

Chaos Devourer System

#Chapter 171 Encroaching Waves - Read Chaos Devourer System Chapter 171 Encroaching Waves

Chapter 171 Encroaching Waves

"Oh? And what side is that..." Instructor Moneca asked curiously as Zeras turned back giving a side glance, before winking at her.

"Honestly, if I were you. I wouldn't be worrying so much about me. It is the Nine Families genius I'll be worried about..."

"Whatever. Just make sure you don't do anything stupid. And also be very careful and watch out for the danger Within the Ruins themselves. While there has been no record of anyone dying, it is been a hundred years since then, who knows what will happen, this time..."

"That's a good point..."

"Ok, then. See you in five days from now..." Instructor Moneca said as she headed out of the secret hall, Zeras following behind her.

-- -- --

"Take care Instructor Moneca. It won't make me happy seeing those large eyebags..." Zeras said as the door shut closed before Instructor Moneca could say anything more.

"It is so obvious?" Instructor Moneca muttered to herself rubbing her eyes before a small smile appeared on her face as she moved away from the place.

-- -- --

Zeras took a deep breath in, his formerly calm demeanor breaking away as his brows furrowed together in slight worry.

Just who did he offend that they placed such a bounty on his head?

500,000 Star coins!!

Even he was tempted!

He was already well aware of the people that'll be coming for his head but he knew that wouldn't do anything. This would require him to get to the root of the problem and cut it off.

"The Celestial Titans Cultivation Ruins..." Zeras muttered under his breath.

This was the greatest source of power of the Nine families and he'll be heading there in just five days from now, with the greatest genius of earth.

This was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to rewrite his fate and grow even closer to achieving his goals.

Surely he was going to go all out this time without holding back a single thing.

"Then five more days it is..." Putting the issue at the back of his mind, his hands reached out from a book on the shelves as he continued reading.

He should be done with everything in less than five days, coincidentally when the ruins will also open.

-- -- --

The current in the world was slowly blowing, most especially in the Nine families as they went all out, cultivating their geniuses to the best of their abilities.

Because they're well aware of a hidden undercurrent. This Celestial Titans Ruins cultivation is not a simple expedition. No! it was the flame that would light the explosives, which would resound throughout the entire Limitless galaxy.

-- -- --

In a broken part of the void, with different wrap-in spaces that appeared here and there...

A young man sat cross-legged at the center of this space, his hands placed on his lap while on his left hand was a blindfold.

His silver hair blew behind as if they had transcended the limit of gravity.

The void was quiet and the young man's eyes were closed in deep meditation.

BADUMP

The sound of a heartbeat

BOOM

Suddenly a deep and incomprehensible aura bloomed out of the young man's body as his heart pounded loudly within his chest, the sound reverberating through the entire void.

BOOM

Another wave of aura undulated powerfully from his body causing a circular shockwave that blasted through the entire space.

The young man's eyes snapped open and the entire void was illuminated with a blue light that reached the farthest of the entire space.

Slowly unfurling from his cross-legged position, stale white air was breathed out of his mouth and he clasped his palms together into a fist feeling the beastly strength contained beneath that pale white skin.

"Finally, The third level of Space Principle..." He muttered Within the void causing a thousand echoes to ring out...

-- -- --

In The Highest Structure Present In The EIA Base...

"So they requested for his temporary suspension..." The voice rang out in the small hall where a group of five old men sat, dressed in EIA uniform.

"It is probably for the Celestial Titans Cultivation Ruins..." One of the higher-ups voiced his opinion.

"Well, the business of the Nine families had nothing to do with the EIA. If all they want is a template suspension, then give them what they want..." Another official said.

"Hmm, don't you think the Nine families are really going all out for this Celestial Titans Cultivation Ruins? I heard all their geniuses are in closed-door training..."

"It's truly a bit strange. I'm sure another deadly wave not smaller than the one in the past would once again blow once the Celestial Titans Cultivation Ruins passes..." Another higher-up said, a female when suddenly she turned her head to the green-haired man in their midst.

"Hey Shiron, will that granddaughter of yours be joining on this expedition too?" She asked looking at the old man who had his eyes closed but slowly opened them on hearing the call.

"No, she won't. It's simply not worth it..." Commander Shiron said.

"Oh," The female higher-ups replied.

"If the Nine families are doing all they can to improve their geniuses ability. What about the EIA? Shouldn't we enrich the person who would be representing us..." A dark-haired man whose muscles were clearly defined even though he was in the large EIA uniform suddenly brought up as the others gave a thoughtful expression.

"That's true. We're already lacking behind the Nine families by a single step. To stop the steps from widening, perhaps it's also time to take this event seriously..."

-- -- --

In the Celestria Family Grounds...

The hall was silent, four elders sitting below while at the utmost front was a dais where a throne sparkling with lightning could be seen creating sounds that chilled the soul and frightened the air.

The place suddenly shook as the area of the throne morphed and In the blink of an eye, a person could be seen sitting on it, the sound of crackling lightning present in the room becoming louder.

"We welcome the Patriarch..." The voice of the door elders rang out.

"I heard you have important news for me..." The thick voice boomed out rattling the walls and the ground.

One of the elders suddenly extended his hands as a rectangular technological tool appeared and floated towards the patriarch.

Eyes narrowed looking at the picture on the image before suddenly widening.

"Zeras Celestria? Hmmm, how familiar. Killing two birds with one stone huh?" The patriarch said as the device in front of him exploded into pieces, the remains already drifting into the air before they even touched the ground.

"This meeting is over. Now, call out Mason and Theo for me..." The patriarch's voice boomed out as the elders stood up giving a bow before they all disappeared into thin air at the same time, leaving only sparkles of lightning present where they formerly stood.

"Zeras Celestria. Who would have thought that alien boy was still alive? Well, time for him to leave..." The Patriarch's voice rang out, the sound of thunder in the room reaching a deafening level.

The door to the hall opened, and in the next split second, two young men kneeled in front of the throne.

"You summoned us, patriarch..."

"Well, I have a small assignment for you..."

"Consider it done, patriarch..."

Chaos Devourer System #Chapter 172 The Day Finally Arrives - Read Chaos Devourer System Chapter 172 The Day Finally Arrives

Chapter 172 The Day Finally Arrives

A loud snore rang out in the room, where a white-haired young man could be seen sleeping on the sofa, with hundreds of books covering the entire seat he was on while on the table and the ground, the book reached a thousand.

DRIIIIIIING

DRIIIIIIING

DRIIIIIIING

The watch on his arm vibrated intensely as Zeras jumped up from his sofa landing on the ground with a thud.

"Ouch, damn alarm..." Zeras muttered under his breath as he balanced himself once again on the comfy seat when suddenly his eyes widened as he checked the content of the notification on his watch.

[System Noticafation]

[You're to arrive at the EIA port in the next hour for the Celestial Titans Cultivation Ruins expedition]

"What? So fast!!!" Zeras screamed out in shock as he jumped up from bed, bolting towards the bathroom with his fastest speed.

-- -- --

30 minutes later...

A figure could be seen standing in front of the mirror.

With neatly arranged and perfectly ironed uniform on his perfectly shaped body, a serious expression held on his feminine white face, and his handsome white hair blowing gently around his head.

"Tsk, Tsk, even I am jealous of such perfection..." Zeras muttered as he entered back into the living space.

Looking around at the perfectly arranged room with rows and rows of shelves containing millions of books with the word completed written at the top of each of the shelves.

A smile appeared on Zeras' face as he breathed out with a satisfied and longing expression on his face.

This had been his new home for the last 45 days...

"Goodbye..." Zeras said snapping the door shut as he headed out to the lab but raised an eyebrow at the picture in front of him.

It was a long table dining table where, four people could be seen, with hundreds of food plates in front of them.

"Well, if it isn't the sleepy-head genius..." Egon said looking at the boy in front of him who had a cursory glance on him as he looked at all of them.

It was a long table dining table where, four people could be seen, with hundreds of food plates in front of them.

"Well, if it isn't the sleepy-head genius..." Egon said looking at the boy in front of him who had a cursory glance on him as he looked at all of them.

