

Chapter 309 Postpone The Wedding

Since the day Taylor kidnapped her son to force her to marry into the Landford family, Amber began to doubt on Taylor's actions.

And to her surprise, she really found something fishy about Taylor.

After all, from the day she was born, Taylor never really cared about her. He just used her as a chess piece to gain more glory and power. So how could he possibly think about her future and happiness?

Furthermore, the Thomas family would never find someone to rely on so quickly. But the wedding between the Thomas family and Landford family arranged in no time.

So, the only explanation was that something had happened to Taylor.

And he needed someone to help him get over it.

Amber had already sent people to investigate about the situation a few days ago. And she discovered something really interesting.

Taylor Thomas had actually started to sell firearms behind everyone's back. He relied on his own identity to play favorites and cheat everyone.

However, a while ago, due to carelessness, a batch of goods had been missed, which aroused suspicions and the higher-ups had already begun to investigate it.

After Taylor found out about this, he could not wait to let her marry into the Langford family. He wanted the Langford family's power to help him solve this matter.

"You. . . What did you know?" Taylor's eyes flashed violently. He had already covered up this matter and did not let anyone know about it. He also made his men keep their mouths shut. How did Amber find out about this?

"Taylor Thomas, what do you think I have been working in the army all these years for? Not only I found out that you have been selling illegal firearms, but I also know the matter of you using your private power to do corruption. And I even have found evidence about your glorious works. It was just that I did not want to expose you before." Amber said with a smile.

When Amber found out about these things back then, she had already gathered all of the evidence. Amber knew that since such a thing had happened, Taylor would definitely use her to trade against his freedom, so she wanted to keep these trump cards to give herself a way out.

Taylor fell on the sofa paralyzed. His eyes widened as he looked at his daughter in disbelief. He originally thought that sending her into the army was to pave the way for him, but he did not expect that she would actually grow up to the extent to threaten him.

"Why are you looking at me like that? Is it because of what I said that you don't dare to shout at me anymore?" Amber had made up her mind not to let anyone change her life ever since that thing had happened to her.

Back then, the people of Thomas family gave her away because they thought she was a girl. After the incident in Thomas family, they brought her back and trained her like a dog. In the end, she could only become the chess piece of the family that was sacrificed.

She already had enough in these few years. Now, she would not let anyone ruin her life anymore.

When Matilda saw that the atmosphere between the father and daughter had turned so tense, she quickly tried to dissuade her daughter, "Amber, don't say that about your father. He did it for the sake of our family's good. Aren't you also a part of Thomas family? The glory of the Thomas family is also the glory of you."

"And your marriage with William, your father arranged it because he thought it is not easy for you to take care of your child by all yourself. Sam does need a father by his side. Furthermore, the Langford family is the leader of the four families. By marrying William, you will get endless respect and glory. You father just found a suitable partner for you to rely on."

Matilda said everything she thought could convince Amber.

"Endless respect and glory?"

When she heard Matilda's words, Amber's cold eyes fell upon Matilda, "I thought that you are the only one who treats me the best in this family. I didn't expect that you would collude with Taylor to trick me into marrying into the Langford family to fill the hole in Thomas family."

Matilda was shocked by Amber and quickly explained. "No. No. You are my biological daughter. How could I do something like this?"

"Heh, is that so?" Amber laughed sarcastically.

When Matilda heard Amber's mocking laughter, she felt a little guilty in her heart. "We are all tied up together. If something happens to the Thomas family, you will also be implicated."

"Don't say such high-sounding words to me. I have already promised to marry William, so I won't go back on my word. However, I have a condition. Now the wedding will be postponed by two months." According to the stipulated time, Amber and William's wedding would be held the day after tomorrow. She had to buy herself some time.

"What did you say? It's impossible to postpone it by two months!" Taylor rejected the offer as soon as possible.

Now that the higher-ups had taken the action into their hands, he didn't know if he could still hold on for another two months. He had to get rid of this as soon as possible.

Otherwise, once the matter was exposed, the entire Thomas family would be finished.

Yesterday, Taylor's men had informed him that the higher-ups had sent more men to investigate. He was very clear about the means of the organization. If this matter was delayed any longer, he would be at the mercy of others.

Amber sneered when she heard this, "You do not have the right to reject me now, Taylor Thomas. The leader is me. Don't forget those things about you, I already have evidence in my hands."

If they broke off the engagement at this time, it would definitely arouse the suspicion of the four big families in the capital, which she could not afford to do.

She had calculated for such a long time. She could not make any mistakes now.

Once she got these two months' time, many things would be easier to do. And if her plan succeeded two months later, she could publicly break off the engagement and obtain Ryan.
