

Chapter 261 Other Intensions

It was still a little warm in the middle of July.

Elena was pushing the two little fellows, who were in the baby cart, for a walk in the yard.

These days, she had been recovering very well. And she had almost recovered from her postpartum period.

After Ryan went to the Monor Group, Elena basically had no work at home as Ryan had arranged a lot of servants and maids, who did everything for her. So she usually took the twins and scroll around the yard.

This had become her favorite work recently.

Just as Elena was scrolling around, unexpectedly, a car stopped at the door of the villa. A tall woman walked out of the car, followed by a young child.

Elena looked up when she saw the commotion. She saw that it was actually Amber.

It had been several months when she met Amber. The last time she met with Amber was before she went to Western Europe with Ryan.

"Miss Lewis, long time no see." Amber wore a faint smile on her face and carried something, as she walked in.

"Hello, Miss Thomas. Long time no see." Elena smiled back and greeted Amber. Then she looked at the child behind Amber and asked doubtfully. "This is..."

Amber pulled the hand of the boy behind her and said with a smile, "This is my son, Sam. Sam, quickly greet Auntie."

"Hello Auntie." Sam stood straight and saluted Elena.

"Hello." Elena looked at Sam and smiled. He was young, but he had a heroic spirit. He would definitely be a great talent in the future.

"Come in and take a seat." Elena pushed the two children into the house as she invited Amber in.

Elena sat on the sofa gracefully and instructed the maids. "Make some tea for Miss Thomas."

Then she turned to Amber, "Miss Thomas, why did you have time to come here today when Ryan isn't around? Have you finished dealing with the company's matters?"

Ever since Ryan took over the company, Amber specially rushed back from the capital to help him. This is something for which they should be grateful towards Amber.

Amber smiled and said, "I took a leave of absence today. I took the opportunity when Ryan isn't around to come and see you and the children."

As she spoke, Amber squatted down and looked at the two children in the baby carriage. One was sleeping soundly, but the other was still lively looking left and right. They really resembled Elena.

Elena looked at Amber deeply for a moment before asking slowly, "How did Miss Thomas know that I gave birth?"

Apart from some close friends and the Monor Family, no one knew that she had already given birth. So how could Amber possibly know about it?

Amber was stunned for a moment when she heard the sudden question. She then stood up with a smile and avoided Elena's gaze, "I heard it from Ryan before. I was too busy during this period of time so I couldn't able to come."

After saying that, Amber didn't wait for Elena's response and looked at Sam who was beside her. "Sam, you take your younger brother and sister to walk around the room. I have something to say to Auntie."

Sam obediently stood up and pushed the baby cart around the room.

Elena glanced at Amber but didn't say anything.

Seeing that the three children were no longer by her side, Amber then opened her mouth. "Miss Lewis, do you know what Roman is doing now?"

Elena shook her head. "I don't know. Ever since I got pregnant, I have not interfered in the company's matters."

"Roman created a new company by himself. Its name is also Monor Group. It is currently competing with Ryan's company." Amber said unhurriedly while observing Elena's expression.

"As expected."

Elena wasn't surprised. Ryan and Roman had never gotten along well. Now that Roman had left the Monor Group, he naturally had to find a chance to suppress Ryan.

"Don't you have any doubts? Where did Roman get such a large sum of money to start a company that is on par with Ryan?" Amber asked back.

Elena thought for a while before she opened her mouth. "You mean to say that Roman has someone supporting him from behind?"

"That's right." Amber took out a document from her bag and handed it to Elena.

"This is the information about Roman's company that I asked someone to investigate. To set up this company, one must have billions of capital invested. Even if Roman had taken quite a bit of money from the Monor Group over the years, it was impossible for him to invest all his money into the company. Roman seems to have nothing to fear. So he must have received support from the people behind him."

Elena heard Amber's words as she flipped through a few pages of information.

Just as Amber had said, Roman's company had sufficient funds and had a large number of customers. If this continued, Ryan's Monor Group would be swallowed by Roman in less than three months.

Elena placed the information on the coffee table and looked up at Amber. She said faintly, "Miss Thomas, if you have something to say, just say it."

Amber's visit today was very weird and unusual. When she heard Amber say that she came here because Ryan was not around, it seemed that she wanted to understand some of the situation here but did not want Ryan to know about it. In other words, Amber had other intensions for her visit today.

On the surface, she seemed to have been talking about Roman, however the meaning behind her words were something else.

"Miss Lewis is indeed a smart person. She can understand it with just a little bit."

Amber put away the information and came straight to the point, "I want to ask you, does Ryan have other companies overseas?"