"Will you just stand there, all day? I'm starving you know..." Annalise said as Zeras slowly moved towards the seat.

"So what's the occasion?" Zeras asked curiously as he dug into the food.

"Well, it's for your departure. It'll take an entire week before you return you know. Honestly, I can't fathom how I'll live my entire life for an entire week without you..." Aurelia said as Zera's face turned pink from the embarrassment.

"Here..." Instructor Moneca said as she passed Zeras three strange devices shaped like small circular buttons.

"Oh, what is this, A protection artifact?" Zeras asked looking at the buttons curiously, he could see the material it was made of and the slight energy emanating from deep within.

"Yes. It can create a dome of energy that can withstand an entire full-powered attack of a Peak Meteor rank stage expert. It should give you some moment to think about your next move in a dangerous situation." Instructor Moneca explained.

"Wow. Thank you Instructor Moneca..." Zeras said with a smile.

"Don't thank me. It was Annalise that made it..." Instructor Moneca replied as Zera turned to look at the figure opposite him in shock. Among the group, Annalise was the most wicked of them all, but never in his wildest imagination would he ever think that she'd give him a protective artifact.

"I..."

"Shut it... It is only a prototype..." Annalise said before he could say another word.

"I also have a small something for my brother..." Aurelia said as she suddenly brought out a small glass bottle in the shape of a perfume spray.

"Hmm, Arsenic-miodide and Sodium... Wait is that the simdial potion you're talking about? You finally made it" Zeras screamed out in shock.

"Yeah, thanks to your help. So I thought you should be one of the first people to make use of it. Actually Zeras, the simdial potion is an invisibility potion. Just spray it all over and you'll disappear into thin air. It wears off after 2 minutes though. But it is still a great time and you can apply it thrice before its effects are off..." Aurelia explained as a smile broke out on Zera's face.

"Thank you, Sister Aurelia..."

"It's what all sisters do...."

"Here I made a little something too for my apprentice..." Egon said as he brought a simple round piece of equipment, in the shape of a compass.

"This is a life tracker, able to detect all senses of life no matter how hidden in a 2 km radius. It will be incredibly important if you ever find yourself in a dangerous environment filled with unknowns..." Egon said as Zeras collected the small compass before dipping it in his pockets.

"Hey Egon, spit it out..." Instructor Moneca said to the gooey alien.

"Ok, ok, fine. Ahh, my precious artifact." Evan said almost at the point of tears.

"Here, take it Zeras..." Egon said giving him an egg-shaped object but Zeras felt the covering which was even more denser than iron.

"Um, and what does this do?" Zeras asked curiously knocking on the egg in his palms.

"Just know it is my tenth most loved artifact on my treasure list. As for the use, find out yourself..." Evan said grudgingly.

DRIIIIIIIING

The vibration suddenly rang out as his watch vibrated intensely and Zeras looked at the notification that made him jump from his seat.

"Oops, less than ten minutes more. I have to go guys. Thank you for the gifts honestly. Now that I think of it, it is the first time I've been gifted so many things at once..."

"Goodbye Zeras and don't die..." Instructor Moneca said as Zeras gave a reassuring nod before running towards the door.

"Hey, brother..." The feminine voice suddenly rang out as Zeras let go of the doorknob and turned backward where Aurelia was looking at him.

Zeras blinked his eyes and he felt himself being pulled into a soft bosom as he felt the tight hug once again.

"Don't worry Aunt Aurelia. I'll be back safely..." Zeras said as Aurelias slowly released him from her hold and Zeras gave one last look at the group before running off.

-- -- --

The gigantic spaceship with the emblem of the EIA could be seen in the far distance as Zeras ran as fast as he could soon appearing in front of it, where two EIA officials stood at the entrance of the footsteps.

"Zeras Celestria..." One of the officials voiced out to which Zeras gave a nod.

"Yes sir..."

The other official brought out a gun-like scanning machine as the blue waves of light passed by him from up to down before letting a single beep.

"You can go in..." Zeras gave a respectful bow to the Officials before climbing up the steps as he entered the spaceship arriving in a gigantic hall.

Five EIA officers sat at the top of the Dais, and Zeras remembered them to be the higher-ups who gave him the rewards in the first place.

"You're five seconds late, though your Instructor has pleaded for you..." One of the higher-ups said, a burly man, who Zeras remembered almost killed him the last time.

"I'm sorry officers..."

"Don't worry. We're just here to give you some notes about the Expedition and also your mission..."

"My mission?"

173 A Strange Mission

"My mission?" Zeras asked confused.

"Yes. But before that let's begin with a minor explanation of the Ruins..." One of the commanders said nudging Zeras to a sit, to which he gave a respectful bow before sitting.

"The Celestial Titans Cultivation Ruins is an unexplored cultivation area which according to reports should be an Ancestral ground of a certain ancient race..." Commander Leviron explained drawing a nod from Zeras to indicate he was following.

"But in the report, it was stated the place was clearly abandoned and deserted around a thousand years ago. All traces of the ancient race have disappeared and no information was learned about them, except that the name of the ancient race is..." Commander Leviron said looking at Zeras to pick up on the information and he truly did pick up as he finished the words.

"Celestial Titans..." Zeras said out loud but within he couldn't help but wonder of the meaning of Celestial in the name. Could it be like the so-called Celestial race, Gaia said she always dreamed about where coming for her.

"Yes. Although we still know nothing of who they truly are or why they abandoned the ruin, it is nonetheless a cultivation-friendly rune, infused with treasures that they would have thought of as grass and stone but to us humans, it is an otherworldly treasure that the entire world would overturn to obtain..." Commander Leviron said.

"The location of this ruins..." Commander Leviron said as he suddenly clapped causing a holographic image.

"This is where it is located at the most desolate area of the galaxy..."

Zera's eyes narrowed as he looked at the gigantic planet in front of him, with his eyes furrowed.

The strange thing about the planet was its completely golden color, it looked pretty small and it was as if a massive chunk of its part had been cleanly sliced in half making form the shape of a hemisphere.

"The Ruins itself is not on the planet, but actually a runic door at the centre of the planet itself that leads to the ruins, and that door only opens once in a hundred years.

Zeras, this is an incredible once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to witness the might of an ancient race with an estimated history of more than a million years. So definitely take good hold of this opportunity..." Commander Leviron said to which Zeras gave a nod.

Apart from being a cultivation ruin that can improve his strength, it was more of an opportunity for him to learn more, and complete a quest given to him by the System.

"With that said, let's talk about your mission details..."

"Actually, it's kinda very simple and it is an obligatory type of mission. Meaning you have a choice whether to complete it or not, the main purpose of the mission is to gather treasures..."

"Gather treasures?" Zeras asked as his watch suddenly beeped.

"We've learned of some special treasures that have been brought out of the ruins in past expeditions. If you can obtain those artifacts that have been sent to your watch, then expect great rewards from us.

And also if you obtain a mysterious artifact but you can feel the smell that states this is good stuff, then you can keep it and bring it to us, we will use the treasure analyzer to check the grade of the artifact and you'll earn extra rewards for that...

Remember, this is an expedition. You're completely free to use the treasure as you like and you can hoard it for yourself. None would blame you for that. It is obligatory..." Commander Leviron said as Zeras stood up from his seat and gave a respectful bow.

"With the name of the EIA before my words, I promised if I found something present on the list that was given to me or one I felt us exceedingly great, then I'd try my best to obtain it and complete the mission, so far it only strengthen the EIA more..." Zeras said drawing an approving nod from the officers.

"That's the spirit of a true EIA member. And also, we have a little something for you to accompany you on this mission..." Commander Leviron suddenly said nodding to one of the commanders at the side who brought out a small golden-coloured ring that slowly floated towards Zeras.

"This is a Techno-gamma grade spatial ring. It is a storage equipment, contained within, the space of a medium-sized room. Simply pour your mana into it to activate it and it becomes yours forever.

