

Read Bring Your A Game Mr Chapter 1041

Bring Your A Game Mr Chapter 1041-“What about the baby? Is he hurt?” Alexia craned her neck ahead and looked at Elise’s belly nervously.

Elise placed her hand on her belly and shook her head, smiling. “He’s fine, don’t worry.”

Just then, someone knocked on the window.

Rylantha was standing outside, a big, dumb grin curling her lips. “Oh, my. It’s you. Oops, sorry that I took your spot. Didn’t know it was you, Anastasia. I didn’t mean to do it.”

Elise shot her an icy look. Didn’t mean to do it, huh? I was halfway in the spot, and you still took it anyway. Didn’t mean it, my foot!

Raymond had been following Elise all the way. Noticing Rylantha’s attempt to start a fight, he got out of the car and argued, “Don’t you think that’s a bit rude, Miss Abbott?”

“Shut it, cur. Your master hasn’t even spoken yet. Know your place. I got the spot because I have the skills. Besides, haven’t you heard of ‘you snooze, you lose?’” Rylantha saw Raymond back at the beach. She knew he was Alexander’s underling, and she would afford a servant no respect.

Raymond’s face darkened slightly. He then looked at Elise respectfully, asking her what to do. Initially, Elise hadn’t wanted to make a scene since they were here for fun. However, Rylantha almost hurt Irvin and Alexia, and now she was talking to Raymond like he was a slave. If she took this quietly, she would be nothing but a coward. So, Elise changed her position and rested her elbow on the window, cupping her chin in her hand. “Didn’t you hear her, Raymond? The spot belongs to anyone powerful enough to take it.”

The man stared at her in confusion for a while before a sudden realization struck him. He straightened his back and darted over to Rylantha. Then, he pulled his sleeves up and showed his muscles.

“W-What do you want?” In the face of someone of Raymond’s size, Rylantha shrank on instinct.

Maverick got out of the car just in time to see this confrontation and quickly pulled Rylantha into his arms. Angrily, he berated, “I can’t believe Alexander’s underlings would go after a woman!” Come at me if you’re a man. Or that was what Maverick would have said had Raymond not looked like he could crush Maverick in a moment. Ultimately, Maverick kept his mouth shut.

Raymond rolled his eyes and ignored them. He approached the convertible and leaned over to place both hands on the hood. He crouched a little and pushed the car back inch by inch, forcing it to leave the parking spot.

Rylantha and Maverick stared in shock. They were sure the handbrake was pulled up, yet Raymond was pushing the car easily all by himself. And to their horror, Raymond shoved the vehicle over the safety rail. It dropped down the cliff like a rock and crashed into a pile of boulders. Then, a deafening boom pierced the air—the car had exploded!

Rylantha shivered and snapped out of it. Furious, she roared at Elise, “Are you mad, Anastasia?! That’s a six-figure limited edition! It’s just one parking spot! That was overkill!”

“Like I care.” Elise revved her car up without looking at Rylantha. “Besides, you said the spot belongs to anyone good enough to take it. Bill the receipt for your repairs to my husband. He’ll pay for it.” She turned the steering wheel and easily took up the spot Rylantha’s car was in a moment ago. Then, she and her kids got out of the car and made their way to the hotel while holding hands.

“You are not leaving! Not after you ruined my car! Hold it right there!”

Rylantha wanted to argue further, but Raymond stopped her before she could do anything. “Watch your tongue, Miss Abbott.”

She was about to scream at Raymond, but Maverick tugged on her clothes, telling her to calm down. She looked at him, then at Raymond. When met with Raymond’s fearsome gaze, she had no choice but to give in. Raymond stayed for a few moments to confirm that they wouldn’t pose any more threat before he left.

It could be said that Camren’s status in Vegas was on par with Alexander’s in Cittadel. All Elise had to do was say his name, and they were served with the best service. They got three presidential suites on the second floor.

Jamie and Narissa took Room 202, Elise and the kids took Room 204, and Danny and Ariel took Room 206, which was located further in the corridor.

Maverick and Rylantha stayed in Room 205, which was just across from Elise’s room. Already annoyed by everything, Rylantha flew into a rage the moment she entered the room. “Of all the rooms available here, you just have to pick the one in front of that b*tch. Do you still want her back? Do you—”

Frustrated by her incessant rambling, Maverick shut her up with a kiss. Eventually, Rylantha’s breathing got heavier, and her mind was blank. All the frustrations she felt were tossed out the window. They then went at it for hours. Only when night had descended that Rylantha had finally fallen asleep, satisfied.

Maverick looked at the sleeping woman as he massaged his lower back. It's sore. Damn, she's getting needier the more she ages. It's like she's insatiable. I need my meds and supplements. If I can't satisfy her, I might lose all my money and have to kiss the Abbotts' wealth goodbye.

He wouldn't have to rely on Rylantha for anything. However, after Danny stripped him bare and tossed him onto the streets, his luck took a turn for the worse. Not only did the people in his line of work laugh at him, but his investors pulled out due to embarrassment as well. His future was doomed. If he weren't smart enough to take Ariel's clue and hook up with Rylantha, his partners would have deserted him as well, leaving him with nothing. This is all Danny's fault. I will make him pay!

He was wondering how he could bring Danny down when the boss of this resort told everyone that Camren's son-in-law was staying for the night, all so he could ingratiate himself into Camren's circle. God hasn't forsaken me just yet. This is the perfect chance. So, Maverick convinced Rylantha to come with him. He told her this trip would spice up their relationship, but in reality, he was laying a trap for Danny. A big trap.

Just then, his phone rang. It was a message from an unknown number. 'Everything's ready.'

Maverick took a glance and turned his phone off. He got out of bed quietly and made his way to the reception hall.

Alicia and Suella happened to be checking in at that time.

Checking in at a new expensive resort was part of a socialite's life. Suella was just a pseudo-socialite and could only come because of Alicia. She dragged Alicia here the moment the news about the meteor shower made its rounds. Alicia was working with the manager to check themselves in while Suella lugged her suitcase around and styled herself up. She was acting more like a socialite than Alicia was.

Recommended Novels

Read Bring Your A Game Mr Chapter 1042

Bring Your A Game Mr Chapter 1042-Even though Suella was trying her best to gain attention, Danny still spotted Alicia first when he came to the reception hall. Well, she did help me out. Might as well say hi. "Hey, Miss Heidelberg. Here for the meteor shower, too?"

Alicia turned around. Oh, it's him. She smiled. "Yeah. I'm here with a friend. Wonder if we'd be lucky enough to see it."

"I bet you will be lucky enough." Danny smiled in return. "Speaking of which, I haven't thanked you for your help. I'll be sure to treat you next time."

"Oh, it's alright. I didn't do much, anyway." She wasn't expecting any reward.

"Please, I insist. I'll do it. We're friends now. Just call me when you need anything."

Oh, this is a nice guy. Suella took her glasses off. She wanted to say hi to Danny but was too proud to do so. Thus, she fidgeted around and waited for Danny to talk to her first.

