

Chaos Devourer System

#Chapter 121 Gaining The Favor Of The Amazonian Princess - Read Chaos Devourer System Chapter 121 Gaining The Favor Of The Amazonian Princess

Chapter 121 Gaining The Favor Of The Amazonian Princess

"Princess Diana?" Zeras asked slightly surprised looking at the figure before him.

Dressed in a long golden-colored flowing gown with different shining crystals adorned at the ends that dragged across behind her figure.

Her golden hair seemed to flutter in the wind revealing short bursts of golden light with an extremely beautiful round face and cherry-red lips.

Zeras could say no doubt this was the most beautiful Human lady he had ever seen.

An aura of natural majesty radiated from her figure even though she was just sitting on the opposite wall.

"You've been out for four days..." Princess Diana said emotionlessly.

"Four days!!!? Guess the mission took all the energy out of me..." Zeras said with a smile as he looked at the bandage wrapped over his upper body up to his neck.

He could still feel slight pain in those areas revealing he took quite the damage due to the Malevolent Sea's corroding ability.

"It is already a miracle you survived. Having said that, I've noticed quite some abnormalities in you..." Princess Diana said her eyes narrowing while a powerful aura suddenly appeared in the room causing the injured Zeras to feel his heart sinking in from the suddenly Increased pressure.

"Hahaha, what abnormalities might have you noticed in me princess?..." Zeras said trying to feign ignorance and since this was the first time he had to even do such a thing, he didn't do great, at least not enough to fool Princess Diana.

"Like how you controlled that abyssal creature. How did you survive the corrosion since you were definitely not swallowed by it or were you actually the Abyssal creature itself? Besides, your regeneration could rival that of an Early Meteor rank stage even though you're just a peak Star rank with a grade of gene not note-worthy of mention?..." Princess Diana asked as she slowly stood up and began walking towards him, every pressing down of her high heels causing Zeras to feel as if gravity was being increased on his heart.

Zeras clenched his teeth in pain as he noticed his heart began spiraling out of his control while the bandage he was wearing suddenly shone a pale red.

He slowly raised his head looking directly at her emotionless golden eyes for some seconds when he slowly dropped down his head as he held tightly the bedsheet covering his legs, veins bulging on his hands.

"I thought you promised to keep my secret for me, Princess. And I truly believed you and placed my trust in you, trust in the reputation of one from the Amazon family. Could... could I have placed my trust in the wrong hands, princess..." Zeras said as Princess Diana looked at his bowed head and saw the single line of blood that flowed from his eyes and fell on the bedsheet.

Her face contorted in confusion and slight guilt causing the pressure in the air to suddenly disappear as if it was only a mirage.

"If it's so important to you, then you can keep it. It doesn't matter much anyway." Princess Diana said as she turned back and headed for the room's exit.

Zeras immediately stood up from the bed as fast as he could as he hurriedly followed her figure. Sitting on the bed while the princess walked away, he didn't know what punishment that would cause but he knew he should go and escort her.

Zeras immediately arrived before the exit door as he clenched open the knob and opened it for her, standing to the side. The duo moved out from the tent as Zeras watched the two EIA officers and gave them a bow before following behind her figure.

A purple-colored spaceship flew from the distance as it soon arrived in front of them and slowly descended.

Zeras looked at the spaceship and by the crazy design and the strange high-quality material it was made from, he could tell this was perhaps a Techno-Alpha grade Technology in the least.

Steps unfurled from the spaceship as it appeared in front of Princess Diana who slowly climbed up the steps, but Zeras didn't move a single inch nor say a word.

After she arrived at the top, the engine of the Spaceship rumbled powerfully as Zeras watched the steps slowly furling.

Before the doors could completely close, Zeras noticed Princess Diana turning her head sideways at the last second as she spoke a sentence that reverberated clearly into his head.

"We the Amazons owe you one, Zeras Celestria..."

The spaceship's doors shut closed as it immediately ascended into the air.

As the spaceship turned and slowly moved into the distance, Zeras noticed the glass covering at the end of the spaceship, and standing behind the glass was a figure.

A golden-haired woman dressed from up to head in armor and holding a gigantic spear in her hand.

Zera's hair suddenly stood on end as she felt her golden-colored eyes pierce through the glass covering and landed on his figure.

Zeras suddenly felt his legs go weak as his body slowly fell to the ground but before he could completely fall a hand clamped on his shoulder and raised him.

Before he could turn his head back to the spaceship it was already long gone.

Sweats dripped down Zera's face as he muttered to himself:

"Just who is that!!!!?"

He could feel from that woman, a crazy amount of killing intent. It was like she had killed an uncountable number of people that he couldn't even begin imagining the number of. Like a human slaughtering machine, and she made him almost faint by just looking dead straight into his eyes.

"One of the Amazonian's Death Knights..." The voice behind him said, the caution in his voice unconcealed.

"Amazon Death Knights?"

"You shouldn't even know about them at all kid. Just know the Amazons can't be messed with..." The grave tone of the figure echoed out to him as Zeras slowly turned and his jaws dropped looking at who it was.

"Officer Arroyo!!?" Zeras was lost for words looking at the man as if he didn't even know where to begin his explanation.

"Officer, I..."

"The higher-ups of this mission want to see you. Follow me..." Officer Arroyo said immediately turning back as Zeras quickly followed after his figure, his heart increasing in rate the more he closed in on the most gigantic structure present in the area.

-- -- -- the tallest structure of the EIA base camp...

A group of five dressed in EIA uniforms all sat around a very high table in the gigantic room as arguments echoed out occasionally.

"The kid might have saved the mission, but I believed he put the mission at more risk than ever..." One of the EIA officials, a tall woman with a ponytail said, the annoyance in her voice as clear as day.

"If the Amazonian princess didn't possess that protection artifact, then they both would have perished in the Malevolent Sea meaning an automatic failure and now we'll be preparing for the wrath of the Amazons that would come on us..." A chubby man with huge cheeks said, sweat dripping down his head on mentioning the Amazonian's wrath.

"Disobeying the officers is a grave crime. I believe he should be punished accordingly..." Different voices rang out continuously showing the officers' disagreement with what just happened..."

The man sitting in the middle of the five and directly at the head table slowly opened his eyes as he said out loud:

"Sure, the new cadet endangered the mission, but it's also impossible to refute that the mission became a success due to him and he also stopped the lives that would be lost more in the war at the Humban Chasm. Let us all wait for his side of this matter, I'm sure he had his reasons..."

The door opened with a clank right then and Zeras walked in with Officer Arroyo.

"You can leave now Arroyo." The voice of one of the officers rang out and Officer Arroyo bowed deeply before exiting leaving only Zeras present in the room.

122 Circle of Punishment and Reward

Zeras's gaze searched around the room looking at the EIA officials who were seated so high up and were rendered speechless for some seconds.

"Um, why do they have to sit up so high?"

"This young one has seen the Officials, but I know very well, I've offended you all..." Zeras said as he automatically got one of his knees.

"Oh, in what way have you offended us?" The Man at the highest table and directly facing him asked with an interesting expression on his face.

"On the way to the mission, I was less careful and ended up crashing the spaceship..." Zeras said with a downcast expression.

"Oh, about that it wasn't your fault. Isn't it the fault of the Abyssal creature?..."

"No, it's my fault. I could have been more careful. Secondly, the officer asked me to stay put in the forest and not leave but I disobeyed, I broke an order from an official..." Zeras said causing the expressions of the officials to harden.

It was true in the EIA, that breaking orders, no matter your position, was an almost unforgivable thing.

"And why did you that? I believe someone like you should be smart enough to know that's a very grievous thing to do..."

"I'm very well aware Officers, but I also couldn't help it. All the rest of the New Cadets are working hard at the battlefield supporting the officers but I'm lying on a tree in the forest and resting. It's the guilt of being useless. I felt I was more of a burden to the EIA than anything. That's what chased me off the tree. That's why I thought, no matter what small way, I'm also going to show my usefulness. I'll prove my usefulness to the mission.

