

Chapter 255 Finn Appeared

When he arrived at the company, Ryan's expression was serious. He was a completely different person from when he was at home just now.

Jasper hurriedly handed a document to Ryan. "Mr. Monor, I found this at the door when I came today. I thought it was something fell to the ground by a staff. But I didn't expect it to be about the information about the Madam being kidnapped after I opened it."

Ryan was a little excited after hearing it. "Who put it there?"

Jasper shook his head. "I haven't found it yet. That person avoided all the cameras. I don't even know when this thing was put there."

Jasper was sure that that person must be an expert.

"Continue to investigate. As long as he came over, there would be traces left behind. I don't believe that this man appeared out of thin air. Send more people. We must find this person who sent the information."

"Yes." Jasper hurriedly ran out after receiving the order.

Ryan's eyes were full of ruthlessness. It seemed like someone wanted to rebel.

"Mr. Monor, don't you think this matter is very strange?" Xavier, who was silent whole the time, opened his mouth. He kept feeling that something was wrong with this matter.

"Are you trying to say how that person avoided all the cameras?" Ryan raised his brows and asked.

"Yes, our company is one of the best in Hai City. The security measures are also very good. It's impossible for him to avoid all the cameras." Jasper had just said that there were no traces of that person captured in the CCTV. In Xavier's opinion, this was impossible.

Ryan thought for a while and then said, "So, you want to say that the man is in the company now?"

"Yes." Xavier felt that only the people in the company could be so secretive and could avoid all the security cameras without anyone's notice.

Ryan narrowed his dark eyes and his eyes flashed with a fierce light, "Go and check on the people in the company. Report to me immediately if there are any suspicious people."

"There's no need to investigate. I'm here by myself."

Before Ryan could finish his sentence, a voice interrupted him.

Ryan turned around to the source of the voice. At the door, a man wearing a cap and mask walked in.

"Who are you?" Xavier raised his guard as soon as he noticed the man coming. How did this man come in?

Finn took off his hat and mask and directly sat opposite to Ryan. "You guys have been searching me all the time. Now that I came, you asked me who I am?" Finn looked at Ryan meaningfully then said with a smile. "Well, I am Finn Biggs."

Ryan suddenly stood up when he heard these words.

Finn, the man who helped Elena give birth.

Ryan waved his hand and asked Xavier to leave. He then sat on his chair and raised his head. "We have been looking for you for a long time, but you did not appear. Why did you come by yourself today?"

Finn curled up his lips after hearing it. He looked at the handsome man opposite to him and said calmly, "Hiding and running are not easy. So before you come to me, I better come to you myself."

He had been driven crazy by Ryan during this period of time. Every time he changed places, he would be discovered. He could only escape. Now that he had nowhere else to go, he might as well show himself.

"Are the children alright?" Although Finn had been hiding from Ryan, he was paying attention to Elena's news. He had not heard anything about Elena's accident, which meant that the children and Elena had survived.

"Very good." Ryan replied. If it wasn't for Finn, Elena and his children wouldn't have been able to live.

Hearing Ryan's affirmative words, Finn smiled in satisfaction. "That's good."

After helping Elena that day, in order to save himself, he immediately run away without thinking about the poor woman who just gave birth to two children. Although he wasn't a good man, but he still blamed himself for his selfishness. Now that hearing the mother and children, three of them, were safe and sound, he felt less guilty.

There was an awkward silence filled in the spacious office room as none of the man took the initiative to talk as both of them had their own thoughts in their minds.

Finn carefully glanced at the man opposite to him. As he had heard before, this man was indeed calm and collected. After pondering for a moment, Finn borke the silence first, "I have already delivered myself to your doorstep, why aren't you arresting me?"

"Why should I arrest you?" Ryan raised his eye brows and asked back.

"I am with the people who kidnapped your wife."

"But you are the only one who saved my wife." Ryan stood up and handed a photo placed on the table to Finn. "My wife told me about you. We want to thank you in person. "

Finn took the photo and took a look. It was a picture of Elena holding the babies. She was sitting on a bench of the yard and holding both the babies in her both arms. The sunrays shone on them and Elena had a happy smile on her face. She must be very happy now.

Finn looked at the picture for a moment before putting it down. A person like him did not deserve such happiness.

"Huh." Finn chuckled. "You just want to know who is behind this."

Finn didn't believe Ryan. If this man wanted to thank him, he could just release the news and let him know. Why did he need to go through so much trouble to catch him again and again?

"Finn, let's not talk about this openly. I do want to know who is behind this from you, but I won't touch a single hair of yours." It wasn't because of anything else, but because Finn had saved his wife and child. Their contributions were equal. They didn't owe anyone anything.

Finn looked at Ryan silently and carefully. He did not know whether Ryan's words were true or not.

"Mr. Biggs, you don't have to look at me like that. You came here to tell me about the kidnapping. Why are you trying to probe me?"

Even though he knew what the consequences could be, Finn still came to him. So he must have some conditions to exchange for the kidnapping. The reason he tried to test Ryan was because he wanted to know Ryan's intentions. Was he reliable?

Finn smiled faintly. "Sure enough, Mr. Monor is very straightforward. I have come to talk to Mr. Monor about kidnapping, but I also have my conditions."

Ryan could see the man's concerns. "Mr. Biggs, if you have something to say, just say it."

"I want you to help me catch a person." Finn's eyes suddenly turned cold, even his body started trembling.

Finn thought of his wife and children. They were also in such a predicament at that time. If they had met a good person who helped her carry out the child, his wife and children would not have been in trouble.

"Who is it?" Ryan narrowed his eyes and looked at the man who was trembling.

Seeing Finn's reaction, Ryan knew that he must have a secret, a secret of hatred.

"A damn man!!" Finn's face was full of hatred. If that man was here, Finn would definitely shred him into a million pieces.
