

Spoiled By My Bossy CEO Husband - / Chapter 665 Is Mr. Chapman not being a man again

Ralph walks up to Lottie, momentarily unsure of what to say. Lottie, however, spoke first, "Why won't you let me go to the hospital?" "You want to go to the hospital so badly?" "Even though Jeremy was the first to flirt with the bitch, I did hit him hard when I put him in the hospital." Lottie jarred, "If Connie knew about this, she would have advised me to apologize first." Instead, Ralph whispered, "I'm still too light on my hands." Lottie didn't hear him and asked, "What did you say?" Ralph looked back at Lottie and said, "Don't worry about it, I'll get it sorted out and won't let Jeremy bother you again." Lottie was not happy to hear this. Is it to keep Jeremy from bothering her, or do you want to leave Jeremy's evil deeds alone for Ian's sake? "There's also the matter of Ian." Ralph gave a beat, met Lottie's clear eyes, and coughed before explaining to her, "He did misunderstand you a little." Is that a little misunderstanding? Lottie gives a self-deprecating smile. "I hadn't planned to tell you, I wanted to come clean with you after things were settled and his prejudice against you was removed." Lottie listened to his explanation and looked much more relaxed, but the gloom in his heart did not dissipate. "He was already displeased with me, and with what happened to Jeremy, I'm afraid he already has a deep hatred for me." She then remembered that Ralph wouldn't let her go to the hospital, probably because he was worried that she and Ian would get into another fight. Ralph said, "Ian's side, I'll go explain." Lottie looked complicated: "How are you going to explain that Jeremy said I seduced him."

"Ian, on the other hand, took Jeremy's words at face value. Ralph snickered, "I'm not a thousand times better than him?" "Unless you're crazy to think so hard about pestering him."

Lottie silent, although it is the truth, but with this tone of voice, there is really enough narcissism. Ralph looked at her with an odd expression and reached out to her tentatively. Lottie stiffened, but finally obeyed and was taken into Ralph's arms. "Baby, I've never believed any of Jeremy's bullshit." Ralph explained in a low voice, with an indescribably gentle look, "He's nothing but an outsider to me." Lottie's eyes lowered and she let out a soft "hmmm". Ralph was about to say something to ease her mind when he heard his cell phone ringing. It's Lottie's phone., broke away from Ralph's embrace anack, emotions flashi to be pacified, but in fas resolved, the lump in her hhen he saw that Lottie had no intention of y went intong out and probably needed tief when the rest of her eyomething and asked after nses and replied, "Just a little accident, noteithscared to death. You know you're shooting today, i.e. you misunderstand yes, you must have been tormented by Mr. Chapman, "Is Mr. Chapman really pushed the man .

"Stop it." Lottie's expression was serious, not like she was joking. Connie remembered what seemed to be, followed by a curb of laughter. "Why do you have that look on your face, did something happen?" Lottie shook her head: "Just a little bed-sick, didn't sleep well." "In all the time I've known you, this is the first time I've ever known you to have this problem." Connie shredded while bringing the topic across. "You can't do this, there are a lot of media here today, if you appear in front of them like this, they will have to make up the story that you were dumped by Mr. Chapman." Lottie raised the corners of her lips, but there was no half smile under her eyes. "Don't smile if you don't want to, it can be really ugly." Connie spits out while her heart aches for her, thinking about whether she should tell Lottie the truth of what she saw now. She didn't need to tell Connie that there must have been an argument between Mr. Chapman and Lottie after what happened yesterday. She was not someone who could hold her tongue, and was about to tell the whole story when there was another courteous knock on the door of her room. The crowd looked back as Alfred was pushed in front of several people by the butler.

Alfred's sharp eyes stared at Connie, straight to Connie to see the heart weak. "What for?" Connie blustered. Alfred gave a light laugh: "No why, aren't you my agent? Thought I'd let you lead us to the director later." Connie looked at him suspiciously, "And I have to lead?" I didn't see Alfred listening to his manager before, he always kept to himself, even his manager couldn't control him. Alfred: "Of course, why else would Lottie be here with you?" The eyes of the crowd were unanimous in looking at Lottie.