Now when I think of it. It was a harsh and stupid decision as I ended up endangering the mission than ever.

I ended up making a grave mistake and even dragging the princess to the Malevolent Sea." Zeras said his voice laced with heavy guilt and regret.

"Well, that's definitely irrefutable..." Commander Leviron said looking down at his wrist.

"Hmph, you're lucky the princess possesses a protection Artifact, or you would have been immediately reduced to bones..." One of the officers said as Zeras raised an eyebrow.

'A protection Artifact?'

A smile appeared on his face as he knew Princess Diana just saved him from the problem of the EIA asking him how he managed to survive in the Malevolent Sea.

"That's true Officers. I ended up endangering my own life too. No matter what the punishment is, I'm willing to bear it officers. The mission was a disaster solely due to my decision. Everything was fully my fault..." Zeras said before remaining quiet on his knees as the Officers looked at each other, unable to come to a decision.

How would they teach him a lesson when he already knew well what he had done? Besides they all knew, even though the mission was endangered. It was also a success due to his act. Besides, he also created a good impression on them.

Most Cadets would have been more than comfortable simply sitting and doing nothing. But the boy actually got out of his comfort zone to support the EIA officials.

Besides he admitted the mission was endangered and never mentioned it being successful due to his decision. It showed he was one who truly felt guilt and was not arrogant like anyone his age would have been.

He had done a very brave act that none would have ever done if they were in his shoes.

Zeras who was bowing suddenly felt a massive amount of pressure slam down on him causing both his knees to immediately slam down on the ground as his head was bent with so much force they slammed down on the ground causing a crack to appear on the ground.

Blood immediately poured off his slowly closing wounds as the bandages became completely covered in red.

Zeras clenched his throat tightly in his hands as he discovered the air around him was no more and he could no longer breathe.

"Arck, Argh, Archh..." He repeatedly choked on his breath as blood poured out of his body feeling a horrifying amount of pain wracking around his body.

"The most grievous offense in the EIA is disobeying orders. No matter the reasons, there's no excuse for disobeying orders. Do you understand?" The Stern voice of the chubby officer echoed out to Zeras who had veins wriggling out of his body as he repeatedly slammed his hands on the ground.

The pressure slowly disappeared as Zeras felt the air coming back once again and he sucked in as rapidly as he could.

"COUGH, COUGH, COUGH..."

The female Officer present in the room suddenly raised her hands as she stretched forward and a gigantic ball of green energy appeared in the air before rapidly shooting towards Zeras.

Zeras who was convulsing on the ground in a coughing rage suddenly felt something slam into him and enter his body.

A system notification immediately popped up...

[A healing genetic ability has been used on The Host...]

[Host is too weak to cancel the effects.]

[Ability will now take effect...]

[Congratulations, Host HP has now been completely recovered.]

[All Host's energy has now been regained.]

[All Host's injury has been recovered.]

[Host is now back at 100%]

Zeras looked at the notification as he felt all the pain suddenly disappear.

Slowly standing up, the bandages around him suddenly faded to dust as Zeras looked at his once again spotless skin.

"Thank you officers for being lenient..." Zeras said bowing respectfully as he heaved a sigh of relief within him.

He knew he was off the hook for this...

"We knew you really put the mission in danger but it is also irrefutable you helped save the mission which would have been no doubt lost.

You could say you're a hero in this mission too. Since all heroes are rewarded, the EIA has decided to reward you too.

There are two most noticeable rewards which will be stated here directly, as for the other perks, they will be sent to your watch..." One of the side officers said.

Zeras watched as the Commander slowly stood up.

"From today on, you're no longer an EIA New Cadet but promoted to the first position position of an EIA official..." Zeras stood there numbed as he watched a small bag appear mysteriously in front of the commander as it slowly floated towards him.

Zeras grabbed onto the bag pack as he gently opened it with shaking hands and saw a new pair of uniforms in it. A uniform of a true EIA official.

"I...I..."

"Secondly, you've been chosen to represent the EIA in the Celestial Titans Cultivation Ruins that will be opening in the next two months. You'll be participating with the future successors of the Nine Families and representing the EIA. All the other Perks will be sent to your watch. Now get going, the spaceship has been waiting for you for almost three hours now..." Commander Levron said as Zeras just stood there unable to comprehend what was happening but just got in a bowing position before standing up and heading for the exit.

"What an interesting young lad..." The Commander said as the officers also gave an approving nod.

Only they knew just how much the EIA gained in this mission.

123 Benefits Bestowed By The EIA

Zeras immediately ran towards the distance spaceship as he quickly climbed up the stairs. Entering into the long hall, he could see all the New Cadets already strapped in making him the last person to arrive at the spaceship.

They gave him quite the death stare, but Zeras didn't blame them, he would also be mad if he had to wait for a random nobody for three hours.

Navigating his way through the hall, he soon came across his Group, the Group A area as he sat on the last empty seat.

The Spaceship engine immediately rumbled as Zeras took a deep breath in.

The New Cadets Mission finally came to an end and he'll be heading back to the base after 6 days on an Alien planet.

Zeras suddenly looked up as he felt the intense gaze of all the cadets on him who all had their mouths dropping on the ground.

Zeras raised an eyebrow wondering what they were looking at causing him to turn to the cadet on his right as he noticed he was also staring at him with his jaws sagging.

"Um, what is the problem..." Zeras asked raising an eyebrow as Leo finally got a hold of himself.

"Congratulations..." He said with a smile causing Zeras to look at him strangely.

"What congratulations?"

Leo didn't reply and just stretched out his watch for him to see and he immediately saw the notification.

<General EIA Base Notification>

<The New Cadet who is First on the Cadets Rankings named Zeras Celestria has now been promoted to the level of a Specialist>

'They sent it to everyone!!!' Zeras almost screamed out in shock. He knew everyone would later be aware but not so fast. He hadn't even come to terms with the information yet.

"Oh, Thank you..." Zeras said to Leo who nodded his watch and continued tapping on his watch.

Immediately Zeras noticed something had changed, the views the other Cadets used to see him. He could feel it was no longer with indifference and now tainted with the slightest bit of respect and solemnity.

Zeras clicked on his watch and looked at the new notification that was sent to him.

<EIA's Reward for Your Excellent Performance In The Mission>

<1. You have been Promoted from the New Cadets rank to a Specialist rank.^ Please head to the EIA training base library to learn of the perks that come with the promotion^>

<2. You have been chosen to partake in the Celestial Titans Cultivation Ruins representing the EIA.^ Please head to the EIA library in the training base to learn more.^>

<3. Your Authority level has been increased to Level 3>

<4. You're now able to access the first level of the EIA Training Base Gadgets Structure]

<5. 100 points would now be given to you every month>

A satisfied smile appeared on Zera's face on seeing the contents of the notifications.

The risk he went through in the mission was really worth it. He didn't know what all these Cultivation Ruins and EIA promotion were all about but he would check it out as soon as he arrived back at the training base.

"Now to the important part..." Zeras said with an evil smile as he thought to himself, the real important reason why he went through so much risk.

A feeling of Guilt?

More of a burden?

Screw that!!! He didn't give a damn.

'System Interface'

[System Interface]

[Main Quest: Save The Amazonian Princess and bring her back to the EIA base has been completed]

[You have been rewarded with the following:

1. +2 Level Up Card.
2. +3 Ability Upgrade Card.
3. A New Class Authority.
4. Ready For Evolution.]

[You must evolve before you're able to awaken your class authority]

[Do you wish to evolve now?]

"No!!!" Zeras immediately replied. He knew how he almost died the first time he evolved in the Mutant Organization base and was immediately knocked out cold.

He didn't know how this would go but playing it safe was better.

[Does Host wish to level up?]

"Yes..."