It is also very secure as it can only be opened on your death which will cause your Mana imprint to fade away. So far you're alive then you can forever forget about anyone stealing anything from it..." Commander Leviron said as the ring fell into his palm.

Zeras grabbed it and slowly inserted it into his left middle finger. A small amount of his mana was directed into it and he was amazed by what he saw in the next second.

"Thank you, Officers..."

"And here..." Commander Leviron said throwing towards him a strange green card.

"Oh..."

"That is a teleportation card. Crush it and you'll be immediately transported away from where you are and to a thousand kilometers away from your previous spot, although the spot won't be fixed. This card might just be a second life if used properly, so use it well, Zeras..."

"Thank you, officers..." Zeras gave a respectful bow as all the officers slowly stood up and moved towards the exit but Commander Leviron turned to look at him in the last second.

"Remember Zeras, your survival comes from before anything. Your death would not only be saddening but also a very great stain on the EIA's reputation. Do you understand..."

"Yes Sir..."

"Good, Sergeant Dolan will follow you on the mission. It's a total of 27 hours to get there even though the ship is moving at Mach 7 speed. So make sure to rest well and prepare your mental state.

Also, the duration of the event is only a week before you're transported back although there might be time differences in the ruin itself. Good luck and enjoy your expedition..." Commander Leviron said before finally exiting while the spaceship itself rumbled to life.

The AI voice immediately resonated throughout the entire hall

"Journey to The Celestial Titans Ruins will now begin.

Flight duration, 27 hours. Please sit down tight for the next minute as the spaceship takes off."

Zeras breathed out a sigh of relief as he wiped away the slight perspiration on his face.

He had no idea why, but whenever he stands in front of the higher-ups, he'll never be able to completely keep his calm. It was as a feeling they could completely see through him, something his very secretive self hated very much.

Strapping himself to the seat, he slowly felt the slight tumbling of the entire white hall before suddenly he felt like he weighed nothing as his body floated above the chair for an inch.

"Anti-gravity feature will now be employed..." The AI voice rang out as Zeras once again slammed his butt in the seat.

"Congratulations, we're now on our way to the Ruins. Enjoy the flight..."

Golden Tickets and Powerstones are greatly appreciated. Let's keep going guys, just a few more Powerstones from reaching the target. It will be two Extra chapters. Let's do this guys.

Supreme_IQ

Creator's Thought

174 A Spatial Ring

Zeras breathed out a sigh of relief on hearing the spaceship finally take off. The anticipation of exploring the remains of a celestial race and meeting with the so-called absolute genius of the Nine families made his heart pounding madly in his chest.

Surely, this event would definitely be a memory to remember for the future. But first:

Zeras slowly took off the small backpack from his back and poured the contents onto the floor.

Three barrier-type pieces of technology, an invisibility potion, a strange metallic egg-shaped object, and a compass-shaped scanner.

A smile appeared on Zeras's face looking at all the equipment. This was the first time something was gifted to him without him having to work hard for it. Although he did work hard during the lab training still he never anticipated it.

"Don't worry, I won't disappoint you all..." Zeras muttered under his breath as he slowly extended his left hand forward looking at the Spatial ring.

"A storage space, huh? Let's see how this works..." Zeras said placing one of the artifacts beside the ring, hoping it would appear in it but nothing happened even after waiting five seconds.

"Hmm, am I doing it wrong or is this ring defective?" Zeras wondered when suddenly his eyes brightened as a smile appeared on his face.

Holding the button in his hands, he enveloped it in his Mana and suddenly, the button disappeared from his hands and willed for it to enter the ring and

DEJAVU

The button disappeared.

"Wow..." Zeras screamed out in shock, surprise evident on his face, as he directed his Mana towards the ring.

Then it was like a gigantic space suddenly appeared directly in his head as Zeras looked at the fairly large space around 15 times bigger than his backpack and in the middle of this space was a circular button which was the same artifact that just disappeared from his hands.

"It really can store objects. It is like creating an entire space inside an object. Something that should be scientifically impossible but I guess it should be done with the aid of Spatial Manipulation." Zeras muttered feeling it was just the same with Quinn's ability to strangely teleport which was in itself, scientifically impossible.

Willing for the button to appear in his hands, and the button appeared at the center of his palm.

"This is a great piece of equipment. I can keep the object by simply putting it in my hand and willing it to enter and also retrieve it by a simple will.

This saves the effort of searching around the bag for objects and also ease of removal. Besides, with this amount of space, then he wouldn't even worry at all about space not being enough perfect for the situation.

Zeras immediately packed the remaining of his objects including the backpack into the space, now feeling more comfortable than ever without needing a bag.

"I just hope they don't collect it back after the events ends..." Zeras muttered. He knew they never mentioned anything about simply dashing him the ring only saying they have something for him.

As for the mission of finding treasures, Zeras had no problem in helping to search for the treasures so far his life was not at risk and he could also give them to the EIA, but only if they were of no use to him. There would be no need to hoarding to himself artifacts he did not need to, besides doing that might create a poor impression of him to the higher-ups and who knows what would happen after that.

It only takes a single evil act to ruin a man's entire good reputation!

He wouldn't do something like that.

"System interface..." Zeras muttered as the familiar golden-colored notification panel appeared.

[System Interface]

[Name: Zeras Celestria]

[Class: Halfling]

[Class Authority: Absolute Chaotic]

[Level: 11]

[Mana Cultivation Stages: Peak Star Rank Stage]

[HP: 250/250]

[EXP: 1930/5000]

[Energy: 765/765]

[Mana Core Energy: 100/100]

[Attributes]

[Strength: 60]

[Agility: 40]

[Perception: 40]

[Intelligence: 40]

[Charm: null]

{Attributes points:0}

"I wonder if I can reach level 20 by the end of this event..."Zeras muttered, wondering just what level of strength he would possess on reaching that level.

Also, he would try to immediately break through to the Meteor rank stage as quickly as possible. Perhaps, he would be able to at least stand his ground against the genius of the nine families after that.

One might wonder why he wasn't so scared of the Nine Families genius or if he was only putting on an act but to be honest he wasn't really afraid at all.

Why?

It was due to the nine families' history. They were the nine families because they possessed A-grade Genes. That was why they were called terrific monsters.

But what about him who possessed an SSS-grade gene and also an upgradable gene currently at Rank C?

The Nine family genius being so-called strong was due to him starting cultivation late. He was hundred percent sure just a couple of years from now and the so-called Nine families won't be worthy enough to stand beside him when it comes to power. This was what powers him, his absolute unwavering confidence in his potential.

[Skills And Abilities]

>>Dash: Level 4

Increase your speed to five times your normal speed on getting activated.

>>Poison Immunity: The Host's body is immune to low-level poisoning.

>>Regeneration- Level 2

The host can now recover from wounds twice as fast as his normal regeneration speed.

[Genetic Skills]

>>Bio-morph- Level 4

[Alternate Control]

{There are no limitations to the part of your body you can now transform to living or nonliving physiology}

>>Chaos Devouring- Level 2

{Host can absorb the life-essence of those either killed by the host or not to increase his energy}

[Absolute Chaotic Existence Skills]

>>Eyes Of Chaos: The host can view the true chaotic state of reality.

>>Hollow Domain: Ability to create a domain where the Host is Supreme.

[Ability Upgrade Card: 0]

"So system how do you say I'll level up my Chaotic Existence Skills once again?" Zeras asked.

[There are only two ways to upgrade your Chaotic Existence Skills. One is to simply increase the fusion with the Chaos Devourer gene which will cause a natural massive boost to your power.

The second is simply practice. Use it more and more and it'll grow stronger]

"Hmm, I like the sound of that," Zeras muttered satisfactorily. He didn't know when next he'll be fusing with the Chaos Devourer gene again but he knew it wasn't any time soon. So growing his Chaotic Existence Skills with that wouldn't work. But with constant use increasing his comprehension, then perhaps he could really increase their power soon enough.

Out of all his system skills, his Chaotic Existence Skills would no doubt be the top three favorite he loved.

Why?