However, the man only spared her a glance before saying, "I can see you're busy. I'll leave you to it now." With that, he left.

Right that instant, Suella's face fell, and she crossed her arms in annoyance. "Who's that?" she snapped. "I was standing right here, yet he didn't even say hi to me. Bloody no manners."

"But he doesn't even know you're my friend." Alicia looked at her in disbelief. She didn't expect Suella to say that, but still, she explained, "That's Jamie's friend. He's an investor if my memory serves me right. I have not a clue on what he invests in, though."

Jamie's friend? So, he must be rich, then. Thank you, God, for sending me a man like him. I'm taking it. Suella replaced her annoyance with delight as she asked, "What's his name?"

"Danny Griffith," answered Alicia impatiently. Just then, the manager handed her their key card. She took it and made her way to the elevator with her suitcase in tow.

Hmm, I can leave her here alone for a moment. With that thought in mind, Suella made her way to the entrance. "You go ahead. I left something in the car. I'll be right back."

...

Danny took a carton of expensive mineral water from the trunk and slammed the door shut with his leg. He then made his way back to the resort. The resort's water might be bad due to the place being newly opened. Ariel didn't want to drink it, much less use it in her skincare routine. She told Danny to get them some mineral water. It was expensive, but compared to Ariel's skin, it was nothing.

Suella stood at the parking lot's entrance. When she saw Danny heading her way, she quickly stopped in her tracks and straightened her clothes out. Imitating Alicia, she held her hands before her, pretending to be a polite lady. Then, she turned around and practiced her smile, trying to see which smile would show her looks perfectly. Then, I'll seduce him when he passes me by. When Danny finally got closer to her, she turned around sheepishly. Just when she was about to say hi, she saw a car charging straight at the man from behind. "Look out!" She covered her mouth and pointed behind him.

Noticing a car speeding up to him, Danny stood firm and darted into the group of cars in the parking lot. Thankfully, he managed to dodge the car, and it whizzed past him harmlessly.

Just when Suella and Danny thought it was over, the car swiveled around and charged straight at Suella.

Fear seized Suella's heart, and she let out a scream. Yet, she couldn't move. It felt like her legs were filled with lead. The car was very close to crashing into her, and she closed her eyes as if surrendering to her fate.

Seeing the dangerous situation, Danny placed the mineral water on the ground carefully and ran over to Suella. If that car crashes into her, she will be badly injured, at the very least. Despite his efforts, he couldn't outrun the car. He could only watch as the vehicle approached Suella at high speed, and he slowed down his pace in despair. Just when both of them thought it was over, the car turned directions at the very last second and only ran over Suella's foot. Then, it left the parking area. Baffled, Danny thought, They left just like that? After that big show? For what?

A gust of wind blew across Suella's cheeks, and she realized she was still alive. When she opened her eyes, the first thing she felt was a searing pain coming from her foot. She fell and held both her feet, howling in pain. Feels like my bones are crushed. Tears of pain streamed down her cheeks.

"Are you okay?" Danny ran over to check on her.

The woman seized the chance to put on a victim act. She looked at him with tearful eyes, and with an almost sickeningly cute voice, she said, "Ouchie. I can't walk anymore."

Danny shuddered upon hearing her voice and could feel goosebumps spreading all over his body. Back when he saw this woman in the reception hall, he knew she wasn't any good woman. And now that he heard her speak, that feeling grew even stronger. Still, he wouldn't leave her just like that since she had saved his life. "I'll take you back." He held her up with one arm, and then he remembered something. Quickly, he let her go and ran away. When he came back, he was holding a carton of mineral water, wiping the carton carefully. Can't forget about honey's stuff.

Suella frowned at that sight. Does he think those bottles of water are more important than me? However, she didn't show her displeasure. Not when she could finally get closer to Danny.

Maverick was hiding in the shadows. He left soon after with a smirk curling his lips.

A great staircase stood before the entrance. Danny led Suella there to get some rest. He then asked for her room number. "I will take you to your room right now and get you a doctor afterward."

"H-Honestly, I'm not sure. A-Alicia checked us in," stammered Suella in an attempt to play dumb. She wanted to be alone in a room with Danny. If they went to her room, Alicia would get in the way.

"I see. Not to worry. I know the manager here, so I can just ask him." Danny wasn't going to take her to the hospital. His wife was waiting for him, and he wanted to see the meteor shower with her. He then dragged Suella up the stairs. Even though he was carrying a box of mineral water with one hand while holding the injured woman up with the other, he was strong enough to walk firmly.

Once they ascended the staircase, Suella yelped and fell backward. She was sure Danny would wrap his arm around her waist to stop her fall. And once they got closer, she would put on a pouty face and hint at him to take her to his room. She figured no man would ever resist a coy beauty like herself, including Danny.

As expected, she felt someone grab her by the waist and pull her back up. Then, she felt herself falling into a warm embrace. A smile curled her lips. She opened her eyes, expecting to see Danny looking at her with love in his eyes. However, the first thing she saw was the face of a beautiful woman. Excuse me, who the hell are you?! Shocked, Suella almost leaped away, but she clenched her fists and held back the urge to do so. I can't let Danny know I'm not that hurt.

"You're here, honey!" Danny's earlier scowl was immediately replaced by a big grin.

Suella was miffed. Why is it that every time I tried to woo a guy, some other girl would steal them away from me?

Recommended Novels

Read Bring Your A Game Mr Chapter 1043

Bring Your A Game Mr Chapter 1043-Am I fated to be a backup plan forever? Why am I always one step too late to snag a good man? As if it's not embarrassing enough to seduce a married man, the guy's wife even caught me in the act. If I wake up now, she's going to kill me. I better pretend I'm still unconscious. However, Suella was not cut out for acting. Her eyes were still rolling around behind her eyelids, but someone who had blacked out wouldn't have that kind of reaction.

A smirk curled Ariel's lips. She knew Suella was acting, but she said nothing about it. Instead, she asked, "What's with you and her?"

"Nothing. I don't know her." Danny raised his hand and swore, "I almost got run over. She warned me about it, and the car ran her feet over instead, so I took her back. I swear I'm loyal to you, honey. My heart can contain no one else but you." Ever since Rylantha set him up, Danny guarded his chastity closely. It was why he stayed away from Suella from the moment he saw her.

Suella was incensed. What?! Do you think you're the victim here? You should feel proud you can have a scandal with me!

"I trust you." Ariel smirked. "Even if you were to cheat on me, you'd pick someone with better looks or curves."

Danny froze and shrugged in confusion while Suella was infuriated. Is she implying I'm ugly and not hot? Suella gritted her teeth and clenched her fists. Her nails were already digging into her flesh. Damn this woman!

Before she could calm down, Ariel said devilishly, "I think she's hurt inside. Perhaps a concussion. We should arrange a craniotomy for her in case her situation worsens."