[Congratulations: Host has leveled up to Level 10]

[+10 Attributes points obtained]

[Congratulations, Host has leveled up to Level 11]

[+15 Attributes points obtained]

[Total Attributes points: 25]

"Oh, 15?" Zeras asked.

[Yes, past Level 10, Host will now gain 15 attributes points instead of 10]

"Nice..." Zeras said with a smile. While an increase of five points doesn't seem to be much. It would be a shocking amount with continuous level-ups.

"Add 8 points to strength, 7 points to perception, 9 points to Intelligence, and 1 point to agility."

[Points successfully allocated]

[Attributes]

[Strength: 57]

[Agility: 47]

[Perception: 47]

[Intelligence: 30]

[Charm: null]

{Attributes points: 0}

'Good. My intelligence finally caught up...' Zeras thought with a smile that widened his ears but suddenly noticed a few of the cadets looking at him strangely.

'Tch, damn idiots, I finally increased my intelligence to the same level as my other attributes. This is basically what it means for brawns and brains to finally align, shouldn't I be happy.' Zeras thought ignoring the strange gaze as his smile widened even more.

'He must have gone senile hearing the news...' Some of the cadets thought looking at him before continuing their business.

-- -- --

The spaceship continued moving with horrifying speed through space, tearing through countless sound barriers and after three hours, it finally arrived at the EIA training base.

The stairs immediately opened up as Zeras also descended the spaceship with the rest of the Cadets.

"Finally back home..." Zeras thought taking a deep breath in of the familiar air and a clear noticeable effect was the gravity which seemed to have reduced on him or say back to normal.

They were all directed back to the Interdimensional combat department where Instructor Moneca was waiting.

"Congratulations on you all completing your first New Cadets mission."

Instructor Moneca suddenly raised an eyebrow as she stretched out her hand pointing at each of them as if counting.

A shocked expression suddenly appeared on her face

"Oh? None Of You Died???"

'What the???' Zeras thought to himself looking at the wicked female witch.

"That's good news. You'll all be given three days of rest after which class will immediately begin. Also, the New Cadets battle rankings will begin soon.

So you all prepare well if you don't want to lose your dorm room. See you all three days from now..."Instructor Moneca said as they all moved away from the hall.

Zeras immediately headed back to his dorm room, unlocked the door, and entered it, seeing it was just as he left it.

Dropping the backpack on the ground, he immediately fell onto the sofa as he muttered to himself feeling the warmth of the room

"Home Sweet Home"

He didn't know when or how, but his EIA dorm room and probably the EIA training base felt more like a home to him.

Now he knew, he truly wasn't wrong or made the wrong decision when he chose to join the EIA instead of being given a home by them. The EIA was already a home and probably the best home he would have ever been given in the first place.

Golden Tickets and Powerstones are greatly appreciated. Thanks for your support guys. Means a lot.

Supreme_IQ

Chapter 124 Evolution!!!

After he felt his bones were sufficiently moisturized by the comfort of the sofa, Zeras finally stood up from his seat.

It was time for his evolution.

Taking off his clothes and trousers leaving him with only pants on. Zeras headed towards the door and he locked it tightly before heading towards the Mana Cultivation room and entering into it.

He wasn't trying to cultivate, no just looking for a comfortable place to prepare for his evolution.

Zeras entered the blue pool and sat down cross-legged in it before muttering out loud:

"System..."

[Is Host finally ready to begin his evolution into a Chaos Devourer halfling?]

"Yes, but hope I won't become a monster straight from hell because the Chaos is giving me quite the chills..." Zeras said with caution in his voice, he didn't want to suddenly grow horns from his head as while his strength would vastly improve, he would once again become a lab rat, except this time by the EIA itself.

[Evolution will now begin in 3..2..1..]

Zeras waited for the next five seconds but nothing happened causing him to raise an eyebrow.

"Um, system did you finally decide to joke for once..."

BAAAAAAAAANG.

"Grrrrrh..." A hammer suddenly slammed down on his brain Zeras immediately let out an inhumane grunt.

Pain. Soul-chilling Pain.

It was as if his soul was being set on fire.

An Abyssal dark light suddenly flared powerfully from a dark-colored crystal that suddenly appeared at Zera's forehead the dark light in it began spreading looking like a dark crack was appearing all over his body spreading out from the middle of his forehead.

"Krrrrrh, Krrrrrh..."

The sound of grinding teeth echoed out in the room as Zera's teeth clamped tightly on each other, with small lines appearing on them showing they were about to crack into pieces from the crazy amount of force.

"Why??? Why is it so painful..."

Zeras asked with his eyes turning blood red and a line of blood soon appeared dripping down from his eyes.

[It is very painful because the Chaos Devourer gene is facing a strange anomaly. Host's human genomes are fighting crazily to resist the gene and they're doing quite a good job.]

"Damn it..."

BAAAAAAAAANG

Another loud sound of a hammer slamming down on his brain rang out again but Zeras couldn't handle the effect this time and fell weakly, quickly losing his consciousness while his body soon sank to the cold tiles of the pool.

-- -- --

It was a dark space...

A place where light has been banned and the darkness is the utmost supreme ruler...

A dark abyssal light suddenly bloomed deep in this space sending a violent pulse of abyssal mist of energy rippling through the entire space.

Even though it was incredibly dark in this place and there was supposed to be no source of light.

The dark point of light was just so dark it was unable to be concealed by the darkness of the space.

If one was able to trace this source of dark light, one would notice a gigantic diamond-shaped crystal to be responsible.

Inside this crystal was a dark gas that floated around within, radiating an extremely violent and malevolent force.

Looking closely inside the crystal, a white-coloured body of energy could be seen, floating inside the crystal.

This body was Zera's consciousness.

The body floated rising gently up and down in the dark abyss of the crystal.

Suddenly, tendrils of the dark abyssal light began drilling into Zera's body continuously as his heart began rising and descending, every pump causing the tendrils of the dark energy to enter into Zera's body in large amounts.

Slowly, the white light Zera's body was radiating suddenly began gaining a shade of dark light as if it was slowly getting corrupted by the abyssal energy within the crystal.

-- -- --

On a gigantic golden-colored planet, countless bigger than Earth and billions of light-years from Earth...

A massive structure could be seen at the center of this planet. Different strange runic lines were drawn in this structure revealing a bust of golden lights that illuminated the entire planet.

The top of this massive structure was a flat area and in this area, a figure could be seen...

It was approximately a thousand meters tall, and its body brimmed with extremely powerful golden light while its heart pumped within its chest sending a violent pulse of energy that caused the entire space around him to go haywire creating an illusion of the birth and destruction of the space around him.

The entire area was extremely silent when suddenly the figure opened its massive eyes which seemed to contain thousands of stars each radiating a different light in it...

His eyes narrowed and his gaze pierced through the distance, passing through countless galaxies and billions of miles but his eyes only furrowed more and more as he closed his eyes again...

"I sense a great evil being born..."

"A great Evil it can only be from the birth of that abominable race, Chaos Devourers..."

"But the location is too far away and I can't point it down, besides it disappeared too quickly, aided by a force that made it avoid the inspection of my Hegemonic Star Eyes..."

"No matter where you might be hiding, Child of Chaos, you will be found sooner or later and then exorcised..."

The figure's voice rang out clearly with so much force it caused the displacement of the planet itself causing it to move around chaotically as if unable to bear the force behind the figure's simple words...

-- -- --

[Congratulations, Host has successfully fused with 50% of the Chaos Devourer gene]

[Congratulations, Host is now a Chaos Devourer halfling]

[Congratulations, A New Authority has been Awakened]

[Host has awakened the second attribute of his Chaos Devourer gene: The Eye Of Absolute Chaos]

Zeras eyes slowly opened as he slowly stood up from the pool.

He could feel the world seemed suddenly strange, in that the clear particles that floated around him could be seen and he could see his sofa through the walls on the opposite side just by furrowing his eyes a little bit.