Because with his natural strength, he could easily defeat anyone at the star rank stage without much trouble and also rival Early Meteor rank stage experts even though it will kinda be a little hard. But once he used Hollow Domain, then Early Meteor rank stage Expert would become a punching bag waiting to be beaten to a pulp.

As for the limit of the Hollow Domain, he didn't know, but prob only those at the Middle Meteor rank would be able to fight him on equal ground when he used it.

All in all, he would make sure to clear all his doubts in this event.

Golden Tickets and Powerstones are greatly appreciated guys. Come on, let's reach that target. Don't you give up on me

Supreme_IQ

175 Are You Messing With My Brother?

The small advanced silver colored spaceship moved through the infinite expanse of space with a Mach 8 speed closing in on a particular area.

In the control room of the Spaceship, two humans sat, one an older man with long silver hair while the other was a young man wearing a blindfold.

The silence in the room was quite stifling with the young man sitting in the chair motionless as if in slumber, while the older man would give him a few glances, a smile appearing on his face every time he sighted him.

"You're just 10 minutes more from Disembarkation, please prepare..."

The AI voice rang out as the young man twitched in his seat before slowly sitting upright.

"Are we there yet?" His lazy voice rang out followed by a yawn.

"Yes. There it is." He pointed forward as Quinn's eyes narrowed seeing the small golden-coloured planet in the shape of a half moon which was slowly growing larger with every passing second.

"The Celestial Titans Cultivation Ruins..." Quinn muttered under his breath, his heart slightly increasing in its rhythm.

"So you ready?" Old Man Mang asked with a taunting smile on his face to which Quinn snorted coldly too.

"As if I'll be in this ship if I'm only half ready..." Quinn said adjusting his mental state for what was to come.

-- -- --

The spaceship immediately arrived above the golden-colored planet quickly descending the strange golden-colored clouds and closing in towards the center of the planet.

Quinn already sighted the 9 gigantic spaceships present on the ground as his eyes narrowed coldly at one of the spaceships, silver colored just like the one he was in but his attention was diverted to the ginormous golden door where all the spaceships were facing.

A deep wave of golden aura undulated powerfully from the door rippling towards the entire planet as Quinn felt the shockwave rippling towards them enough to make his hair stand on end but the ripple soon passed by him, not causing any harm.

Old Man Mang controlled the spaceship making it land beside one of the ginormous spaceships, creating a comical scene of a car packed beside a trailer, but none laughed or mocked as they were well aware that the spaceship wasn't in any way lower in quality than ones packed.

11:23

The door to the spaceship opened and Old Man Mang slowly walked out amidst the oozing gas.

"Is that the first butler of the Voidspace family? How come he didn't arrive there with the Voidspace family's ship?" The slight murmur of the other families' envoys could be heard, and then was when the sound of footsteps rang out and a young blindfolded man was revealed to the world, coming to stand by Old Man Mang's right hand.

"Hmm, who is he, his silver hair shows he's one of the Voidspace family and should probably be a genius that entered into Old Mang's eyes but how come his name isn't on the list of geniuses..." The envoys murmured among each other.

But among the envoys, there was one whose mouth widened to the absolute limits, unable to take his eyes off the young blindfolded man.

It was the envoy of the Voidspace family.

"Young... Young master Quinn!!!" The envoy screamed out in absolute shock causing all the envoy to look at Quinn dumbly.

"He's that small one that ran away from home..."

"I thought he died..."

Quinn picked up on all the murmurs but his calm eyes didn't ripple for a second at all.

Old Man Mang slowly raised his hands upward as all the murmur quieted down, and then he walked towards the gate at a particular building where the remaining genius of the nine families was present.

Walking among the group of envoys of the other families, they all bowed their heads in respect whenever he passed by them while the envoys of the top three families also gave a nod of acknowledgement to the man.

They were all aware of who the first butler of the Voidspace family was and so was the terror of his name.

A legend that says even the patriarch of the nine families themselves would have to show up if he were to come to visit them. A man whose true age remains a history but was well older than the patriarch of the nine families.

An absolute old ghost.

Old Man Mang arrived at the entrance of the small building, which was like a small encirclement placed beside the golden door as he came to a stop with Quinn behind him.

"They said the golden aura the door emits helps to calm down the mind and clear away distractions. And it also purifies the quality of your Mana if absorbed. Make good use of it Quinn...." Old Man Mang said causing Quinn to give a nod.

"And I know well of the hatred of your brothers in your heart, but remember your true goal which is finding the truth of the Voidspace family's ancestral grounds. Any other thing can only follow that..." Old Man Mang's stern voice echoed to his ears.

"Yes, Old Man Mang..." Quinn said respectfully.

"Good. You've never disappointed me before Quinn, and I know you won't this time too. You can go and prepare too now. The gate should open in less than an hour from now..."

Quinn calmed his beating heart taking a deep breath in before moving towards the door, but suddenly a hand grabbed at his shoulder.

"You got this..." Old Man Mang said with a confident smile as he squeezed his shoulder tightly before releasing him from his hold as he watched Quinn close the door and enter the place.

-- -- --

For a split second, Old Man Mang's eyes revealed slight worry but he soon regained his look as he walked towards the other envoys, chatting and communicating with them. He had built a very strong bond with the other families just before this day.

"So are we all here..." Old Man Mang asked.

"Yes, except for the EIAs..." A lanky envoy who seemed to be made of only bones and no blood at all said with a dissatisfied expression.

He was the envoy of the underworld family.

"The EIA is always as late as ever, only arriving at the last minute..." A female envoy chuckled, dressed in flowing silky cloth and her long purple hair blowing behind her with a small purple-colored fan in her hands. She was the incarnation of beauty and the envoy of the Hydra family.

Old Man Mang's eyes suddenly narrowed as they snapped towards the cloud, followed by the envoys of the top two families.

"It seems they've arrived..." He whispered as the gigantic spaceship with the three large words, EIA, slowly entered the planet's stratosphere and descended towards the port.

-- -- --

Quinn pushed open the doorknob as he slowly entered the place, the multitude of drifting golden particles welcoming him.

Looking around the room were around forty others around the age of 18, each sitting in groups around the entire place, crosslegged on the ground and absorbing the golden particles.

Quinn looked around the room, his gaze coming to rest in a particular place where a group of silver-haired humans were sitting down with two people sitting in front of them but he snorted coldly as he moved to the farthest corner away from the place and sat cross-legged before closing his eyes in meditation.

But he wasn't even deep in it when an annoying voice rang out from the distance snapping the rest of the genius out of their meditative state.

"And look who is here. My lost younger brother..."

Quinn didn't respond and he continued sitting down cross-legged as if he couldn't hear them.

"You know I was really sad on hearing my brother ran away from home. His young heart couldn't withstand the will necessary for the pursuit of power. Power comes for the strong-hearted and relentless, those are two qualities not all humans possess. But I still didn't know to expect my brother to lack, it's very saddening and disappointing of someone who has the same blood in me also running through his veins..." Nexus said with a mocking smirk on his face as he stared at the blindfolded young man.

"But even I nor anyone here would have ever anticipated the so-called lost young master of the Voidspace family to appear here at the Celestial Titans Cultivation Ruins, could you perhaps be looking for some substitute for your lack of will..." Raze said backing up his brother's speech.

"You both should scram..." Quinn's lazy voice rang out as he continued his meditation, the golden particles around the place calming down his head or he would have already jumped and torn those annoying faces in front of him to pieces.

"Oh, the younger brother found the big fat bone and now thinks he can compete in strength with the big brother..." Nexus said with a mocking smirk.

"So you are now at the Early Meteor rank stage and think you can now go toe-to-toe with us..." Raze said, fuelling the flames.

"You both should scram..."Quinn said ignoring all their taunts.

"Or what, little brother? You're going to kill us?" Nexus asked as he raised his legs before stamping on the ground, causing some pieces of concrete on the ground to rise and he lazily kicked it towards Quinn, but they immediately pierced forward faster than a bullet towards Quinn's face.

Of course, Nexus knew such a thing wouldn't even draw blood from him, but it was the humiliation they were after in the first place though they were disappointed by the result.