Hearing her words, Danny finally realized she was merely kidding. He held his laughter in and went along with his wife. "But that's dangerous. She might end up crippled from the waist down. Or even worse, she might live her whole life in a coma."

Suella froze, holding her breath. What the hell? All I did was help him out. How did I end up in a situation like this? This isn't what I expected!

"What can we do?" Ariel continued, "It's all in fate's hands now. Dr. Lorwhal is here, so we might as well turn a room into a makeshift operating room and get on with it."

"No!" Suella leaped away angrily and snapped, "I'm a living person. You can't just decide my fate. This resort is in the middle of nowhere. What if something were to happen to me? I saved your husband's life, and this is how you treat me? How disgusting!"

Ariel crossed her arms, not feeling angry at all. She stared at Suella like she saw a joke. "Oh, you're talking fine. Guess you're not dizzy anymore, huh?"

Angered and humiliated, Suella wanted to hide in a hole. Goddammit! What have I done? Now, they know I was pretending to be unconscious all along.

Since Suella was Alicia's friend, Danny thought this should be enough lessons for her. "Here, have some water." He handed a bottle of water over.

Suella tried to take the water, but someone was faster.

“Sorry.” Ariel stuffed the bottle back into Danny’s hand and whipped out her bag to get some money. She said, “The water’s custom-made for me. It might not be suitable for you. If you’re that thirsty, take this money and buy something to drink for yourself.” She handed Suella some notes, staring daggers at her. Nobody can try to steal my man.

Suella’s face was as red as blood. She knew what Ariel was trying to say, and she was embarrassed that Ariel found out about her intentions. If she took the money, she would be humiliated, but if she didn’t, she would look like a fool. In the end, she hobbled away in shame without taking the money.

Danny had conflicting emotions about this. “Miss Taggert is Alicia’s friend. I think that was a bit too much.”

“You feel sorry for her?” Ariel said coolly as she tucked her money away.

“Of course not!” the man exclaimed before raising his hand again. “If I were to fall for another woman, I... I’ll cut my d*ck off!”

“Then, who’s going to d*ck me down?” She tossed the wallet to him and took two bottles of water. “Wait for me in the room.”

“Where are you going? I will come with you.” Danny wanted to tag along.

“Ladies’ matter. Stay out of it.” With that, she entered the reception hall without saying another word.

...

Alicia was unpacking their stuff in Room 302 when Suella came hobbling in. She looked awful—it was as if she was about to explode. “What happened?” asked Alicia. “And what’s with your feet?”

“I—” Suella wanted to complain, but then she was reminded of what Ariel had said earlier. Ultimately, she swallowed back her words. “It’s nothing.” She waved Alicia down impatiently. “Just sprained them. That’s all.”

“Is it serious? Do you want to go to the hospital?”

“No. Just stay out of it.”

Worried about Suella, Alicia kept asking for details, but Suella got into the bathroom and locked her out. Just then, someone rang the doorbell, so Alicia answered the door.

She was met with a smiling Ariel. “Miss Whitney? Are you here for me?” Oh, Danny did say he would treat me to something. She’s probably here for that, I guess.

“Yes.” Ariel smiled. “The resort’s just opened, and normally, the water’s quality would be... bad. I hope you’ve prepared your own water in advance, but if you haven’t, here’s a little gift. You know how important water is to women.” She handed the water bottles to Alicia.

“Thank you.” Alicia took the water. “You really planned this out.”

“Of course. So, where’s Miss Taggert?” Ariel craned her neck to look inside the room.

“Oh, she’s in the bathroom. Do you need something from her?” asked Alicia.

“Nothing. Danny told me she fainted all of a sudden. While he was taking her to the reception hall, she seemed dizzy and could barely hold herself up. Not until she met me, of course. I thought I should see her. Falling unconscious out of the blue can be serious. If I can heal her, I will gladly do so.”

Alicia was smart enough to catch on to the hidden message in Ariel’s words, especially when she linked everything to Suella asking her about Danny.

Recommended Novels

Read Bring Your A Game Mr Chapter 1044

Bring Your A Game Mr Chapter 1044-Alicia had been friends with Suella for a long time. She knew the kind of woman Suella was. Suella had been trying to use Alicia to marry a rich guy, yet she wanted nothing but the best. She didn’t like the rich guys who liked her, but the ones she had her eyes on spared her no affection. Yet, she still tried to seduce them like a fool. Even though those men’s wives knew what Suella was doing, they never attacked her due to her friendship with Alicia. Though, they would talk behind Alicia’s back.

This wasn’t the first time Suella did it. However, Alicia kept trying to cover for her because they were college friends, and thanks to that, Suella managed to stay in the circle of the wealthy. This time, she tried to cover for Suella as usual. “Sorry, Miss Whitney. She just wants to marry the best, but she means no harm. I’ll tell her that.”

“You know Miss Taggert better than I do. I trust you just like how you trust her,” Ariel mocked.

Alicia looked away nervously. This isn’t the first time she’s done this. I can’t tell Ariel that she’s actually a good person.

Ariel thought she had pushed far enough, so she said solemnly, “Miss Heidelberg, you’re a good friend. Danny and I are willing to be your friend, which brings me to a serious topic. Keeping a scheming person around is a hazard. They might explode in your face one day, and you might end up dying.”

Alicia had wanted to cut ties with Suella a long time ago, but every time Suella came up to her, Alicia would relent and drop the idea. Now that Ariel was already telling her to break off ties with Suella, she would do just that. She figured she would do it after they went back. "Thank you, Miss Whitney. I'll take your suggestion into account. Sorry to trouble you."

"No worries. Thanks for saving Danny. See you. Have fun tonight."

"See you." Alicia sent Ariel off and closed the door. Alicia stared at the bottles of water in her hands.

A while later, Suella came out of the bathroom draped in a piece of towel. She dried her hair and looked at Alicia standing at the room entrance. "Who was it just now?"

"No one. You were hearing things," replied Alicia.

"I see." Suella shrugged it off. She looked at the bottles of water Alicia was holding and froze. Hey, that's the water Ariel had. Alicia has them as well? How come I don't know? "I'm parched. Give me a bottle." She snatched a bottle and took a gulp, demolishing half a bottle in one go. Then, she scoffed. "It's nothing special."

After saying that, she smiled smugly. And Ariel said I wasn't worthy of this. Look at me now. I want the best of the best. Even the man I date must be the best.

Ugh, she has that stupid look again, Alicia thought while shaking her head. She then changed the topic and said, "Get changed. We need to start our hike soon and get a good spot, or we're going to miss the meteor shower."

"I know." Suella finished the remaining water and straightened herself out.

Twenty minutes later, the ladies were making their trek up the mountain. The observatory was on the top. The hotel was at the mountainside, so they had to trek if they wanted a better view. Even though Alicia was holding most of their stuff, Suella was already sweating and huffing not long after they started to trek. Eventually, she got dizzy, and her legs wobbled. "I can't go on." Suella leaned on the guardrail. "How much farther? I can't go on any longer."

