

Chapter 66: Mage Tower

Hawke was stunned when he heard that he was canonized as a nobleman, and then he couldn't stop crying. He cried and said to Henry: Your Excellency, I never thought that I would have such a glorious day. Since I was attacked by the Sea Demon Whale and lost my ship, you are the first one to hire me who is suffering from bad luck and entrust me with important tasks. I swear to you here that my family will be loyal to your family from generation to generation and will never betray you.

Henry patted the emotional old captain. I accept your loyalty and appoint you as the mayor of Bluewind City. Manage this city well for me.

Vaughan rubbed his head. Boss, I don't want any territory. And I don't know how to manage it.

Henry looked at the orc who was a little at a loss. Alright then, I will take back the territory I gave you and turn it into an annuity. You can receive two thousand gold coins from me as a salary every year.

Vaughan grinned openly. Praise you, Head! That's a really good idea.

After looking at the half-orc warriors around him, Asembu said to Henry: My lord, I don't want a territory either. Can you let more northern barbarians settle here? I want to rebuild the Kalut tribe, and don't let them Shame on our ancestors.

Henry lowered his head and began to think about it. Barbarians make good workers of both sexes, and men make excellent fighters and hunters. However, they have poor discipline and are easily impulsive. After weighing the pros and cons, he raised his head and said to the barbarian leader: I can allow you to recruit more barbarians to live here, but you must abide by the laws here. I will be responsible for sending people to teach them to build villages and grow crops.

Asimbu nodded without hesitation. Please rest assured, I will use my fist to teach them how to obey the rules.

The orc warrior next to him laughed when he heard this. If you need help, you can come to me, I'm happy to do this kind of thing.

Henry waved his hand. Okay, don't make trouble, you can accompany Asembu's fleet next time when it goes to other cities. See if you can find some fellows living in various places and absorb them to the island.

The barbarian leader nodded. Understood, I will pay attention to the departure time of the ship in the future.

Finally Henry turned his head and asked the dwarf. Kagan, are you ready for that mountain?

The dwarf smiled and stroked his beard. Don't worry now, I need to recruit at least 200 fellows to build an underground mine. I'm afraid I have to go back to my hometown in a few days, only there will be enough dwarves.

Recruit more, we are very short of excellent blacksmiths now. Henry said in a joking tone.

Cagan laughed and said, Don't worry, I'll recruit at least 150 dwarves for you.

After solving everyone's problems, Henry signaled to the butler behind him that the luncheon could begin. The diligent butler soon directed the maids to bring up dishes one by one. Due to the abundant harvest of spices on the island, a lot of spices were added to each dish, which smelled delicious. Tears flowed from Henry's eyes after he took a bite of the steak, but he was not moved by the food, but choked by the pepper.

Seeing her husband's miserable state, Shi Kodi hurriedly poured a glass of water and handed it over. Henry drank it down and wiped away his tears. Damn it! Why did you put so much pepper? The butler asked the chef to make me a new one and told him that I don't need so many spices.

The butler bowed and said, I'm really sorry Earl, the chef may not understand your taste. I will order him to redo it now. After speaking, he turned and went to the back kitchen.

Hawke said to Henry while eating the heavy-flavored steak: My Earl, you don't know how to enjoy delicious food. You must know how rich a family is from the amount of spices in the dishes. Almost everyone likes to try their best. Stronger taste.

Shikodi also smiled and said to her husband: Sir Hawke is right, I have never eaten such a rich dish before. The Countess's words were quickly recognized by many, including Henry's mother and sister.

Henry rubbed his forehead and looked at his mother. Mom, I remember that your taste is very light. I didn't expect to like to eat such heavy food.

Lily glanced at her son with a smile. We used to eat bland food because we couldn't afford too much salt, let alone expensive things like spices. Now that there are better things to eat, of course we have to change the taste. Henry sighed and then continued The new steak sent by the butler began to eat. The time for lunch passed quickly, and everyone except Henry was very satisfied.

Lina patted her swollen belly and said to her mother, Mom, can we eat such delicious food every day? The mother stroked her daughter's hair. Of course honey, the island opposite us grows a lot of spices that can make food delicious.

Seeing his sister satisfied, Henry smiled and turned to his wife, Tomorrow I'm going back to Fort High fort to find Mr. Tyrantier to buy materials for the construction of the mage's tower. You and Hawke will discuss the matter of the territory first. solve.

Shikodi nodded and asked, Which ship are you going to take?

Henry scratched his wife's nose. I directly use spells to teleport there without any ships. I buy good things and put them in a dimensional bag before teleporting back. Don't worry, I won't leave for too long.

Shi Kodi showed envious eyes. Magic is so convenient, but unfortunately I don't have the talent to be a mage. But I hope our children can make up for this shortcoming in the future.

Henry smiled at his wife and said, That will have to wait until my lovely wife is pregnant.

The next morning, Henry took Debra to the outskirts of High Ridge Castle using the teleportation technique, but he didn't dare to appear directly at the gate. God knows how the mage tower will react to someone who suddenly appears. After walking for an hour, Henry stood in front of the castle gate and respectfully performed a mage's salute, and soon after, Archmage Tyrantir walked out of the gate. He smiled and said to Henry: Welcome to visit me, my former apprentice. If I'm not wrong, you probably want to come to me to buy materials for the construction of the mage's tower.

Henry nodded. I really hide everything from you. My territory has settled down, and now I'm going to continue on the path of magic. Of course, this is inseparable from your guidance and help.