The stone closing in on Quinn's face suddenly began breaking apart when they reached 10 centimeters away from him and completely turned to dust just five centimeters away and blew off with the wind.

"Oh, it seems you've truly been working quite hard when you were being a scaredy cat, but it piqued my curiosity just how much you really grew..." Nexus said with an evil smile as he raised his legs once again preparing to stamp, but before he could, a hand clamped on his shoulder from behind as a lazy voice rang in his ears...

"Are You Messing With My Brother?"

We didn't reach the target guys. But I'll be releasing a bonus chapter for the hard work. Let's do better this week, ok.

350 Powerstones= 2 extra chapters.

500 Powerstones= 4 extra chapters.

100 Golden Tickets= 1 extra chapters.

500 Golden Tickets= 5 extra chapters

Supreme_IQ

Chapter 176 Mistake!! Do Not Unlock!! Skip to The Next Chapter. I repeat, Skip To The Next Chapter

The humungous spaceship slowly inched closer to the blue dome of energy as it paused around ten meters away from it.

A blue wave of energy in the shape of a corona swam towards the spaceship, drowning it within its blue spectrum of energy before a space appeared in the dome through which the spaceship slowly entered.

Khan looked at the gigantic port where hundreds of such spaceships were present before flying towards the end of space.

Descending on the ground, he took a deep breath in to calm his slowly spiking heart rate as he switched off the entire operation of the ship before heading out.

The port was pretty deserted due to it being night time causing him to avoid strange looks due to the scanty rag on his body as he moved out of the spaceship area to the vehicle area.

There were multitudes of cars numbering more than a hundred as Khan moved towards an especially eye-grabbing one among the bunch.

It was an expensive-looking dark-colored sports car, with a sleek covering, the one that only the big shots of the entire Suicides city could afford.

Being a death guard sure have its perks.

He tapped his fingers on the bonnet twice causing the car doors to open vertically into the air as Khan entered into it, the door zipping to a close after his entrance.

Sitting in the driver's seat, he was about to start the engine when suddenly he stopped as he took his hands off the steering.

Looking at the side of his seat was a black suitcase, placed in a resting position.

Clicking on the side of the driver's seat, the roof opened up, and within was a set of white colored shirts, a suit, and long official-looking trousers.

"This will do..."

-- -- --

3 minutes later...

A young adult could be seen, dressed in a proper shirt with long arm sleeves, folded to half the length of his elbow and wrist.

A sleek-looking trousers reaching out to his ankles, the crease at the middle extremely glaring to see.

Handsome dark hair that glowed in the dark, with a sharp pointed face, and a diamond watch on his wrist. The young man looked like the epitome of the young master of a multi-billionaire family.

Except this was no young master but actually Khan in disguise.

Grabbing the suitcase off the seat, he was about to exit the car when his eyes captured the rectangular communication device.

Khan picked up the device, and its screen immediately glowed with light a single number present saved with "Oni-sama..." on it.

Exerting small strength in his hands, a line immediately appeared on the device's screen, followed by five others before it got twisted and bent in an unnatural shape.

Flinging it to the ground, Khan took a deep breath in as he grabbed the suitcase off the chair and got out of the car.

"The next train will be 30 minutes from now, I can still make it..." He muttered under his breath looking at his watch as he placed the suit on his shoulders half wearing them before moving out of the port.

-- -- --

The streets of Suicides City were very long, with multitudes of skyscrapers spreading into the distance as far as the eyes could see.

Hundreds of cleaner robots moved around the streets, Vacuums and different technological equipment in their grasp as they moved around the area all focused on their programming which is getting rid of any anomaly in the area.

The transportation system was incredibly diveraed with hundreds of cars traveling the road. Above the ground, approximately 30 meters, hundreds of flying cars blitzed around, the lowest with half the speed of sounds, leaving only purple energy in their wake.

As Khan walked through the streets, flying jets skidded past him and he got quite the looks and nods from the people passing due to his dressing.

It was really a good illustration of as you're dressed are you addressed.

He also raised his hands with a warm smile on his face to any person who waved to him or commented to him.

Being a death guard meant the ability to complete any and whatever mission. The ability to adapt was one of the top three most important tools of perfect mission completion and he just happened to be a really good death soldier making his disguise skills top-notch.

Dressed in an office suit with a suitcase in hand and an especially warm smile on his face, who would have the slightest inkling that he might be a death soldier?

-- -- --

"Just what is going on."

"The officers couldn't keep it safe..."

"There are still multitudes of stranded scientists in there..."

"Can someone call the EAF!!!"

Khan suddenly noticed the slight commotion at one of the gigantic structures in his pathway as multitudes of people gathered at the entrance, with greatly disturbed expressions.

Walking at his regular calm pace, he still maintained his facade of a regular young master and continued on his path, not at all paying attention to the commotion.

"Just what is happening..." An individual asked a middle-aged man dressed in a white coat.

"The Mutant Beasts. Our test subjects, they've all been accidentally unlocked. The lowest cultivation is at the 2nd Star rank stage and the highest is at the 7th stage but our leader is only at the 3rd Star rank, there's no way they would be able to fend off the beasts..." The scientist replied his voice quivering in horror.

"What the? How come the EAF are not here yet..."

"Tch, idiots..." Khan muttered under his breath. This was just another occurrence where a mishap will happen and the so-called heroes won't arrive at the scene except when hundreds of life has been lost and they'll be praised as heroes at the end of the day.

Inhumane screams of horror could be heard from the structure while the sound of collision rang out shaking the entire structure.

But none dared to move forward as that would just be asking for suicide.

Khan ignored it, not like he was in any way related to the organization or anyone in there. It will just be an unnecessary hassle that might one day backfire. So it wasn't worth it at all.

"Help! Somebody, please help!!!" The scream of a young child echoed out as a young girl ran out of the building.

Tears streamed down her face, her long blonde hair ruffled with slight blood stains while her left arm was severed from the elbow as if bitten off by some strange animal.

"Somebody please help, my mother, is still in there..." The girl screamed out, ignoring her massively bleeding arms as she repeatedly pulled the trousers of one of the standby.

"My mom is still in there. Please do something. Somebody do something, anyone..." A lady clad in a nurse suit grabbed the girl as she rapidly wrapped a bandage on her amputated hands before running towards the ambulance.

"No, wait! My mom is in there. Everyone is still there..."

"Don't worry girl. The EAF will arrive soon, your mum will be safe I promise..." The nurse said passing her into the ambulance as it immediately zoomed off into the distance leaving only the scream of the little girl that slowly faded away.

None left their position, some even moving farther away as they looked at the fresh blood on the ground.

But who can blame them? Even the regular enforcers who were awakeners are yet to return, talkless of them, ordinary mortals.

But they were all shocked speechless in the next second as they witnessed a young man in an official business suit and a suitcase in hand running with speed towards the building.

"Is he mad!!!?"

"Just who is he?"

"Perhaps an awakener..."

"No, I can swear he's an ordinary mortal..." The shocked murmur of the crowd immediately rang out as the back of the young man faded away from sight.

Chaos Devourer System #Chapter177 Bonus Chapter - Read Chaos Devourer System Chapter177 Bonus Chapter

Chapter177 Bonus Chapter

The voice was like a bomb dropping in the extremely silent hall as all the genius narrowed their eyes looking at the new entry that they didn't even notice until he spoke.

Among a group of beautiful ladies who were dressed in silky golden clothing and possessed long golden hair.

A particular lady sat at this group as her emotionless eyes narrowed from looking at this new person arriving but they soon narrowed and then revealed shock.

Even though he looked strange in the sense that he now radiates an even more powerful aura than before and also his strange white hair.

She was sure it was the young man she met on one of her past expeditions.

Nexus stood rigid for a few seconds but soon regained his confidence as he looked back at just who the person was, but he stood there numbed on sighting that eye.

That abyssal eyes with a black dot in it that screamed of murder and massive amount of concealed intent like a demon god staring straight into his soul making him reflexively take three steps backwards.

But he soon understood the sign of weakness he just showed as a vein popped on his head...

