

Chapter 229 Whether He Stays Or Goes, I Have The Final Say

Roman was forced to leave. Even if he insisted on staying, it was useless.

There were still a few people who supported Roman. So they tried to stop him. To them Roman was an easy going person. No matter how much he tried to show his strength, he was useless.

But Ryan... He was a really ruthless and cunning man. They had already seen Ryan's method of doing things five years ago and knew if Ryan really became the president, he won't let them stay in peace anymore. So they were unwilling.

"Director Monor, you must not leave! If you really leave, all the people around us will belong to Ryan."

"The empire you personally conquered, could it be that you are going to hand it over to someone else just like that? Are you willing to give it away?" One of the senior board members stood up. His tone was full of unwillingness.

However, no matter how unwilling they were, there was no other way. The Monor Group had already been purchased by Ryan. Staying was not something they could decide long ago.

After hearing the unwillingness of the directors, Ryan said coldly, "No matter how unwilling you people are, I have the final say in whether he stays or goes. As for whether you guys want to stay or follow him, I have no objections."

They had followed Roman for many years. Now that they had changed their master, they were naturally unwilling to follow him.

But it didn't matter to him. It was even better if all these filthy people leave together.

In the end, only one Director chose to stay. "Mr. Monor, I don't mind. Let me talk to your big brother."

"No, I don't mind. This is your own business. Whatever you want to do is your choice. If you stay, I will treat you well. If you leave, I won't force you."

Ryan could be considered a reasonable person. He did not care about the content of his conversation with Roman.

The Director who spoke earlier was called Jeff. Jeff pulled Roman to the side. He did not know what Ryan was thinking when he returned, but he knew that it would not be as good as what he said.

Jeff held Roman's hand with anticipation. "Is Director Monor really going to give up just like that? You never thought of making a comeback? If you give up just like that, won't it benefit Ryan?"

"Ryan has come with a menacing aura this time, and his legs are just for show. This has been planned for a long time. None of us will be able to defeat that man." Roman said bitterly.

"Young Master Monor, if you give up like this, how can we support you? Since we have been following you for a long time, we would follow you for the rest of our lives." Jeff said honestly.

"So what if I don't want to give up? I'm not willing to be suppressed by that man for the rest of my life and be stepped on by him."

"If I don't leave, Ryan will definitely humiliate me every day. Rather than being oppressed by him, I might as well just leave. "

The one thing Roman hated the most in his life was the thought of Ryan suppressing him. And now his thought had really become reality. He more and less didn't want to accept it.

Roman paused for a moment then continued, "I know that none of you here want to leave. You can choose to stay by his side. I promise that once I have the ability and can start from scratch, I will welcome all of you as long as you are willing to."

Roman had his own pride. He was not willing to be subservient to others especially from his half-brother whom he always looked down.

Previously, when he was the president, Ryan did not take the initiative to suppress him. So he thought Ryan gave up on the idea to compete with him.

It was not easy for him to get the position of chairman, but in the end, it turned out he had no real power.

This Ryan really knew how to disguise himself. He could actually endure for so long and keep a low profile.

Jeff also knew that Roman had not been easy these few years. He was always in the pressure and fear of losing.

To Charles, they were all his sons. It didn't matter who took the position of chairman. So Charles didn't take these conflicts onto his heart.

But now, the company had been bought over by Ryan. Charles, as the chairman, did not even show up. It obviously showed his attitude. He did not want to bother with it.

Jeff thought for a moment and said with some doubt, "It's a little weird. If Ryan was really capable of purchasing the whole group, why didn't he do it earlier? Why did he wait till now?"

Then he paused and said certainly. "There must be a reason why Ryan suddenly bought over the Monor Group. As for what the reason is. . . We don't know."

Regarding this, Roman also felt that it was possible. He and Ryan had yet to shed all pretenses of cordiality, or perhaps a direct confrontation. Logically speaking, this shouldn't be the case. No matter how much Ryan hated him, he wouldn't have bought the whole group directly.

But if it was not the case, then what was the reason? Why did Ryan suddenly become this crazy?

But no matter how much Roman thought, he couldn't even find a reasonable answer.

At this time, Roman suddenly thought of something. "It seems like my sister-in-law hasn't shown her face for a long time. Until now, I haven't seen her and Ryan appear in public."

No, Ryan and Elena were inseparable. No matter what happened they couldn't live without each other.

But they seemed to have been separated for a long time. Then there must be something strange between them.

However, there was no news at all, so they were not having a divorce or separating from each other.

If the two of them did not have a conflict, there is only one reason left.

Elena must be in trouble!

That was why Ryan was behaving like a lunatic.

The possibility of this was high.