"Just what is going on..." Zera's right hand automatically moved towards his left eye as he touched feeling an intense itch around it but the feeling soon disappeared.

"Where I'm I? What's going on..." Zeras scratches head a couple of times, in confusion when suddenly a golden coloured panel appeared in front of him...

[Congratulations on Host on his successful evolution.]

"Successful evolution???" Zeras replied confused when suddenly his eyes widened in shock as the memories of his last moments entered in this head.

"I've evolved. It was successful? Nothing went wrong right?" Zera's asked almost screaming in joy.

[I would advise you to go and check the mirror, Amigo]

A strange expression appeared on Zera's face hearing the system as it sound kinda different this time but he ignored it as he rapidly ran to his bathroom quickly reaching for his bathroom mirror...

Seeing the mirror at the corner, Zeras stood in front of it, his eyes closed, but he calmed down his fear and opened one of his eyes to look at his figure.

Both eyes immediately snapped open in shock as his jaws dropped to the ground while Zeras rapidly retreated away from the mirror in fear as his heart pounded madly in his chest.

"What... What is that!!!!????"

Chapter 125 New Existence: Chaos Devourer Halfling

"What is that???" Zeras asked stunned looking at the image in the mirror as his eyes dilated in shock.

He slowly stood back up from where he crashed into as he inched closer towards the mirror.

In the mirror, a figure could be seen, completely white hair that covered the top part of his face with a face so white it looked like it was even a little pale. The face was perfectly chiseled, the true meaning of a diamond-shaped face.

The figure would be almost indistinguishable from that of a female on the first encounter and Zeras was genuinely shocked a man could even be that handsome.

But what gave him the real chills was his eyes. His left eye in particular, it wasn't his.

The left eye of the image contained no pupils at all and was just an empty black hole that seemed to be slowly revolving deep within it.

Looking dead straight at those eyes, Zera's mouth dropped as he saw they could only be described as one word.

Cold. Extremely Ice cold with not a single ripple of emotion or life at all, and even just looking at it gave him the illusion of staring at a soul reaper.

"Is that my eyes???" Zeras asked confused. It was like his eyes were replaced with another person's and he was pretty sure it wasn't his.

[Of course, it is. Your Evolution was successful and you ended up awakening your left eye first. But that isn't the only benefit you gained from this evolution. Why don't you try calling out the interface?]

"And what happened to you system, you sound strange]

[You think so? Well, you're finally past Level 10, after thousands of eons, and the restrictions placed on me have been reduced a little. Now I can pop up anytime and feel free to easily chat with you like a best buddy. You have good luck, Zeras]

"Tch, System Interface..."

[System Interface]

[Name: Zeras Celestria]

[Class: Halfling]

[Class Authority: Absolute Chaotic]

[Level: 11]

[Mana Cultivation Stages: Peak Star Rank Stage]

[HP: 250/250]

[EXP: 910/5000]

[Energy: 765/765]

[Mana Core Energy: 100/100]

[Attributes]

[Strength: 60]

[Agility: 40]

[Perception: 40]

[Intelligence: 40]

[Charm: null]

{Attributes points:0}

"Wow, that's great..." Zeras said looking at the interface. He suddenly gained 20 points in his strength attributes and 10 attributes in all his other stats.

"Um, system what does the class Authority mean?" Zeras asked raising an eyebrow.

[Well you'll find out soon yourself, why don't you check out your genetic ability tab?]

Zeras immediately thought of the tab and it soon appeared in front of him

[Skills And Abilities]

>>Dash: Level 3

{Host's speed would instantly be Increased to quadruple that of his normal speed.}

>>Poison Immunity: The Host's body is immune to low-level poisoning.

>>Regeneration- Level 2

The host can now recover from wounds twice as fast as his normal regeneration speed.

[Genetic Skills]

>>Bio-morph- Level 2

[Living And Non-living Morphing]

{Ability to change Host's Bio-morph to include non-living physiology}

>>Chaos Devouring- Level 2

{Host can absorb the life-essence of those either killed by the host or not to increase his energy}

[Absolute Chaotic Existence Skills]

>>Eyes Of Chaos: The host can view the true chaotic state of reality.

>>Hollow Domain: Ability to create a domain where the Host is Supreme.

[Ability Upgrade Card: +3]

"Hmm, definitely truly new abilities," Zeras said nodding his head but he couldn't help but narrow his eyes even more on seeing the Absolute Chaotic skills.

"Let me try it out. Eye Of..."

"RIIIIIIIING"

<Hey man, it has been a week already and four days. I don't know why you've just been locked in your room for the past four days, but just to let you know we are at the cafeteria and hey there's something important you have to know as soon as possible.

The sound of his watch vibrating rang out intensely as Zera's attention was diverted and he looked at the watch instead.

<Quinn Voidspace>

<Hey man, it has been a week already and four days. I don't know why you've just been locked in your room for the past four days, but just to let you know we are at the cafeteria and hey there's something important you have to know as soon as possible.

Whenever you're done with whatever you're doing, you can pop over here...>

"Strange, system how long have I been out?" Zeras asked raising an eyebrow.

[The Evolution took a total of five days]

"What the? That's really long. I already missed Interdimensional combat class twice and the Cadets Rankings battle will be beginning tomorrow too. This is really fucked up." Zeras muttered as he hurriedly got in his uniform.

Immediately heading out of the exit, he suddenly stopped as he headed back to the bathroom and his mirror. He knew he couldn't go out like this or people would get suspicious of him not coming out for five days and suddenly growing white hair.

"Activate Absolute Morph..."

Zeras immediately changed back his hair color to its normal black and tried changing his left eye to its normal Blue color but he was shocked when he saw it didn't work at all.

"System, why can't I change my left eye color?"

[You can't!!]

Zeras noticed the voice of the system suddenly getting more stern.

"I know, but why?"

[The Eyes of Chaos is a Supreme racial ability that billions of races in the Cosmos will fight to the death just to possess but you want to conceal it for the sake of not appearing strange to some group of weaklings, are you stupid, or what???] The system asked its voice like that of an old professor lecturing his 70-year-old most hated student.

"Oh, I didn't think of it like that..."

[Zeras!!] The system suddenly called out.

"Yes??"

[I think it's time we get some things straight.] The system suddenly said as Zera's eyes narrowed in confusion.

"What do you mean??" [Firstly, you're no longer a human at least not a complete true human. You're now a Chaos Devourer halfling. You're like a slave-turned-king. It's time you stop behaving like a slave and start acting like what you are...]

"Oh, what do you mean?" Zeras said with a chuckle as he headed towards the exit.

[I mean is time you create a distance between you and weaklings. It's time to sever friendly bonds and focus on getting stronger. You should be checking out your new abilities and thinking of ways to grow stronger quickly and not going to some stupid cafeteria to talk nonsense.

It's time you begin to grow, you're no longer a kid.]

Zera's hand holding the knob suddenly paused as his body stood rigged on the ground in shock.

This was the first time he ever heard of something like that from the system. It had never sounded this stern or serious before.

"What makes you think I've been a kid all this while system?" Zeras asked in a whisper.

[Many things show you've been a kid. Like your current level, you're supposed to be far above this level but you're here.

During the mission, you never made a single decision that was yours and let others command you around. You almost died and needed to be saved. You placed your life and death in the hands of others.

Those EIA officers who punished you could have decided to kill you and no one would be any wiser.

You respect the decision of that Amazonian kid and trust her. You have to know you would have been dead right now had she let out your secret.

She could have killed you when you were on that sick bed in the EIA base.

Do you know why she didn't, because she's nice?

No!!

Because she felt you're not worth it, she told you to keep your secret because it doesn't matter, but to be honest, she meant you don't matter.]

Chapter 126 The System's Foreboding

[...And that didn't even trigger you at all.

