Chapter 731 Tasha's Interview "Janet?" Tasha was also surprised to see that the interviewer was Janet. I knew Janet was designer at W Marks, but I didn't expect It was she who interviewed her. As for why Tasha came to W Marks, she had your reasons. After divorcing Seth, Tasha received a lot of money as a pension food and returned to the Jarvis family. The Jarvis family had married their daughter, Tasha, to the Lester family for mutual benefit. But now that she had been divorced and the Lester family was broke, the Jarvis family would no doubt felt ashamed. Also, Tasha was pregnant at the time, which worsened the stuff. Given everything that had happened, it was little likely that Tasha could remarry another rich man. This made the Jarvis family felt that she was a burden, and even some of her relatives began to treat her coldly. Tasha couldn't take it anymore and moved out. Though he didn't lack money, he just didn't like it be idle It just so happened that W Marks Studio was hiring at the time. Draco was famous in the fashion industry. Tasha wanted to at least try, so she sent her resume. "Please take a seat. Why didn't you use your real name?" Janet was definitely not expecting see Tasha here. He looked at the resume and the portfolio that Tasha had sent and sure enough, this The latter had not used her real name. Tasha smiled sheepishly and explained, "Something happened with my family, so I didn't want them to know that I am looking for a job. Will that affect the interview from today?" Janet shook her head with a slight smile and He continued flipping through Tasha's folder. "No, the interview will only depend on the quality of your worked". Dalores realized that the candidate pregnant and Janet knew each other, so He narrowed his eyes and asked, "How come? do you two know each other?" "We study at the same school. Just relax. I will conduct a fair and impartial interview." Janet I knew the professional way to do it was judge Tasha solely on her work. And knew that this was what Tasha really wanted. He wanted to throw off the shackles of marriage and gain recognition with their own ability to design. Dalores rolled her eyes at Janet close up. This young woman was a bad liar. Obviously, Janet also wanted to recruit her friend, but pretended not to know her very well. "So, let's start the interview now." Dalores also began reviewing the resume and Tasha's portfolio. In fact, the works of Tasha were much better than her friend's. In addition, he had won some design awards when I was still in school. Suddenly, Dolores felt a little nervous. Janet was very pleased with the excellent Tasha's resume. I really believed that even Dalores would also see his potential. Then she he asked, "Well, what do you think, Dalores?" How could Dalores let this woman in pregnant and not her own friend? I had him promised her friend that she could get that will go into W Marks. how would you explain this so? "Not bad" Dalores said with a fake smile. "Can I ask you a few questions first?" "Of course." Janet nodded enthusiastically. I thought very highly of Tasha. Although there was no Been in the design industry for a few years, you could see that she was still very good. In addition, he had won many design awards even before graduating, which showed how excellent it was. As I looked at Tasha's bulging belly, Dalores asked harshly: "You were a housewife, TRUE? That would explain the gap in your resume. Now, after getting divorced, you are looking for worked. Did your husband leave you? The question was deliberately rude. He obviously wanted to irritate Tasha.

Dalores did not expect Janet to silenced with such a reasonable argument, and as result was speechless. Tasha was also missing. But when it happened realized how much Janet cared for her and defended her, he plucked up the courage to explain himself. "It is not what you are thinking. It is true that I was a mistress of house for a long time, but after that, I chose to divorce my husband for reasons personal. I really want to go back to the fashion industry. I have even applied to all major studies. Although I am pregnant, I can manage and I don't care If I have to start from the bottom. While I can get closer to my dream, it will all be worth it. I really want to get back to work and plunge back into the world of fashion. So please give me a chance" added with curlicue, bowing respectfully. Dalores sneered at Tasha with disdain. She does not was convinced by Tasha's sincerity in absolute."Nope. We have to find an employee who help W Marks grow up not a woman pregnant to drag us down. You're not a good choice for our study. Tea you can go now." "Wait a minute," Janet said through her teeth. tight, stopping Tasha. He looked coldly at Dalores and said. "Tasha is clearly more qualified and more talented than the rest of the applicants. Why don't you want her? Really just because she's pregnant? Or is it because you want them to hire your friend instead of you she?" His eyes lit up fiercely. determination. Clearly, she wasn't going to let pass this matter until Dalores gave him a reasonable explanation. Dalores was speechless. squeezing the teeth, pointed a finger at Janet and yelled, "No! talk nonsense here! This applicant will have a baby in a few months. At that time, it will ask for a maternity leave and the company will look forced to give you paid leave. You will simply cheat the company! do you think unreasonable? Go out and ask what kind of company accept such employees!" Tasha offered an explanation. "Certainly not I want to take advantage of the studio. I just want a I work as a designer." Dalores rolled her eyes sarcastically. "Then he works in some other company. By what do you have to work here? Oh, I see how it is.

