Chapter 91: In the wrong hands

Penelope

My head was spinning and when I opened my eyes I felt my world upside down

My heart was racing and I got out of the car as best I could, when I looked back I couldn't find Andrew, nor could I see my brothers or Naomi.

My hands were shaking, and I couldn't stand up, I don't know where I was, all I could see were some houses in the distance.

I thought about running away, although I knew that I had no escape, that wherever I went, they would find me.

I heard a ringing in my ears and wondered what it was that had attacked us, what could be so powerful to hit us that way? And my question was soon answered when I heard growls approaching me in the darkness.

They were wolves, but something inside me screamed that they were much more than that, and when I could see them in the moonlight I realized that they were different.

Rogues, not like Cornelia and her friends, not like the ones I had met before.

The condition of these creatures was horrible, they looked thin, and beaten, with red eyes, dark and dirty fur, and foam coming out of their mouths.

They looked possessed, showing their teeth and growling at me as if I were promised bait that they would undoubtedly take.

"What do you want from me? Get away from me!" I stammered, crawling as best I could with my hands away from them.

These wolves seemed to have been through the worst, there were four, and from the wounds I could see on their heads and paws, they had caused this accident.

They had managed to overturn a moving car, what else would they be capable of? Who are they?

Their growl makes my blood run cold, and I am terrified as they take several steps forward without taking their eyes off me. I look around for rocks or something to defend myself with when my hand touches a gun and I feel relieved.

"If you take another step, I'll shoot, I'm warning you! I'm giving you a chance to leave," I say, pointing the gun at them.

I have no idea if they can understand what I am saying, but they continue to move forward and I shoot.

A bullet comes out and hits the leg of one of them, but when I try to shoot again... nothing comes out, no more bullets. I'm screwed.

They come towards me and attack me, one bites my pants as I scream in terror when I hear someone appear.

"Get away from her, you beasts! Don't you dare touch her," I hear Andrew say.

I see he's limping, but he's got a large piece of wood, and he starts hitting the rogues, who are freaking out like crazy.

"Andrew! Be careful!" I yell.

One rogue bites his arm as I hit them with my gun as hard as I can, kicking in desperation until I see one of them push my friend into a tree, knocking him.

"No! Andrew! This can't be happening!" I scream in desperation, and as they come at me again, we hear a huge explosion, and we all go flying through the air.

I face down on the ground and I see what's left of the car on fire. It exploded and threw the rogues away from me.

The wound in my hand has opened up, and I try to get up and run away. I'm getting further and further away from my friends, and I don't know where Andrew is.

I hear footsteps and hope that it is one of them when I am met with a cold look and a voice that conveys the deepest contempt.

"If you want something done right you have to do it yourself, you can't trust a rogue, I told him that already," she says.

The woman in front of me is blonde, she has a long coat and expensive shoes. She looks like a doll, and I know exactly who she is, even though I never thought I'd see her here.

"Erica..." I say, almost in disbelief.

"You filthy human. Unfortunately, I know who you are too... I still can't believe that Nate was with you. You look terrible, but even with expensive clothes and makeup, you wouldn't look any better," she says, looking at me with disgust.

I see that the rogues are injured and struggling to get up, but they seem to have the same spirit as always, and they come towards me roaring.

"I thought you wouldn't survive facing them... or at least be somewhat damaged..."

"What are they...?" I ask.

"They are Marco's pets, rogues tortured and trained as puppies, quite rabid and sick. I told him not to trust them, but he paid no attention to me."

Moon goddess, poor creatures. Why would a person do such a thing?

"What do you want from me...isn't it enough that you got my mate...that you locked him up and made him suffer?" I ask, and she walks over to me, looking down at me from above, smiling.

"Oh yes... we made him suffer quite a bit, although he enjoyed it too. I know you saw our show and cried a lot... and if you knew everything that happened, I'm sure you'd cry even more," she says.

"What do you mean?" the rogues follow behind her as if waiting to attack as if they need her signal.

"Nate and I would have had our beautiful ceremony if it weren't for the interference of all of you and Moonstone's losers. You don't understand your place... and attacked and killed my father! But we have a deal, Nate would be mine..." she says very angrily.

"I am his mate...he is mine," I say out loud, and it was the first time I said it. But she laughed.

"You're just a human...you don't have the right to have a mate, certainly not a werewolf, let alone an Alpha like him. Did you know that he was ready to give himself to me? To reject you?" she says very convincingly.

"Impossible," I say, and she reaches down grabs my arm and lifts me, and I scream from the pain.

I have fallen into the hands of an enemy who will have no mercy and will kill me.

"You look very convinced, but the reality is that Nate and I had something. If you were really fated mates, that would be impossible, and he would be dead, and so would you. And unfortunately, you're still alive."

"He didn't..." I say and she holds my face.

"I touched him as I wanted, I saw all his glorious body, and how fabulously endowed he is, there's no way a human like you could have pleased him! And believe me, he needed a she-wolf who understood him and satisfied him as he needed. He is such a fiery man!"

"Shut up!" I scream and she kicks me.

"He fucked me all night long, in all the ways a man can fuck a woman, and when he was hard as a brick deep inside of me... he said he never had a woman like me," she says, and I yell and start kicking her as I can.

"Ahhh! Do you think you're somehow special? Well, you're nothing..." she says, throwing me to the ground, and I groan in pain.

"He was never with you! You can say it as often as you want, and I know it's a lie!" I yell at her.

"Is it really so hard to believe that he prefers a woman like me? You're very naive... but let's see how you behave when you meet your true destiny!"

"What destiny?"

"An important one, believe it or not. It seems incredible to me that a foolish human could be the reason for all this madness, for all this war, but that's how it is. Marco, my brother needs you, and so does the pack. I want revenge on Moonstone for my father for what all of you did to us," she says, she is Marco's sister, this family is evil!

She drags me towards a house, leaving the rogues outside. Just when I think the situation cannot get any worse, she adds something.

"I have better things to do, so... I've brought you someone special to take care of you so you don't run away. I think you already know him..." she says, and a figure appears limping in the dark.

"Hello again... Penny," and when I hear the voice, it's someone I never thought I'd see again.

"Nicholas?"

"Look at her! Remembering her ex-boyfriend! I still can't believe a man would ever notice you. You should have stayed with him and saved us a lot of trouble. Humans should stay with humans..." she says, and he looks nervous... I can tell he's afraid of her.

Nicholas is not in a good condition, the wounds Nate gave him left scars and he looks very bad, but I can see that his intentions with me are not good.

"Don't let her go...Marco needs her... in one piece," Erica says and leaves.

"I have waited patiently for you, Penny and my time has finally come."