"What?" Alicia looked behind them. That's like two flights of stairs. She shrugged. "You really need to train, Suella. Take your time. I'll set up camp." Thinking that Suella was just out of breath, Alicia left her alone. There were a lot of people here for the meteor shower. She wasn't worried about Suella. If anything happens, some of the tourists will help. Alicia exercised a lot, and without Suella holding her down, she was gone in a flash.

Suella stopped for a moment and tried to catch up to Alicia, but then her stomach churned, and she retched. I can't go on. Better go back and rest. She held her nausea in and wobbled back to the hotel, evading all the tourists.

Her whole body was flaring up when she was in the elevator. Every inch of her skin felt like it was on fire. Slowly, her consciousness was starting to fade, and she tugged on her shirt, trying to cool herself down.

The elevator door swung open, and she leaned on the wall as she moved ahead. Her will was what kept her conscious. Just then, she bumped into someone and fell over. "Water... I need water," she muttered. Her throat was parched, but then she noticed a familiar scent. It woke her up a little. "Mr. Danny, is that you?" She leaned on the man before her, touching him all over.

The man stayed silent for a while. Danny? He picked the woman up and took her into Room 206.

...

At the observatory, since Elise was pregnant, Alexia told her to sit down while she and Irvin happily set up a tent. The kids worked well, and thanks to Elise's guidance, they set up their tent in less than half an hour. Then, they hung some lamps. The fluorescent star stickers on the tent started glimmering, filling the air with innocence.

Danny and the others finally came when the moon was hanging high up in the sky. The first thing they did upon their arrival was to tease Alexia. "Ooh, that's a nice tent. I bet you can dream of a meteor shower if you sleep in it. Can I have the tent for the night, Lexi?" Jamie placed a carton of wine on the picnic mat.

"No! You're a baddie, Godfather." Alexia stood before the tent's entrance and opened her arms. She then scrunched up her nose, making everyone laugh. Hey, they're playing around with me! Alright, Godfather, you asked for it. She quickly hugged Narissa's leg. "Godfather's a bully!"

Narissa hunkered down and straightened Alexia's hair. Then, she said, "He's going to sleep on the ground tonight, then."

"Great idea!"

Read Bring Your A Game Mr Chapter 1045

Bring Your A Game Mr Chapter 1045-Jamie felt like crying. "It was just a joke."

"And that's why you should never mess with a woman." Danny laughed and placed the water on the table.

Ariel cocked her eyebrow at his remark. "So, you think women are scary, huh?"

Danny bowed. "No, no. Women are gentle and understanding. But of course, they can also be tough and admirable. You, my dear, are both tough and gentle. The best qualities lie in you, Ariel. I respect you. You're not scary at all."

The woman smiled at his response. That's a passable answer, I guess.

"You bootlicker." Feeling betrayed by his friend, Jamie turned to Elise for solace.

"They're all ditching me, Boss. So, want to have a drink?"

"No. Mommy cannot drink," Alexia refused right away.

"Lexi, you're my goddaughter. Can't you at least go easy on me?" Jamie pouted to earn the little girl's pity.

"Hmph." Though, Alexia didn't pity him in the slightest. She was still mad.

Danny opened a bottle of whiskey and said, "She's pregnant. Can't drink even if she wants to. I'll drink with you."

"I know that. I was just joshing." Jamie then snatched the whiskey away. "And you're an amateur. I'll whip up some good stuff. Don't even dream about going home without getting totally wasted, you hear?"

"Challenge accepted." Danny rolled his sleeves up and opened a few more bottles of alcohol. He mixed them all together and tried to knock Jamie out. Eventually, the men could barely stand up straight from all the drinking. They fell asleep on the ground before they could even see the meteor shower.

Later that night, Raymond got some firewood and made a campfire. Everyone gathered around and chatted like a family.

Alexia was sleeping on Elise's lap, and the moon was hanging high up in the endless sky. There seemed to be a lot more stars that night, and they were all hanging in the heavens, twinkling at the land. When it turned to midnight, even more stars showed up, forming a river of constellations.

At 12.30AM, the first comet showed up in the southwest. It arced through the sky, leaving nothing but a trail of light.

"Alexia," Elise woke the girl up. "The meteor shower has begun. Wake up, or you'll miss it."

Narissa and Ariel roused the gentlemen as well, and the couples stood before the guardrail, wishing upon the stars.

Alexia sat up and rubbed her eyes. When her vision finally focused, she was met with a beautiful meteor shower. Comets flew through the sky like raindrops. "My gosh, it's a meteor shower!" She ran and hopped around like a rabbit in excitement.

"Aren't you going to make a wish?"

"I will!" Oops, I almost forgot. The little girl closed her eyes and made a wish to the gods.

Elise smiled and made a video call to Alexander. She pointed the screen at the sky, hoping he could see the meteor shower when he took the call. A moment later, the call went through. Just as she was about to tell Alexander to make a wish, she realized the screen on her phone was also showing the night sky. Though from the size of the moon, she knew Alexander was standing someplace higher than she was.

"Guess we have the same idea." Alexander then pointed the screen at himself. "Did you make a wish?"

"Yes. I wish..." If there's a next life, I wish we would meet as well.

"Oh, keep it a secret. The wishes won't work if you say it out loud." He wanted Elise's wish to come true.

The woman pursed her lips and turned to look at Alexia. Seeing that the little girl was still making her wish with her eyes closed, Elise huddled closer to the phone and whispered, "I love you, Alexander."

As soon as the words came out, Alexia hopped over and shouted into the phone, "I love you too, Daddy!" Everyone turned to look at them. Elise held her forehead to hide her embarrassment.

Thinking Alexander was here, a drunken Danny quickly dragged Alexia away. He muttered, "Absence makes the heart grow fonder, girl. Let them have some time alone. You're sleeping with us tonight. I'll tell you a bedtime story. How does 'The Little Red Riding Hood and the Seven Dwarves' sound?"

"The seven dwarves are in 'Snow White.'"

"Okay. 'Snow White and the Glass Slipper,' then."

His mind is a jumbled mess! Alexia thought exasperatedly.

Ariel shook her head and followed them.

The first round of meteor showers came to an end, and a group of tourists left. Narissa didn't believe the legends, but she was a night owl, so she stayed up. If there is a second round, then I must make a wish.

A drunken Jamie returned to the campsite and chugged down a bottle of the water Danny had brought. A gust of wind kissed his cheek, and he sobered up a lot.

Elise was sitting before him, still on a video call with Alexander. She's smiling happily. Best leave her alone. A smirk appeared on his face when he saw Irvin still standing around looking cool. He approached the boy and wrapped an arm around him. "Hey, Little Irvin, I thought you said wishes aren't true. But I saw you making a wish when no one was looking. What was that about?"

Unfazed, the boy asked in return, "Is the country's business your business?"

"Uhh... No?" Jamie burped.