The mage glanced at Debra standing behind him and asked, Who is this mage? I don't remember seeing her before.

Debra saluted the archmage respectfully. Hi dear master, my name is Debra and I am the master's servant.

The master glanced at Henry with a little astonishment. Your power has expanded really fast recently. I can hear the prosperity of your territory from here. Now you actually have a good mage servant. This is really enviable and jealous.

Henry smiled and said to the archmage: My teacher, as long as you shout out that I need a servant, I believe that within a few days, mages coming from all over will fill your castle.

Tai Lan Tyre stroked his gray hair with a little satisfaction. I didn't expect that after such a long time, you would still be so flattering to others. Come in, all of you, and let me see what your mage tower needs. He said and brought both of them into the room on the top floor of the castle.

After sitting down with each other, the butler golem served everyone a glass of water, and then the archmage asked, Have you figured out what your mage tower should look like?

Henry took out a blueprint from the dimension bag and handed it over. Yes, this is the blueprint I designed.

Tyrantier took the drawing and looked at it carefully. The shape of the tower is a well-regulated circular high tower, with a total of twelve floors, with four floors underground and eight floors above. From the top down are the control room, the positive energy pool, the detection room, the library, the Mathematical Olympiad garden, and the blasting room. The middle floors are a large number of rooms and workshops. Next is the pool of the four elements of earth, water, fire, and wind and the seal room, and the first floor is some living areas such as kitchens and warehouses. The basement floor is the bondage room and the negative energy pool. On the second floor, a large amount of space was vacated, which may be used to store materials and magic items. The third and fourth floors were made into a hollow shape, and I don't know what they are used for.

After looking at the drawings, the mage said to his former student: Your mage tower is very large, and the design functions are also very comprehensive. I think it will take at least one million gold coins to complete over several months or even a year. As long as you For a certain fee, I can invite Habasser to come and help.

Henry thought for a moment. I have about 800,000 gold coins now, and I will have a net profit of 100,000 to 200,000 every month in the future. If it is not enough, I still have a considerable amount of gems that should last until the mage tower is completed.

Tyrantier nodded. It's ready to start. I'll contact Habasser in a while and ask him to prepare. Tomorrow we will go to your territory to choose a site to start construction. Since you want to build your own mage tower, my warehouse will be open to you. It is completely open, now you can go to the first floor to buy some spell scrolls below level 8 to enrich your inventory. Also, you can stay in the original room tonight, it has been empty since you left.

Henry stood up and bowed. Thank you very much for your help, then I will go to the first floor to choose spells. After speaking, he went to the first floor to find the butler golem and began to look at the list carefully.

After more than an hour of selection, he bought all the magic spells that he didn't master from level one to level four, and only selected ten magic spells above level five. Henry really wanted to get rid of these high-level scrolls now, but he gave up after considering the high cost of building the mage tower. Then he took Debra to the room where he used to live. I don't know if Grandmaster arranged the two of them together on purpose or by accident. After a while of teasing by the female mage, the two began to have a tumultuous time on the bed. Two hours later Henry fell asleep with Debra in his arms. -----

Ask for a click, ask for a recommendation. Ask for collection

Chapter 67 Site Selection and Construction

The next morning Henry was woken up by Tarling Freeman. He opened his eyes and gently pushed Debra beside him to get up and start getting dressed. After washing, I saw the female mage woke up and was putting on her underwear. Ten minutes later, the two came to the hall on the first floor of the castle to wait for the mage's arrival. Not long after, there was a sudden tremor in the center of the hall, and a portal was opened. Tailan Tyr came out first, followed by Archmage Habasser.

Henry pulled Debra to stand up quickly and bowed slightly. It's been a long time, Master Habasser. Thank you again for teaching me.

The old man stroked his beard. I didn't expect you to start building your own mage tower so soon. I have seen your drawings. The design is really great. It makes me feel like I want to start building it right away. In addition, I heard that you grow nutmeg on the island?

Henry was a little baffled but still replied: Thank you for your compliment, this spice is indeed being grown on my island. Large-scale picking was only carried out a month ago, and the yield is quite good.

Seeing his expression, Tyran Tyr laughed and explained. Nutmeg can produce a certain degree of hallucinations after eating nutmeg, which makes people distort time and space and can also produce a kind of pleasure. But it is not a drug itself, and it will not cause death due to overdose. So many people like it very much. Spices, and Habaser is one of them. When he built his mage tower, he forgot to build the Olympiad Garden, so he couldn't cultivate this kind of plant by himself.

Henry suddenly realized that he turned his head and said to Master Habasser, May I ask if you prefer dried or fresh nutmeg.

The teacher thought for a while. It would be great if there is a fresh one. You can experience the wonderful feeling of the dark red pulp after eating it. It would be good if it is not dried, but the taste is a bit worse.

Henry touched his forehead and thought that this master is really weird, he can be addicted to this kind of psychedelic food. He respectfully said to Habasser: Master should have some fresh words. After arriving at the territory, I will have someone pick some and send them to you. It is estimated that after the completion of the mage tower, the second batch will almost produce a large number. When you use the dimension Pack more bags and bring them back to enjoy slowly.”

Archmage Habassau nodded and said to Tyrantyr: Then let's go now, I can't wait.

Tyrantier looked at his old friend with a smile and said to Henry, Come here and hold my hand, I'm going to cast a spell. Henry and Debra hurried over to grab the hands of the two magicians After the spell was chanted, a white light flashed and the four of them appeared on the pier of the port.

