

Alpha's curvy bullied human mate

Chapter 75: A new Mate

Nathaniel

It was all my fault.

I didn't have the strength to exile my father, and look what happened, he treated me worse than an enemy.

Damn Wolfsbane! I'm trapped, and weak, and I can't stop thinking that they might have my mate.

My father and Robert have arranged a meeting where they have brought me a Luna, Erica... Marco's sister.

I make time to pass the wolfsbane, and I can take back my full power, I want to explode the pack house from its foundations from the rage I have.

"What have you done with the pack?" I ask. The pack house seems to have run out of my warriors. I find myself alone, wondering what will become of my people.

The twins have escaped, but Michael and Naomi are wounded and in the dungeons. And Penelope... she must be with my most loyal warriors, but... I trust none.

I am only with my wounded mother and my worst enemies.

"We do not harm our people, Nate... what do you think we are? At least the ones who didn't object... we have to teach a lesson," my father says.

"What fucking lesson?"

"Moonstone must obey...accept what is best for the pack. Just like you, son...you will have a Luna, a decent woman to represent us with dignity" I can't believe my ears.

"How dare you do such a thing? I have a mate! A true and destiny mate!" I yell in desperation as I try to call Hunter.

"Why don't you understand that the life of the pack is at stake? Crimson Fangs are too powerful! They will wipe us out if they want to!" my father says as he holds my mother, who is crying in pain and fear.

"Crimson Fangs are the enemy! How can we ally ourselves with the enemy? They already tried to destroy and kill me once!" I ask angrily.

"Crimson Fangs don't want our destruction, they want us to be part of their deal, they want to eliminate humans, and we will have more territory!" my father explains, and I realize that he is completely insane.

"You mean you... knew about the attack on the border? Did you try to attack your son?" I ask and he hesitates for the first time.

"We were helped by Collin... the boy gave us the information and placed Wolfsbane in the area... to disrupt communications..." he says shamelessly.

"Are you listening to yourself, father? Since when does an Alpha use wolfsbane not only against werewolves but also against his people?"

"It was necessary! I knew you would be with her, but what I didn't expect was that there would be an Alpha and a vampire! A vampire son! Damn it! How can you get involved with these people?" my father says, I can't believe the irony.

"Are you aware that Crimson Fangs is working with vampires and rogues? Against us?"

"Crimson Fangs have a very clear goal, and they understand that the end often justifies the means... if only we had killed your human," he says firmly, and I roar.

"And I suppose you also knew that I was ambushed at the Council meeting? That I was attacked and nearly died? Not only me but also my men. Roger is injured right now and none of you care!" I yell and see Robert tense up.

"They just wanted to scare you! But you wouldn't budge," my father says, coming over and putting a hand on my shoulder.

"Do you have any idea what we worked and did to finally get a good deal with Crimson Fangs? You with Erica and Marco with Regina... so that our families would be united and what you did would be forgiven..." he says as if it was the most sensible thing in the world.

"What I've done? I fought for this pack while you set traps for me..." I say and walk away from him, almost crawling.

"You're fucking, mating a human! You only care about humans! And I told you I wouldn't allow it! Erica will be the new Luna, and we'll introduce her as soon as possible!" he says matter-of-factly, and she steps forward.

"Nate...we've known each other since we were little, I understand that you're having trouble accepting this and that...you're enchanted by this girl, and you think she's your mate...but I promise you..."

"She is my mate and the only woman for me!" I yell and Erica looks at me in shock.

"If you don't accept it, Nate... Robert will imprison Ruth, I can't hurt her, but he can. And I will find your mate myself and kill her, do you understand? You won't even get a chance to say goodbye... they're going to bring her to me," he says.

I'm on the verge of madness and as I roar and go to attack my father, I feel a bullet in my back and then another, and I fall to my knees. My father sees me from above and pushes me and I fall to the ground, my mother yells.

"You will do as you are told... stupid boy. Now take him..." he says, and I was dragged and taken to another room. After a while, someone appears out of nowhere.