"Then, mind your own business." Irvin crouched and slithered away from Jamie's grasp. He then approached Elise and covered her with a blanket.

Elise took the blanket and said, "Thank you, son."

Dumbfounded, Jamie blinked his eyes slowly as he thought, Son? He's acting even more maturely than my old man.

Meanwhile, Narissa was standing by the guardrail, staring around the observatory. She noticed Zephyr standing in the crowd. He had a serious look on his face, a hint of sadness hiding in his eyes. Even in the night, he still stood out amongst the crowd.

Zephyr was in the chat group that Elise had made, but he never popped up once to chat. Narissa thought he was staying away from her. Ever since she knew he didn't shove the food she made for him on purpose, she felt guilty about yelling at him. I need to make it up to him. However, no matter how long she looked into his case, she couldn't find out what kind of problem he was dealing with.

She was deep in her thoughts. When she snapped out of it, she saw someone standing beside Zephyr. That person was about the same height, but he was wearing a cap and hiding in the shadows. If she hadn't looked closely, she wouldn't have realized the man in the shadows. Something told her this man was an enemy. Just when she was about to call Jamie for help, she saw him sleeping on a chair. When she turned back again, Zephyr was nowhere to be found.

Recommended Novels

Read Bring Your A Game Mr Chapter 1046

Bring Your A Game Mr Chapter 1046-Narissa only hesitated for a moment before she went after Zephyr. At the same time, Danny and Ariel took Alexia back to the hotel. The girl ran away all by herself once the elevator door opened. She unlocked the door to Room 204 and went inside.

When Ariel and Danny were heading her way, Alexia held the door with one hand and the doorframe with the other. She smiled at them. "You smell like alcohol. Go back to your room. I'm waiting for Mommy, so goodbye." With that, she closed the door before the couple could say anything.

Danny tugged his coat and sniffed it, but he smelled nothing. He then turned to Ariel. "Honey, do I smell?" He was as red as an apple, his eyes unfocused. His necktie was wrapped around his neck loosely. His hair was unkempt from messing around with Jamie earlier, making him look like a drunken Chow Chow.

He might appear messy in the young girl's eyes, but Ariel was in her late twenties, so she didn't mind his look. In fact, she liked just the way he was right now. She went ahead and wrapped her arms around his neck. Then, she stood on tiptoe and kissed him.

Danny was moving sluggishly a moment ago, but when Ariel got near him, the smell coming off her lit up the flames of desire in his body, and he started getting handsy. Ariel, for some reason, desired him as well. Since they both felt horny, the couple made out as they made their way to Room 206. They were on the verge of releasing their lust when they got to their room, yet their impatience was muddying their minds. Danny fumbled around a lot in search of his key card, but he couldn't find it. To their great displeasure, he even forgot the password to their room.

Inside the room, Suella moaned, "You're so good." The air was filled with the grunts of a man and the scent of sex.

Just then, beeping sounds came from the door. "Wrong passcode. Please re-enter your passcode. You have two more tries."

The repeated notifications alarmed Owen. He quickly got off Suella and changed into his clothes. When he was done, he kicked the woman off the bed and ran to the balcony. He slid down the pipes and landed on the ground steadily.

Then, he dusted off his hands and left. I came here for Anastasia, but I hadn't expected that I would run into a woman and get to enjoy her, too. I can even blame this on Danny and ruin his relationship with Ariel. Nice.

Back in the hotel room, Suella fell and fainted after knocking her head on the table. Finally, Ariel found the key card and made out with Danny all the way to the bedroom. The fires of desire had been lit, and they must put them out. The couple quickly went down on each other, oblivious to the fact that someone else was in the room.

...

Alicia had been waiting for Suella for a long time, and she couldn't get to her. The meteor shower eventually came to an end, and she waited for about half an hour before she returned to her room for a shower. She came out of the bathroom and took a swig of the water Ariel had given her. Then, she went to bed. However, for some reason, she was tossing and turning. Odd. I usually sleep well. Even though the air conditioner was on, she still had to take off her robe to feel better.

In the meantime, Elise had just ended her video call with Alexander. She tucked her phone away and got ready to head back to the hotel. When she saw Jamie ruffling his hair like a madman, she shoved him lightly. "Show's over. Go back and get some sleep."

Jamie was feeling hot for some reason. "Got it. You guys go ahead." Then, he said nothing more. Thinking that he was feeling nauseous from drinking too much, she told Raymond to keep an eye on him and left with Irvin. Once they were gone, Jamie couldn't take it anymore. He got hard, and he needed Narissa to cool him down. I need to see her. The moment he stood up, everything around him spun. He wobbled for a moment before he found his bearing.

"Need me to take you back, Mr. Keller?" asked Raymond.

"No." Jamie waved him off and wobbled to the path leading down the mountain. He felt his throat getting dry again when he went past the table, so he took another water bottle to drink on his way back. "This sh*t isn't quenching me at all."

While he was waiting for the elevator, he felt like his body was on fire. No matter how much water he drank, it didn't help with his thirst. Frustrated, he tossed the bottle into the trash bin. Then, the doors opened, and Jamie was about to get inside when a bunch of kids charged along and jostled him into the deepest part of the elevator.

With no strength left, he leaned on the wall and muttered, "Second floor, please, children."

However, the children were immersed in their fun and didn't hear it. Someone pressed the third floor, and eventually, the doors opened again. The children ran out of the elevator, leaving Jamie alone. Fresh air came in through the open doors, and it sobered up Jamie a little. In his confusion, he thought this was his floor, and he walked out of the elevator, leaning on the wall. Then, he turned right and walked until he reached the end of the corridor. He stopped in front of Room 306 and entered the passcode.

"Wrong passcode. Please re-enter your passcode."

Jamie frowned and tried again. The passcode he set was Narissa's birthday, and he didn't even need to think before he typed. It was the same number, yet the passcode was still wrong the second time. I give up. He leaned on the door and rang the doorbell.

Alicia was lying on the bed, wearing nothing but lingerie. Her mind was in turmoil, and her body was in heat. She thought she was dreaming, and the incessant ringing of the doorbell frustrated her. Eventually, the ringing drove her mad, and she quickly took the door.

A man fell on her, and Alicia staggered backward for a moment. She tried to push him up, but he felt like an open fire. The moment she touched him, her hands felt like they were scalded. They were inches away from each other, and she was getting turned on by the smell of his cologne and body odor.

She finally pushed the man up and saw who it was. Jamie? Just then, her mind snapped. Alright, let's do this. She closed the door with a slam, plunging the room into darkness. This was a dark corner. A corner where she could show her inner desire. A desire that she could never show to anyone. Now that Jamie finally showed up in her dream, she could do anything she wanted without care. She pressed her lips against his while he tried to pull her into his embrace.

Recommended Novels

Read Bring Your A Game Mr Chapter 1047

Bring Your A Game Mr Chapter 1047-It was 4.00AM, and not a soul stirred in the resort. No longer able to resist sleep, the receptionist started dozing off. In the monitoring room, the second floor's security footage flitted for a moment before returning to normal. Seeing nothing was out of the ordinary, the security guard scrolled through his phone to kill time.