Habasser looked around. It's a pretty good port, and the city is well planned. It's just that there are fewer residents.

This city can accommodate hundreds of thousands of people to live together, but we only have a population of about 10,000, so it seems very empty. Henry replied.

Tyran Tyr glanced at it. Don't worry about the city, we're going to spread out to find places where we can build the mage tower. I suggest that it's best to build it in places like volcanoes and lakes, because it can provide huge energy for the mage tower.

Habasser nodded. Then let's start to disperse our actions. If we find anything, we can use the communication technique to contact us. After speaking, the two archmages blessed themselves with the flying technique, and then they took off and began to search around.

Henry and Debra looked at each other, and then they each blessed the flying skills and began to scatter to find places where they could build the mage tower. More than an hour later, Henry found a slightly larger waterfall at the rear of Hart Island, and the lower part of the waterfall converged into a large lake. He took a closer look at this place and found that the water flow is very fast. It can be used to build a dam in the future. It is a good place to build a mage tower. Then he contacted the other two archmages and Debra with communication skills, and several people rushed over after 20 minutes.

After looking around for a while, Tyran Tyr said to Henry: It's a very good place, with plenty of water elements and building on the shore will not increase the cost too much. If you choose, then we will start to do it now .”

Henry looked at the distance between the shore and the waterfall. I decided to build it here, do I need to call some workers?

Master Habasser laughed and said, Child, you underestimate magic. Although workers are essential for ordinary mages, they can be saved for me and your teacher. Said After that, he took out a stone statue and started to put it on the ground and began to chant spells. Soon a summoning pattern was formed centering on the statue, and huge earth elementals came out of it one by one. After the archmage closed his eyes and communicated for a while, he took out a bag of gems from the dimension bag and handed them to them. The earth elementals quickly began to work, and they effortlessly dug the soil on the ground. After a few hours, a huge foundation was dug. After Tylan Tyr walked under the foundation and cast several mud into stone, a part of the foundation turned into hard granite.

Habasser nodded. I'm here today, and tomorrow I should be able to complete the entire foundation and start building the fourth underground floor of the Mage Tower.

Tyrantier turned around and said to Henry: Okay, take us to rest now, and remember to turn mud into stone tomorrow. Henry nodded and asked Debra to go back to the guild by herself. After flying for a period of time, he brought two grandmasters to the Lord's Mansion.

Shi Kodi came out with the housekeeper in person, and she said to the two old people: Welcome the two masters to the city of Blue Winter, I have arranged the room and can move in at any time.

Archmage Habassah looked around. The room doesn't matter, just get me some fresh nutmeg.

After Henry flirted with Amy, the little girl came over and said to Habasser: Master, please wait a moment, I will go to the opposite island to pick some, and I guarantee you can meet before dinner.

The nurse looked at Amy and nodded with satisfaction. Then I'll go to rest first, remember to pick more.

Before dinner was ready, Amy rushed back. She brought a whole basket of nutmegs, the red flesh of which exudes a special aroma. Soon the dinner was served on the table, and the two archmages were also invited out of the room. Habasser went straight to the basket and gently picked up one with his hand, put it in his mouth and chewed slowly with his eyes closed.

Tyrantier sighed. Old friend, I advise you to eat those things after dinner. Otherwise, you will not have a good rest tonight. Habasser turned around with regret and sat on the table, slowly eating a bowl of cereal Porridge and a small amount of vegetables.

Tyrantel smiled at him. Okay, stop making trouble, those things are yours and no one can take them away, so why bother.

Habassey glared at him. You're not me, how can I understand the mood at this moment. It's a waste of effort to tell you. After speaking, he began to bow his head to eat. After a hasty supper, he returned to his room with the whole basket.

Tyran Tyr said to Henry: You must not learn from him, and you must restrain any hobbies. You must know that he was the most hopeful person among my few friends to become a legendary mage, but he was alive. His own interests were ruined. First he fell in love with nutmeg, and later he became crazy about alchemy. These caused his magic level to stagnate, and now he has no hope of becoming a legendary mage.

Henry nodded seriously after hearing the teacher's warning. Don't worry, I will restrain myself. You have taught me that a mage should remain calm and rational in any situation. So I have always stayed away from alcohol and tobacco, and I have also kept a distance from drugs.

The teacher smiled gratifiedly. This is what I admire most about you. Perseverance, intelligence, rationality, and calmness. I hope you will go further on the road of magic than me in the future.

In the next few months, Henry took Debra to participate in the construction of the mage tower, during which they learned a lot of knowledge. In December, the main body of the entire mage tower has been built, and the main body of the tower is made of granite. Where there are rooms some windows are opened to let light in. A magical warning system is designed outside the windows. Once the Mage Tower is attacked, the stones on all the windows will fall down and seal all the windows.

Looking at this majestic tower, Henry was very happy. He said to Debra standing beside him, This is where we will study magic from now on. It looks pretty good, doesn't it?

The female mage nodded slightly excitedly. Yes, it's really majestic. I really hope we can build it sooner. I can't wait to start my research. Habasser, who was standing beside him, laughed and said to the two young people: Don't worry, the entire four underground floors have been built. There are still eight floors above, and you have designed so many workshops, and you are still busy. But I am very excited to build my own mage tower for the first time So much so that I forgot to design an arcane garden for myself.”

