

Brothel Manager : Unexpected Encounter with A Hidden Family Heirloom

Chapter 56 : Party Time

Malabar Mountain area, As the time hit seven o'clock in the evening, one by one, the guests began arriving at the venue. Das sat in one corner, tasting the food items one by one.

He completely ignored the party; he came here only for Luna. The Reddy family really spent a large amount on this party, as they arranged more than hundred varieties of food items.

After coming to the food section, Das completely forgot about the party and started eating a large plate of meals, especially sweets. The serving person is looking at Das with a baffled expression as Das places the plate before him for the fifth time.

"Sir, eating too many sweets is not good for health." The food manager tried to reject Das with a respectful talking. But Das took the spatula from his hands and served himself a large number of sweets.

After serving himself a large amount of food, Das sat in one corner and began observing the guests. The people who came to the party gave Das a strange glance before walking into the venue. But Das completely disregarded everyone and focused on his food.

"I should have brought my orphanage children to this party; this is really good food." Das thought while thinking about his past. While Das was enjoying the food, the chief minister's convoy entered the villa with a loud siren. The patriarch and his son, Richard, personally received the chief minister and his daughter.

Later the patriarch family and the chief minister family directly sat on the stage while Rao took the task of a speaker. Just as the chief minister sat on the stage, the first set of holograms activated, and the 3D holograms of the chief minister and patriarch stood up from the hologram devices.

Das arranged them in circular order, surrounding the guests and opposite to the stage. Das also alternated holograms of the chief minister and the patriarch with pictures of Richard and the chief minister's daughter.

Das felt funny while looking at the flabbergasted expressions of the guests. The chief minister's daughter clapped with more enthusiasm after seeing the lively holograms of herself.

"Haha, the Reddy family lives up to their reputation; they really arranged a good show." The chief minister commented.

"Haha, thank you, chief minister... I personally prepared these holograms." Rao said this with a wrinkled face before the patriarch's father gave credit to Das.

"Good... good." The chief minister commented with a smiley face. Das already expected this outcome. So he did not interfere to take the limelight. The chief minister's schedule is always tight one... hence the patriarch asked the chief minister to announce the engagement without any delay.

"Patriarch, this is not good manners. I heard that your daughter is celebrating a birthday party today. Why don't you first let your daughter cut the cake? Later, I will announce the engagement." The chief minister suggested a meaningful look.

Even though the patriarch agreed to the chief minister request... Luna denied it. "Uncle, if you don't mind, first announce the engagement. People are waiting for this news." Luna replied with a sweet voice.

"Haha... patriarch, you really have a good daughter." The chief minister commented before receiving the microphone to announce his daughter's engagement. As the chief minister stood up, he gestured for Richard and his daughter to stand beside him.

"Thank you to everyone for coming to witness my daughter's engagement. I'm deeply indebted to the Reddy family patriarch for accepting my daughter into his beloved family." Later, the chief minister took out two platinum rings and asked the new pair to exchange rings.

While Das is watching the engagement ceremony with a boring face, Richard added the platinum ring to the finger of the chief minister's daughter, and vice versa. After completing the engagement ceremony, the chief minister did not leave immediately.

He invited Luna to cut the birthday cake with a clapping sound. This time, Luna did not deny his request. As the Luna stood up, a servant brought a large, five-foot chocolate cake onto the stage.

Luna grabbed the knife and made a small cut on the cake after blowing out the candles. While the people started singing the happy birthday song, Das activated the next set of holograms.

Immediately, the lights went out on the venue, and a spot light appeared on the stage, focusing on Luna. The holograms surrounding the venue all changed into her Instagram pictures. After changing the holograms, Das released a bunch of air balloons with birthday wishes and pictures of Luna.

Das changed the entire party's mood in that single instant. While the guests were staring at the air balloons and lively holograms of Luna, Das finally saw a happy smile on Luna's stoic face.

Luna is smiling happily while staring into his eyes. For that one happy look, Das made all these arrangements. But the chief minister's daughter got a little disappointed after seeing all these celebrations for Luna's birthday.

"During my engagement ceremony, except for the people shouting and clapping, there are no other arrangements like flowers or balloons, and the holograms are mainly focused on the chief minister and the patriarch pictures."

