Chapter 911 A Single, Deadly Shot

All along, Veronica wondered why Tiffany was able to get a bunch of pros involved in all of the latter's schemes to hurt her.

At the time, she thought the Larsons were simply rich enough to afford it and willing to indulge in Tiffany's actions.

However, based on what Nelson said, Floch and Rachel had secretly saved her before, which meant that they weren't secretly helping Tiffany's attempts to harm her.

Therefore, Tanya was most likely the one who enabled the majority of Tiffany's constant scheming, which involved everything from causing a car accident to kidnapping and arson.

"That's right."

Nelson nodded. "Are you done? If you don't have any more questions, then it's time for you to bid this world a final goodbye."

He raised the gun and pointed it at Veronica's forehead to kill her off with a headshot.

"What's your rush? I can't escape anyway."

Veronica let out a deep sigh. "Before I die, can you help me with something?"

She seemed unusually at peace with what was about to happen.

Nelson didn't despise Veronica. In fact, during his time at Dawnpol Village, he admired her quite a bit. her off again, but even so,

"Are you trying to get into a debate with me over whether the chicken or the egg came first?" Veronica fired back.

She was still trying to delay him.

Just then, she noticed that Nelson seemed to be swaying a little. He even rubbed his eyes. "W-What... did you do to me—"

Bang!

Nelson fell to the ground before he could finish speaking.

As he fell, he fired the gun at Veronica.

She leaped to the side to dodge the bullet.

The gunshot echoed in the forest.

"Phew..."

Veronica exhaled and walked over to Nelson. She took both her necklace and the gun away from him.

The man was lying weakly on the ground, staring at her in disbelief.

Chapter 913 Safely Leaving the Mountain

Veronica crouched on the ground and turned around before firing the gun four times.

The gun could hold eight bullets. There were only two bullets left now.

Once she was done firing, she stood behind the tree and felt the way it shook from the bullets hitting it. Her heart squeezed even more tightly.

From the sounds she heard, she deduced that two of them had fallen.

Thus, she took a step forward before leaping into the bushes and scampering off.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

Gunshots rang out once more.

"Ugh..."

Veronica had been running as fast as she could when a bullet hit her left arm. She gasped in pain, but she was too afraid to stop.

Skyler patted his chest and promised.

Still, Xavier's gaze was clinging to Veronica. He didn't want to leave her. His eyes were filled with complicated emotions—both love and longing.

With complete reluctance, he turned to leave, but after taking a few steps, he stopped and looked back at Veronica.

"You must be careful," Xavier reminded worriedly.

Veronica gave him a warm smile. "I will. You too."

They looked at each other. Both harbored a myriad of emotions.

Skyler couldn't take it any longer. He took Veronica's arm and hurried her. "We need to leave right away. It's too dangerous here."

Chapter 915 Arranged an Ambush

"Let's go."

As Dominik and Tiffany tailed Veronica and Skyler, Dominik said, "They're probably heading out of the mountain now. There's a rocky plane about an hour's walk away without any trees or vegetation around. You'd have a clear view, and the plane drops down into a cliff, so it's the best spot for you to make your move."

"How long will it take for us to get there again?" Tiffany asked.

"An hour."

"An hour?" She was worried that things could go awry if they took too long.

"I've already arranged for people to head over there now and set up an ambush in advance. She won't be able to escape."

Dominik planned every detail.

If the plan failed, he could use Tiffany as his shield to save his own skin. If the plan worked, he would use this chance to help Tiffany win the top spot and bring glory to himself.

Either way, he wouldn't be losing anything.

"That's what I was going to say."

Skyler grinned at Veronica and stuck his thumb up. "Not bad. I underestimated you."

He used to think that Veronica was an average woman who wasn't good enough for Matthew.

Now, he realized how shallow his assessment of her had been.

"Let's take a detour upward," Veronica said as she headed up the mountain to avoid the rocky plane.

Just then, an unusual commotion rang out. It sounded as if a group of people was clambering through the vegetation. The rustling sounds were very exceptionally easy to catch.

Veronica and Skyler glanced in the direction where the sounds came from and exchanged looks before breaking off into a run.

"Roni!"

All of a sudden, Mateo shot out of nowhere. He stood in front of Veronica and waved her over. "Come with me."

Skyler took out a large sheepskin roll from his bag and passed it to her.

Veronica took it from him and saw that it was filled with glistening silver darts.

Matthew had prepared all of this for her.

He's the one who understands me the best.

Veronica didn't dare to waste any time. She tied the sheepskin roll tightly around her waist.

"Be careful, Skyler. Don't forget that Shirley's still waiting for you," she said.

While speaking, a few men came over and guarded Skyler among them. They looked ready for battle.

Veronica knew that these were Matthew's people. They'd been following them the whole time.

Chapter 918 Her Miserable Life

After Veronica fired the shot, she didn't hear anything but pained groans.

She waited for a few seconds until she was sure she wouldn't be in any danger before slowly getting up.

She saw the men lying motionless on the ground while Tiffany was leaning against a tree.

Three of the men were either dead or unconscious. The only one who was still conscious weakly grappled with his gun to shoot Veronica when he saw her.

However, Veronica didn't give him a chance. With a flick of her hand, a dart struck him in the neck and stabbed him in his main artery.

"Ugh..." the man groaned as blood gushed out. Even his mouth was filled with blood. He jerked a few times before flopping dead on the ground.

Tiffany was pale as she witnessed the whole thing. She was so terrified that she froze for a while before she finally regained her senses and snatched up a gun to point it at Veronica. "Don't move, or I'll kill— Aargh!"

Chapter 919 Tiffany Dies

Tiffany's shoulder injury was quite severe, but as she was dressed in black, no one could tell how badly she was bleeding.

However, if one were to press their hand against the wound, their hand would be covered in blood. That was the only way of knowing just how serious her injury was.

"One of us won't be living past today, Veronica. Hahaha... Just wait..."

Tiffany cackled like a lunatic.

Just then, Veronica lunged to her left and rolled on the ground as she shot off two darts.

At the same time, a gunshot rang out.

The bullet came flying toward the spot where Veronica had been standing earlier, but because she moved away, it hit Tiffany right in the heart instead.

"Ugh..." Tiffany groaned as she spat out a mouthful of blood.

She leaned limply against the tree and stared at the man in front of her in disbelief. Though she opened her mouth to speak, the blood made it hard to decipher what she said.

Chapter 920 Treating a Wound

She pitied Tiffany, for she trusted those who deserved no trust, so she met a tragic end. Still, Veronica was glad that she was fast. If she had not moved away soon enough, Dominik would have killed her as well. Fortunately, he failed. She went up to him and stared into his eyes. "Tuck that gun away. I'll deal with your wound."

Dominik was sitting on the ground, leaning on a tree. He looked at his gun and smiled resignedly. "Worried I might shoot you again?"

"The treatment's gonna hurt, so take this." She handed him a wooden stick. "Don't want you to hurt yourself with that gun." She snatched his gun away before he could say anything, then she stuffed the stick into his hand. "If you can't take the pain, try biting the stick. It'll work."

"Sure." He nodded, a gentle smile curling his lips. Most people would let their guard down around him, given that he looked like a good guy, but he had a dark heart and an even darker soul.