Besides you act like she's some superior being when you faced her, opening the door for her and following behind her like some good slave.

Know Zeras, the Nine families, the EIA, the Galaxy Rank experts, they are all nothing in the grand scheme of things. They are all nothing and should be nothing to you.

It's time you started acting and training like that girl called Gaia Shiron and stop looking to gaining bonds that means little in the end.

Friendships slows you down and make you weak. If there's someone who had to be lax and be making friend, wasting time in this entire galaxy, the last person should be you.]

Zeras stood numb for a minute as his mouth opened wide in thinking about what the system said.

He had never thought about it but he truly came too close to death this time. He almost died when the spaceship got attacked by the Abyssal creature. He had almost died when he was in the EIA base Infirmary with the princess as he was then truly weak and she could have killed him if she felt like it.

Besides Zeras was sure, if princess Diana truly killed him right then and there, then the EIA would give probably little to no punishment to her and at most receive some compensation from the Amazon family at worst and the case would be closed.

The Higher ups could have decided to end him instead of punishing him a little.

[ Do you know why you come so close to death this time?]

[Trust!]

[You trusted the EIA, you trusted the Amazon family. You trusted their images. You forgot it was also one of the Nine families who kicked you out and sold you to be a lab rat.

The world is harsh Zeras, image and friendship can be gone in a poof with enough reasons. Your only greatest reliance is your strength...]

A vein popped up on Zera's head [You're wrong about me no longer being a human. I'm a human. And I don't form friendship for ulterior motives. the friends I make, who I decides to trust, that's my and only my decision. It has nothing to do with you.

You're a brother to me and more of a helper, stop trying to be my parent.] Zeras said his hands reaching again for the door knob.

[I'm afraid you'll regret your decision Zeras. Because you'll be losing everything real soon if you continue like this.]

A vein popped on Zera's face but he soon calmed down as a smile appeared on his face.

"I never knew you were this worried. You know if something bothers you, you can just tell me..." Zeras said with a smile.

[I guess I have no choice. Do you remember I told you you'll be able to access some information from me once you reach level 10?] The system suddenly asked as Zeras eyes narrowed I'm realization.

"Yeah, that was even the main reason why I tried to reach level 10 quickly.

[ Then let me give you the information. Zeras, I don't know how to say this so I don't break your mind.

But I'm sure you know there are races out there, very powerful.]

"I do. Like that Celestial race you mentioned."

[Good. It's just Zeras this power of yours. The power of Chaos Devourers is a power that shouldn't exist. And if the races hear of what you truly are, then you'll be dead in a heartbeat.

And during this evolution, they sensed your existence. They now know you're alive. You're lucky they don't know where you are because you're very far away from them.

But you can't hide for long. Your next evolution and you'll probably be discovered.

So Zeras you don't have much time. I'll advise you to not make friends because your path is that of blood and strife.

I don't want you to cry too much.

The path of Chaos Devourers is a single lonely path, only you better walk it alone as you'll lose everything Zeras. EVERYTHING.]

Zeras face turned serious on hearing that as his heart pounded loudly in his heart, a feeling of terrible foreboding ringing loudly in his heart but he calmed himself down as a smile appeared on his face.

"You don't need to worry about me much, system. I can assure you, that when that time comes. I'll be more than ready..." Zeras said as he clenched open the numb and exited his room.

-- -- --

The cafeteria was filled to brim with New Cadets who feverishly discussed about the upcoming New Cadets Rankings battle Events that would be occurring tomorrow and with the ultimate target being the First person on the cadets rankings, Zeras, garnered quite the majority of talks and attention.

in the space of the bustling Cafeteria, the door to the place suddenly creaked open extremely slowly grabbing the attention of a few of the Cadets who turned and looked at the entrance only to see the Ultimate New Cadets standing at the entrance.

"It's... It's Zeras Celestria."

It's truly him..."

"The number one on the rankings..."

"I heard he's no longer an ordinary Cadets and have been promoted to a specialist during the mission."

The hushed voice of the New Cadets echoed throughout the room but Zeras didn't pay too much attention on that and just scanned around the room and soon found the place where Vornek and Quinn could be seen waving at him.

"You're finally here, Officer..." Quinn said immediately standing up and giving him a salute but Zeras only snorted coldly as he sat down and grabbed the juice box belonging to Quinn before gulping all the contents down.

"Ah, so invigorating..." Zeras said with a satisfied expression. The last thing he drank was the inky water of the malevolent sea making this juice look like the purest of all liquids.

"Hey man, what the hell..." Quinn said as she hurriedly snatched back his fruit juice.

"It's not hell, it's Heck. For you disturbing me so much and not letting have the much desired rest..."

"You really are very strange. When everybody is prophesizing you'll lose your dorm room and your rapidly spiking reputation would come crashing down in this event.

You're actually sleeping comfortably in your room..." Vornek raising an eyebrow as he looked at Zeras with a weird expression.

"Well, nervousness gets you no where... Anyway you look kinda different you two, you both radiate a different aura..." Zeras said raising an eyebrow as he noticed the duo really looked stronger than they were before especially Vornek who seemed to have become even muscular in his human form while Quinn seemed to be like a pumped automatic bomb ready to explode

"Well, we are now at the Meteor rank stage..." Quinn said revealing the bang that made Zeras spit out the fruit juice he was drinking.

"COUGH, COUGH... You're at the Meteor rank stage already, WOW, you two must be the strongest right now in the entire New cadets..." Zeras said confidently but all he got was a raised eyebrow from Vornek while Quinn laughed out loud in mockery.

"You're wrong, there are about 5 more people who are already at the Meteor rank stage..." Vornek said as blank as ever.

"Anyway you're looking strange too. What's up with the eye? Giving me chills..." Quinn said with a raised eyebrow.

"Tch, its nothing. Anyway what's the blabber all about. They say I would soon be losing my Dorm room. But with you being the second, I don't think that's possible right or are you also vying for the first rank?" Zeras asked slightly confused.

He was well aware Quinn wasn't really interested in these rankings stuff and since he's the second on the rankings, then it would be almost impossible for anyone to challenge him.

"Of course I don't care about the ranking. Why would I want to change my dorm room. But the event rule is different this time. According to the info I could gather. Anyone in the top ten can challenge you for your dorm room without necessarily having to first challenge me.

Besides, you have a lot of enemy this time...." Quinn said.

"Firstly, you're the first on the New Cadets Rankings. Secondly, Your position was suddenly improved and you're now a specialist rank. Majority of the cadets are now calling you 'Higher-ups favorite.' If they managed to defeat you, then all the fame is pretty theirs and they would soon get noticed by the higher-ups too..." Vornek said

"In short terms, everyone wants to use you as a stepping stone..." Quinn concluded as Zera's eyebrows furrowed before suddenly bursting into laughter.

Chapter 127 Tough Foes

"What's so funny??" Quinn asked with an eyebrow as Zeras finally got a hold of himself.

"Well, it's just you guys looked genuinely worried about me losing. Hey Quinn, don't you even have the slightest confidence in me?" Zeras said with a downcast expression.

"Well, I've seen the majority of the battles you've fought in the EIA, and that's only two. The first was when you fought with Aildris in the Combat Class and you were evenly matched, with Aildris having the clear upper hand, although I feel you have more up your sleeves too.

The second was In the VR and it looked more like a sneak attack. Anyway, you're covered in mist. No one knows your full strength. I still don't know your genetic ability even now. All you have revealed is your crazy strength..." Zeras said, confusion evident in his eyes.

"You don't look like a strength genetic ability awakener..." Vornek said extremely sure of his words.

"Why? Because I'm not as burly as you?" Zeras asked him with a raised eyebrow

"That's one point..."

"Hmph, but at least you've seen my worst. Based on what you've seen, tell me my percent chance of winning..." Zeras said to Quinn.

"Well, based on what you've revealed so far. Your chance of being able to still keep your first rankings is less than 10%."

