

Chapter 174 Teach Amara A Lesson

The next morning, Amara went to the hospital with the branded bag she had just bought.

In the corridor of the hospital, Ryan and Elena were still waiting.

Amara walked closer and said disdainfully, “Yo, no matter what, you two are both people with status. How can you be like this? It will be a joke to outsiders.”

Elena saw the way the woman in front of her dressed and was extremely angry in her heart.

“Grandfather is seriously ill, but you are wearing the look of a coquettish bitch for who to see?”

Amara originally did not like Elena and did not expect that this woman would actually educate her.

“Elena, you are meddling in too many things. Do I need to report to you about what I am wearing? You want to monopolize our family property. Just say it directly. Why do you have to beat around the bush and chase me away? You want to take care of grandpa and leave a good name for yourself, right? You don’t even have a door! The Lewis family’s property can only be mine!”

Elena heard this woman say such words and immediately stood up. Her face was somewhat pale. “Property? You only know about property! What else do you know other than property? Isn’t the most important thing right now is grandfather’s safety?

“Elena, don’t be shameless. I have already given Grandfather enough face by coming here today. If you continue to shout, don’t blame me for being impolite.”

As Amara spoke, she stepped forward and forcefully pinched Elena’s chin, “Elena, a person must know how to be smooth. Otherwise, you will only be waiting for a death like Grandfather.”

Elena pushed Amara away. She pointed at her and shouted fiercely, “Is this your respect for grandpa? You keep saying that you are filial to grandpa, but in the end, what happened? If grandpa knew what you just said, he would be very disappointed.”

Amara did not care at all. “Since you are so filial, then you will pay for grandfather’s expenses in the hospital.”

Amara stood at the side, her eyes filled with disdain. In the past, she might have pretended to be humble, but now there was no need to.

Elena was just about to say something when her head felt dizzy and she fell onto the chair.

Seeing this, Ryan immediately supported her. “What’s wrong?”

“I feel a little dizzy.” Elena shook her head hard as if she was filled in a pool of muddy water. It was not clean at all.

Amara sneered, “If you can’t do it, then pretend to be sick? Since you don’t want to support grandpa, then shut your mouth. If you don’t have the ability, then don’t pretend to be stupid. Also, didn’t you want to find out the truth? You can go and investigate. Only grandpa knew how he fell down. You have to pray for grandpa to wake up, or else your wish will come to nothing.”

Hearing such unbearable words, Ryan opened his mouth and said coldly, “Please don’t boast shamelessly here.”

“I didn’t expect that a disabled person would also want to teach me a lesson. I really don’t know how you have the face to live until now. You don’t have any ability and still dare to compete with Roman for the position of the company’s president.”

Amara looked down on these two people from the bottom of her heart. In her heart, only Roman was worthy of her. She didn’t know why her grandfather would let her marry Ryan.

Fortunately, Elena, this idiot, was there. Seeing that the two of them had such a good relationship, it really looked like a joke.

Elena originally did not want to entangle with this woman. But she did not expect that she would say bad things about Ryan. She endured the dizziness, stood up, and slapped Amara’s exquisite face.

“Amara, shut your mouth. If it wasn’t for my husband, your family would have been begging in the streets and now you dare to insult him! If I hear another terrible sentence, I will definitely not let you off.”