Hey, you really are looking to die aren't you..." Nexus said as he slowly pointed his index finger towards the white haired idiot but before he could unleash his attack.

"Important Note, there can be no fights in this event. All grievance and settlement can only be observed in the ruins itself. Disobeying this rule will lead to immediate disqualification as agreed by all the envoys of the nine families..."

Nexus eyes flashed in anger and he struggled to put down his raised hands but a hand soon clasped on his shoulder...

"Forget it, Nexus. It's not worth it here. We'll have plenty of personal time with them as soon as we are on the ruins..." Raze whispered to his ears as Nexus calmly put down his hands.

Finally giving a proper look at the boy, he noticed the glaring EIA uniform he was putting on...

"Tch, you must be that Zeras Celestria from the EIA..." Nexus said mockingly.

"Wow, I never thought I was so popular even among the nine family geniuses..." Zeras replied back with a prideful smirk on his face.

"Tch, I hope you last long for me and you to encounter once again, although I hardly doubt the possibility of that. If so, I might perhaps shut your blabbering mouth forever..." Nexus said before directing his attention towards Quinn.

"We have a lot to catch up on brother, A Lot!!!" He said placing great stress on those last words but all he got was the same sentence.

"You both should scram..."

A vein immediately popped on Nexus's head as his eyes flashed in anger but he kept his calm as he and Raze walked back to their group.

After they were long gone...

"Hey, Zeras. What are you doing here..." Quinn screamed out in shock.

"Well, I think I should be the one asking that question..."

"Wait, you're the one representing the EIA?"

"Yes..."

"Oh no..." Quinn exclaimed looking like one who was about to lose his soul in horror.

"You, don't you know all the geniuses here have a question mark on your..."

"Life? Don't worry about that. I got this in control..." Zeras replied winking confidently causing Quinn to look at him strangely but soon ignored it. He would say for sure that anyone pitted against the nine families would no doubt die but it wasn't anyone but Zeras.

If there was a single person with the slightest amount of survival, then it would be Zeras and it seemed he was also aware of it beforehand.

Sitting down cross-legged beside Quinn, Zeras directed his attention towards the group of silver haired guys sitting in the distance.

"So what's the deal with those silver-haired fricks... Zeras asked raising an eyebrow as he discovered they all possessed the same silver hair, the exact replica of Quinn's.

"Just past family issues. Nothing to bother yourself with..." Quinn replied before closing his eyes once again in meditation.

Zeras raised his eyebrow feeling there was more to it than Quinn said, but he did not say anything else nor ask as he instead focused on looking at each one of the groups of nine families and scanning each of them using his system scan.

His piercing gaze on them caused them to direct their attention towards him and make eye contact and he would immediately use his system scan on each of them and he got quite the useful information.

Firstly was the arrangements, he noticed the true main genius of the nine families were actually at least one and at most three, though they were a total just of four in the entire family group depicting the others In the same group to be like some form of helpers.

Zeras could confirm this as he noticed the cultivation of only two or three of the entire group was at the Middle Meteor rank stage while the others were just at the Early Meteor rank stage, showing that those at the Middle Meteor rank were the real successors of the nine families.

Not only that, but Zeras also accessed each of their strength accessing their threat level and creating a small table of his difficult potential enemies in his head.

And the most potential enemy was a particular group that has been looking at him up and down like he was a fucking roasted meat.

They were all strange looking in the group, their form looking more evil-like than usual.

One of them was a male, extremely lean almost like there was no blood in his body and in his eyes were completely dark with a ghostly green flame burning within while sitting beside him was a 'beautiful' lady with strangely long pointy ears, blood red pupils and slightly longer than usual hands which resembled claws.

The remaining two were their helpers and each gave him a stare like he was some ripe mango.

Using his system scan, he immediately found out they were the so-called underworld family and those two gave Zeras a chill down his spine.

Directing his attention away from them, he looked towards a particular group made up completely of ladies with long golden hair which showed them to belong to the amazon family and among them was a familiar face.

"Princess Diana..."

Her eyes slowly opened on feeling his gaze as she gave him an emotionless look before closing her eyes once again causing Zeras to raise an eyebrow but continued his scanning nonetheless.

He soon noticed another group made completely of females who possessed long green hair and eyes, which were the so-called Shiron family, but he didn't get quite the appreciative first glance as he noticed the incredible amount of disdain and pure arrogance brimming within those green eyes making him crease his eyebrows a little in disapproval.

Directing his attention away from them, he moved towards a particular group with both male and female mixed in, which were the so-called Nanofusion Family after using his system scan.

They were likes completely normal gene awakeners in everyway to Zeras but he knew that was impossible as they being ranked In the second position meant they were far from being ordinary. As for what was unusual about them, he couldn't lay his finger on.

Directing his attention from them and towards a particularly strange group which were completely made of men. Zeras looked at them curiously as they were a total of five and stood at a hulking height of 2 meters.

Their upper body was clear to all as they wore no shirt showing the perfectly defined muscles on their body, rippling with pure brute strength as they looked as if they were carved from mountains.

One of the individuals present in the group opened one of his eyes as he looked at Zeras whose face immediately changed as he felt a massive amounts of strange waves slam on him making him feel his heart and body under crazy amount of pressure but he snorted coldly as he also oscillated his muscles in a specific rhythm immediately tearing apart the waves.

A smile of approval appeared on the young man's face before he closed his eyes once again but Zeras couldn't keep his calm as this was the first time he had felt such beastly strength contained in a human body.

He was hundred percent sure an ordinary star rank stage would have been reduced to meat patty once that wave of muscle undulation touch them but since no one here was ordinary, the rules definately do not apply them.

If the person before him could simply crush star rank experts by simply releasing his natural wave.

What would he do if he actually threw out a serious punch or activated his genetic ability.

"So this is the power of the number one family, the Kratos family..."

A sudden increase in the undulation of the gate immediately woke up the entire group as golden light flared incredibly brightly from the door and all the envoys immediately levitated forwards before moving towards the gate

"Its finally beginning..." Quinn muttered as he slowly opened his eyes.

Chaos Devourer System #Chapter 178 A Valley Of Floating Mountains - Read Chaos Devourer System Chapter 178 A Valley Of Floating Mountains

178 A Valley Of Floating Mountains

The powerful undulation from the huge golden door caused Zeras to turn his head towards the direction as an order rang throughout the small place they were in.

"Please, exit using the back door..." Making his way out with Quinn, they both arrived outside, the golden door larger than ever.

The deep rumbling sound could be heard emerging from the door causing the ground to begin shaking as if an ancient beast was slowly awakening.

NGH NGH NGH

The door slowly opened and as soon as there was a small space, all the envoys immediately rose to the air led by a silver-haired old man.

"Pass me your strongest constellation energy once you hear my order..." The silver-haired old man said as the envoys gave a nod staring at the door.

The earthquake suddenly began spiking, as the sound grew even more echoing throughout the entire planet, and when it seemed the ground would begin shattering apart...

"Now..." The silver-haired man suddenly roared as all envoys flared brightly as if each of them was a constellation of stars.

The bright light blinded Zeras followed by an earth-shattering sound of a wave of unfathomable aura bursting out one of the most powerful congregations on Earth and all gathered towards a particular figure.

Old Man Mang's entire body burst out with powerful silver light, as his silver hair became fifty centimeters long and his skin seemed to no longer be made of flesh but silver light.

The bright silver light emanating from Old Man Mang seemed to have been amplified a thousand times when the congregation of the light of the other envoys reached him, as he became so bright his figure was no longer unnoticeable.

Old Man Mang reveled in this feeling of absolute power as his blue eyes created a phantom of an entire galaxy orbiting within, but he could feel his body quickly reaching its limit and knew he should quickly end this before he completely broke down.

Slowly raising the staff in his hands, whose different runic lines slowly began awakening, flashing with so much light they weren't a bit inferior to his, but even then some of the runes of the staff were still not awakened as if the amount of energy to awaken them wasn't enough making one wonder just what amount would be enough, but Old Man Mang ignored that and pointed the staff towards the door.

