Bullied By Twin Alphas Chapter 37-18 Years Later

“You’re doing it wrong, as usual!” Avery rolled her eyes, snatching the piece of paper from her sister. Star scoffed, snatching it back.

“Stop worrying about what I’m doing and finish what you’ve been assigned.” Star rolled her eyes and continued writing. Avery smirked, crossing her arms. Her dark hair differed from her sisters ash blonde. Their eyes met, anger sparking between them.

“That’s enough!” Violet shouted, slamming her hand on the table in front of her. Star and Avery looked at their eldest sister, startled. Her green eyes met theirs with a rage they couldn’t match.

“I’m tired of having to break you two up. Can you shut the hell up for once and just finish what mom and dad have told us to do?” Avery looked at Star, who just looked back. They both rolled their eyes.

“What’s with all the yelling?” Chase asked, strolling into the study. His sisters looked back at him. “Why are you guys looking at me like that?” Avery laughed, cause if Star to roll her eyes. Violet just pointed at her work and began writing again.

“Star is taking forever to budget like mom asked her to, and she’s doing it wrong. Violet got mad at us for fighting, like usual.” Avery said, and Star snorted.

“Just because it’s not how you would do it doesn’t mean it’s wrong.” She growled. Chase sat down next to Violet, looking over her papers.

“Which dad assigned you the planning for the pack grounds?” He asked, shuffling the papers around.

“Wyatt. And you know exactly why he did it.” Violet responded, noting some things on one of her blueprints.

“At least I get to do the colors. Black and grey is on the menu boys.” Avery laughed, sliding her binder towards Chase. Before he could take it, there was a shout from the doorway.

“Come on guys, we have training.” Everyone looked towards the door, noticing their two other brothers standing there. “Chase, Liz is here to hang out for the weekend.” Violet looked at her brother, his orange eye winking at her.

They all made their way to the training area, Xavier, Wyatt, and Xander standing at the front. They gave the signal to begin training, and Violet paired up with her brother Oliver. His eyes pierced into hers, and she snorted.

“Another day to hate me, huh?” She said, striking towards him. He snorted, dodging her blow with ease.

“I don’t ever see you, Star, and Avery being our Lunas while Jayden, Chase, and I sit on the sidelines as elites.” He said, pouncing towards her and knocking her back. Her body hit the ground and she rolled, hopping onto her feet.

“You know we have no say in this. You think we enjoy waiting for our mate or mates? It’s not, and we don’t even get to be Luna until then. You know the deal.” He grit his teeth as she struck his chest, forcing him back.

“I’ll find our mate or mates and we will become the alphas before you become Luna.” He said, punching her in the forehead. She shook her head and stepped back as Xavier gave the signal to switch. Oliver didn’t waste time swinging at her, and she wasted no time dodging.

After offense and defense training, the warriors ran through a challenge. Violet, Star, and Avery made their way into the packhouse after the challenge, only to be faced by Lily.

“Girls.” She said, clicking her tongue. “I’m proud of you for the planning you have already achieved. This weekend, you have a...meeting to go to. You will be going overseas to talk business with another pack. Hopefully, you three will find your mate or mates while you’re there.”