Tyran Tyr looked at the blueprint. The most difficult part of the entire mage tower is the underground part and the tower body. The internal structure is simple and should be completed in two months at most. However, these tasks also consume the most gold coins and gems. Henry, do you have enough reserves? ?”

Henry calculated silently in his heart. It should be enough. I still have more than half of the spices in the warehouse and haven't sold them. If it doesn't work, I will contact the Duke of Anta Silver Shield in advance and ask him to prepay some gold coins.

The teacher nodded. Since there is no problem with the funds, we will start building the various rooms inside from tomorrow. Also, do you need to make some golems as guards?

Henry thought about it and shook his head. Let's forget it, they are too expensive. I will build them slowly later.

Habasser patted him on the shoulder. Golems should be designed and manufactured by yourself. Every time you make one, your alchemy will improve. When you make a large group, you will find that nothing is difficult for you. After a brief discussion, it was decided After building the plan, everyone went back to rest. —————

—————

Ask for Sanjiang tickets, ask for clicks, ask for recommendations, and ask for favorites.

Broad World

The weather in mid-December turned cold, and many people began to wear thick coats. But it was still a lot warmer than Baldur's Gate, at least it wasn't snowing. Henry stood on the balcony and watched the crowds coming and going in the city. After half a year of trading, many cities on the west coast had heard of the prosperity and tranquility of the Angome Islands. Many people chose to come to this emerging territory to find their own homes, and the population of the city began to increase rapidly. Now the population of Blue Winter has exceeded 40,000, and there are more than 100 villages on the island.

After the immigration of Emerald Isle gradually increased over time, Skodi began to instruct Hawke to build a second port city. The entire city has just started construction, but Henry has already given it a nice name called Cuizhu. Now the fact that the territory is rich in spices has been publicized by many businessmen, it is estimated that the Duke of Anta Silver Shield will soon be unable to sit still. Just as Henry was experiencing the joy of managing the territory, Shikodi walked over from behind. She gently put a piece of clothing on Henry. Honey, New Year's is coming soon. How are you going to arrange it?

Henry froze for a moment, he patted his head and smiled. If you don't remind me, I will forget it. There are still ten days until the New Year. I spent last year in the teacher's mage's tower, and it seemed like I read a book for a whole day.

Seeing her husband's appearance, Shi Kodi burst out laughing, and then covered her mouth with her hands. You actually read books during the New Year, but this year can no longer be like this. You are the master of this archipelago and have tens of thousands of people, and they are all eager to release all the pressure and start again during the New Year. So the celebration is Indispensable, and you must give your vassals and officials some rewards.

Henry sighed. If possible, he would rather read a book or do some magic experiments alone. He has always hated crowded places, and never appears in public unless necessary. But there is no way who makes him the lord.

After tidying up his messy hair, he said to his wife: You are responsible for these things. I just need to show my face in public.

Shikodi nodded. Well, I'll help you take care of these things. But on the last night of the year you will appear in the town square and give a speech. Be nice and let your subjects appreciate you, because you mentioned it to them This beautiful city and a stable and prosperous life.

Henry sighed again. When that day comes, I will be at your command, my dear countess.

Shi Kodi shook her head with a smile, she couldn't understand why her husband didn't like this kind of festive atmosphere, maybe all mages were like this. In the next ten days, besides continuing to build the interior of the mage tower with the two archmages, Henry had another task, which was to check a large number of accounts. With the development of the spice trade and the smooth progress of the salt trade, the income of the territory appears to be very rich. In addition, there are ordinary taxes paid by a large number of citizens and farmers, port docking fees, commercial taxes generated by transactions, special operating taxes for various facilities in entertainment areas, and so on. Looking at this thick pile of ledgers, even the mathematics he learned before time travel did not help him much. Because the accounts are written one by one and not listed in a table.

He originally wanted to throw it directly to his wife or the housekeeper, but they both sternly refused. The reason for the housekeeper is that he cannot put his hand into the scope of financial expenses, otherwise, if there is a problem with the accounts in the future, others will say that he is corrupt. Shikodi's reasons for her refusal were even more ridiculous. She didn't want others to say that she was emptying her husband's family. There is no way to do everything on your own. Henry copied each of the accounts into a table, and then filled in the income and expenditure line by line. Finally, write the calculated surplus in the lower right corner, and these books will be processed. He bound these forms into a book and handed them to Shi Kodi, who was surprised when he saw it, and then asked some detailed questions. Then she recorded this method of bookkeeping and prepared to implement it in the territory.

The last day of December finally came, and everyone in the Lord's Mansion was beaming. Henry's mother even put on new clothes for all the servants. Sister Lina was walking around the hall in her freshly made gown, and the butler was trying to stop the mischievous little girl. Shikodi was discussing some issues with Hawke about the New Year's parade, and even the two archmages put on beautiful colorful costumes and went to play in the city.

After changing into a beautiful long dress, Amy walked up to Henry and asked, Master, you don't seem very happy?

Henry smiled bitterly and looked at Amy's new dress. You know, I'd rather be alone. Besides, this dress looks beautiful on you.

Amy smiled. Then you'll feel better if you think of it as a job.

Henry nodded. Thank you for your enlightenment, I will do this job perfectly.

After talking with the countess, Hawk came up to Henry and said: Count, our plan is this. First, let you take an open carriage through the street to the square, where we have already set up a temporary platform. Then you say a few words of congratulations to all the citizens, and then announce that you can come back after the New Year's carnival begins. Is there anything else that needs to be changed?