"What the??" Zeras almost stood up and gave a good punch to his face.

"I know what I'm saying. Look, just as I told you. There are about five more people who have already broken through to the Meteor rank stage. You have to know if the three of us are at the Peak Star rank stage and I'm so weak that any of you can defeat me in three moves.

Once I reach the Meteor rank stage, I'll be able to easily defeat the two of you at the same time in a single move.

That's the terror of advancing into the Meteor rank stage. It's just too far above the level of Star rank..." Quinn said shaking his head at Zera's ignorance.

"Besides, at the Star rank, you only have a single genetic ability. But once you reach the Meteor rank, you'll have another one which will never be equal in power but even more powerful than your first genetic ability..." Vornek interjected swallowing a gigantic full-sized shawl in his mouth in a single gulp, something that would have taken Zeras ten gulps to finish.

"That's also true. Right now, no matter how heaven-defying you are. While I do believe you should be able to handle a weak Early Meteor rank stage, I don't think you're any worthy opponent for the Five Meteor Rank Stage that I'm sure will be fighting in the event..." Quinn said in conclusion.

"Um. You guys have a point. Meteor rank stage experts are horrific..." Zeras said giving an approving nod when suddenly his eyes shone brightly.

"Anyway, who are the other fives that broke through to the Meteor rank stage..." Zeras asked curiously. He was truly interested in those who broke through to the Meteor rank stage very early.

He knew the majority of the second years were also in the Meteor rank stage and some are still even in the Peak Star rank stage. Seeing some of the first years already broke through in less than three months was surprising.

"Hmm, let me see. The first is a person you're familiar with. Aildris Titanic. The Diamond guy you fought the last time." Quinn said.

"Oh him?" "Yeah. You know he never revealed his full strength when the two of you fought the last time..." Quinn said as Zeras nodded his head.

"The match was called off when he almost revealed that genetic ability of his..." Zeras said remembering the strange blue lines that appeared on Aildris's fist and Increased his might but he never got to use it before the spar git called off.

"That genetic ability was his first genetic ability and everyone had no doubt you would have lost had the match not been called off then.

Now that he had broken through to the Meteor rank stage, he would have another genetic ability that was more powerful than the one he showed. Do you understand why I said you have almost no chance of winning against him..."

"Another genetic ability more powerful than what he formerly showed? Then the fight would be even harder..." Zeras nodded.

"Judging by his attitude, I'm 90% sure he would challenge you. Diamond race experts are battle maniacs in the first place and he would want a clean win this time..."

"I've heard of Jim BurlyRock also broke through recently..." Vornek said his eyes creased together In a frown.

"Jim BurlyRock???" Zeras asked raising an eyebrow.

"Yes. Jim BurlyRock, ranked 8th on the rankings..." Quinn said.

"Oh? Is he strong?" Zeras asked confused.

"You bet. He's a Titan after all. You've probably never seen a real transformed Titan before Zeras have you?" Quinn asked him curiously.

"Nope..." Zeras said uncaringly.

"Tch, dumb and ignorant champ. Then out of my infinite benevolence, I'll let you on some top secret information about them..." Quinn said his expression suddenly changing to that of a wise professor.

"The Titan race is one of the strongest races in the galaxy. Completely no difference between them and humans in physiology, but in a blink, they can suddenly grow rapidly and reach 10 meters from their normal 2 meters size..."

PUUUUUUUUHHHHH

Zeras spat out the drink in his mouth as he coughed repeatedly.

"10 meters!! Are you joking?" Zeras said, chuckling to himself in disbelief but looking at Vornek's eyes that were damn plain, his smile immediately receded.

"Wait you're not joking? There's one of us here that can suddenly grow to ten meters?" Zeras asked shocked looking around the cafeteria.

"Yes! The power of the Titan race is very simple. Brute strength. They are one of the kings when it comes to pure brute strength..." Quinn said amazement in his eyes but they immediately faded away when he felt the floor beneath him suddenly vibrate intensely.

"Forever below us dragons..." Vornek said his golden snake-like eyes looking dead straight at Quinn whose smile of amazement at Titans quickly receded from his face.

"Of course, they don't come close to dragons..." Quinn said as he felt the intense vibration beneath him slowly reduce.

Vornek snorted coldly before continuing to eat.

"What? Is there a conflict between Dragons and Titans?" Zeras said as he also noticed the exchange.

"Well, the Titans have always claimed they're the king of brute strength. But everyone knows it's the dragon that is king, so it had always sparked an argument with the Titans ego rising every day..." Quinn said.

"Then why don't the Dragons just come out and show who the boss is?" Zeras asked confused.

"You know Dragons are always in slumber the majority of the years. They simply ignored them..." Quinn said.

"Tch, does a lion waste time replying to an ant?" Vornek said in disdain.

"Anyway, Jim BurlyRock is a Titan, and believe me he's very strong too. Since he's at the Meteor rank stage, his transformation should be around seven meters, which could probably make him flatten an entire house with a single smack.

I'm sure he'll be coming to flatten you..." Quinn said with an expectant smirk.

"No. I think he'll come for Vornek instead. To prove racial ability..." Zeras said after thinking about it carefully.

"Come for me??.." Vornek asked raising an eyebrow.

"Hahahahahah...." Quinn immediately erupted in a feat of laughter.

"Hahahahahah...." Quinn immediately erupted in a feat of laughter.

"He won't come for Vornek. He'll come for you, trust me..." Quinn said causing Zeras to raise an eyebrow as he looked at the dragon boy in front of him.

'Seems there's more to Vornek than I thought'

Chapter 128 Upgrading Genetic Abilities

"The third person you should be wary of is Zumba Mumba. I heard you guys once met before..." Quinn suddenly said his voice getting serious.

"Oh, is it that guy with a strange hat?" Zeras said quickly remembering him due to his strange name.

"Yes, he's a Joker race expert and he's also powerful. If you've encountered a Joker race expert before, you'll know they are not direct battle combatants but they have very strange art and can defeat a powerful warrior in the blink of an eye and they won't even move a single muscle..." Quinn said, amazement in his eyes.

"They use tricks, the one with a mentality of using smarts instead of brawns. Instead of learning combat techniques, they spend their time delving into ancient secrets and deciphering lost arts..." Vornek said, his eyes looking into the distance as if remembering something.

"And I heard Zumba is actually a genius even among his race and he also recently broke through to the Meteor rank stage. Even I am not so sure I can take him on..." Quinn said seriously as Zeras raised an eyebrow.

When he met the kid, he didn't even glance at him but it seemed he was more powerful than he looked, to make the overconfident Quinn doubt himself.

"The fourth person is actually strange. His name is Eliot Norgodomev. He's not even among the top 200, yet he already broke through to the Meteor rank stage, shocking everyone senseless.

As for how powerful he is, no one knows, just that his first genetic ability is a long white katana." Zeras said as Vornek looked at him raising an eyebrow. He didn't know anything about Eliot.

"The last person is someone you know very well."

"Who?"

"Your girlfriend."

"I don't have a girlfriend."

"Your dream girlfriend."

"What's that?" Zeras raised his eyebrows as he looked at Quinn who had a certain sick smile on his face.

"It's Gaia, Gaia Shiron. She's now a Meteor rank stage expert..." "Wow..." Zeras said his mouth forming an O shape.

"It's not surprising at all. That girl is a training maniac after all..." Quinn said winking at him as an evil understanding smile appeared on his face.

"You're very dirty-minded..." Zeras said as he ignored him.

"So how do you think you'll do..." Vornek said from the side, already finishing the gigantic plate of food.

"Hmph, what if I told you guys I've broken through to the Meteor rank stage too," Zeras said with a smile.

"You've not..." Vornek said very surely.

"Well, Meteor rank stage experts can easily identify themselves as a type of attunement that will occur immediately on sighting each other. As for you, you radiate a lesser signal..." Quinn said as Zeras raised an eyebrow.

