

Alpha's curvy bullied human mate

Chapter 101: Two dangerous species

Jeremiah

Here was the destined mate of the dreaded Crimson Fangs Alpha, and it was an omega girl from the Red Moon Pack. For Marco's ego... it must have been very hard to accept.

"My pack is allied to Crimson Fangs, and they wanted us to get to know each other to find mates. I didn't have much hope of finding mine. I was living all alone and in bad conditions...until I saw him..." she says as we listen.

"I thought he would be happy to see me, but he said nothing, and when we were alone, he made me promise not to tell anyone. He said it was just to protect me and I believed him because I was so happy to have a mate..." she says and starts to cry as I hand her a handkerchief and Andrew goes to get some water.

"What happened next?" I ask.

"I had no family, and he took me to Crimson Fangs. He always kept me hidden. A few days later he came to my room and tried to seduce me, and I thought he had accepted me and wanted to mark me."

"Was it all a lie?" asks Naomi, and Eileen nods.

"He started saying nice things to me. That we will have a life together, that I would be his Luna. That he loved me from the first moment he saw me, and I believed him for a moment. I couldn't deny the bond. We... mated, and he marked me," she says, showing the mark on her neck.

The girl is bound to this monster she fears. Marco... he couldn't avoid marking her, a crazy and possessive Alpha.

"So he started to show his true self and his plans?" asks Naomi, and while Eileen seems to have a hard time talking about it, it's also as if she's relieved.

Andrew brings water and some food, and she sits down and gulps it all down as if she hadn't eaten in a long time.

"He left me chained up and every once in a while he visited me, but he just looked at me and smelled me., but never cared about me. All this made me suffer because I was marked, and he was my mate. Even though he never let me mark him. When I asked him why, he told me that I was a dirty omega, that I wasn't good enough for him. He despised me, that I was a disgrace to an Alpha like him," she said, devastated.

"It's not your fault, Eileen...let's just say this man has some issues," Naomi tells her, Eileen nods.

"He didn't want anyone to see him weak because he had an Omega mate...what would the other Alphas think of him? He also told me that he would never leave me...but that he would have several mates, including a human who had been his obsession for a long time. And one day he brought a girl, he said she would be his mate, a chosen one who would be the visible face, the Luna of his pack," she said sadly.

"Regina... you met her... she was the one who told us about you," Naomi said, nodding.

"Regina... she seemed happy to be his chosen mate... but when she met me, I saw the fear on her face. She was right to be scared," she said.

"What happened next?" she asked.

"I felt miserable, almost dying. And in the worst moments... he was kind to me. Then I felt how he was with other women, especially humans. I knew he was unfaithful to me, and he was fully aware that I could feel it, and he didn't care. I knew that he just wanted to weaken me little by little, to have me in his clutches. But inside me, this resentment was growing. I was his mate! The goddess Luna brought us together for a special reason," she says between sobs.

"What do you mean?" I ask. And she seems to have mentioned something by mistake.

"It's a silly thing..."

"We just want to help you, Eileen..." I say and she sighs.

"In my pack, they say that the day of the Red Moon will come when a low-range she-wolf joins a powerful Alpha... I thought that maybe... that was the reason for all this suffering" she says very nervously.

"Hm, I heard that prophecy years ago. Your mate doesn't believe in such prophecies?" I asked.

"No... he hates anything to do with believing in the moon," she says.

Would it be a prophecy of the Red Moon pack only? Or would it include other packs?

"Miss... wolves usually talk to their mates, it helps them feel better and calmer, and sometimes it's unavoidable to tell them things, even if they don't want to. Something about his plans..." I say, and they all look at her attentively.

"He has plans... not only for Moonstone but for all the packs..."

"He wants to take over all the territories..." I say.

"Yes, but also take his allies' packs... he is counting on many to die in this war, and he plans to take everything," she says. We are all shocked, I hear Naomi scream after covering her mouth.

"All the packs?" she asks.

"Yes...and not just their territories...he wants the people in the packs. Especially the daughters of the Alphas, some will be given to those in the Council... it is his payment and reward, plus land... and others girls... he will keep as mates. He wants them all to be of Alpha blood. He is obsessed with having heirs, powerful ones"

"But...how...how is it possible that the other Alphas didn't notice..."

"He has them completely fooled, they think he will share his great power...when he wants to destroy them, but there is more, right? There must be a goal for all these plans?" I ask.

"Yeah... I hear...that there...newborn vampires are just cruel tests. He wants to mix with vampires... he wants to be a hybrid and live forever. Create an empire... be all-powerful... and..."

"Overthrow the king...the king has no heirs, even though he is almost immortal. If Marco gets children and so much power...and lives forever...it will be chaos," I say, sitting down in a small chair. Marco is thinking ahead, staying in power almost forever.

This was like a bucket of cold water that I didn't see, how is possible?

In so many years on this earth, there were still things that surprised me and caught me off guard. He is a narcissistic, psychopath. He wants power but even more. Furthermore, he wants to control everything.

The balance of the world was at stake. There hadn't been a hybrid for years...they were extremely dangerous, and unpredictable.

Marco himself must not have evolved into a hybrid, it was almost... painful and difficult. Many had tried... but to live forever as a wolf was not normal.

Fool Maximus and his laziness and stupidity! If he'd known, he'd have wiped everything out by now.

"This is all so complicated, it's like a novel..." Andrew said.

"We have to act now... if Marcos has achieved all this based on lies and connections with others, he's not going to give up just like that..." I say, and everyone looks at me as I walk back and forth. Eileen is much calmer and Naomi holds her hand.

"Is there any way we can prove this, have you seen or heard anything about these experiments? To be a hybrid, Marco would drink vampire blood or inject it," I ask, and they all put on disgusted expressions.

"Sorry Jeremiah..." Naomi and Andrew say. Eileen thinks.

"If anything...he's gotten stronger. But I've heard that...for some time now...he's not turning into a wolf...only when he marked me did I feel his wolf," she says.

"Of course! That's why this damn man has always acted in the dark, in the attack on the council...Alpha Nathaniel said he never came face to face with him. He always lets somebody else do the work for him. And he never fought in wolf form. Even in this battle..." I say, finally finding the missing piece of this puzzle.

"He really must not have the strength to face our Alpha, his wolf must reject vampire blood," Naomi says.

"That's why he is doing all his weird experiments!" says Andrew.

"Yeah, that's why he uses vampires, the masks, the wolfsbane, the rogues. I thought he was experimenting on how to be stronger, to build an army, or maybe for himself. But he's actually afraid that deep down he's going to stay in a head-to-head that he can't resolve. He's strong, but he's in transition...will he make it? If so...it's even more dangerous," I say.

"Then we have an advantage! Don't we?" asks Andrew excitedly.

"Maybe, he must have already planned several scenarios, but if he feels at risk... we know he will do anything to survive, he is capable of anything."

"Penelope! She will use her as a shield and also as a bargaining chip. He knows she is the most important person to Alpha Nate, and he won't let her go for anything in the world," Naomi says in fear.

"We have to get her right now!" shouts Andrew.

"She's heavily guarded...and he's capable of killing her if we make a wrong move," I say.

"So what do we do?" asks Naomi.

"First we have to get Eileen to safety..."

"And then?" they all ask.

"And then... show everyone the madness that Marco is about to commit," I say, wondering if all my supposed wisdom can help me avoid the tragedy that is undoubtedly about to unfold.