Did you make a deal with Janet? did he promise you that could you get the job here at W Marks?" Tasha didn't want Janet to get caught up in the crossfire, so he sighed despondently and He said: "Enough, I'll go" "What's going on here? I could hear you fight one mile away." Chapter 740 Janet's new bodyguard

The next day, Janet woke up alone in bed. Yawning slightly, he went downstairs and found Brandon, who was already dressed. "Are you still sleepy? Why don't you sleep a little more?" Brandon smiled gently at her. while fixing his tie. It seemed that He was about to leave for the company. Seeing that Janet was still in a daze, he approached to her and gave her a light kiss on the cheek. "The bodyguard I hired for you is waiting outside." Janet nodded sleepily and watched as Brandon put on his coat and left. After the breakfast, got dressed and headed for the door. A strong and fierce-looking bodyguard I was standing outside. couldn't be more different of little Laney. with a new bodyguard so scary by his side, Janet she doubted anyone would dare approach her. "Good morning, Mrs.Larson. having received a special training, the bodyguard female acted and spoke in a way unusually energetic. Smiling awkwardly, Janet said, "Hello, nice to meet you. know you". So Janet went to work with: As soon as As they arrived, Dalores looked at the bodyguard behind Janet and sneered disdainfully. Dolores never liked Janet. In his eyes, Janet was showing off by bringing his bodyguard to the worked. "This bitch really did what she wanted just because she was the daughter of the White family." "Wow, I can't believe you brought a servant to work." Dalores said sarcastically, deliberately blocking his way to Janet. "Tell your servant to get out of here. Nope we can let anyone into our office. W Marks Studio is a place to designers, not for humble people like her." Janet pursed her lips sadly. Indeed, Dalores's words were so rude as always "This is my bodyguard" explained Janet with impatience. 'She is not a servant. She is responsible for my safety.' "Are you delusional? Do you think your own office mates want to kill you? you just bring a servant to take care of you, right? Are just a big baby! Well let me remind you that Mr.Wesley would never allow his servant will enter." Janet knew it would be useless to argue with the unreasonable Dalores, so he looked at the bodyguard and asked, "How about you wait out in the cafe. I will go out right after I leave the worked." The bodyguard shook her head. grimly. "Mr.Larson told me that I need be with you at all times. After all, he could get into trouble anywhere. I won't be able to protect you from outside the office." Dalores sneered disdainfully. "Why is this Damn bitch was that lucky? not only came from a rich family, but also had a rich and handsome husband who cared so much about she. It was so unfair!" As these thoughts swirled in his inside. head, became more jealous, raised her voice and tried to chase away the bodyguard. "I told you you can't be here! This is ours office! Get out of here!" she yelled angrily. Seeing that Janet's bodyguard didn't move, Dalores unscrupulously pushed her. However, the bodyguard defended himself. In a blink of eyes, the tables had turned and Dalores she was being pressed to the ground. The pain in Dalores's arms, which were trapped behind her back, made her moan without be able to do anything. "Oh! Let go! Aid! Someone help me!" Dalores' screams drew the attention of the studio employees. Drake included. "What's going on here? By what are you yelling right outside our study?" he asked as soon as he left.