The chief minister's daughter is thinking about all these things while Luna is happily eating the cake from the chief minister's hand.

The chief minister's daughter also got jealous because Luna is way more beautiful than her average looks.

"Here, take this. I prepared this gift especially for you." The chief minister handed over a pink diamond necklace to Luna with a smiling face. Luna immediately received the neckless with an amazed look.

As the chief minister offered a gift, the guests started offering gifts to Luna. The funniest part is that they brought these gifts for the chief minister's daughter on the occasion of her engagement. But all these expensive and rare gifts ended up in Luna's hands.

"Because of my busy schedule, I have to leave this party earlier than expected. I request that everyone finish their dinner before leaving the venue." The chief minister left the Reddy family villa after saying that sentence.

But the daughter of the chief minister stayed back to spend some time with Richard.

Chapter 57 : Attack of the Shetty family

Note: Take a moment to rate the book a five star... Thank you @Lemon_Square for voting power stones daily.

After the chief minister left the party, the patriarch started his speech with the guests, and Luna slowly left the stage without disturbing anyone.

"Thank you..." Luna said with a sweet smile as she came near Das, who sat a long distance away from the guests.

"Why are you saying thank you to me? I didn't do anything." Das replied while observing the patriarch's speech with the guests.

"Stop pretending... I know that you arranged these holograms for me. You really gave a big surprise for me." Luna said as she pinched him on the waist.

"I just want to smile on your face." Das replied with a long stare.

"Stop sweetly talking to me... Where is my birthday gift?..." Luna asked with a pout. Das took out a chocolate from his back pocket and gave it to her with a meaningful smile.

While Das and Luna were chatting like a sweet couple, The chief minister's daughter is watching them with an envious look. Because, Richard sat like a fool without talking a single word with her, and Richard also did not prepare any gifts or surprises for her on the occasion of their engagement.

Ironically, all the raze and jealousy of the chief minister's daughter turned on to Luna, who is eating a chocolate happily while chatting with Das.

After another half hour of long speeches, the patriarch gave an end to the party and ordered the servants to serve the dinner for guests.

BOOM  BOOM*BOOM

Before the guests stood up from their seats, a series of loud, booming sounds came from the entrance gate. A large mob crashed directly into the gates of the Reddy family villa with vehicles.

The vehicles stopped directly before the venue, and a large mob came out of more than thirty transport vehicles.

Ten luxurious cars followed upon this mob, and the family members of the Shetty and Mittal families got down from these cars.

Before the Reddy family patriarch realised what was happening, one of the Shetty family members signalled the mob to attack Das, who is happily chatting with Luna in one corner.

Das moved Luna behind his back and loosened his shirt button to take on the oncoming mob. Before the Reddy family's security came to the rescue, the mob reached near Das. The first person who reached Das attacked him with a baseball bat.

Das bent his body to one side and gave a punch to the opponent's ribs. Just the first person went down. The next person released a straight punch towards Das face. But all it took was one punch, and the next person also went down.

One minute... Just one minute. Das took down more than ten opponents. Das stood in the same place, and the opponent's bodies were laid around him. After this incident, no one dared take a step towards Das. The entire commotion died down in a few minutes.

The Shetty family brought a large crowd to intimidate the Reddy family, but all their momentum died after a single fight. While Das was observing the situation to find out what was happening, Luna held on to his shirt with shaking hands.

"Shetty... How dare you? Do you know whose place is this?... Richard, call our security. Today, we are going to put an end to this Shetty family." The patriarch shouted with rage. Richard took out his mobile and informed his gang members and other security personnel.

"Michael (the Reddy family patriarch), don't act like a righteous person. I came here to settle accounts for what happened to my son." The Shetty family patriarch shouted back with an authoritative tone.

"Hmmhh... your family is not qualified to check accounts with my family. So, stop your nonsense and get out of my house right away." The Reddy family patriarch replied with a smug face.

"Hmmhh... Just because you got some new supporters... Don't act like a monarch of this city. Don't forget that my family also has an equal amount of wealth." The Shetty family's second brother replied back with a loud smirk.

Before the two families engage in a fight, the Mittal family patriarch came in the middle to discuss about the issue.