Henry waved his hand. No, you have a good plan. When do I need to start work?

Shikodi came over and combed her husband's hair. My dear, don't be so depressed, be happy. You have to let everyone feel the festive atmosphere.

Henry took his wife's hand. Don't worry, I won't disturb everyone's interest.

Three hours later, the butler walked into the living room and said to Henry: Count, the carriage to welcome you has arrived. Please board the carriage with your wife and start the parade. After speaking, he made a gesture of invitation.

Henry stood up and adjusted his clothes, Shi Kodi gently took her husband's arm, and the couple walked out of the gate and boarded the carriage. Hawke followed and boarded the second carriage, while Henry's mother, sister and Amy boarded the third carriage. With the driver's drive, the carriage began to run slowly. Because it was an open carriage, the driver did not drive fast. Several carriages drove into the streets of the city under the guard of more than 20 knights.

Passers-by took off their hats or bowed deeply after seeing the convoy passing by. When they arrived at the square, many citizens had already followed behind the carriage. After everyone got out of the car, Hawke stood on the stage. After Henry blessed him with a phantom sound, he said: Residents of Angome Islands! Citizens of Bruvent City! I am this city Lord Mayor, Sir Hawke. Now I will solemnly introduce our lord and his wife, Earl Henry Angomey and Mrs. Skodi. Now I invite them to come to the stage to give you a New Year speech. Said There was a burst of warm applause from the audience.

With a smile on his face, Henry took his wife up to the high platform, and blessed a ghost sound technique. I am your lord Henry. In the past year, we have built huge cities, opened up countless villages, and reclaimed large tracts of farmland. These are all built by everyone's hands. I have seen all of you The most hardworking people. I hope everyone can harvest more food and earn more gold coins in the new year. If someone thinks they are capable and talented, they can apply to the city hall, and you have the opportunity to become an official. If Some people think that if you are skilled in martial arts, you can go to the military camp, and you have the opportunity to become an officer. If you do well enough in these positions, then I will confer you a nobleman, and you can have hereditary titles and territories. I am a generous person, and finally Wishing you prosperity and peace. Now I declare that the New Year's Carnival begins now!

Everyone in the audience applauded wildly after hearing Henry's bewitching speech, and they shouted desperately. After stepping off the stage, Shi Kodi said to her husband: Honey, the speech just now was really good. You see, the people below are completely crazy about you.

Hawk also came over. Count, you are such a natural orator. Now it's time for me to arrange for the chefs behind to serve these crazy townspeople with food. I hope the food can calm them down a bit. Now you can go back to the Lord's Mansion or stay around here. Go around, I've already arranged enough guards so you don't have to worry about riots.

Henry shook his head. Forget it, I'd better go back, it's too noisy here. Shi Kodi and the others said they would stay for a while at night. Seeing the enthusiastic crowd, Henry blessed himself with a flight and flew back to the lord's mansion.

Landing on the balcony, he looked at the carnival crowd in the city and turned into the house. The housekeeper greeted him after seeing it and asked, Welcome back, Earl, where are the others?

Henry handed the coat to the butler. They're all celebrating the last day of the year in the square and having fun. I'm hungry, is there anything to eat?

The butler smiled and said, Of course. According to tradition, the fire cannot be turned off on the last day of the New Year. There are all kinds of food prepared in the kitchen for you to enjoy at any time. After thinking for a while, he ordered half a roast chicken and a vegetable soup. After dinner alone, he returned to his study. He picked up a copy of The Construction of the Mage Tower and began to read it. With the increase of time involved in the construction, he now has a new understanding of this book. While watching, I thought about some things after my mage tower was built. For example, whether to wake up the tower spirit, what monsters to summon to guard, and what kind of magic experiments you need to do. After thinking about it, he fell asleep. When I woke up, it was already the next morning. He pushed off the blanket covering himself, stood up and walked into the hall. It was found that other than the two archmages, no one else got up at all.

Habassey glanced at him. It was a great carnival last night and I did a few tricks. The kids were jumping for joy.

Henry found a chair and sat down. You are happy, but if they know your spellcasting level, they will probably be scared to death.

Tyran Tyr laughed out loud. You're right, but Habasser likes places with a lot of people. Otherwise, his mage tower wouldn't be built in the city. -----

Ask for Sanjiang tickets, clicks, and recommendations. Ask for collection

Chapter 69: The Mage Tower is Completed

On the first day of the new year, Henry and the two mages did not wear new clothes and sit around the fireplace with their families, eating and chatting like ordinary people, but chose to continue building the mage tower. In the huge circular tower, ordinary rooms are isolated one by one, and those for special purposes will be reinforced and treated with some special treatment. After several times of casting spells, Henry sat aside and began to rest. Debra had already used up all the spell slots and stood watching. Archmage Habasser is commanding the summoned fire dwarves. These flame-covered creatures are wearing short copper skirts and are melting mithril and smearing it on the ground and walls to form specific magical patterns.

Tyran Tyr pointed at these dwarves enviously and said to Henry: They are all the most outstanding craftsmen. I didn't expect Habassah to get such a creature. No wonder he has so many goods in his witchcraft grocery store. Your mage After the tower is built, you can try to recruit some water elements, and of course beautiful water elves. And the lush trees here can also recruit some characteristic creatures in the forest, such as dryads, pixies, etc. They are all very good assistants , especially Pixie, they are very good at doing some delicate work.