Unbeknownst to the guard, Maverick was standing outside Room 206. He managed to purchase the passcode from the management after spending a ton of money. Quietly, he unlocked the door and entered the room. He left the door ajar and stomped lightly to see if there would be any reaction from the people inside. When he saw none, he closed the door and turned the lights on before slowly entering the room. Eventually, he stopped outside the bedroom, his eyes glimmering with delight.

The bed was facing the door, and on it was Danny and Ariel. They were covered under a blanket, but Maverick could see they were naked and fresh out of steam after their earlier... activity. Just like I planned. After that accident, Danny wouldn't expect someone to have tampered with his water. Ariel might think she's smart, but she's never on guard around Danny. Just like how Danny knew Ariel's demand for quality water, Maverick knew about it as well. She noticed him tampering with some substance last time, yet she fell for the same trick this time.

However, for safety measures, Maverick spiked the water with some stimulant that would make sure the victim would go at it until they had no more strength to move. After their earlier activity, Ariel and Danny wouldn't notice anything. And I got this idea, thanks to Ariel.

"I told you. I'd get anything I set my eyes on. I taught you, Ariel. And I won't let anyone take the fruit of my labor away." He leered at Ariel. Then, a hint of pain came from his lower back. He held it and gasped in pain, his heart filled with hatred. Malice grew in his eyes as he stared at the couple like a wolf staring at its prey.

Before he came, Rylantha forced him to have sex with her the whole night. Only after he pretended to have released his seed did she reluctantly let him go. In case she woke up, he spiked her milk with some sleeping pills and slipped away. He was nothing but a gigolo serving Rylantha. He was nothing but her pet. It was a role he must play if he wished to take whatever he wanted from the Abbotts.

And to think I was a genius, yet I had fallen. This is all their fault! If Danny hadn't made him run naked, he wouldn't have been a clown among the elites. He would still be a part of the elites. And it was Ariel's fault Danny showed up. This is all your fault, and you will pay for it.

Maverick tucked his thoughts away and entered the bedroom. He had no desire to mess with Ariel, not after he had just gotten off from Rylantha. He wanted to use this chance to humiliate Danny, but as he approached their bed, he saw a young woman lying beside the bed. Huh? Who's this? Maverick froze and stared at the couple on the bed. Then, he moved his gaze back to the woman on the ground. Did they have a threesome?

The guests in Room 204 found themselves in a little pickle at the same time.

The danger alarm was beeping nonstop. Irvin opened his eyes and saw 'Warning' flashing on his watch. He woke up and quickly opened the safety app he had installed on his computer. The app told him there was an intruder in Room 206. His software was a smart lock that connected all three rooms. From 2.00AM onward, anyone going in or out of any room would trigger the alarm.

Elise wasn't sleeping deeply. Noticing her son's movement, she got out of bed and covered herself with a blanket before checking what Irvin was doing. She saw him sitting in front of the computer, and she sighed. "Irvin." She patted the boy's shoulder. "You're a growing boy. Losing sleep is bad for your health. You can do this tomorrow."

"It's not like that, Mommy." The boy showed her the warning sign. "Something's going on in Uncle Danny's room."

Elise took a look. That notification came two minutes ago. "I thought they came back early. Did they go out a while ago?"

“No,” said Irvin adamantly. “No sign of Uncle Danny going out after we slept. Only someone going into his room.”

“Does that mean they have an intruder?” Elise was getting suspicious. She mulled over it for a moment and told Irvin, “Turn off their lock. We’ll see who’s inside. If it’s an intruder, we can help. If it’s just a false alarm, then it’s fine.”

“Sure.” The boy typed away and turned off the lock in less than a minute.

Elise didn’t even need to do this herself. Everything was ready, and they quietly came to Room 206.

She put a finger against her lips and stuck her ear to the door so she could hear better.

As Maverick stared at the people in the room, he felt fury well within him. This b*tch acts like she’s so pure and innocent, but she’s doing threesomes with another woman! And this is just a solitary case. What if Danny actually has more women? As he thought further, Ariel was no longer pure or innocent in his mind. I spent so much time and effort to make her into the perfect woman, but this b*stard ruined her!

Engulfed by hatred and fury, Maverick blamed everything on Danny. He gnashed his teeth and pulled the blanket down. Then, he turned Danny over and pinned him down. “After tonight, you’re nothing but my slave, Danny.” He spat at Danny and started unbuckling himself, but then a flash of pain flared from his nape. Something bit me! Soon, everything went dark, and he fell onto Danny.

Right then, someone turned the lights on, and in came Elise and Irvin. They were met with an outrageous scene, and Elise thought it was awkward.

Recommended Novels

Read Bring Your A Game Mr Chapter 1048

Bring Your A Game Mr Chapter 1048-Thanks to her not drinking too much of the water, Alicia snapped out of the drug’s effect before anyone else could. She woke up with a splitting headache. It was as if she was wearing a helmet with a thousand needles piercing it. Every inch of her skin felt like they were pressed against a wall of needles. She lay on her bed like a piece of meat. She held her forehead and flung her arm away. Then, she felt herself touching a pair of hands.

Her eyes went wide with shock, and reality sank in. That... That was not a dream. It was reality. Regret filled her heart. How could I do that? That was foolish. She quickly composed herself and looked at the man beside her.

The room was dark, illuminated by nothing but the moonlight. She could vaguely see the man’s outlines, yet they were so familiar. Alicia slowly recalled the madness that just happened a while earlier. She knew she shouldn't do it, but she still hoped it was him. With anticipation in her heart, she turned the bedroom's night lamp on.

It really is Jamie. The frustration about losing her first time was gone with the wind, only to be replaced by guilt. She was plunged into an abyss of despair. That was my first time, but Narissa is his fiancée. What on earth were we doing? Despite her internal screaming, she regretted nothing.

Yet, she knew Jamie loved Narissa. Even if she were to give him her all, she would get nothing in return. The mere thought of that made her sulk. Uncontrollably, she started to shed tears. Just then, she realized the moon was gone, and the night wasn't as dark as it was a moment ago.

Alicia scrambled to find her phone. She checked the time, and to her horror, it was already 3.30AM. The janitor is going to clean the corridors in an hour. Jamie would be seen if he were to leave then.

She stared at the sleeping Jamie. Conflicting emotions were stirring in her heart, yet she came to a decision in the end. I mustn't ruin his relationship with Narissa. I'll just pretend none of this happened. She wiped her tears away and swallowed her sadness. Then, she got up and changed into her clothes before helping Jamie change into his.

When she checked into the resort, the manager asked Alicia if she wanted to change to the second floor after he saw the friendly exchange between Alicia and Danny. So, Alicia figured Jamie's room should be on the second floor since he must have come with Danny and the others. She had no idea which room he was in, but if she left him on the second floor, the janitor would take him to his room when they saw him.