"Michael, we are not here to compare money matters with your family. The Shetty family's young master Vicky was brutally smashed in the hands of your daughter's body guard, and your own daughter also played a part in this incident."

"So, the Shetty family is here to settle accounts with that young man and your daughter." The Mittal family patriarch, who came in support of the Shetty family, explained with a calm voice as he pointed in the direction of Das and Luna.

"Mittal family, I already know about this incident... This issue is between my family and the Shetty family. So, stop nosing into other people's businesses." The father of the Reddy family patriarch (the old man) replied with an angry look.

The chief minister's daughter, who decided not to be involved in this family feud, immediately changed her decision after listening to the names of Luna and Das. God really gave her a chance to pay back her jealousy for Luna.

She immediately took the microphone on stage and interrupted the quarrel happening between these two families.

"Hello... Hello, everybody, please calm down..." The chief minister's daughter shouted loudly on the microphone. The entire crowd turned back to see the person who was nosing in between these families.

"My name is Ember; I'm the daughter of the chief minister of this state, and today is my engagement day. So, if anybody wants to crash my engagement party, think about the consequences." Ember indirectly warned the Shetty family with an authoritative word.

The Shetty family did not expect Ember to be involved in this feud, but now they can't ignore her as she is the daughter of the chief minister.

"Ms. Ember, we are not here to cause any disturbance to your engagement party. We are asking for justice as my Shetty family's young master was badly beaten by the Reddy family's first lady." The second brother of the Shetty family patriarch replied to Ember's warning.

Chapter 58 : Ember's decision

The Shetty family came with great momentum. If they turn back without getting any compensation, the Shetty family will become the laughing stock of Mumbai city. So, they did not back down even after listening to Ember.

But what the Shetty family don't know was,.... the chief minister's daughter is also on their side. If something bad happens to the Reddy family because of this incident, the entire blame goes to Luna. So, Ember wants to use this opportunity to blame Luna, thereby satisfying her ego.

The guests who came to attend the party are watching this family war more curiously. They were eagerly waiting for the conclusion of this war.

"What do you want for compensation?... money or business... tell me. I will throw anything you want." The Reddy family patriarch replied with a loud smirk. Finally the patriarch asked important question for which the Shetty family came prepared.

"Michael, do you think I lack money or business. Don't forget that my family wealth is not a single coin less than yours." The Shetty family patriarch replied with serious face.

"Then do you want my granddaughter life as a compensation?..." The Reddy family old man asked with an angry tone. Das can clearly see the raze on old man face.

"Mr. Shetty even though your son got a beating... he is still alive. So, stop thinking about taking anyone's life." Ember, who is eagerly waiting like movie heroine to deliver her dialogue... made that comment immediately after the old man.

"Miss, Ember my Shetty family is not cruel family to ask for peoples lives. We came here to challenge the Reddy family. Except for the challenge... we are not going to cause any loss on your engagement party." The second brother of the Shetty family patriarch replied with a stern tone.

All people inside the party got confused after listening to this statement. Who would bring a large mob... just to deliver challenge...?

While the guests and the Reddy family patriarch looking confusedly at the Shetty family... only the old man of the Reddy family got startled after listening to word challenge. Because he understood what Shetty family was talking about.

"What challenge?... " The chief minister daughter Ember, asked with a confused face.

"Every one... please listen carefully. The Shetty family is officially challenging the Reddy family for a Blood Duel. Michael, if you are a real man, accept this challenge." The patriarch of the Shetty family shouted loudly with a proud face.

"What!!!... Blood Duel!!!...."

One of the guests who came to attend the party blurted out with an astonished tone after listening the Shetty family patriarch.

"That's insane..." the other person beside him muttered. Except for few old people no one understood what type of a challenge is it.

"Father, what is Blood Duel?..." Richard asked the Reddy family patriarch who stood with a strange face after listening to the Blood duel.

"Shetty, are you sure about it?... Blood duel is not just a simple matter...?" The patriarch asked for confirmation as he completely ignored Richard's question.

"Father-in-law what is blood duel?..." Ember asked with a curious look after seeing the serious reaction of the patriarch.