He never knew something like that was possible. It seems everyone will be aware of each other's cultivation stage upon arriving at the Meteor rank stage, unlike the Star rank stage.

"Meteor rank stage huh? You all don't worry, even if I lost my dorm room, I can still come live in you guys' dorm room right..." "I don't have a problem with that. Just know you'll be sleeping on the floor as I prefer to sleep in my dragon form which takes all the space in the bed." Vornek said unperturbed.

"Mine is free, but with a fee of course..." Quinn said winking at him.

"Damn you both. I'll shock all of your ass tomorrow." Zeras said snorting coldly. Losing his dorm room, his comfy bed and that heavenly made Mana cultivation room that was one of the main reasons for the rapid growth of his cultivation.

Not a chance!!!

"That's good. I heard some of the Second years will be watching and even the Instructors. The event is a pretty big one after all."

"So you must do well..." Vornek butted in his golden eyes looking into Zera's.

"Of course I will. How can the friend of a dragon and one from the Nine families be weak..." Zeras said puffing his chest.

"Even if I'm to run across the both of you. I'll show no mercy and simply wipe you both around the battle stage..." Zeras said with pride.

"Tch, you'll have to catch me first to do that..." Quinn said with disdain.

"You have no idea how big I am..." Vornek said with a plain look as the trio moved out of the cafeteria, laughter and chuckle ringing out.

Unbeknownst to the trio, a figure sat down at the far end of the cafeteria, the farthest table from them as he watched them leave the Cafeteria.

A pack of cards was wriggling around his fingers with a speed and control that can only be described as supernatural.

"How interesting..." A smile appeared on his face which was faced down and his upper face was covered by the dark hat he was putting on.

The figure slowly raised his hands upwards as he raised the watch in his hands upwards where a notification and a notification could be seen.

<Bring one of his soul fragments to me tomorrow night after the event...>

-- -- --

Zeras arrived in front of his dorm room as he entered into it heading for his bedroom.

Landing on the bouncy bed, Zeras immediately called out the system.

It was time to level up his ability.

[Genetic Skills]

>>Bio-morph- Level 2

[Living And Non-living Morphing]

{Ability to change Host's Bio-morph to include non-living physiology}

>>Chaos Devouring- Level 2

{Host can absorb the life-essence of those either killed by the host or not to increase his energy}

[Absolute Chaotic Existence Skills]

>>Eyes Of Chaos: The host can view the true chaotic state of reality.

>>Hollow Domain: Ability to create a domain where the Host is Supreme.

[Ability Upgrade Card: +3]

"Level up Hollow Domain" Zeras ordered, he didn't know what the ability even did but he was sure it would be pretty cool.

[Error, Your Authority skills can not be upgraded, they can only be improved with a greater fusion of the Chaos Devourer gene]

"Oh? " Zeras muttered slightly surprised but it kinda made sense when he thought about it, he only obtained them in the first place due to the fusion so they should naturally increase with more future fusion.

"Level up Absolute Morph Gene twice, and level up Dash..."

[Congratulations Dash has been upgraded.]

>>Dash: Increases your speed to five times your normal speed on getting activated.

[Congratulations your Absolute Morph Gene has been upgraded twice.]

[Congratulations, Your Absolute Morph Gene is now a C-grade genetic ability.]

[The Comprehension of Your Genetic Ability Increases...]

[You have achieved Alternate Control of Bio-morph]

[There are no limitations to the part of your body you can now transform to living or non-living physiology]

His speed was his main weapon and his Absolute Morph Gene was his beloved human genome. Those two were some of the most liked abilities he ever possessed.

A satisfied smile appeared on his face looking at all his genetic abilities before switching off the system and going to sleep.

Tomorrow would be a great day. A day the EIA would witness the power of the First of the New Cadets rankings, and also a day he'll finally be able to check the limit of his abilities if they had one in the first place.

Chapter 129 Shocking Everyone

"DRIIIIIIIING"

"DRIIIIIIIING"

The sound of an alarm ringing out loudly echoed throughout the bedroom where a young man with strange white hair could be seen. Spittle stained the bedsheet emerging from the side of his mouth while a stupid satisfied smile laid his face.

-- -- --

A white-skinned young man sat inside a bathtub which revealed small bursts of steam occasionally.

Around him were three half-naked ladies with a body that would make the most disciplined of ancient monks swallow a spittle due to temptation.

Two of them were behind him, one gently kneading his back muscles, and one massaging his bones extremely softly, while in front of him was the third lady who had a plate filled with strawberries in her right hand with a juice box in the other hands.

"Eat just one more bite young master..." The melodic voice of the lady echoed out to him as the boy opened his big mouth and took in the strawberry before sucking a straw of juice and laying back in the tub with a satisfied expression.

"How are you feeling young master?" The lady behind him asked as she gently kneaded his back muscles.

"Heavenly, simply heavenly..." The boy said with a satisfied smile.

"Young master, if this goes on, you might end up missing the event..."

"Ahha, what event? You all forget it. Don't worry at all..."

"But young master, you might lose your first ranking position..."

"Don't worry. Let the fool take it. It doesn't matter..."

"Young master, can I lean in closer..." One of the ladies behind said with smiling lustfully.

"Of course..." The boy's hand wrapped around her waist feeling the softness when suddenly he felt a stinging pain on his wrist.

"What the?" The young man quickly turned to look at the lady but what he saw was a dark-colored anaconda snake with the head clamping on his wrist.

He reflexively jumped backward as his head slammed on the bathtub.

The gigantic anaconda slithered with speed toward him as the boy screamed out in fear..

.

AHHHHHH

Zeras jumped up from his bed in shock as he screamed out...

"Get it away, Damn snake..." "Uh?". Zeras looked around the room as he checked his wrist and saw the crazily vibrating watch.

Looking at the screen, a notification could be seen...

"Tch, damn EIA. Talk about bad timing..." Zeras said with a snort as he reluctantly stood up from the bed after wiping off his spittle before heading towards the bathroom.

-- -- --

The New Cadets rankings battle is very popular and incredibly important in the EIA training base even among the higher EIA Cadets and instructors.

For the New Cadets, it's a battle for a better and more comfortable setting, and increased Mana, which will lead to faster cultivation speed and also the acquisition of points that can be used for the exchange of cultivation manuals.

But for the EIA officials, it is to discover hidden Potentials and identify those who should be properly groomed.

The EIA is an organization and therefore works according to the primeval rules.

Only those with great potential are worthy of nurturing and should be invested in both cultivation-wise and time-wise. These types of people are what made the EIA stand as the unchallenged number one Institute in the Awakeners world. To find these talents, the Event was one of the major search tools.

That was why almost all of the Instructors were currently present around the Arena while some second years could even be seen mixing in with the officials.

The New Cadets Arena was a circular battle stage with thousands of seats around the place that ascended higher and higher up like stairs.

On the floor of the arena, five gigantic battle stages were present, completely visible from every part of the Arena.

The Arena seats were a total of nine steps ascending into the air and farther up the battle stage.

The first two rows were the place where the Instructors and EIA Handlers sat, specifically for those responsible for organizing the event.

The third row only contained 10 seats, made for those who are currently top ten on the rankings while a seat was placed right in front of the remaining nine. A strange setting made specially by the EIA themselves.

The 4th seat was for the remaining top 90, the 5th seat was a total of 100, and for the remaining 100 that made up the top 200. The 6th to 8th was for the unranked remaining New Cadets.

As for the 9th row of seats, it was the place where the second years sat, at the utmost highest row of the arena.

In just 20 minutes, the arena was already filled to the brim with New Cadets, the top ten on the rankings taking the favorite spot and earning the jealous gaze of those that ranked below.

But even though it was just two more minutes before the event officially began, a single seat was still present, extremely glaring in the Arena as it was the area of those in the top ten and most especially of the one ranked first.