Henry nodded after hearing this and thought to himself: Pixie must be recruited in large numbers, and his transistor computer needs hundreds of millions of triodes, how can it be made without them. Two hours later, Archmage Habassah sent the summoned fire dwarves back. He walked up to Henry and sat down and said: How about it, the internal structure is basically completed now. All that remains is to put the element pool in and fix it, and then the mage tower will connect them into one.

Tyran Tyre stroked his beard. A large number of internal workshops and arcane gardens have not yet been built.

Habasser said dismissively: These are all non-technical things, and then I can summon some fire dwarves to solve them in a few days.

Tyrantier glared at him. You have the guts to say it! Where did you get these fire dwarves? Why didn't you tell me?

Habasser smiled awkwardly and explained: There are not many of them, so I didn't inform you. You must know that these fire elemental creatures would be difficult to recruit if they didn't build a mage tower in the crater.

Seeing that the two old men were about to quarrel, Henry hurried over. Master, are you saying these guys like hot places?

Habasser nodded and explained: They are all creatures of the Fire Elemental Plane, with outstanding craftsmanship and love gems. I used some gems to hire these guys to work for me.

Tyrantier sighed. You are so lucky! Well, let's stop today's work and continue tomorrow.

With the addition of the fire dwarves, the progress of the mage tower has accelerated a lot, and the countdown to completion has also entered. But the price is that Henry's gems are shrinking rapidly, and he has to pay these angry guys a small bag of gems every day. Two months passed in a flash, and Henry stood under this majestic mage tower with emotion. Finally, the work is about to be completed, and the two archmages are now blessing the top of the tower with spells such as avoidance of detection and true vision.

After about a few hours, the two wizards flew down exhausted, and Tyrantyr said to Henry wearily: It's all done, now you can control and activate the entire wizard tower. But before activation You have to think about whether you want to give this tower some intelligence, which is what we usually call a tower spirit. If you want a tower spirit, you have to think about its character in advance, otherwise you will create a guy who gives you a headache .”

Henry smiled and said to the teacher, Don't worry, I've thought about it several months ago. After speaking, he walked into the gate of the mage tower alone, and climbed up the stairs to the control room on the top floor. After chanting the mantra loudly, he lightly placed his hand on the console, and the entire tower began to vibrate violently. Then the various element pools began to recharge, and the sky and the surrounding air produced some strangeness. Half an hour later, the tower body began to stabilize, and then a woman's voice said to Henry: Master, I, Cortana, are always at your service.

Henry laughed when he heard the voice. He named Tarling according to the artificial intelligence in the Halo game before crossing. He said to Cortana: Let's report the current situation in the tower.

After a few seconds, Cortana's voice sounded again. Report! The water element pool is 5%, the earth element pool is 2%, the fire element pool is 0.9%, the air element pool is 3%, the positive energy pool is 2%, and the negative energy pool is 100%. 0.5. The energy is not enough for any research, and it needs to be charged for at least a week before it can be used normally. After getting the exact data, Henry walked out of the mage tower and came to the two archmages.

He bowed deeply. The entire tower has been activated by me, thanks to the two masters for their careful construction. Please go in and sit for a while.

Habasser shook his head. No, I participated in the construction here, and I know what it looks like inside. Now I'm leaving. I haven't been back for so many days and I don't know how the witchcraft grocery store is. After speaking, he waved his hand at Henry and opened it. The portal left.

Tyran Tyr came over and looked at his students. You already have your own mage tower first, so be careful when doing experiments in the future. Recently, Merikan has become less and less worrying for me. Let's not talk about it, I will go back and see what he has recently. No trouble. After speaking, he opened the portal and left.

Henry stood still and found that he and Debra were the only ones left, and the female mage walked to him. I can't believe that I will be able to live in such a majestic place to conduct magic research in the future.

Henry gently stroked Debra's smooth neck. Don't worry, it will take at least a week of charging before it can be used normally. But you can bring the apprentices in first.

The female mage smiled charmingly. I'll bring them all here tonight, when will you move in and live with them? After she finished speaking, she gave her a wink.

Henry smiled when he heard the provocative words. It's useless to live in now, but I will move the library here tomorrow.

Debra nodded. It is true that the books should be moved here earlier. If there is no magic protection, they will easily get damp or be bitten by bugs. Knowledge is the most important wealth of a mage.

Henry took out a necromancer robe from the dimension bag and handed it over. This magic robe, like the spell book I gave you, is one of my trophies. Now I will give it to you as a belated New Year's gift.

Debra took it with a little surprise and then showed an obsessed expression and said, It's really a perfect enchantment. I don't know when I will be able to have this level of alchemy. After finishing speaking, she took off her robe in front of Henry. He only wore his naked body, and then slowly put on the robe of the undead.

Henry looked at it and found that it was getting late, so he said to her: Okay, you go back and bring the apprentices over first, I will go back and sort out the books. See you tomorrow. After speaking, he blessed himself with a flight and flew to the Lord's Mansion.

Debra watched Henry leave her sight and murmured: Master, I will definitely become your capable subordinate. The position closest to you is mine and no one can take it away. After speaking, she turned and flew towards the thief union.

After coming to the union, she walked directly into Robert's office. The leader of the thieves frowned and asked, What's the matter?

The female mage found a chair and sat down. The master's mage tower has been built, and I'm here to pick up the apprentices. I won't come here to report in the future.