In the meantime, Narissa had lost sight of Zephyr. So, she returned to the hotel and waited for him outside. When dawn was about to break, Zephyr finally showed up, and the woman leaped down to block his way. "Where did you go?"

"Just walking around. Is that forbidden?" The man stopped and answered coolly.

"I saw you with a stranger. Aren't you going to explain yourself?" Come on, spit it out. I can help you if you just speak it out loud. She couldn't tell him she wanted to help, not after all the attitude she had given him. That'd make me look like a simp. He'll never let me live it down.

"Why? I would've told you everything if I had gone out with a girl, but that was a guy. I was just meeting a friend. What's there to explain?" Oblivious to the hint, Zephyr joked, "Have you been waiting for me? You like me, don't you? I can see why. I'm hot, after all."

"Oh, shut it." Incensed, Narissa snapped, "I was waiting for the meteor shower. You think you're more important than a rare phenomenon?"

He looked up into the sky and smiled bitterly. "If the stars do grant wishes, then yeah, they are more important than I am."

If I wake up tomorrow morning to find my wishes fulfilled, I can ditch medicine and study the stars, but wishing upon a star is nothing but a legend. Fate already has everything in store for me. This is nothing but a pipedream.

"Even if it doesn't work, it's pretty enough to be popular. You, on the other hand, have nothing good save for your knowledge and skills in medicine." Narissa wouldn't stop dissing Zephyr if she had the chance.

However, she was nervous for a moment. Zephyr's alright looking, I guess... Okay, not just alright. He's second to Alexander. He's cuter than Jamie, but I will never tell him that.

For some reason, the man didn't argue this time. He stared at the ground, his eyes covered in shadows. There was an air of sadness around him. "I'm nothing. I can't even protect those dear to me." He heaved a sigh and looked at Narissa. "You're right. I'm nothing." He then headed to the hotel while laughing at himself. "I'm nothing!"

Narissa felt a little concerned. She was worried about him, and she had no idea why. She was already going after him without even noticing.

She got into the elevator right after Zephyr pressed the button for the third floor. Slowly, the door closed, and he stood before it, looking lifeless. Narissa said nothing, either. She crossed her arms and glared at him like he was a criminal.

If I can make him mad, he'll tell me everything. I don't want to owe him any favors, and this is the perfect chance to repay the debt. What happens after that... Well, we'll see about that.

The door opened soon after. Zephyr ran off, and Narissa chased after him.

Eventually, they came to his room, and he stopped. "What do you want?"

"Nothing. Not like you're the boss of this hotel. I can go anywhere I want," answered Narissa. You're not the only one who can play this game.

"Why you..."

He was about to argue, but someone emerged from the room next door. Zephyr and Narissa turned their attention to that room at the same time, but when they saw Alicia coming out with Jamie, they froze.

Alicia's clothes were neat, but her cheeks were rosy, and her hair was unkempt. Jamie smelled like alcohol, and his buttons were buttoned the wrong way. Coming out of a hotel room alone was suspicious, given that they looked like a couple. Zephyr wanted to give them the benefit of the doubt, but with one look at Alicia's gaze, he knew what had happened in that room.

Narissa thought everything around her had shattered. She froze, her heart grasped by a great sadness. In deafening silence, she stared at Alicia and Jamie.

Recommended Novels

Read Bring Your A Game Mr Chapter 1049

Bring Your A Game Mr Chapter 1049-It was but a moment, yet to Alicia, it felt like an eternity. She saw the hurt and heartbreak in Narissa's eyes, and it sliced her heart to pieces, tearing the remnants of her dignity apart. "I'm sorry."

Unable to face anyone, Alicia let go of Jamie and escaped into her room like a scared kitten. Despite the short journey, she still managed to bump into the doorframe, and it bruised her shoulder. Yet, she ignored the pain and quickly closed the door. Only when darkness had engulfed her could she heave a sigh of relief. She leaned on the door and slowly slid to the ground.

It was still silent outside. A long while later, Narissa finally moved. She made her way to Jamie and easily held him around his shoulder. Calmly, she moved to the elevator. When she passed by Zephyr, she hissed, "Do not tell this to anyone. Not a soul."

He took a deep breath and looked away. "I'm not much for gossip. I saw nothing."

Narissa didn't seem to hear that. She made her way to the elevator and stopped. Quietly, she said, "Thank you." And then, she took Jamie into the elevator.

Zephyr looked at the ground. He muttered, "Sweet dreams, though I wonder if you can even sleep tonight." After that, he went back into his room.

Narissa came back to the second floor. Just when she was about to enter her room, she noticed someone talking in Room 206, so she turned around to check things out.

Danny and Ariel were on the sofa, and they were covered in robes. One was massaging their forehead while the other was poking their temples. Maverick was lying beside Danny, wearing nothing but a shirt and a pair of boxers. He was still out cold. A roll of blanket slept on the long sofa beside him, revealing a pair of women's feet facing the door. On the table were bottles of mineral water brought by Ariel. Irvin was fiddling with a test tube, and it clanged with another. It seems chaotic.

"You guys are late." Noticing Narissa holding Jamie, Elise asked worriedly, "Is he alright?"

Narissa looked at Jamie calmly. "He's alright." A pause later, she looked into the room. "What happened?"

Irvin was done with his experiment. He held up a test tube and answered, "Hallucinogen. Almost every single bottle is tampered with."

Danny gave Maverick a hard kick. "You b*stard. You did the same thing last time! That's it. You're losing your d*ck. I don't want you to harass Ariel anymore. You're really getting it this time!"

"Ahem." Elise cleared her throat. "He was going after you, actually."

"Sorry?" Danny gave Elise a look of bewilderment.

"If it weren't for Mommy and me, you would've been violated, Uncle Danny," added Irvin.

Danny went silent for a moment. Then, he went to the kitchen and came back with a knife. He stared at Maverick with nothing but murder in his eyes.

Worried that he might kill Maverick, Ariel took the knife away. "Don't dirty your hands."

"What about that woman?" asked Elise.

Danny heaved a sigh in frustration. "She's Alicia's friend. I have no idea why she's here. Gave her two bottles before. She probably drank some. Or maybe Maverick screwed her. I came back with Danny, and she was already there. Must be related to Maverick or something," said Ariel.

Danny froze upon hearing that. "We should see Alicia. She might be drugged as well. Don't want anyone to do anything to her."

Coldly, Narissa said, "She's fine."

Danny paused for a moment and looked at her. "How do you know?"

"Met her on my way back. She was fine," Narissa spoke calmly. Too calmly.

With that, she left with Jamie. So, that's what happened. Alicia and Jamie were drugged. Then, they had sex for some reason. She was already in a rut and didn't want to see anyone for the moment, so she left.

Odd. Narissa loves to find out the freshest gossip. What happened to her? Well, she might not want to talk, so I should leave her to it. "What now?" She turned to the other people.

Danny glared at Maverick. "Call Zephyr. We need to neuter this guy. He's a menace."