"Blood Duel is nothing but war... the two challenging families will gather their best men and fight at a designated place during one particular date set by the moderator. The losing family has to give up their rights on the black market of the entire city."

"That include smuggling, brothels, antique market, Liquor business and several other important business deals." The patriarch explained with a serious face. Das felt baffled after listening to the description of Blood Duel.

"During the blood duel... no weapons or outside support is allowed. The two family forces has to fight with bear hands". The patriarch added before Ember asked another stupid question. nove-1b(1n

A loud murmuring started among the guests after finding about the Blood Duel. The black market is not just an income source... It will decide the fate of large families who are controlling this city.

"Haha... Michael... why are you not saying anything?... Are you afraid?..." The patriarch of the Shetty family started taunting after seeing the nervous expressions of the Reddy family patriarch and his family members.

"Shetty, do you think I'm a fool... At present I have full control over this city and you lost forty percent of your supporters in the last few days. Why would I agree to your idiotic challenge?..." The Patriarch said with a proud face.

"Haha... I thought the Reddy family patriarch is a courageous man, but you are acting like timid cat even after having an upper hand against my family." The Shetty family patriarch continued his taunting.

But the Reddy family patriarch did not get agitated... he turned his face towards his father to know about his opinion. The old man gestured him to refuse this challenge at any cost.

"Father-in-law why are backing down. Accept their challenge... we will prove them who is boss of this city." Ember cried out with loud tone.

She only cared about her proud image as a chief minister daughter and forgot that the entire future of the Reddy family is depend on this decision. The guests also were eagerly looking forward to the decision of the Reddy family patriarch.

The last Blood Duel was occurred more than fifty years ago... so most of these people were curious to see an out and out war between these two large families.

The patriarch ignored Ember's yelling and continued to discuss about consequences of the blood duel with his father. Das also thinking about the in and out of this sudden challenge from the Shetty family.

Ember got really upset as the patriarch is completely ignored her. On a sudden impulse she announced a shocking news the Reddy family.

"Father-in-law, my engagement with your son is only valid if you agree to this Blood Duel challenge... otherwise, I'm not going to be your family member." Ember directly dropped a bomb on Reddy family who are in big dilemma after receiving an insane challenge from the Shetty family.

But the strange thing is the Shetty family got more shocked after listening to her decision. They did not understand why this brainless child is suddenly supporting their family.

Note: Don't forget to add comments and power stones... Thank you everyone for your continuous support.

Chapter 59 : I have one condition

Not only Reddy family, even the guests, servant and rival people... everyone got shocked after listening to the abrupt statement by the chief minister daughter. The Shetty family used this chance to pressure the Reddy family for the Blood Duel.

"Father, let's accept this challenge... we will make this shitty family regret their own decision." Richard said in a support to the Ember's statement. The Reddy family patriarch looked at his father, the old man with a helpless look.

The old man also understood that he can't avoid this challenge anymore... as the guests are observing the attitude of the Reddy family and also their new daughter in law throw a big stone to stir these troubled waters.

"Shetty, who is the organiser of this Blood Duel..." the old man asked with a stern look.

"Haha... of course, the Abdullah family will be the organiser of this Blood Duel." The Shetty family patriarch replied with a hearty laughter as they achieved their motive.

"Then what is the date of the Blood Duel?... "The old man asked back without showing any emotions on his wrinkled face.

"On the fourteenth of the next month at the football arena..." The Shetty family patriarch announced the date and venue loudly.

"It's ok then... my Reddy family is accepting your challenge for a Blood Duel and if my family lose this challenge, we will completely give up on the Black Market." The old man declared with stern tone.

Das can see that the old man had an uneasy look as he declared the challenge. People started discussing more loudly after the old man's declaration. Some people immediately called important people to pass on this message.

"Haha... Mr. Shetty, what will you say now?..." Reddy family is not a soft permission. Ember commented with a proud look. She got happy that the Reddy family accepted this challenge after listening to her decision.

"Yes... Yes... Indeed, the Reddy family has some courageous people and Ms. Ember, I really thank you... for your fair judgement in this matter." The second brother of the Shetty family patriarch started praising the chief minister daughter as she helped them a lot.

"Ms. Ember, if you don't mind... my family still has a small request." The second brother added with a requesting tone.

