her eyes were still as cold as ice. "Your cousin has loose morals."

"You are right. She is not a nice person. My grandmother was old but she worked so hard just to raise Wendy and her elder sister. She exhausted herself to death for those ungrateful women. It has been almost twelve years since she died, but Wendy has never visited her grave. Not even once!" ○

What Josie heard was enough for her to dislike Wendy even more. 'How could she be so cruel?'

"After our grandma passed away, she was brought to my uncle's house to live with them. My uncle's family was doing very well at first, but he and his wife got addicted to gambling and lost all their money. Even so, they treated Wendy very well and tried their best to provide for her. They clothed her and sent her to a good school. But what did she do in return? She has sent my uncle and aunt to prison."

As Josie listened to Rosie's words, she couldn't help but clench her fists in anger.

"Ever since she was young, Wendy has been a scheming woman. When she was still in high school, she used to like this guy named Brian. Eris also liked him. But in the end, I don't know what tricks Wendy used to make him her boyfriend. She lived a decadent life and got pregnant. She even claimed that Brian was the child's father. But he was not a fool to believe her, so he broke up with her. Then she went abroad. We never heard any news from her for several years, and we all thought she had passed away. We were surprised when she returned last summer. But we knew that she came back to take revenge. In just half a year, she managed to destroy my uncle's family. She is so cruel!"

Back then, Rosie and Eris used to be friends. Most of the information she got about Wendy was from Eris.

Rosie continued, "When she was studying in US, I happened to have a high school classmate who was also studying there. I heard from my classmate that Wendy changed boyfriends like she was changing her clothes. And all the men she dated were all very rich."

Josie's face darkened.

"By the way, do you know Jeffrey?"

'Bruce?' Suppressing her anger, Josie nodded. "I know Jeffrey. Why did you mention him?"

"I heard from my classmate that Wendy and Jeffrey had a fling back in US!"

Rosie snorted. "Jeffrey is one of the most popular stars in our country. I heard that he went to US to shoot a movie and they hooked up in the set! She was just a supporting actress. God knows how she managed to wrap him around her finger."

This time, Josie's face completely became sullen. 'Wendy even had a fling with Bruce? First came Brian. Then it was Jeffrey. And now she has Ryan! What the hell are you up to, Wendy?'

Seeing that Josie's face darkened, Rosie stopped talking and looked at her cautiously. "Sorry. I've strayed from the subject."

After taking a deep breath to calm herself, Josie forced a smile. "It doesn't matter. I like to talk with you. You can continue."

Upon making sure that Josie was not angry at her, Rosie continued, "Anyway, my cousin is quite capable. But she never had a long term relationship. Maybe those people saw her true colors."

"Was there anything else that you heard from your classmate?"

For a few seconds, Rosie fell silent as if she was in a deep thought. "Ah! I just remembered something. When Wendy was in the US, she was very close to a rich man. He knew that she has a son, but he was still bewitched by her."

Controlling her anger was a very difficult thing to do at this moment, but Josie tried her best. She had no doubt in everything that Rosie told her. After all, Rosie was Wendy's cousin. It must be true that Wendy had done all these things. Otherwise, why would Rosie slander her own cousin in front of an outsider? ☹️