"Regina..."

"Shhh, I can help you. But you have to come with me and choose me. If you mark me... you won't be able to go with Erica. I told you you'd need my help in the end. Besides, I've already proven my worth, haven't I? I saved you..." she says, hopefully.

"You're going to marry Marco..." I say, sighing in pain.

"Yes... but I don't trust him. He's... cruel... and rumor has it that he hunts women. This is the best option for both of us. You and I will be mated as it should have been," and I realize that everyone here is looking out for their interests.

"I can't..." and see her rage. I can't tell anyone that Penelope is marked. It would be worse.

"Then you will suffer..." she says angrily and leaves.

I wake up, dragged into another room, where they leave me and close the door. There I find Erica, in a piece of lingerie that covers almost nothing.

It is red, full of lace and transparencies, with little strips held in place with bows.

"Nate...you know I've always loved you, right? I always saw you and dreamed of us being together..." she says, moving closer to me.

"I'm not interested, Erica..." I say and she smiles. She has high heels on and walks, wiggling her hips.

"You must understand that this arrangement benefits all of us...your father does it because he cares about you and the pack..." she says with a condescending expression.

With slow movements, she undoes the ties and the small fabric covering her breasts falls away. She bites her lip as she watches me, convinced I will fall into her trap.

"Get out of here, Erica... I am the Alpha and I did not invite you...you are not welcome in Moonstone," I say as firmly as I can as I cover my wound with my hands.

"Your father invited me, he sent for me ...and I think you know exactly why...they want you and me to mate. And it's my duty as the Alpha's daughter to be with whoever they tell me to be with. But with you, Nate...I'm going to enjoy it very much," she says as she walks towards me, her breasts bouncing as she plays with her long blonde hair.

"Don't come near me..." I say annoyed and every time I speak my chest hurts.

"I'm convinced that after one night with me, you'll want to mark me right away. When you get your big hands on me, and you're deep inside me. A woman with Alpha blood...one who fulfills your most powerful passions, Alpha..."

Slowly she finishes undressing, loosens her ties and stands in front of me wearing only long stockings that reach mid-thigh and high heels.

I see her naked, but it means absolutely nothing to me. She looked less and less pleased, although she insisted on seducing me.

"Nothing? I don't provoke you at all? You're really tougher than I thought..." she says with a giggle, as if this was all a game to her, running her hands over her breasts, touching them, massaging them.

"You really don't like what you see?" she asks with a pout.

Her smell disgusts me, everything about her disgusts me. I don't hear Hunter, and I'm glad he's not witnessing this grotesque show.

"I already have a mate, Erica. Get out of here,"

Suddenly she moves to the bed and sits up, spreading her long legs and brazenly exposing her center, and lies down, spreading herself wider and wider. No doubt, she shares the perverted mind of her family.

"Was your mate really human? You seem to have fallen quite low... no wonder your father is worried. Humans don't have the strength to keep an Alpha like you satisfied. I can imagine how big you must be... and passionate. And I can spend hours with you, pleasuring you..." she says.

"You have always been too attractive and even wounded as you are... I can feel all your power Nate... my family just wants to have you on our side. Together we could accomplish so much..." she says, shifting her position, propping herself up on her hands and knees, showing me her ass.

"Enough! Get out of here!" I say, feeling a pain in my chest that gets worse and worse, and I gasp.

"Oh, you poor thing!" she says, getting up again and touching me as I try to get away from her.

"I'll never be with you!" I cry out, feeling dizzy. She rubs against me and I fear I am losing my strength. I see my shirt wet with blood, I feel done.

"Don't worry... we'll be locked in here for a long time. I'll even let you take me as you please. I'm yours, Nate. I'll take care of you...and before you know it...we'll be all over each other...you deep inside me, and me... with your mark on my neck,"

When she starts to unbutton my pants, I push her off, and she falls on the bed. She is there waiting for me, her legs spread, waiting for me.

Suddenly I hear a noise outside and I feel my soul leaving my body.