The entire space in front of the staff seemed to have drained of life and color as the entire world for a fraction of a second seemingly erupted in a flash of black and white.

"Voidspace Art: 8th form..."

RUMMBLLEE

Terror Of Collapsing Black-hole "

KAAAAABOOOOOOOOOOOM

"ARRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRGH...." Zeras screamed out in pain as he felt a horrifying shockwave sneak towards him already crushing him just from its might alone but a figure quickly appeared in front of him as a dome of mana covered the both of them protecting him from the shockwave. Even then, his hear drum exploded from the sound.

"NOOOOOOWWWW..." Old Man Mang roared out as each of the envoys enveloped their family genius in a dome of energy and flung them towards the small opening that Old Man Mang created in the door.

The last Zeras remembered was his eardrum bursting apart, and then violently flung towards the blinding golden light of the door before getting rapidly consumed by darkness.

-- -- --

The sound of layered breathing could be heard as the golden rays of light from the door disappeared and a figure could be seen on his knees in front of the now tightly shut golden door with an unremarkable staff placed beside him.

"Are you alright, Old Mang..." The envoys all said as they moved closer but Old Man Mang stretched out his hands stopping them as he grabbed his staff and leaned on it before his eyes turned towards the door, unconcealed reverence and fear in them.

"It is said that anyone who opens the Celestial Titans Cultivation Ruins door will know of a secret that couldn't be imagined..." A burly 2.5 meters man, barechested said as he looked at Old Man Mang.

It was the envoy of the Kratos family

"I have learned of the secret..." Old Man Mang mumbled absentmindedly as all the envoys immediately lost their refined aura as they all stared at him like curious kids.

"This power, This realm..." Old Man Mang said, struggling to come to terms with the reality of what he just witnessed.

"What's wrong with the realm," Another of the envoys asked what was in the mind of others.

"Whoever created this, is far, far, far beyond the Galaxy Rank Stage..."

"WHAT!!!!" The envoy screamed out letting loose their aura that tore apart space around them.

They just couldn't believe it, No, it was impossible!

The Galaxy Rank Stage is not the peak of cultivation!!!?

-- -- --

The sound of meandering streams through rocks could be heard, a golden-colored liquid-like water poured through the small space eroding through the mountain, and beside the steam was the body of a young man dressed in an EIA uniform.

He lay on the ground as if dead, but soon there was a slight twitch to his fingers, followed by the quivering of his eyebrows and his dark blue eyes slowly opened.

Zeras looked at the golden cloud in front of him blankly for some time unable to make sense of anything, but soon the control of his body came to him as he sat up from the ground.

Slowly raising his hand to his eyes, he twisted it up and down for some seconds his gaze blank.

"Where I'm I..."

He soon tightly held his head in his hands as massive amounts of memories flooded into his head.

"Wait!! I'm here..." Zeras screamed out jumping from the ground as he looked around him and was gobsmacked by what he saw next.

"A Valley Of Floating Mountains?"

Zeras looked into the distance discovering he was standing at the base of a particularly high mountain and into the distance were thousands of other mountains, some so high he couldn't even see their peak but the most eye-catching thing about the place was the golden river which was on top of every mountain and linked all the mountains to each other.

Zeras looked at the strange golden river as he bent to it, scooping a little in his hands and sniffing it.

There was no particular smell to the river making Zeras take a single lick but was shocked by what happened next.

"+1 points of energy."

"Total energy: 765/766"

"What!!! It can increase my energy point just from a lick..." Zeras asked shocked when he soon furrowed his eyebrows as he finally noticed the abnormalities in the air and that was the concentration of the Mana.

"It is at least ten times more than the one in my dorm room!!!?" Completely beyond his control, his pores opened up as the Mana in the air flooded into them and soon dwelled inside his Mana core which flared powerfully.

"Not only that. There's something strange, the quality in the Mana is completely different, as just these small droplets and I feel as if I'll breakthrough soon..." Zeras muttered as he thought deeply about it before looking around the place.

This was the perfect time for a breakthrough. He had been at the Peak of the star rank stage for a while now, perhaps, it was time to breakthrough to the Meteor rank stage...

Entering the golden-colored river, Zeras sat down cross-legged in it, the river submerging him to the chest as he closed his eyes and activated his Mana technique.

Just like before, the breathing was in a strange rhythm, sometimes just becoming fast while sometimes they were so slow they almost couldn't be heard.

The Mana in the air flooded with speed towards Zeras in a crazy amount as the entire mist below the mountain which was heavily condensed Mana started stirring as they became unstable and slowly coalesced together around him.

"BOOOOOM"

Zera's body shook uncontrollably as the Mana surrounding him suddenly flooded into his body causing him to feel horrifying pain.

"ARRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRGH" Zeras clenched his teeth tightly as the Mana was like a wild untamed beast passing through every opening in his body drawing blood from them due to the pressure.

The pain was more than anything he had ever witnessed as his Mana core flared brightly absorbing more and more Mana though it had already been filled up.

Then a strange occurrence occurred. Zera's Mana core with the aid of the strange golden particules mixed in with the Mana present around the place suddenly began widening!!!

Zeras clenched his teeth tightly in pain as his fingers dug into the rocks beneath his feet while veins wriggled out of his body like a tumor making him look like some Veiny monster.

Anyone who saw Zeras in this state would have been shocked senseless by what they were seeing because a simple cross-over breakthrough from a pseudo rank to the true rank wasn't supposed to be painful at all and just a smooth transition but with Zera's core abnormally widening didn't go according to the rules.

But his increased strength and strong but helped him from bursting into pieces due to the amount of Mana he was absorbing and also caused him to withhold more Mana than he normally would.

-- -- --

"Hmm, where is this? I should probably team up with my team? Wait, what is that?"

Golden Tickets and power stones are greatly appreciated

179 Meteor Rank Stage

Beneath the foot of an especially large mountain with a golden-liquid source at its top, a cocoon of solidified mist could be seen, resembling an egg except this was larger.

There was the presence of small dark impurities present in the cocoon, staining its white color.

Suddenly the cocoon shook slightly, causing a slight disorientation in the wave of the golden-coloured water.

The quivering slowly increased and soon cracks appeared on its entire surface.

BOOOOOM

A milky-white hand tore out of the cocoon followed by the second hand as they spread apart holding the cocoon at its broken edge and then pulling.

The cocoon immediately broke into pieces falling into the golden-coloured water and dissolving into mist leaving a figure remaining at the centre who soon stood up.

His skin was a milky white color, with his snow-white hair reaching down to his shoulder as it gently blew to the wind.

Standing at a height of 1.83 meters, a powerful aura undulated from the figure, causing slight rippling to the surface of the water that submerged him to his ankles as the figure raised his hands and clenched the fist.

Strength.

Zeras felt his entire body thrumming with power, as he felt his strength increase to a level he had never felt before.

This strength. Zeras could say he could completely tear apart his former him with nothing but his bare hands.

[Congratulations on successfully breaking through to the Meteor rank stage]

[Hidden Quest completed: Achieve the next level of cultivation...]

[Rewards: +1000 EXP]

[You have unlocked a new genetic ability under your absolute Morph Gene...]

[+20 Attributes have been added to all your stats]

Zeras looked at the notification on the panel as he gave a satisfied nod. He knew well after breaking through a major rank of cultivation, a new genetic ability would be awakened.

"System interface..."

Name: Zeras Celestria]

[Class: Halfling]

[Class Authority: Absolute Chaotic]

[Level: 11]

[Mana Cultivation Stage: Early Meteor Rank Stage]

[HP: 300/300]

[EXP: 2310/5000]

[Energy: 800/800]

[Mana Core Energy: 250/250]

[Attributes]

[Strength: 80]

[Agility: 60]

[Perception: 60]

[Intelligence: 40]

[Charm: null]

{Attributes points:0}

"Wow, my Mana core energy increased by 150 and my health points by 100!?"

"And my natural energy, it also increased massively.