"What is it?..." Ember instantly asked even before patriarch blocked her from involving in this matter.

Ember got elated with the praising of the Shetty family, that's why she actively asked about the new request by the Shetty family.

"Ms. Ember, the actual person who hit my family young master is him. So, I also want him to participate in the blood duel along with the Reddy family force." The Shetty family second brother replied while pointing finger at Das who stood a distance away from the crowd.

Suddenly, everyone turned their focus towards Das as he stood beside Luna. Until now, Das observed the entire situation like a spectator... But suddenly the Shetty family involved him in this mess. So, he can't be bystander in this issue anymore.

The chief minister daughter immediately took this chance to pass on her judgement as she is also waiting take care of her grudge on Das who is acting intimately with Luna.

"Of course, he is a servant of the Reddy family... so, he will also participate in this Blood Duel." Ember said directly like it is just a small matter... without thinking about any consequences.

"Nooo..." Luna cried out immediately after listening to Ember.

"What?... do you want to protect this chocolate boy....?" Ember asked in a belittling tone.

Luna did not understand what to reply... she can't directly shield Das in front of all these guests as she is the Patriarch's daughter.

"I may be working under the Reddy family... but still, I did not sold my freedom. So, Ms. Ember, you don't have any right to decide on this matter." Das said with a sarcastic tone.

Das is not afraid of this blood duel... but he doesn't want enter into this challenge by holding short end. In the heat of a moment Reddy family agreed to this challenge without thinking about the actual facts. But Das don't want to make the same mistake.

Everyone got baffled with the straight rejection by Das. Even Reddy family bow down to Ember... But Das out right rejected her on the face.

"You dare to reject me?... do you know who I am?... You body will disappear from this world if I say single word." Ember shouted back furiously.

But Das completely ignored her yelling and walked near the old man along with Luna.

"Father, it is related to our family reputation. Why is this dog rejecting the decision of our family member?" Richard shouted in support of her new wife.

Ember finally felt some satisfaction as Richard is supporting her. The patriarch is also thinking about the same thing. Das is not only rejecting the Blood Duel... He also affecting the reputation of the Reddy family by rejecting Ember in front of all these guests.

"Das, why don't you agree to this challenge first... Later I will definitely make arrangements to protect you." The old man who always supported Das asked in a requesting tone.

"Who said I don't want to participate in this Blood Duel. All I have is just a small condition." Das declared loudly... so that the Shetty family could also here his decision.

"What is it...?" Ember asked with an impatient tone.

Das felt an annoyed... as Ember is nosing in all matters. He wants to trap the Shetty family by beating them in their own game. But Ember always poking her butt in every matter. n/-OVelbIn

"Ms. Ember, I'm the one who thrashed the young master of the Shetty family and the Shetty family is asking me to participate in this challenge."

"This matter is between me and the Shetty family. So, please stop nosing in this matter."

Even though Das said politely... everyone can feel the irritation and sarcasm in his words. Some people even laughed at Ember... as she is exactly nosing in all matters.

Even the Reddy family patriarch and the old man laughed inside without rebuking.

"What is your condition?..." Finally the Shetty family second brother asked the important question for which Das is eagerly waiting for.

Note: What do you think about Das having an intercourse with Ember?... I'm still can't decide on this matter. Please post your suggestions. Thank you.

Chapter 60 : Let's bet twenty thousand crores!

After successfully muting the Ember from nosing in the matters between him and the Shetty family... Das turned his focus on to the Shetty family patriarch.

"Mr. Shetty, You family only control thirty percent of the black market... whereas the Reddy family own more than fifty percent market. Then how is this Blood Duel being a fair challenge without putting on equal stakes." Das questioned while staring directly the Shetty family patriarch.

Even though the Reddy family patriarch thought of this issue... he agreed to the challenge because it is related to their family prestige. But Das is not going to do the same mistake.

Shetty family is the one who came up with this challenge... so, Das has every chance to question their proposal.

The Shetty family patriarch got perplexed with the direct question from Das. He can't back down or rebuke Das as all the guests were watching at him with scrutinising gaze.

"Haha... boy, do even qualify to ask this question?... The Reddy family already accepted this challenge. So, they can't argue for the equal stakes after accepting the challenge." The second brother of the Shetty family replied tactically.