Alfred's afterglow swept over the blue and black under her eyes, and a glint of understanding flashed through his eyes. Alfred also said, "The same is under your artist, please also the broker should be treated equally." Connie secretly rolled her eyes, but did not argue. After all, her duties are here and she can't shirk them. With two of the three artists coming, Connie simply asked someone to go get Natalia. A few moments later, Natalia arrives, followed by Kayden, the little tail. Nancy's Revenge

Lottie nodded her head and thanked Alfred very seriously. Alfred looked at her and finally didn't say much. He could see that Lottie was not in good spirits and only reminded her to pay more attention during the opening ceremony later. The country is strange and has an account of many things. The opening ceremony is very important, if the beginning goes well, it is a sign that the subsequent shooting will go smoothly. If something goes wrong with the opening ceremony, people will inevitably have other ideas in mind. Lottie nodded again, she has mixed so many drama sets, naturally she also understands the importance of the opening ceremony. Not long after, Connie came over. Also brought along the director and screenwriter. Here three can be the most important protagonists, the film can be made successful depends on their performance, the director and screenwriter naturally also very important. Mr. Heron greeted them with a smile and talked about the process for a while before mentioning, seemingly unintentionally, "I heard that Mr. Chapman was here yesterday, why didn't I see him?" Lottie explained why, before Javion nodded. "That's true, Mr.

Chapman is so busy and doesn't show up on all occasions." While saying so, there is inevitably a little disappointment in the eyes. Alfred laughed at him, "Director, you're sorry you don't have him to do your publicity stunt, right?" Javion's face flashed with a hint of embarrassment at being exposed, but quickly retorted with a straight face: "What nonsense, I have no regrets!" Everyone was laughing, and no one cared about his tongue-in-cheek words. Rose, however, took a stack of things to Alfred at that moment. Alfred picked it up and asked, "This is?" "It's not adding a 'wheelchair scene' for you, there are a few scenes that have to be revised for this setting, here is the script after the change."

Alfred didn't doubt it and thanked Rose seriously. Rose kept smiling and splitting the same script between Lottie and Natalia. "Accordingly, your rivalry scene with him has been changed a bit." It should be said that all four of their leading roles have been added, and some supporting roles have been deleted. But this kind of thing is normal in every crew, and neither Javion nor Rose is too concerned. Lottie thanked him and took the script, flipped it open and read it, and was surprised. "Is this going backwards?" He asked Alfred, her eyes full of the situation and she said mischievously, "If you came to me the other day when I saw Alfred and he is good at hiding himself, it is not harder to achieve let him in the movie. Alfred still does not know the big troublemaker director came over, one is here and he immediately greeted everyone. "A good incense burner, how can it be turned over?" "The opening ceremony didn't even go well, and the shooting will definitely have twists and turns afterwards!" "Incense ash are spilled, this is not a small thing, so many crews, or the first time to see this kind of thing." "Just now that gust of wind is too evil, is there something odd?" "Lottie just picked up the incense and the censer tipped over, can things be that coincidental?" "What do you mean?" "Do you guys think that it could be that Lottie is not very lucky as a person? I heard that several projects she was involved in were yellow, this one should not also After the media in the audience looked at each other, they began to whisper about it. It didn't take long for someone to steer the conversation to Lottie, and then rumors of her being "unlucky" began to swirl. The staff quickly came over to clean up the scene, and Javion also took the microphone to control the scene. Afterwards a man from the priesthood told Javion, "No matter, good things come to those who do not." Javion thought things were a little strange, but it was a lot better to get a word like that. The priest's words are indeed psychologically comforting. Natalia nudged Lottie in the side and spoke to her some more. Lottie nodded and sent Connie over to give the priest a check.

"Sorry director, maybe I've always met villains lately and have been tainted with not-so-good luck, please ask the priest to help me donate this money to the church and give everyone trouble." The priest didn't refuse, and after accepting the check, he did another favor and said to Lottie, "Ms. Green is so feisty and cynical that she does get targeted by the bad guys easily." He said he took out a Bible and wanted to give it to Lottie to thank her for her donation to the church. Lottie took it with a smile and said thank you to the other party. The media present did not see this development coming, but were excited.

