Chapter 611 The Wedding Entourage

"I was just joking with Veronica. Chill," Tony scoffed and turned around to the other side as he rummaged through the drawers for something.

Finally, he came in front of Veronica and handed a bank card to her. "Here you go. This bank card is for you. This contains your mom and I's total savings over these years. It's not much, just about three to four hundred thousand, so use this on yourself sparingly and don't spend too much of Matthew's money. Although you guys will be married soon, it's not nice to spend his money all the time. You would end up a topic of speculation as time goes by."

Tony and Daniella were concerned about the huge disparity in family background and they were worried about Veronica suffering after her marriage.

"How did you guys get that much money? Back then when you guys were hospitalized, Mom didn't mention a word about our family savings." Veronica was confused.

"Your mom and I are old, so it would be a waste of money to seek treatment with this money. This is your dowry from us. Even if we're not around someday, this money should not be used on us," he replied nonchalantly.

However, these nonchalant words he spoke sparked volumes and evidently proved their immense love for Veronica.

Matthew had just approached the entrance when the huge entourage of family members mobbed the entrance. "The groom's here! Congratulations! Hurry up! Where are the presents?"

"Yes. You can't enter the room without giving us presents."

"Gosh. You're so handsome today." "No matter how handsome he is, he would still have to give us the presents to enter the room."

"Yes. You can't just take the hands of my cousin like that." "Exactly! There are plenty of men after my cousin!"

Other than Veronica's family members, some of her classmates and best friends mobbed the door as well.

Matthew was donned in a black tuxedo, looking very flashy and charming. He held a bouquet of flowers in his hand and smiled warmly. "I've definitely prepared presents for everyone, but you guys should voice out your well-wishes too."

They entered the living room and headed off to the bedroom. This time, Ivana and Shirley were the ones guarding the door.

Matthew gestured for Caleb to take out the envelopes before he handed them over.

As soon as the two of them saw the sum inside their envelopes, they exchanged awkward looks with each other before smiling as they opened the door meekly. "Welcome in, groom!"

Inside the room, Veronica sat cross-legged on the bed and she could not contain her laughter. "You guys just let him in so easily, huh? Don't you think that's such a sloppy job?"

Shirley and Ivana waved the envelopes in their hands and pouted resignedly. "Gosh, President Kings is way too generous and we simply have no means of resisting."

"Haha! That's right! He's too generous! Haha..." Ivana covered her mouth and snickered.

Meanwhile, Matthew held a bouquet of flowers in his hand and entered the room. "What's the matter, Roni? It looks like you're not so keen to see me."

He handed the bouquet of flowers to her.

"Is it that obvious?" Veronica purposely teased him.

"Hey! How about a kiss for the bride? You have to kiss the bride!"

The venue was presently filled with guests in attendance. As soon as the music rang out from the wedding ballroom, the imposing doors were slowly opened from the outside. There was a spotlight beaming from inside the ballroom to the entrance.

Finally, the doors were fully open and the spotlight shone on the bride and groom. Matthew held Veronica's hand and slowly led her into the ballroom. The couple came into the crowd's line of sight and there was a flurry of gasps.

Veronica was wearing an exquisite tiara that looked stunning while dressed in a flowy white wedding gown. There was a silver-threaded embroidered part on the gown and it depicted a butterfly fluttering its wings in the air, symbolizing metamorphosis.

Meanwhile, the handsome groom next to her wore a custom-made white tuxedo with sapphire stone buttons on his sleeves, accompanied with a pair of shiny leather shoes.

There was also a live band by the left side of the ballroom and they were dressed according to the theme as well. At that moment, they played the song 'The Happiest Trip'.

The host of the day was dressed in red and he held the microphone as he congratulated the couple with cheesy, romantic words. After quite some time, he finally went into the main segment. "The Murphys have proudly brought up Miss Veronica Murphy into a well-educated, polite, and charming lady.

Chapter 616 The Ceremony

Matthew turned his head slightly and shot a look from the side of his eyes at Skyler before averting his attention to Veronica as he gulped anxiously.

"Roni, I've been so blessed to have encountered you and... your existence has brought colors into my life, which used to be dull and boring."

He paused for a moment and stepped forward to hold Veronica's hands. At the same time, he gently stroked the back of her hand, as if this gesture of holding her hand made him feel significantly at ease for some reason.

"For the rest of our lives, no matter how tough things get, I hope that we will continue to walk through life hand-in-hand, for better or worse." As he said this, he held her hand tightly with a sincere and loving look in his eyes. Although it was just a few simple sentences of confession, Veronica was content with that.

She reached out and took the microphone from his hand. "All of the heartfelt words I have for you are written on that post on Twitter the other day, but listen here, Matthew Kings. After our marriage, that means you're solely mine. So, if you dare to abandon me, then I vow to chase after you to the ends of the earth."

As Veronica said that, she revealed a faint smile on her red lips and her dark eyes sparkled brightly; her happiness clearly shone through at that moment. "Wow! How blissful!"

After the end of the ceremony, the host handed over the microphone for Elizabeth to share some words with the married couple. At that moment, she seemed very energetic and beamed widely the entire time.

As she held onto the microphone, she expressed herself excitedly, "From today onward, Veronica's my granddaughter-in-law. Watch out, Matthew, because if you bully her, I'll definitely give you a spanking regardless of my old age."

Veronica could not contain her laughter as Matthew hurriedly shook his head and held her hand tightly before shaking his head again. "Oh, I promise you that won't ever happen."

The moment Veronica tried to leave, Matthew pulled her into his embrace with his arms around her waist. "Let me look at you a little longer."

The man caressed her hair when he said 'good girl', which melted Veronica's heart with his loving affections. "Hmm, okay." She did not insist on staying this time for the sake of her babies in her belly. Even if it was for her children, she had to make sure that she was safe herself.

"Master Crayson, Destiny, I'll be leaving Roni to you." Matthew looked at them. "Thank you for the hard work for the past few days. Take a good rest."

It was all words of courtesy as he did not mention anything about the 'danger'. "Okay. I'll bring this brat back." Crayson nodded seriously and pulled Veronica's hand before heading to the back exit.

"To the rooftop," reminded Matthew when he saw them attempting to leave through the back exit. They stopped midway and turned to look at him, then they took the elevator to the rooftop. As for the imminent incident, everyone did not bring it up mutually.