Robert's brow furrowed even tighter. If there is no mage, how will intelligence spying and magic props be solved?

Debra thought for a moment. From next month, an apprentice will be sent here for rotation every month, and they will solve these problems.

Robert nodded after seeing that it would not affect normal intelligence collection. Well, these rookie apprentices are in the basement and you can take them away.

Without further ado, Debra stood up and went to the basement. The thieves behind Robert hurriedly followed, and the guards at the basement door would not let them go without the leader's order. After the thieves reported the leader's order, the door to the basement was opened, and Debra smelled an unpleasant smell when she walked in. Taking a closer look, more than thirty apprentices were tied to the wall, and some of them had already wet their pants. The thieves who were in charge of training next to them were scaring these little guys with a red-hot stick.

Seeing her teacher coming, the apprentices all lowered their heads in shame. Debra walked up to one of them with a gloomy face and reprimanded them: With your behavior, you are delusional to serve the master in the future! Look at your appearance! It's just a red-hot iron rod, and you're so scared before you put it on your body! Then she turned her head and said to the thieves who were in charge of training, Give me the stick.

The thief was a little hesitant. He looked at the person in charge of notifying behind him, and the female mage said loudly again: I said give me the stick!

The person in charge reluctantly handed over the red-hot iron rod to this abnormal-looking woman, who directly put the rod on her arm. Then there was a chirping sound, and a severe burn appeared on his arm immediately, and there was a smell of barbecue. This frightened everyone in the room. Debra said without changing her face: See, if you want to serve the master, you need to have courage like mine and determination not to be afraid of any torture. You are not worthy.

The apprentices immediately shouted with tears streaming down their faces: Teacher! Please burn us with sticks too. We are not afraid of any torture.

Seeing that the goal had been achieved, the female mage threw the stick aside and said, Okay, that's all for today, and now all follow me. The master's mage tower has been built, and you will be the first batch of apprentices from today. Good job. Serve the master and don't let him down. After she finished speaking, she motioned for the person in charge next to him to untie the ropes of the apprentices. -----

Ask Sanjiang, ask for clicks, ask for recommendations. Ask for collection

Broad World 70

Eric is a thief who has only come to Hart Island for more than half a year. He was caught by the Thieves Guild when he committed a crime for the first time. Robert personally interrogated him underground, and Eric, who was so frightened by the torture that he peed his pants, directly confessed everything about his bedwetting before he was three years old. After the leader of the thieves found out that he was not a spy from other forces, he took him in. From then on, Eric became madly infatuated with the art of torture. He thought the leader's interrogation was so cool, that's what a man should do. Every time someone was brought in, he would use various instruments of torture to conduct experiments on the prisoners.

But today he met a ruthless character, someone actually held a red-hot iron rod and put it on his arm without changing his face. The most terrifying thing is that this is still a woman! This simply subverted Eric's worldview. Now that this woman was staring at him with horrible eyes, he didn't want to offend such a crazy bitch.

Eric bowed his head humbly. As you wish, my lady.

Soon the ropes of more than thirty apprentices were untied, and Debra glanced at them. Come with me now, don't make any noise along the way. After she finished speaking, she turned and led the apprentices out of the Thieves Union.

After the thief in charge reported the whole incident to the leader, Robert showed a meaningful smile, and said softly, It's really interesting. I remember she was frightened by the chest piercing. Then he ordered Don't spread the word and keep your head down and continue working. The female mage led a group of apprentices through the city and entered the forest. After more than three hours of trekking, they came to the gate of the mage tower.

All the apprentices were overwhelmed by the majestic building. Debra stepped forward and said to the mage's tower: I am the servant of Master Henry, and I brought all the apprentices to move in by his order.

A few seconds later, the door opened, and Taring's voice rang in everyone's ears. Information confirmation, level three authority. User Debra Monk, level five protection mage. Welcome lady, please let the apprentices behind you come in first, so that I can distribute rooms to them. As for you, you can choose six live in any room below the first floor.

The female law glared at the apprentice behind her. Hurry up and come in! Do you want me to blast you all in with a fireball! The apprentices were startled, and then they all ran into the hall with a huff. Cortana registered each student and distributed the rooms. After all the apprentices had left, Debra found a room by the window on the fifth floor to live in. As soon as she entered the room, she immediately sat on the ground in pain and shed tears. After a while, she stood up and took out a bottle of healing potion and poured it gently on the burnt area. Soon the wound gradually faded and finally disappeared. She wiped her tears and lay down on the bed before falling asleep.

After Henry returned home, he told everyone about the completion of the Mage Tower. Shikodi said to him excitedly: Can you take me to visit, my dear? I like magic very much.

Lina also came over and hugged her brother's thigh and dangled. I'm going too! You promised to teach me spells.

Henry touched his sister's hair. Actually, the mage tower is still very dangerous for ordinary people. If you are not careful, you will be corroded by magical energy. You will be injured or die. But I just want to move the books at home tomorrow, so I will show you around once. Remember not to touch anything. As for you and my sister, first work hard to learn knowledge and become an apprentice.

After hearing that he agreed to come down, Shi Kodi picked up Lina and turned around twice. It's really great, I can finally see where the mages live. After speaking, she kissed the girl's face fiercely, and Lina also laughed happily.

