Oh wow, I got a lot more of EXP than I ever expected. Well, it takes over a week to harvest this many plants and herbs at the same time, so I didn't get as much EXP back when I was just harvesting by little bits. The higher the Grade of what's being harvested, the higher the EXP it will yield.

Thanks to all the other EXP Bonus, most of what I harvested ended giving 100 EXP each, and I harvested so many that I got it all up to over 12k EXP! Now this is an amazing progress! I am finally Level 18... Now two more levels to go for Level 20, after that, I can finally Evolve and also change Job Class into a greater one than just Farmer! Maybe Shepherd or something?

"Phew... Well I should plant the seeds I got now..."

I quickly began distributing the seeds everywhere. The Mushroom Brigade was nowhere to be seen and I was growing a bit worried, Belle, Loki, and Silver were wandering around the farm and already came to greet me when I logged on.

However, after I planted all seeds, I suddenly saw a large shadow approaching from the forest, it was the entire group of twenty Mushrooms, they were carrying a big beast with their little arms, all together!

"W-What is this?!"

It looked like some sort of boar... Oh! I've seen these, they're Giant Wild Boars, pretty strong Monsters of this forest. Though I am not really interested in hunting them so I don't actively seek them, I've heard that they got some tasty meat, but they're strong and big, so it's harder to capture them.

"Our Lady! We have brought you a gift!"

"It took us a few hours but we caught him, it is a Level 18 Giant Black Horned Wild Boar!"

"It is big and the meat is tasty!"

BOOOM!!!

The enormous beast fell into the floor. It was actually still alive, they brought it alive?! They captured this thing!

"W-Wait, that's still alive! It hasn't turned into materials yet!" I said desperately.

"Precisely!"

"Please kill it yourself to gain EXP!"

"It is our duty to make our lady stronger."

"While you're working hard in the other world, we must work hard for you as well."

"You guys..." I sighed. I moved forward and thanked them...

The giant boar was still breathing angrily, and he was looking straight at me! Uwah, this is actually a bit scary; I've never seen such a beast so close by... S-Should I really kill it? What if... Wait, can't I tame it? I can! Maybe... but the meat... Ugh, I guess I cannot just disappoint them.

I took out the stick from the tree of beginnings, which in this entire time I had finally shaped into a weapon. I decided to make it a spear, which I decorated with wood from my own body, and other plants and magic through the Crafting Skill. Although it is a spear it can shapeshift to many other shapes, and the wood durability is as hard if not harder than steel itself, or even magic infused metals due to belonging to an ancient and very durable tree.

I took out my [Spear of the Tree Of Beginnings] and then pointed it at the boar... Thanks to being a Farmer, I can equip any weapon without restrictions, actually. It is weird, there is another Class that can do that such as the Weapon Masters, but I could have never guessed Farmers didn't have restrictions in weapons either, it must be part of their "all-rounding" archetype.

CLASH!

"GRYYYYHH...!"

The Wild Boar gave out a loud and agonizing cry, as it died by being pierced in the head by the strong Spear I have crafted. I had enhanced its tip using the scales of the Lake Snake too, which were very sharp, and it had become an exceptional weapon. Of course, I also had used the help of the crafters at Acorn's Village, and the Mushrooms that specialized in crafting.

POOF!

As I saw the storm of notifications, the entire boar exploded into white light particles and disappeared, leaving several item icons floating in the floor, which were automatically retrieved by me and placed inside of my Inventory.

And... well, I ended leveling up all the way to Level 19! What is this?! Well, I already had 10k EXP and I needed 17k EXP for Level 19... So I gained 8k EXP from the Boar... Wow, I am really doing this now of all times? Well, I am happy of how convenient everything is, but still... Ugh, well, I should just be happy that this is happening.

Being Level 19 in such a whim... Now I am only around 17k EXP off getting to Level 20! Maybe I can get the rest by cooking a lot!

After getting down the Wild Boar, the Mushroom Brigade decided to help in cooking. Chef, the talented cooking specialist of the Brigade had been helping me at cooking since he was summoned with us, and he's a gentle and cheerful little mushroom. I was already missing Rita and Titan here, and even more Acorn, but it was late already, probably those three were sleeping for all I know.
