Chapter 15

"Calm down, baby. You need a drink first. Come on, it's okay..." the triplets tried to soothe their scared little mate. She looked like a poor, fragile lamb. Shaking from head to toe.

"Baby, we promise you, no one will ever harm you again. Okay? Please drink the water first, then you can lay down and rest..." Luca spoke softly to her hoping that his little mate could relax and accept their offer.

But not as expected, Lilly shook her head and didn't dare to even look at them. She was crying silently, no sounds could be heard but her tears flowed down and wet the blanket on her lap.

The triplets looked at each other and were frustrated when they saw how their mate reacted to any of their behavior. They wanted to hug her, ensure her that she would be fine that she was safe now with them, that she was no longer in danger, and that they would protect her even if it cost them their lives.

In her panic state, Lilly tried to protect herself from any possible blow or beating that would come. She lay down and crouched herself almost like a little trembling ball. Her thoughts were full of bitter and painful memories as to why she didn't want to drink from a glass. Not anymore. She learned her lesson, she will never disobey the rules again.

She could still remember the pain when one of the female rogues threw a glass of hot boiling water to the back of her head when she didn't look. It was because she got caught drinking from the glass in the kitchen. It was the remaining water from the pack members after they finished their dinner.

She was so thirsty and her dry throat felt so painful. She needed to finish her job alone in the kitchen that night because of Alpha Ken's order, so she didn't have the time to go to the nearby lake to drink. She thought no one would mind if she took a sip or two from one of the glasses. Unfortunately, that was another worse for her already bad days in her entire life.

Lilly couldn't sleep for a week after that. Her scalp and the skin on the back of her neck were blistering and it was so painful. She always cried silently at night and pretended like nothing happened during the day. Because if she showed something wrong with her, they would add more injuries to her already painful wounds.

She wanted to beg these Alphas that she would obey their rules. She would never drink from a glass anymore. It's not for the low-life. But her voice didn't come out as her throat felt so sore.

Lilly was busy with her thoughts, memories, and fear, she didn't hear any of her mates plead. She kept crying silently, hiding her face with her knees. The words that she repeated in her head were, just kill her already.

"Alphas, please leave the room. She needs her space right now." It was Alysa she was already in the room a few seconds after Lilly began her panic state.

"Are you fucking kidding me?! We are NOT leaving our mate!" Declan growled dangerously. His eyes were flashing red. There is no way they leave their scared and trembling mate alone with some strangers.

Luca and Finn looked at Alysa with intimidating expressions making her gulp. But today she was not alone. Two other doctors were here with her.

"With all due respect Alphas. I know that this might seem rude for us to ask you to leave. But this is for our Luna herself. We know from her injuries that she'd been tortured and treated so badly that she was in a coma for days. We didn't know what kind of punishment she got when she was there. What triggered her trauma and what else? We need you to work together with us and help her heal. As the same as your wish, we want our Luna to be healthy and happy. We could never harm her."

Joy one of the doctors explained to them slowly, trying to ensure their Alphas that they were not a threat to their mate.

The triplets were silent and then looked at their Lilly who still crouched to a ball and hid her face in her knees, covering her face and head with her hand. They silently agreed with the doctors that they needed to work this together so their mate could live her life out of fear.

Luca approached Lilly and whispered to her the sweetest thing even though he knew that Lilly might not hear or didn't believe him at all. But he didn't care, he loved her with all of him and it was so hard to part away from her.

"Baby, We need to go first. I want you to rest, drink some water and food that we will send here, Okay?"

He stroked her hair gently and kissed the top of her head.

Lilly shuddered when she felt his warmth and the sparks where Luca touched her. No one ever treated her this kindly and gently. At least her parents were. But they passed away a long time ago. She didn't even remember how it felt.

Declan and Finn followed his brother to say sweet things and kissed their mate softly. It's really hard for them to part away from Lilly. Part of the fact that Lycan is a possessive creature, they also found Lilly after hundreds of years in their life. Of course, she is their most precious now. They wanted to protect her like a fragile thing, keep her safe from any harm from this evil world.

After the triplets went out of the room, Alysa and the other doctors helped Lilly with her panic state and injected sedatives in her IV to help her rest.

The triplets were still standing outside their mate's room. They were looking at the door like they could see what was happening inside.

"I don't like it here. Lots of people coming in and out of this place. We need a more quiet and private place for our mate." Declan stated.

"Agree. Why don't we use one of our rooms as her healing room? She can use all our room if she wants." Finn responds to him.

Luca nodded and he sighed heavily before he stated what was in his mind. "Yes, we could ask one or two doctors and Myrna to stand by for her at any moment."

The thought of Lilly living under the same roof as them excites the three Alpha Lycans. They couldn't wait to see their little mate sleep on the same bed as them and eat at the same table as them. They finally complete each other.

Just like that, the triplets Alpha Lycan made their way to their house to prepare a special room for their little mate. 1