Henry watched his wife and his younger sister running around happily, showing a slight smile, then turned and went to the study. As soon as he entered the door, he saw Amy sitting quietly on a chair with a book in his hand, reading. Henry didn't disturb her and went straight to the last row of the study room, and began to put all kinds of books into the dimension bag one by one. Amy didn't realize it until Henry was about to evacuate the entire study room. She looked at the empty bookshelves in surprise and asked, Master, where are you going to move these books?

Henry replied while continuing to pack the books: The construction of the Mage Tower is completed, and I want to transfer all these books there. There is no magic protection here and it is too easy to get damp and bugs. Do you want to move there tomorrow?

The girl put down the book in her hand and stood up happily. So fast? Didn't it say it would be close to a year?

Thanks to Grand Master Habasser, he summoned a large group of fire dwarves to speed up the progress of the project. But half of my gemstones were robbed by these guys. Henry explained.

Amy handed him the book in her hand and said, Then I'll move in tomorrow too.

After loading all the books, he came to the lobby and found the butler and said to him: I need a large amount of food now, which will feed about forty people for two months. Please help me tell the kitchen to start cooking now, and put it in the This dimensional bag.

The butler bowed and replied: I obey the Earl. I don't know what dishes and staple food you need?

Henry lowered his head and thought about it. For dishes, meat and vegetables should be supplemented, and the staple food should be baked bread.

The housekeeper took the dimensional bag with both hands after noting it down. I'm going to the kitchen now, and it will be ready in six hours. After speaking, the housekeeper turned and walked towards the kitchen. Soon the people in the kitchen started to cook a lot of food. Before going to bed, the butler returned the dimension bag to Henry.

The next morning, Shikodi and Lina got up early and sat in the lobby waiting. After breakfast, Henry blessed them with flying skills, and then the four of them flew towards the Mage Tower hand in hand. Lina and Shikodi seemed a little excited and a little scared for their first flight, Henry and Amy held their hands tightly. It didn't take long for the mage's tower to appear in front of everyone. After landing, the countess excitedly stroked the granite of the tower and said to her husband, It's really spectacular. I've never seen such a big tower around Baldur's Gate. Mage Tower.

Henry smiled proudly and said to his wife: This is my design, it can accommodate up to 300 apprentices. Okay, let's go in. After speaking, he directly opened the door of the mage tower and walked in with everyone .

Cortana's voice came again after entering the hall. Master welcomes you back. Master Debra has officially moved in with thirty-four apprentices yesterday. She herself lives on the fifth floor and everyone else is arranged by me in the apprentice area.

Wow! Is this the legendary tower spirit? Shikodi asked.

Henry nodded. Yes, she is the tower itself. A very good assistant and manager. Well, you wait for me here for a while, I will go to do some things and be right back. After speaking, he directly used the portal to Debra's room, where the female mage was studying the spell book carefully.

Henry patted her on the shoulder. I brought all the books, and you will be responsible for letting the apprentices put them on the shelves of the library according to their categories. In addition, I also brought enough food for two months, and I will send it to the first floor later Let's store it in the magic warehouse. My wife and sister are here, and now I want to visit the mage's tower. I will leave these things to you."

Debra was taken aback by Henry's sudden appearance, and then calmed down after thinking that this was his mage tower.

After receiving the dimension bag, the female mage checked the food and books inside. Okay, I will arrange for the apprentices to take care of these things. You can go at ease. Henry nodded, then stood where he was and disappeared. Shikodi and Lina are looking at the hall on the first floor, touching and asking Cortana all kinds of weird questions. After careful consideration, Taring gave answers one by one. Not long after, a portal opened in the center of the hall, and Henry walked out from it.

He said to his wife and sister: Let's go, I'll take you upstairs for a walk. Amy, you can find a room to live in first, and talk about other things later. Excessive woman (child) walked up the stairs.

Henry took two little tails to visit the arcane garden, the bondage room, the blasting room, the detection room, the sealing room and a lot of workshops, and finally came to the busy library. Thirty or so apprentices were sorting a large number of books piled on the ground onto each bookshelf, and the whole scene seemed extremely busy.

Looking at such a large number of books Lina asked: Brother, can I live in this library?

Henry shook his head. You should read the book Introduction to the Mage first. If you become a mage apprentice, you can study and live here like them. I don't want to see you get hurt here.

The younger sister pouted angrily. Shi Kodi knelt down to comfort the angry little girl and said to Henry: Let's stop here for today's visit. It really opened my eyes. Now send us back.

Henry touched the head of his angry sister. Okay, I'll send you back right away. Then he asked about Cortana's reserves, and after confirming that the energy was enough, he directly used the power of the mage tower to send his sister and wife back to the Lord's Mansion.

Debra put all the food in the magic warehouse and came to the library to check the progress of the apprentices' work. She happened to see Henry and Amy sitting next to each other and chatting about something. She walked up to him and returned the dimension bag to Henry and said, All the master's things have been emptied, do you have any other orders?

No, by the way, let me introduce you. This is Amy, Robert's sister. She will live here as a warlock. After speaking, Henry turned his head and said to Amy: This is Debra A protection mage, she was once assigned to work with your brother for a period of time.

Amy stood up with a smile and saluted. Hi, Master Debra.

The female mage also bowed slightly. Hello, Miss Amy. You look much cuter than your brother.

After seeing the two greet each other, Henry stood up. Since you all know me, I'll go back first, and I'll come over in a week to conduct some experiments. But now you try not to use the stored energy. After speaking, he used a portal to leave.

. -----

Ask Sanjiang, ask for clicks, ask for recommendations. Ask for collection