The Arena was extremely quiet as they all waited curiously wondering why the center of attention wasn't even here yet, while Quinn who sat down couldn't help cursing beneath his breath as he tapped on his watch continuously sending thousands of notifications.

"Tch, stupid idiot. Coming late at this type of event. He'll create a bad image to all the EIA officials and Instructors." "I know we're all expectant for the event to begin but rest assured it will begin soon in just a minute more..." One of the EIA officials said to the entire group as he tried nullifying the slight irritation and heaviness that was present in the air.

Just as the official announced, the Arena gates suddenly creaked open as a young man dressed in an EIA uniform appeared, drawing the attention of every living soul that was present.

Just as the official announced, the Arena gates suddenly creaked open as a young man dressed in an EIA uniform appeared, drawing the attention of every living soul that was present.

He stood at a height of 1.9 meters, a very handsome face, perhaps too handsome for a boy while his dark hair gently danced to the wind, part of it covering the left part of his eyes revealing only his piercing right blue eyes.

The boy's gaze scanned through the entire Arena noticing the Officials at the front of the seat and the empty seat In front of the top ten.

His gaze immediately narrow as he walked towards the seat not even looking at the other cadets in the remaining rows and the second years sitting in the last row; he walked forward, every step of his ringing clearly through the entire arena.

But although he was stared by by more than 800 eyes, his footsteps were gentle and not at all frantic or hurried as he climbed up calmly up the stairs arriving at the front of the top ten before taking his rightful place at the front of all top ten.

The young man raised his watch as he looked at it before saying a word that made all the EIA officials almost puke out blood.

"Phew, still 30 seconds left. I guess I still made it..."

Chapter 130 The Events Begins

SHOCK!!!

Everyone, the officers, the second years, and the Instructors looked at Zeras in shock as they just couldn't believe how shameless he was.

Coming at the last thirty seconds before the events begin and saying you made it. How shameless.

But to be honest, didn't he?

"Welcome everyone to the New Cadet's Rankings Battle Event." One of the Event Handlers, a tall man with ruby-colored eyes and long red hair said, his eyes scanning through the arena.

"As you might have already known, the New Cadets Rankings as its name suggests are only for the new Cadets and it is organized to ensure only the best and most qualified New Cadets take the best treatment.

The total number of New Cadets for this year is a total of 400 which also qualifies for a total of 400 dorm rooms.

The past 200 dorm rooms, belonging to New the lowest New cadets contain only 20% Mana concentration.

Those in the top 200 rankings possess higher Mana concentration, with the lower top 100 possessing 50% Mana Concentration. While the upper top 90 possess 70% Mana Concentration. Those of the top ten possess 80% Mana Concentration while the number one cadets had access to 100% Mana Concentration.

Those in the top 200 rankings possess higher Mana concentration, with the lower top 100 possessing 50% Mana Concentration. While the upper top 90 possess 70% Mana Concentration. Those of the top ten possess 80% Mana Concentration while the number one cadets had access to 100% Mana Concentration.

The official said his eye looking at Zeras causing most of the New Cadets to look towards him but Zeras only had a deadpan expression on his face.

"The way the rankings are chosen in the first place is through the Dimensional Tower which isn't necessarily fair as some participants can be given a trial in the area where they are the weakest.

This had allowed some people to enjoy benefits which they are unworthy of..." The official said drawing the nod of the audience.

It was true the Dimensional Tower was truly unpredictable. The Trials were different and tested different areas. Those who failed the trial don't necessarily mean they're any weaker than those who passed. Only that they have low talents.

"That was why this Event was set up. Here, higher benefits will be given mainly due to the clear combat and reasoning ability of each of the participants. There would be no cheating or unpredictability, and only the strong would survive.

Of course, there are other benefits apart from just Mana Concentration as if you display exceptional combat abilities and manage to catch the eye of one of the Instructors, then you'll gain even more benefits such as having a personal expert put you through on your journey of cultivation which would perhaps be more than whatever benefit you'll ever obtain.

Therefore without much ado, The New Cadets Rankings Battles will now begin..." The clear voice of the EIA official rang out powerfully through the Arena as all the participants felt their hearts pounding in anticipation while some just sat completely emotionless as if the battle had nothing to do with them.

"The Rules of the Events..." Officer 2 began as he opened a scroll and began reading.

The first explanation is the difference between Win And Lose.

Firstly, ways to win. The first meaning of win, completely knocking your opponents out. That's the major way of winning in this event.

The second way is for your opponent to call off the match by jumping out of the battle stage. If they are still on the battle stage, then a winner has yet to be found and the battle can keep going..."

'How nice of you...'Zeras thought to himself on hearing the second way but his expression was just completely plain. He knew there was more than one way to kill somebody and ensure they didn't even move a single step.

Having to jump out of the battle ring to surrender just made the battle ten times more brutal.

"The third way is for one of the Officials to stop the battle and declare a winner. Please note, the Officials' decisions are final, and once told to stop, anyone attacking after that means an automatic loss..."Official 2 warned seriously, his words ringing clearly through the entire arena and into the ears of the Cadets.

Now with the Winning explained, Next is losing, You can only lose by:

One, getting knocked out. Two, Exiting the battle stage in any form. Three, Disobeying the Officials, an automatic failure..." The stout officer read the rules, explaining them to be as clear as day.

"With the rules clearly explained. Now on a side note, you can all go completely out in this battle and fight with everything you've got.

Even completely breaking the opponent's hand bone is allowed as we have a healing genetic Ability User here who can instantly cure all battle defects, so feel free to go wild..." Handler 3 said causing some cadets to smile sinisterly within them.

"Finally, you don't need to worry about your opponent dying. Handler 5 can quickly identify an attack that will be beyond lethal and would be able to get you out of the way before you can halfway blink your eyes..." The Handler said as he looked at one of the officials at the sides lines who had his eyes closed and both hands at the back of his head but lazily opened them looking at the Handler who called his name and at the New cadets before closing his eyes once again, muttering beneath his breath:

"Why is the world so slow?"

"With all that said, Let the Preliminaries begin.

In the Preliminaries, a total of 300 of you will be fighting, excluding only those in the top 100.

The rules are simple, Last Long...

The last person to fall will now be a new rank 101, the person to fall before that will be 102, and so on..." The cadets immediately raised an eyebrow upon hearing that as a sinister smile appeared on the Handler's face.

"Yes as the smart one among you can already guess, this is a royal rumble. A royal rumble of time!!!

Rank 101 to rank 200 will then be able to challenge the top 100 on the rankings...

Without further ado, let's begin immediately...

The Handler suddenly pressed some buttons on his watch as the separate battle stages suddenly merged becoming a single gigantic battle stage that extended into the distance.

One of the Handlers looked towards the New Cadets as his eyes suddenly flared like light bulbs causing almost all the cadets to be drawn to it and the next second, he clapped.

PAAAAAAAAAAAAH"

300 Cadets immediately disappeared from where they stood in that split second and the next they were in the battle stage.

"What control of Spatial Manipulation.." Quinn almost screamed out in shock as the majority of the Cadets were also genuinely shocked by the Handler's ability.

Transporting 300 people in a split second with a single clap.

"3...2...1. Go. Begin!!!

The New Cadets were still shocked speechless by the suddenness as they all just stood dumbly on the battle stage staring at each other.

Zeras smirked mockingly before properly reclining on the chair as he prepared himself for a great show.

"Hey, what the hell man?" The shocked and shrill scream of a male cadet suddenly echoed as Zeras watched him flying out of the battle stage and getting disqualified immediately.

"Idiot, it's a battle royale, not a staring contest. The one who acts first wins..."

Those words were like bombs causing the New Cadets to immediately explode.

"ROOOOOOOOOOOOOOAR"

"BOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOM"

"YOU!!! THAT'S CHEATING"

"Hey, what are you doing...."

"FALL, FALL, FALLLLLLLLL"