What is this, a topic! Who's opening ceremony will appear so interesting, posted on the Internet will certainly lead to more hot topic! The atmosphere was swept away from the previous dullness, and the opening ceremony continued with the help of this master. There were no twists and turns in the ceremony that followed, and Lottie and the others finished the incense without incident. But Nancy, because she was upset, when she put on incense because she was thinking about something, she was accidentally burned by the ashes that fell, and the back of her hand was red. She didn't dare to speak up either. Lottie could buy the priest to put in a good word for her in public, and she couldn't guarantee the priest would burn her, they'llnt back to the RV and also in order to prevent the material from sneaking in cleared to preventress. Jeremy doesn't know yet that he's been targeted by Ralph. Although Lottie didn't kill him yesterday, but in the end he suffered a big loss, every part of his body hurts, even more than when he used to work for someone as a martial arts substitute. Although his appearance is not as exquisite as Alfred, but is also a rare Zhouzheng English, relying on this natural "male face", not a lot of female fans shouting husband. To this point, Jeremy's heart is secretly happy, and the more important to him this face. Usually not less asked his assistant to buy him a mask or water cream, secretly nurtured his face. Lottie didn't miss a beatdown in his face yesterday. Yesterday it was fine, today the face is swollen into a pig's head. This makes the smelly Jeremy angry, in and out of the hospital are wearing masks sunglasses, to their own face covered tightly, not dare to let people know his identity. Ralph put out the word, he is dissatisfied with Lottie again, but also dare not meet him face to face, can only secretly to lan on the eye. "The good thing is that the injury is not serious, the director's side gave me a few days off, otherwise if the bones are broken, you still have to temporarily withdraw from the group, to the crew are brought to trouble." Jeremy said while showing a bitter smile and peeked at lan's reaction with his eyes. lan frowned slightly, "You still call that not a serious injury?" Jeremy sighed, "I didn't hurt my bones, what can be considered a major injury? When I was in school, when I helped you teach those punks a lesson, the injuries I sustained were much more serious than this." lan's face changed slightly as the words reminded him of what had happened before.

When he was in school, he was never well liked, because he was not liked by the elders in his family and his personality was rather withdrawn.

He has good grades and a good face, and often some little girls write him love letters. As a result, he was often targeted by the school's uneducated scum. The scum united with off-campus thugs to take a shot at him, sometimes beating him up, sometimes extorting money. lan would initially resist, but there were too many opponents, two fists could not defeat four hands, and later he learned to keep a low profile and try not to provoke those punks. But even with such a low profile, forbearance is not a permanent solution. This society is so strange, the more careful and cautious you are, the more you have to be bullied. lan has been blocked a few times by off-campus punks, and each time he's been beaten up and bruised. by, saw him being beaten up, and it was cbut Jeremy rushed punks a hard lesson, but they both d fight was denouncedching office to be disciplined togetht, but later on, somehow, Jeremy helped hiare friends in lan's lis why they haveest times, but after he became a movie

Alfred's women's clothing is truly stunning. He is already good-looking, and slender, put on a hair cover makeup, put on a long light pink dress, do not look at the throat, the end of a national beauty. Alfred came out after putting on his makeup and the people on set were stunned. Connie even looked straight, and couldn't wait to take out her cell phone to take a 360-degree shot of Alfred in order to be worthy of his outstanding looks. Lottie and the others wanted to see Alfred's joke, but the man had already appeared, and Lottie was suddenly dumbfounded. The genes of the Bartons family, I should say. The look is really unbelievable. "Worthy of Connie's 'goddess', such a look to deserve!" Alfred directly rolled his eyes, nonchalantly dislike Lottie: "You first do not care whether I can afford, a moment of le horse play, you can?" According to the script, Lottie will have to go up to control the crazy horses, but also to pull Alfred up from the wheelchair, and the two of them will have to fish in the air weave "fly" for a while. Alfred's performance was nothing difficult, just sitting in a wheelchair and chatting with the vendor, and then he was pulled up by Lottie, except for that final bullying, basically not half as difficult. Lottie added a lot of action scenes, in order to be able to shoot the first scene well, the director is very painstaking, but also hired a very famous martial arts director over, in order to make a moment to shoot out of the picture looks good. And Javion's requirements have always been high, he will not let the post to make a fake horse or direct keying in order to perfume the audience or protect the actors. Said the circus, it must be on the real horse. The vertical horse is really vertical horse, stopping the horse is also really stopping the horse. If this action is not shot well, but will be injured. Lottie raised her lips and said to Alfred, "You think I won't make it?" Alfred is silent.

When I think of Lottie's past "fierce" behavior, I silently shut up. With Lottie's skills, it should be a breeze to tame a wild horse, right? With that in mind, Alfred stopped worrying and discussed with Lottie about his walk later, and was pushed to his place by his assistant. Javion looks at the monitor feed and nods in satisfaction. Take out the microphone and shout, "Are you ready? The first shoot of The Twins is about to start, and you have to go through it all, okay?" Lottie and Alfred answered in unison. I fan and tells her to go wait off to the all fan in her hand and you want to open the door, shouldn't you be if you're asking for Lottie and Ian, that Lottie or are you worse I'm worryingly reacted, "Of course I'm worried about where smiling, and there was and lowered her head to Connie, "Mr. Her have that wasn't to go is high, but this is also her first time tall of people, so it's not uncommon to