[Yes, while you were cultivating, you also absorbed the particles present in the water causing your energy to increase. However, you would no longer feel an energy increase again if you drink it now]

"Hmmm..." Zeras scooped a little of the water as he drank it feeling refreshed but there was no notification of an increase in his energy. Nonetheless, he was satisfied with the energy gained. It is not all the time one would come across water that gives free energy points.

"This.. this is impossible. A meteor rank stage awakener don't possess this much strength..." Zeras mumbled unable to understand why he was suddenly so strong.

[It is due to the Mana in the environment...]

The panel suddenly appeared as Zeras raised an eyebrow.

"What do you mean?"

[I've Scanned the Mana present in this place. It is not only in a larger amount but I think it is at least five times more purer in essence than the Mana in the EIA training room.

Also, I noticed there were slight golden particles present in the Mana which caused slight deviation in your Mana core.]

"What deviation?"

[Firstly, the Mana here is five times more purer in essence than Earth's mana and it completely wiped off the Mana present in you before....

10:37

Secondly, the golden particles once you absorbed them broke apart the boundary of your mana core enlarging it. Now not only is your Mana core holding extremely pure essence energy at its base. It has also been widened to three times what a normal Meteor rank stage Mana core should be...

All in all, it was a really wise choice for you to delay your breakthrough to finally break through In this place.]

"Guess Lady Luck is finally on my side..."

"No! Lady luck is completely against you..." A voice suddenly rang out from behind him as Zeras quickly turned and looked at the figure responsible.

It was a lanky human of 1.8 meters tall, with dirty brown hair and crooked eyes and nose, while also being dark complexioned.

Zeras immediately recognizes him as the young man sitting down at the front of the underworld family group.

"It seems you have just broken through to the Meteor rank stage. Good. At least you won't be useless being one of my puppet collections..." Andrea said looking at the white-haired in front of him.

"What perfect timing. I was wondering with this level of strength, perhaps I'll now be able to take on the Nine families' genius but then the genius of the ninth family showed up..." Zeras smiled sinisterly as he cracked the bones in his body preparing for a battle.

Now that he thought of it, it had almost been two months since he exercised his bones.

"Rival the nine families? Well, before you die. At least, let me show you the terror of the nine families and why they're above all other gene awakeners..." Andrea said as he clasped his two hands together forming a strange hand sign.

"Underworld Necromancy Art, First Cage of Lost Souls..."

Zera watched as Andreas eyes turned even more dark and the ghostly green flames in his eyes burned brighter.

Two dark vortexes materialized out of thin air beside him and two beings stepped out from it as Zeras felt his hair stand on their end.

Slowly they raised their head and he got a glimpse of their true figure as he noticed the same ghostly green flames burning in their eyes but what made his sinister expression fade away was the aura they both were radiating...

Middle Meteor rank stage!!!

"The underworld family might be ranked last among the nine families, but if you think it's because they're weak, then you're a fool. We're far from being called weak and I'll enlighten you on that today..." Andrea said taking three steps backward as the two beings beside him slowly walked towards Zeras...

180 Fight With A Necromancer 1

BANG!!!

A punch tore through the air with speed as one of the beings appeared instantly in front of Zeras.

Nice!

Clenched his hands tightly into a fist, Zeras took a deep breath in, as all his muscles wriggled and rumbled within him before throwing out a punch of his own.

KABOOOOM

The air in front of them rippled crazily as the two fists clashed head-on, one trying to overpower the other and both maintained their punching state when suddenly a figure was blown backwards taking three steps that extended over 3 meters before coming to a stop.

Zera's eyes widened in shock as he felt his arm bones quivering in shock due to horrifying amount of force that was sent into it while the figure remained in his punching state. He completely lost in the exchange.

The air at his side exploded outwards as Zera's clothes flapped wildly, a palm slap heading for his side but he also wasn't slow as he shifted slightly to the side, the palm shifting away while he threw out a powerful kick at the beings side sending it crashing away into the distance but he watched in awe as the being stood up with no change in its fatal expression.

"Do you expect them to wince in pain? They are puppets, former powerful gene awakeners that have been refined and now possessed nothing and nothing except from my will. Though they no longer possess their former genetic ability, in return, they possess abominable physical strength that could even rival those at the Late Meteor rank stage..." Andrea said from the side as Zeras watched him sitting cross-legged on the ground with a mocking smirk on his face.

"Their physical strength can rival Late Meteor rank stage, then that means my physical strength alone is above the middle Meteor rank stage..." Zeras muttered finally understanding why he was no match for them. It was because they, though, are at the Middle Meteor rank stage, their puppet bodies have been increasingly advanced so much they could rival Late Meteor rank stage.

"Activate Dash..."

BOOOM

The ground beneath Zera's feet caved in and in the next second he was at the back of the sitting Andrea.

"Activate Absolute Morph..." His hands morphed into a blade as Zeras slashed at Andrea's neck.

"Since you're the one controlling the puppet, I just need to kill you and this battle will end..." Zeras muttered as he cleaved outwards with all his strength.

CLANNNG

The sound of two blades clashing rang out as Zera's retreated to a distance of ten meters before coming to a stop, his eyebrows furrowed.

From behind Andrea, a dark vortex could be seen, through which a blade was extended out, the one responsible for blocking his sneak attack.

Slowly a figure emerged outside the vortex revealing it to be a handsome middle-aged man with ghostly green flames in his eyes while holding a long knight sword in his hands.

He was the one who managed to block the attack at the last second.

"Do you really think I'll let myself completely defenseless? How naive..." Andrea said with a sinister smile on his face as his three puppet surrounded him.

Zera's hand slowly returned back to normal as he looked at Andrea before him with eyebrows furrowed.

"It seems you also have quite the plethora of them..."

"Oh?" Another portal materialized as a strange giant humanoid creature carrying two large axe in his shoulder appeared, the same ghostly green flame burning in its eyes and then a second portal appeared again where another figure emerged except this time it was actually a female standing at an height of 1.8 meters with a folded fan in her hands.

"Just where did you get all this people from to make puppets. I'm pretty sure your own strength is definately lesser than theirs." Zeras asked shocked as all the puppets were at the Middle Meteor rank stage, the same stage as Andrea but he was sure they were stronger than him. There was simply no way Andrea could even defeat them talk of refining them to puppets.

"Well, this first two are fools that offended my family, so they were killed and I took their corpse. This swordsman is the great Sir Tyrone. He killed a younger member of our clan because according to him was evil so the clan killed him and I got his corpse.

As for the female, she's actually one of the top ten beauties of the Firaal City. I asked her out and she refused saying only a blind lady will go on a night with me and so I killed her and then refined her into a puppet. Now she follows me everywhere even though she's not blind. Funny isn't it?" Andrea said laughing loud.

"Tch, pyscopathic idiot..."

"As for this gigantic one," Andrea said pointing to the giant. He was my birthday gift from grandfather for clocking 18. An underworld giant. Sweet birthday gift wouldn't you say," Andrea said winking at him.

"But there's still one missing person?" Andrea said with a worried expression.

"Who?"

"You, of course..."

"What the?"

"You're only at the early Meteor rank stage, but your physical strength is greater than Middle Meteor rank stage and slightly rival that of Late Meteor rank. Once I refined you to a puppet, your physical strength will increase even more reaching the Pseudo Cosmic Rank stage.

You will definitely make a great addition to my collection.

"In your dreams..." Zeras said as he finally got serious. This pyscopathic idiot might be stronger than he initially thought.

Activating his absolute Morph Gene, Zeras slowly changed as he became a hulking 2.5 meter human, but that wasn't all as two more arms tore out from under his armpits.

CRAACK

The space around him quivered as his body radiated a massive amount of beastly pressure.

"You can transform your hand into a blade and also morph to a four armed giant, you definitely have an interesting gene although it's pretty useless since you will lose them once you become a puppet.

"Idiot, let me widen that blind eyes of yours..." Zeras said, a vein popping from his head as he disappeared from where he stood.

He already made up his mind, he'll completely decimate all the puppets.

Golden Tickets and Powerstones are greatly appreciated.

Supreme_IQ

Creator's Thought