

Alpha's curvy bullied human mate - Chapter 2 Chapter 2: The meeting

Chapter 2: The meeting

Penelope

Many years had passed, my grandmother had died and I was now living alone at her small house. I have a simple life: saving to go to college and working in the only restaurant in this small town, as a waitress.

"Penelope, thank goodness I found you! This week the restaurant is booked for a very important meeting of several businessmen, CEOs from nearby towns and I need everyone to be on their best," my boss Jack told me, he's a very kind man who considered me a part of his family.

"We are going to have new uniforms and I am going to leave a list of tasks for you to give to the other waitresses. You know I trust you... and you are the best, so I will leave you in charge" he said winking at me.

"Of course, Jack," I said glad to be able to help.

"Did you heard Penny? Some CEOs are coming to town... such wonderful news!" said Marianne, my fellow waitress and best friend.

"I hope they are hot, young and rich, and that our new uniforms Jack are talking about will bring out my attributes. You know... I need a boyfriend" she said happily.

My friend was short and thin, with curly hair that fell down her back and round glasses. She looked innocent as well as nerdy, and she was the best girl in the world.

"I just hope they come in plus sizes...and not mini skirts," I said.

"What are you talking about, girl? I wish I had your curves, Penny!" she said, bumping her hips into mine, and I laughed.

Of course, over time I hadn't changed, I still was the curvy girl, with even more curves...but now I didn't feel bad about it, or at least I was trying to.

When I got home, I looked in the mirror and thought about that important event in town. My life was quiet, much better since I had left the pack.

I see my long dark blonde hair, my broad chest, my hips, and my wide legs. Here... no one was laughing at me, I was just Penny, the waitress and girl who lives alone near the woods.

Suddenly I heard a noise and when I opened the door I saw two boys I knew very well standing in the doorway wearing only tiny shorts.

"Thing one and Thing two! What are you doing here? and why are you wearing such tiny shorts?" I asked my brothers, laughing at them and giving them a big hug. The twins had grown quite a bit, and to me, they were already giants.

"Of course, we came to visit you!" Luther said.

"It's your fault for leaving those shorts on your porch! They don't fit us anymore, we've grown sister!" said Luke almost insulted, and I could see past him to my dad, who was getting out of the car.

"It's so good to see you, Dad... " I said as we hugged.

Of course, they had come to see me whenever they could. We were a family on weekends, holidays, and any other day. I loved them so much, they were my boys.

"My little pumpkin...as you can imagine, the boys wanted to come in their wolf form. They wanted to come and see you for days, but they were training," Dad explained.

"Come...let's have dinner."

We had a happy dinner as a family, and while my brothers prepared to sleep in my house, my father spoke to me alone.

"I just wanted to tell you, Penny...I heard there is going to be an alpha meeting here at Belle Springs."

"Alphas? Ohhh the CEOs are alphas..." Now that I thought about it, sounds logical. This town was pretty much the closest neutral spot to many packs. A simple, stupid human town.

"I thought it would be better to warn you... you know... just be careful and don't let anyone bother you, okay?" he said worriedly, giving me a kiss on the cheek and leaving me to my thoughts.

"It's just an alpha meeting...most werewolves won't even remember me," I repeat to myself as I try to sleep.

"Moon goddess! Are you going to eat all my food?" I yell in the morning as my brothers attacked the breakfast I had prepared for them and now attacked my fridge.

"We have to grow up, sister...besides, you cook delicious food," they say with their mouths full, and I kissed them goodbye to go to the preparations for the big meeting of the alphas, called businessmen for humans.

"Stay here, behave yourselves, if there are alphas around... better be careful, and leave some food outside for the wolves"

Sometimes wolves and other animals came to visit me, I didn't like going deep into the forest, but I liked being near them.

That day I worked hard to make everything perfect, I was already nervous and everyone in town had great expectations of the rich CEOs coming to this small town.

Everything was ready, and suddenly we started to see big and expensive cars and vans arriving and men and women getting out. But there was one thing that all of them had in common... and that was that they were all strong and attractive, like no human being. I knew the reason, of course, but the others did not.

"Hell... where did these CEOs come from? They look like gods who came down from Mount Olympus," Marianne told me excitedly.

"Maybe celebrities... good Lord..." another waitress said with her mouth wide open.

