

Avoiding Me

Prince James Pov

I watch Princess Aliya in a distance as she smiles and dance with her friends, she is a beauty indeed, a gem that Antonio won't treasure and just use as a breeder. She's too innocent for this life and I wish she didn't come here at all. She thinks life is about love, kindness, and a perfect ending but it isn't and I ache for her.

Aliya is perfect in all sense of the way and I wish she was mine, her smile brightens up a room and her laughter is the most beautiful melody I'll ever hear, I will never tire to hear her talk.

Honestly even now as I'm staring at her, my d**k is throbbing in my pants and all I want is to bury it in her p***y but no, this is wrong, she's my brother's luna, his future bride.

" This is pathetic, you watching her down there while she watches Antonio, longing for him," A sultry voice says, I missed this woman. I kiss my best friend's cheek.

" My wolf chose her as his, it couldn't be helped,"

" James," She sighs, at a loss for words. " She loves, Antonio,"

I clutch my st at that but take a calming breath. I know of that fact very well, she has since she was just a little girl, I read all the love letters she wrote him and responded to most since Antonio didn't give a damn.

" I bumped into her today, and it was electric, everything Regan said it will when we touch her," The whole world faded when I saw her, and when I looked into her eyes, I saw a future that will never happen.

" You just need a good f**k and you'll forget her," She shrugs. I shake my head and go back to watching Aliya dance. She is trying to get Antonio's attention but he doesn't give it to her.

" I got you two little submissives you'll just love, tiny, pretty, and delicate," Esther continues to entice me. A smirk forms on my lips

" Thank you for coming,"

" Good to be back, my friend," Esther caresses my cheek and we leave the party to see my playtoys.

Aliya POV

After the party, we retire to bed, exhausted from all the events today sleep comes easy to me. I dream about those beautiful eyes that were watching me with so much emotion earlier.

A knock on my door wakes me up and I mumble come in, It's a little colder today so I'm hesitant to leave the covers. Tania walks in followed by Maya and a few servants who are carrying trays of food.

" Morning, ladies,"

" Good morning, princess," Maya jumps in bed and straddles me, I'm lying on my back while she sits on my stomach.

" I had a fun time yesterday, and I met a prince, and damn, his c**k is so huge!" She exclaims.

" Did you sleep with a stranger, Maya?" I question, furrowing an eyebrow. She sighs and gets off me. I get up too and Tania helps me wear my robe and we go to the dining room.

" Nope, but I put my hand around it," Maya winks, putting a grape in her mouth most sensually. I only shake my head and eat my breakfast.

" Did you get a chance to speak with the Prince?" Tania asks,

" No, he seemed to be avoiding me the whole night," I did try to talk to him but he was busy with other matters.

Maybe I'm the one who's reading into this too much, Antonio will talk to me soon because we have to know each other a little more before our wedding next week.

...

Two days had passed since the party and I haven't talked to Prince Antonio. I wear a coat over my dress and march to his oce. A servant is following me as I walk in a hurry, she is supposed to help me get familiar with the palace, I said no but the Queen insisted.

" Which way, Chandra?" I ask, looking back at the petite blonde behind me.

" Down to the north wing," She answers softly.

I'm determined to speak to Prince Antonio before I chicken out but I keep making stops to greet the people who I meet, some congratulate me and others ask how I'm adjusting.

I reach my future husband's oce. Hearing voices in there, I debate on whether to knock or leave but the door abruptly opens and I take a step back when my eyes meet an angry Antonio.

" It's rude to eavesdrop on conversations you know," He almost growls.