Chapter 13

It's been two days since the triplets didn't come out from the building they call medical house. Their mate seemed to be in slumber forever and they were getting restless. They often call Myrna or the other doctors, even Myrna when they see that Lilly is barely breathing.

But they said she was fine. She was getting better. She is so small and fragile that sometimes they don't notice the small movement in her breathing.

The triplets keep talking to Lilly even though they don't know if she hears it or not. They just keep trying.

"Baby, you need to drink, at least one or two small drops of water for your throat." Luca help Lilly drink even though she was still lying on the bed, her eyes remained close.

"What do you think happen to her? She already wake up or not?" Finn asked his two brother in a whisper tone, afraid that his little mate would hear him talking and questioning about her.

Chapter 13

"We will know if she wake up but doesn't open her eyes. I believe she is still healing and her body is resting after all she's been through..." Luca answer him. Wiping the water drops beside her mouth.

"I hope she wake up soon..." Declan uttered before brushing her hair.

Two days ago, the night after they found her and place her to this room, Alysa came in and told them her report about Lilly's current condition.

According to Alysa, Lilly had been through some tortures and injuries for a long time, proven by the scar all over her body. Her back, stomach, chest and legs were where most of her scar could be found. The wound on her wrists and ankles were indicate that she often tied or chained. The bruises on her neck also came from someone or something had strangled her.

Her scars came from old cuts or bruises and new ones. This made her believes that Lilly already experienced this kind of injuries since she was a child. This made the triplets almost went crazy.

Chapter 13

"What kind of sick bastard treat a child like that?!" Declan almost couldn't surpassed Draco's rage and his.

"Alphas. From my check up on her earlier, I also found that Luna had been through so many sexual harassment. I-I mean it seemed they forced her to do sexual activity... So. I hope you understand her current condition and not make her trauma even deeper." Alysa stammered when she explained Lilly's condition to her three mates. She should ask one of her friend to accompany her to this room next time. This place is so intimidating that she almost couldn't breathe.

"Don't worry about that, we never do anything that can harm our mate." Luca said coldly. 2

After she finished another check up and remind the three of them to immediately call her if Lilly wake up, Alysa didn't wait any second to get out from that VIP room.

After that night, the three of them discussed how they should vanished the whole rogues member to revenge their mate. 1

Chapter 13

Meanwhile Lilly was still asleep on her comfy bed. She couldn't open her eyes, or lift a finger yet because her body felt so weak and pain all over. But one thing that she knew, that this is the most comfortable floor she has ever sleep on.

She didn't remember when she could sleep on a warm surface. She could feel that there is some thick cloth that covering her entire body. It made her almost sighed in relief. She liked this feeling.

Maybe she really died already? She didn't know. One thing for sure. Lilly didn't remember since when she couldn't open her eyes. Perhaps when that werewolf kicked her on her stomach she died and went to a safe place in the afterlife. 1

But then, who were those people she saw before? And those voices?

They talked about how they hope she wake up soon, or how beautiful she is, or how they couldn't wait to taste her...

And it struck her. She is not dead yet. She still here in this world where everyone wanted her to be their toy, to be their slave, humiliating her, give her lesson so that she knows her place. That she is a low-life.

Lilly felt like her heart crushed the moment she realized she was back here to be torture. Has she not endure it enough already? She is too tired now. She didn't want anything but death. That is the only way so she could feel less pain and see her parents again.

After a while mourn her miserable fate silently in her sleep. Lilly got an idea.

What if, she let them do whatever they want to do to her? What happen if she didn't refuse them anymore? Will she live better or die quickly because they bored of her? She prefer the second option. She's too tired.

Then, in her complete weak state, someone slip a hand under her neck and lifted her a little. Lilly's heart beat faster since she anticipated what would coming next. Do they decided to get rid of her? Like strangle her to death or slit her throat? Because those were the things she usually saw with the other girls in the slavery if they want to get rid of them.

Lilly to a little deep breath. That's okay Lilly, it will be painful but you used to it. Bare it a little while then you will be free.

Just when she thought someone will kill her at the moment. A shooting voice of a man made her instantly calm.

"Please drink the water, Love.."

Love? Who is this? Who is he call Love? Her name is Lilly...

Something wet but warm touch her lips and she felt like someone's hand open her mouth and jaw very gently. These hands were calloused but they treated and touched her very gently. Something she never receive before.

Then, the warm liquid, slip from her lips, mouth through her throat. Her painfully dry throat became better a little.

Maybe they wanted to poison her and let her die less painfully?

Chapter 13

After she gulped twice, they stopped. Something soft were pressed gently against her lips, around her chin, jaw and neck.

She sighed in relief, that refreshed her. It didn't make her in pain like she thought it would be.

After so many questions in her mind, Lilly went back to her slumber. Deep down in her heart, she was hoping that she could at least open her eyes for a while before whatever bad fate come to her once again and see who are these people that treat her so gently? Or it was just her hallucination.

Lilly woke up when a sound of low growl filled the room. She tried to move her fingers and she did. She tried to open her eyes fully and blinked them repeatedly when she saw blur.

Slowly, her sight were back to normal and she could she her surrounding clearly. 1

The first thing that caught her attention was where she was sleeping. She was lying on a single bed with a very soft mattress. There was a thick blanket covering her small body. The colour was pretty. White and soft blue. She felt warm and comfy. The soft pillow under her head also made her felt like she was sleeping on a soft cloud.

Then something was hanging from above her head. It looks like a bag full of water. No it's not only one but two. The other one looked like it was filled with blood. Lilly took a deep breath before she realized that those bags of fluid were injected to her hands.

Where is she now? She never to a place like this. This place also smell strong and weird. But she didn't find it bothering her.

This room is spacious and neat. There are three chairs placed next to her bed, surrounding her. Then she hear it. There are three men, standing on the corner of the room. They looked like they were discussing something and they were standing back facing her. They didn't realized that she was already staring at them.

Her heart was beating so fast looking at their back. From here she could tell how giant they are. Three muscular men, with their huge figure, so tall towering everything that pass by them, she supposed. If they are her new masters, what kind of treatment they will use on her? Thinking about what she already been through, Alpha Ken was not as huge as them and she is already gave up on life. She beg for death.

What will happen to her if they are her masters?
The three of them?

Just as Lilly busy with her thought about how scary her future would be, the three Alpha Lycans turned their back and facing her when they felt like someone was staring from behind.

And they were right. The one who was starring at them was their beautiful mate. She woke up with her eyes open, looking at them with her breath taking green eyes starring back at their blue ones.

That moment, Lilly and the Three Alpha Lycans felt the stream of electric mate bond flowing in their blood.

They growled in satisfaction but Lilly gasped and back up in fear. She never felt something like that before. It scared her even more.

"Lilly? It's fine, Love. We are here. Don't worry, you are safe now."