"Come on girls, we have a lot of work to do," I replied, arranging the tables.

"I'm serious Penny... I mean...have you seen them? Those men are huge, and their muscles are pieces of art...and those tattoos...my good god...." she said and looked heated. When suddenly Jack appeared quite nervously.

"Penny...we've been arranging the tables, but could you stand at the entrance and welcome them?" Jack asked me.

I didn't like the idea, my goal was to stay as long as possible in the kitchen and behind the bar so no one would see me, but he was counting on me, I couldn't let him down.

So suddenly I found myself as the hostess at the entrance of the restaurant while these magnificent beings watched me as if I were a dead fly, looking me up and down. And I was just in my old waitress uniform, worn and ugly.

One by one, I started calling out the names of the alphas I had on a list and indicating their seats and tables. But my heart stopped when I came to a name I hadn't expected to see.

"Nataniel Connor?" I asked in a shaky, shaky voice, and practically the rest of the alphas stepped aside for him to pass.

And that's when I saw him... the son of the alpha in all his magnificence.

Nate had grown even more, and contrary to my case, had become even more attractive. He had gorgeous dark hair and his blue eyes practically sparkled.

He looked tanned and ridiculously muscular, the shirt practically couldn't even close, and I could see tattoos protruding from his neck and chest. He was much taller than the rest, and he walked knowing he was an important, strong and attractive man.

He was so hot that I could hear the women sigh just looking at him.

Of course, this had to happen... I should have known. If all the packs in the region were coming... Moonstone had to come. But I thought maybe it would be his father and not him, though I had to assume that he was old enough to take the alpha position.

As soon as he laid his eyes on me... I saw his confused face. He certainly hadn't expected me to be here... and the look on his face was one of annoyance and even disgust.

I felt myself shaking, and when he came closer, I took several steps back in fear. Pictures of him dragging me out of the territory and leaving me in the middle of the night in the woods... kept popping up in my mind.

"You... here... " he said as if he saw his worst enemy.

Nate didn't say anything else, but he looked me up and down, and I could see his eyes darkening, it seemed like he was avoiding breathing, so he wouldn't smell my human scent. He only seemed to react when his beta, Roger, spoke to him.

"Thank you, we will go to our post," his beta said. And I watched them leave, Nate tensed and kept looking at me.

When I called the other alphas, of course, Crimson Fangs, Karl's son, Alpha Marco showed up, he was easy to recognize with his blond hair.

"Ohh, but what do we have here? The chubby human? the liar... " he whispered to me with an evil grin. I didn't answer but stood there dejected and trembling.

When I went to the bathroom, I felt desperate and couldn't stop crying. My nightmare was back and in the worst way, I couldn't believe my bad luck!

"Come on Penny...they have nothing to do with you, and they have no way of hurting you again. They will have their meeting and leave like nothing happened, and you will never see him again," I kept telling myself.

On my way out I bumped into Jack who seemed to be looking for me.

"Are you okay honey?" he looked worried.

"Yeah, yeah, I'm fine... Did you need anything?"

"Yes, the new uniforms arrived a little late, but finally... the only problem is that this is the largest size," he said, handing me an outfit, and I was already afraid that it wouldn't fit.

"I just..."

"Please just try it on...all the girls are already dressed, and now the CEOs are asking us to help them with a few things. I promise I'll give you a great bonus, Penny," he said, and like a fool, I gave in again.

From the moment I put the outfit on, I knew it wasn't going to work, the skirt was too tight and short, too short.

The shirt barely closed, and my chest sticking out, how was I supposed to go out in front of everyone like this? Nate was already giving me hateful looks, and I could almost swear the rest of the alphas were laughing at the fact that I was once part of his pack.

But honestly... Why should I care? He's nothing to me, and I'm nothing to them. They probably don't even remember me. Yeah...that's what I had to think.

"Go to hell with Nathaniel Connor..." I said aloud as I straightened myself as best I could and fixed my hair. When I suddenly bent down, I heard a noise and when I looked in the mirror... my shirt was torn.

"What the hell!" I yelled.

When abruptly the bathroom door opened, and I thought it might be Jack or maybe Marianne... but I was face to face with none other than Nate staring at me, looking at my clothes and breathing heavily.
