

Bumpkin 22

Chapter 22

Veronica joked lightheartedly.

Seeing that she was here, Xavier put away his mobile phone, pushed open the car door, and got out of the car. "What can I do? God made me so charming that all those young ladies love throwing themselves at me."

"Bah, how shameless."

Veronica's face showed contempt.

In the whole of Bloomstead, although Xavier was a 'swinger' in everyone's mouth, no one dared to be so presumptuous like Veronica in front of him due to the strength of the Crawford Family.

Only Veronica, who was like a sister to him, could ruthlessly nag him on his behavior.

"Let's go eat! I didn't eat lunch so that I can cost you a big one today."

"Tsk, you say that, but God knows which woman's bed you were in this afternoon."

The two walked to the food stall while talking.

Veronica naively thought that Xavier had never been to a food stall before, so she took the initiative to order a lot of food.

While waiting for the food, she realized that the people around her threw them strange looks from time to time.

"Damn, that handsome guy is so rich. He is driving the latest Maserati, which is worth more than 30 million."

"Oh, Lord! The girl sitting across from him is so damn ugly.

"She is so ugly, and yet she can meet rich and handsome guys. I guess her family conditions are also good."

"Well, that makes sense."

They could naturally hear the obvious whispers of the crowd.

Veronica didn't think too much of it. Instead, she looked at Xavier. "How about... we sit inside?"

She was afraid that Xavier wouldn't be able to bear the strange looks and gossip.
