

Chapter 211 He Called Aunty

As soon as Ryan received the call, his face turned cold. He wanted to refuse immediately but before he could say anything, Amanda had already hung up the phone.

Elena looked at Ryan and said, "It isn't even been an hour since we returned and they already know that we are back. It seems that there are many people in our house who are Amanda's men."

They had already left Hai City for a few months. It was very easy for some people to come in and keep an eye on their movements.

Ryan's face was gloomy. "It seems that these people in the house cannot be kept."

They had only left for a few months, but Amanda could no longer hold herself back and stuffed people into his house. It seemed that she wanted to tear off all pretenses with him.

Elena looked at Ryan's gloomy expression and said softly. "We should go to the Monor family tonight."

Since Amanda wanted to see them so badly, shouldn't they show themselves off in front of her and make her unhappy?

Ryan's expression was heavy. Even though he didn't want to see those people, he knew very well that Amanda wouldn't sit stand. So it was better to go there.

When the two of them returned to the Monor family's old residence, they discovered that the atmosphere in the house was heavy. It seemed as if they just had a big fight.

Elena didn't know why but the more she looked at these people, she more disgusted she felt in her heart. But she didn't show it in her face. She quietly pushed Ryan into the hall.

Ryan looked at the group of people in front of him. He didn't have any expression in his face but his eyes were filled with endless sarcasm.

Charles was originally very angry. He had a big fight with Amanda and others just now.

But when he saw Elena's bulging stomach, he immediately let go of all the unhappiness in his heart. He quickly stood up with a kind smile on his face. "Elena, quickly come and sit. Don't tire yourself up. "

"Thank you, Dad." Elena pushed Ryan to the sofa and sat across from Charles.

Amara looked at Elena's delicate figures and her big stomach. She gave her a sarcastic smile.

"Sister, you are really arrogant now. I called you personally to come back to attend the wedding of me and your brother-in-law, but you didn't come. And when everything is over, you are coming. If this gets out, what will people think of our Lewis family?"

"Elder sister, you are good at acting. But I couldn't come over back then."

Elena smiled and said lightly, "I went out to raise the fetus. Now that the fetus has stabilized, I came back to prepare to give birth. But seeing that older sister has become more charming, could it be that she is also pregnant?"

"You... You better shut up." Amara could not help but raise her voice when she heard Elena's words, "Elena, what nonsense are you saying?"

Elena frowned slightly. She didn't say anything to provoke Amara but why this woman was so agitated.

Ryan silently leaned over and gently said to Elena, "It is understandable for her to be so agitated. She just had a miscarriage."

Elena did not expect Amara to have a miscarriage. No wonder she lost control of her emotions just now.

"Now the two of you are really putting on airs. We are the elders. We asked you to come back to attend your big brother's wedding, but you actually did not come back."

Amanda sat at the side and looked at the two of them, feeling even more furious in her heart.

In her whole life, she always wanted to show off in front of Ryan. Roman and Amara's wedding was the best occasion for them to do so. But she didn't expect that not to mention coming back, Ryan didn't even bother to answer her phone calls after that.

"Do I need to come back? My brother also didn't come to my wedding back then." Ryan took an orange and peeled it for Elena as he casually said.

"Ryan, you raised you up. Is this how you repay us? If I knew this would happen, I would have strangled you to death back then."

Amanda was so angry that forgot her manners. She totally did not care about the feelings of the others present.

Ryan looked coldly at Amanda and sneered. "Auntie, it's too late even if you regret it now."

When Amanda heard the word "auntie", her body stiffened. Then, she looked at Ryan. Her face was full of disbelief. "What did you call me? You called me auntie? I raised you up, but you actually called me Auntie?"

"If you don't give birth, you are not my mother. Calling you auntie is enough." Ryan peeled off the orange petals and handed it to Elena. When he looked at the woman beside him, his expression instantly changed and his eyes were full of tenderness.

Amanda instantly covered her chest when she heard Ryan's words. She then turned around to look at Charles. "Look at your good son. He actually treated me like this. He actually called me auntie. I raised him up. Could it be that I can't get a word mother in exchange?"

Amanda couldn't expect it. Even though she hated Ryan all her might, in her eyes it was inevitable for Ryan to call her mother.

Although Charles knew that it was inappropriate for Ryan to do this, he still didn't say anything in the end.

Ryan sat in the wheelchair and listened to Amanda nagging at the side. He could not help but feel irritated in his heart. "The grace of nurturing with the heart of a snake and scorpion, these are offset. If you are still not satisfied, then, should I keep the secret of the Monor family?"

Ryan smiled coldly, his eyes filled with coldness.

Amanda could not hold it in any longer. "What heart of a snake and a scorpion? What secrets does the Monor family have for you to keep? Do you think you are still the Ryan Monor from before? You have nothing now!"