Das looked back at the old man to see his reaction. The old man nodded his head confirming the Shetty family claim. Das though for a moment before deciding on a crucial decision.

"Mr. Shetty, I'm not related to the Reddy family. Even if the Reddy family win or lose in this Blood Duel... I won't gain anything. So, if you want me to participate in this Blood Duel... you have to accept my challenge in return. Is it Ok for you...?"

Das questioned with a loud voice... so that every one could hear him clearly. Ember started laughing loudly after listening to Das question... and everyone followed her.

Even the family members of the Reddy family started laughing along with the Shetty brother of the Shetty family started insulting Das in front of the all the guests.

family. But Das stood there silently with a determined look.

"Haha... boy, you really have guts to talk like this. But I really like your bravery... tell me what is your challenge?" The second brother of the Shetty family asked with a laughing tone.

Das can see the loud mockery in his voice... but without caring about the people laughing... Das put forward his challenge.

"Mr. Shetty, I want to place a personal bet as stake in this blood duel. Do you agree to this?" Das asked calmly without getting agitated with the Shetty family mockery.

"What you wanna place bet against my family? Do you even know my family wealth... Haha, tell me how much you wanna bet? One crore?... two crores...?" The third brother of the Shetty family started insulting Das in front of the all the guests.

More people started laughing and Richard also made some funny comments after listening to silly request of Das. Ember also used this to make some scornful comments. Even the Reddy family old man did not understand the actual motive of Das.

"Brat, I'm accepting to your challenge... tell me how much want to bet?..." The Shetty family patriarch questioned while looking down on Das.

"How much is your family wealth...?" Das asked back with mocking smile.

Now he holds the situation as the Shetty family agreed to his challenge... the Shetty family stumbled on the same hole... they prepared for the Reddy family.

"You don't need to worry... My family net worth is more than twenty thousand crores... Say the number... How much you wanna bet...?" The second brother of the Shetty family replied satirically.

Twenty thousand crores... twenty thousand crores... what the...!!!

People got perplexed after listening to the net worth of the Shetty family... which almost equal with the Reddy family who is controlling this city from the last two hundred years.

"Then my bet is twenty thousand crores... Do you dare to bet Mr. Shetty!?!..." Das questioned with a taunting look.

"Are you insane...?" Ember is the first one to react after listening to Das. She almost trickery."

lost her balance on the stage... all the guests were staring at Das with their eyes wide open. They did not understand how to react.

"Patriarch, he is just speaking nonsense to avoid the Blood Duel..." The third brother of the Shetty family spoke loudly. nove)ℓb-1n

Most of the people felt the same opinion as they can't imagine a teenager holding twenty thousand crores. The Shetty family patriarch observed Das for a long time before replying to Das challenge.

"I know that you are just bluffing. But you are not going to escape this Blood Duel with trickery."

"Next week, the Abdullah family will conduct the peace meeting before the Blood Duel. If you can bring twenty thousand crores at that time... I will gladly accept your bet." The patriarch replied with a calm face.

"Brat even if you can't bring the money... you have to participate in this blood duel." The second brother of the Reddy family said with an evil laugh.

"Shetty, I think you are done here. Leave my family now..." The Reddy family patriarch spoke while gnashing his teeth.

The Shetty family slowly left with the mob while laughing happily as they finally achieved their goal. It is definitely a great move to take revenge against the Reddy family.

Ironically, the guests also slowly left the Reddy family villa without waiting for the dinner. The Reddy family old man sat dazedly while thinking about the consequences of this blood duel.

Ember also left with the security of the chief minister without saying a single word to the Reddy family. Reddy family patriarch took all the family members inside the villa. Only Luna left outside with Das.

"Das, don't participate in this challenge." Luna said as she held his hand.

"Luna, don't worry about me... I know how to deal with this." Das replied with an assuring tone.

"Das, what should we do with this food... Everyone left without even touching the food." Luna asked worriedly.

Das came out of his thoughts about the Blood Duel... after listening to the Luna's question about the food. He knows exactly what to do with the food.

"Don't worry... ask Rao to load the food into a truck." Das said with a smiling face.
