Brand New Life Online: Rise Of The Goddess Of Harvest

Chapter 85: The Guild's Interest

The Fair-Fight System was a newly implemented System to the game that was added just two months ago. It was given so Players could do PvP fairly even when there was a difference in level. For these fights, both players had to agree and then it would begin. The Fair Fight System will lower the Stats, Skill Levels, and more of the highest-level player so it can be compared to the lowest-level player, making the fight incredibly fair! It was a system that caused an uproar around the entire player base, and now even tournaments that allowed any level player were opened, which became a great event that often shook players and also many viewers, as such tournaments were all live on TV and other Streaming services.

Elena was a rather avid PvP player, she was known as the Dark Reaper not for just her player name, she was indeed like a Dark Reaper. The combination of her Blue Oni Demon Race and her Samurai Job Class made her into an incredibly strong offensive player that dealt insane amounts of damage and was so fast she could evade most physical and magical attacks! She was feared by the entire Player Base, but also admired by her graceful beauty. Amongst the PvP Tournament Ranks held once every month, she was Ranked 27th! In the top 30 amongst millions of players! It was indeed an incredible feat.

Elena secretly had a great obsession with challenging strong players to PvP through the Fair Fight System, levels or skills didn't mattered through it, so it was all up to their own ability to learn how to fight using what they got. Her mother, of course, was completely unaware of her battle junkie nature in the game, and was also completely unaware that her player avatar was moving towards her direction right about now, seeking to challenge her into a duel!

...And while the Player Base went insane, the Guilds were just as insane as well, going completely nuts while seeing what had happened, in specific, the four Guilds dedicated to searching for World Building Lore, Story-relate Quests, and the like, who always added information into the Game's unofficial fan-made Wiki Page. Now, all four Guild Masters of such guilds were gathering in a single hall, these four figures were accompanied by their retainers and best friends in the game, making eight powerful players discussing what had just happened!

The four guilds dedicated to these tasks were highly respected despite not being dedicated to PvP, Level Grinding for Total Power, or Resource Grinding and Item Production, these four Guilds were the Grimoire Collectors, the Knowledge Library, the Akashic Owls, and lastly, the Record Keepers! All four Guilds had made an alliance several years ago, led by the Record Keepers as their Leading Guild, they were one of the first guilds to establish a peaceful Alliance, shaking the game world back then, as most guilds were always fighting against one another in the Guild Wars Game System, which rewarded guilds that participated with bountiful loot, skills, and special unique subclasses and more.

"I am glad to see you all here, it seems that the recent things had not slipped your grasp. This Player Planta... We have to recruit her." The first to talk was a beautiful girl with long pink hair and cat-like ears and a tail, which were also pink. She was wearing a blue and black robes, and her eyes shone bright yellow. She had the Nekomata Race, a race of cat-like folk that was great at magic and record-keeping, and her Class was Sacred Librarian... She was Anikitty, the Guild Master of the Knowledge Library Guild!

"I was thinking the same as well, Anikitty, dear." Said a rather creepy-looking pale-white man. He wore black robes and his eyes shone bright red beneath his hood, which darkened most of his face. He was holding into a staff with a skull stuck to it, and his entire body was almost skeletal and he emanated the aura of an Undead... He was the Ghoul Necromancer Player Erdrich, who was the Guild Master of the Grimoire Collectors, a guild originally made to collect Grimoire Items that contained a lot of world lore and power. "Hehehe... But who's gonna get her? We are four here... I am already smelling some conflict... Heh..."

"I know we stand no chance compared to you guys, but we want to try and get her as well." Said a tall old man with a long white beard, resembling a typical old wizard and even holding a staff with an enormous blue jewel incrusting on it emanating a strong aura of mana... He was the Human Wizard Gandalf! A player that named himself after a figure of fantasy books which he admired. He was one of the oldest known players in the game, at the age of 57, although he had modified his face to look even older through accessories such as a false beard. He was the guild master of the Akashic Owls, and a strong wizard!

"Hahaha... I knew we would end up fighting for her... But this is how it is. She's way too valuable and we don't even know if she'll accept our request. But if she's a newbie, there's the possibility we can trick her into joining us easily with some items to lure her... The thing is, how can we decide who picks her? Hehe... I wouldn't mind some PvP with my fellow librarians, but we are gatherers of information and knowledge, not innate fighters, aren't we?" Asked a beautiful woman with long blonde hair and glowing blue eyes, she had a big pair of feathered, white-colored wings behind her and she wore a beautiful and sexy white dress barely covering her body, she was an Angel Holy Priestess, Angelina, the Guild Master of the Record Keepers!

Four Guild Masters were going to secretly fight for Planta! An event that had never happened before between all these peaceful Guilds... Planta had truly changed the game world more than she could have ever imagined.