"Are you sure Zephyr can do that?" I'm worried for him. Zephyr, I mean.

"He's a doctor. As long as Maverick doesn't die, it's alright. Even if he does die, he deserves it." Danny wanted results. He couldn't care less about the process. This b*stard almost violated me. I'd have skinned him alive. He's lucky he's getting off with surgery. And one operated by Zephyr, no less.

Elise and Irvin were speechless.

Only Ariel was processing the whole case. "Rylantha's room is right across. Maverick wouldn't have cheated on her so brazenly. She must have been drugged as well. Can you unlock that door for me, Irvin?"

"Sure thing." The boy had taken over the lock system. All he had to do was type in the number, and the door would unlock.

Ariel went inside and saw Rylantha sleeping soundly. She pushed Rylantha for a bit, yet the woman didn't stir.

"So, honey... Found anything?" Danny craned his neck.

Ariel left the room and grinned. "I wonder what'll happen to Maverick if Rylantha sees him sleeping with another woman."

"She might cut his d*ck off?" Man, that might actually happen. Ooh, I see! He clapped happily. "I see. Will be back in a jiff."

Ariel supervised the operation. Maverick was already going to cheat anyway, so they changed the spot and his partner. He'll deal with the problems himself.

...

Jamie woke up when it was nearly afternoon the next day. He saw Narissa sitting on the windowsill, and he massaged his head. "We went on for a while last night." He sat up. "You're up early."

"I didn't sleep." Narissa sat by the window the whole night.

Jamie sobered up a little upon hearing her answer. "Is something the matter? Did I hurt you? Sorry, I had no idea what I was doing, so... I'm really sorry if I hurt you."

Recommended Novels

Read Bring Your A Game Mr Chapter 1050

Bring Your A Game Mr Chapter 1050-He could remember going into the room, and then... all he remembered was pounding her. Yeah, I was a bit rough. She's so skinny. I wonder if she could take it well. Jamie got out of bed and tried to hug her. "I swear, there won't be a next—"

"Don't come near me!" Narissa snapped.

Surprised by her fit of anger, Jamie's hands hung in the air. He was in a hugging position, looking confused. What did I do this time?

Shoot. I almost told him. Narissa put her hair up and walked into the bathroom. She turned the faucet on and splashed her face with cold water without stopping her actions.

Finally noticing something wrong, Jamie tried to enter the bathroom, but it was locked, so he knocked on the door. "Babe? You're scaring me. Tell me what happened. Please don't bottle it up. Babe?"

Narissa didn't hear him. She stared into the mirror, but the one staring back at her looked so... unfamiliar. She had hoped for a monogamous relationship—one where she could spend her life with a single man. She never thought there would be a third wheel, yet here they were. What now? Jamie knew all about Danny getting drugged as well. She couldn't excuse this mistake by chalking it up to carelessness. Yet, so many were drugged, including Jamie. This came as a shock, but it was to be expected.

She spent the whole night wondering if she should just put it aside as Ariel did. However, in the end, she decided that she couldn't. Not when that woman was Alicia. That short meeting was enough to tell her that Alicia still liked Jamie.

What about Jamie? He already feels guilty about not choosing Alicia. If he finds out they had sex, will he still be with me? If he can't be mine and mine alone, then that's not the kind of love I would want. She was in pain. Every time she closed her eyes, she would imagine Jamie smooching Alicia. Sometimes, she would imagine even worse things. Narissa teared up and started crying. No matter how much she tried to wipe her tears away, they wouldn't stop flowing.

"Are you crying? Narissa, I'm going to knock the door down if you're not coming out." Panicked, Jamie rolled his sleeves up. "On the count of three. One... Two... Three—"

Narissa came out just then, looking cold. Beads of water were dripping from her face. She probably just washed her face.

"Are you alright?" He tugged on her sleeve.

She pushed him away. "I'm fine. Everyone's in the dining hall. We should go now."

"Sure. Let me get changed. Give me a minute."

...

When they came to the dining hall, Elise and the others were already there, chatting away happily.

"You guys seem happy." Jamie pulled a chair back for Narissa. Noticing Zephyr there, he said, "Oh, you're here, too! Didn't see you last night."

Zephyr glanced at Narissa. "I slept in. Didn't want to go out."

Yeah, right. Jamie didn't believe it at all, but he didn't press on further. Instead, he elbowed Danny. "So, what were you guys talking about?"

"Nothing."

"Someone spiked his drink with an aphrodisiac," Danny and Alexia answered at the same time.

"Lexi..." He held up his fork. "Don't talk when you eat."

She blew a raspberry at Danny.

"You little traitor." He scrunched his nose up.

"You fell for the same trick twice in less than six months? You're an embarrassment to SK." And then, Jamie asked, "So, did you screw anyone else this time?"

"Of course not!" Danny looked at Ariel lovingly, trying to prove his loyalty. "I'm loyal to Ariel. That aphrodisiac can't make me waver."

"As if." He's bullsh*tting. Better ask Alexia. "Is he telling the truth, Lexi?"

"Yes," said Alexia seriously.

Danny was touched. Aw, she loves me. "See? Told you I wasn't lying."

Just then, she continued, "Irvin said Uncle Danny's love rival was the one who wanted to do him. Technically, he didn't sleep with someone else. It's the other way around." The little girl was learning quickly. She didn't even get confused or flustered when talking about this sort of thing.

"Love rival? Oh, do you mean Maverick?" Hmm, wait... Whoa. "A guy, huh? Never thought you'd be attractive enough for guys."

Embarrassed, Danny tried to change the subject. "What about you? Raymond told me you finished two bottles of water last night. You must've had it bad."

Jamie nodded. "At first, yeah, but then..." He gave Narissa a look before breaking into a silly smile. Best not to bring up the details when kids are around. Besides, Narissa is still angry at me. She will kill me if I bring this up.

Look at the face he's making. There must be more to this. Got to find out about it. "Narissa, you got to tell me where you found him. He finished two whole bottles of water. Probably was lying around in a ditch," Danny said.

Jamie froze. I went straight back to my room. What's he talking about?

"Yes." Narissa didn't even look up. "I found him lying face down on the stairs, out cold."

He gasped. "What? But I remember—"

"I know what I saw." She put her cutlery down and sat up straight, looking stern.

He clamped his mouth shut as he didn't want to anger Narissa further.

Oblivious to the tension, Danny laughed. "You were lying face down on a staircase? You could have fallen to your death! And you call yourself a Dragonweiss member. Wait till everyone hears this!"

"You better don't tell anyone." Jamie tossed a piece of bread at him. "Shut up and eat your bread."

Danny caught the bread and took a big bite. "Bet Rylantha's going to love our surprise."

In Room 205, Rylantha woke up feeling refreshed, and the first thing she saw was Maverick. She smiled in contentment. He's handsome and manly. Sure, he's not from the best family, but he has stamina and is obedient. She loved that about him.

Recommended Novels